MANY FLEE WHEN FIRE BREAKS OUT NEAR OIL GUSHER

Grass Blaze Mile and a Half From Oklahoma City Wild Well Quickly Brought Under Control.

GUARDSMEN WARN RESIDENTS AWAY

Stampede Occurs When Rumors of Danger Spread—Effort to Control Stream Under Way.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Nov. 1.—This city had a few brief moments of panic late today as fire swept through oil soaked grass a mile and a half from the uncontrolled No. 1 Stout oil gusher.

Firemen, oil field workers and National Guardsmen quenched the flames in less than an hour but not before panic had cleared residential districts in the danger zone near the wild well and rumors had swept through downtown crowds that the wild well was on fire.

Adding to the scare came the report that another great gusher near the Stout was tearing loose as sand cut at its conections. After the confusion had subsided it was learned the Champlin Refining Co.'s No. 1 Naden, 600 feet south of the Stout, and one of five wells it was proposed to open in an effort to relieve gas pressure at the rampant gusher, had cut its top mastergate. It was shut in immediately and new connections installed. The lower conections were holding.

Approximately 160 men, most of them on constant duty in the danger area, wielded shovels to beat out the blaze which ignited oil-saturated grass along the Canadian River channel, a mile and a half northeast of the Stout well. The Canadian River is covered in places with a film of inflammable oil.

Residents Hurry to Safety Zone.

Guardsmen ran through the streets when the fire began, blowing whistles and shouting to the residents to move out. Their efforts were needless, for already whole families, most of them Negroes, were sweeping children and scanty belongings into their arms and dashing from their homes. The wildest confusion reigned.

The cause of the fire is not known, although there was a report that it had started from a locomotive spark. Trains have been forbidden to enter the danger area without dousing boiler fires.

The rolling smoke clouds from the burning grass were visible for miles and the city's skyscraper tops, about a mile from the gusher, were covered with frightened office workers.

With fire equipment standing ready tonight in the area surrounding the Stout, 1900 feet of hose strung and every available man on duty, fire department officials were ready for any emergency.

In the streets where the gusher's roar and nauseous fumes crept into homes, uncooked suppers were eaten under the watchful eyes of National Guard patrols. Other residents who feared to remain at home were cared for at the nearby State Fair Grounds. Arrangements were made to provide for the needy and sick.

The geyser of oil has caused the abandonment of homes by 300 residents, the closing of six schools and the suspension of all automobile and railroad traffic in the district affected.

Since motor trucks were not permitted in the area, household goods of those who moved from the section were transported in wagons drawn over oil-slimed streets.

Efforts to Control Wild Well.

Meantime John Gordon, who conquered the Mary Sudik well after it had run wild 11 days directed the attempts to control the wild gusher.

The die nipple he has had constructed for the Morgan Petroleum Co., owners of the Stout well, is similar to that used to control the Mary Sudik. The connection consists of a nipple in which thread dies are set, to fit over the top of the six-inch casing from which the oil is pouring. Above the nipple are two master gate connections to which flow lines may be attached. The whole connection is about 45 feet long. It will be swung into place over the casing head with block and tackle, and as it is lowered the oil flow will circulate through it until it can be screwed into place and anchored. Once it is in place, the gates will be swung slowly shut.

Missouri G. O. P. Likely to Lose Five of Ten Seats in Congress And Two Others Are in Doubt

History of Politics Shows Party in Power Invariably Suffers Reverses After Serious Business Depression.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 1.—Loss by the Republicans in the election Tuesday of five of their present 10 seats in the Missouri delegation in Congress, and the possible loss of two others, giving them only five or three, as the elections may result, of the 16 Missouri seats, is indicated by a pre-election canvass in the congressional districts of the State.

The situation does not appear as clear as to the effect of the election on the size of the Democratic majority in the State Senate in which there are now 19 Democrats and 15 Republicans. The reports tend to uphold the belief that the Democrats are virtually certain of controlling 17 seats in the Senate and the Republicans 13. In four districts the contests are very close. It is not likely that the Democrats will lose all of these contests, and it may be that they will win all of them. So, it may be expected Democratic supremacy in the Senate will remain.

While the facts on which to predict an opinion as to the outcome of the election on the two State offices to be filled, one a judgeship on the Supreme Court, the other the State Superintendency of Schools, are meager in an election like that of this year, in which apathy is widespread, the general evidences seem to point to Democratic victory.

Although Democratic success in the past two by-elections has been to some extent due to the fact that the Democratic tickets have been headed by candidates who had a particular appeal to the wet Republican voters in St. Louis and the so-called German counties, Reed in 1922 and Hawes in 1926—this year there is no Democratic candidate with that appeal. There are other conditions which might be expected to off-set any loss the Democratic ticket will suffer from that lack.

History Favors Democrats.

It has been the history of politics that a party in power invariably lost strength in an election held during or just following a serious business depression and an era of unemployment, and there is no reason to believe that history will not repeat itself in this election.

The Republicans always are required to look for a heavy part of their majority in St. Louis, and this year everything points to an extremely light vote in the city. It is doubtful that the total vote in St. Louis will reach 150,000, a figure which would be less than half the vote cast in the presidential election of 1928. The opinion that the vote will be light is based partly on the general apathy, but more particularly upon the fact that collector Edmund Koeln has no opposition and there will be no great incentive for activity by the powerful Koeln organization.

Also, neither Congressman Niedringhaus in the Tenth district, nor Congressman Dyer in the Twelfth has opposition, and their personal organizations may be expected to be less active in getting out the Republican vote. A similar absence of opposition to Congressman Cochran, Democrat, in the eleventh might serve to reduce the Democratic vote somewhat, but as that condition exists in only that one congressional district, the effect would be less.

In 1926, when there was a hard fight between U. S. Senator Hawes and Senator George H. Williams, both St. Louisans, only 179,000 votes were cast in St. Louis. The lack of contests this year could easily reduce the vote 30,000 under that figure, or even more.

In the face of this expected small vote in St. Louis, Kansas City and Jackson County are expected to increase their Democratic majority over 1926, when they gave the Democratic candidates a lead of 19,000 over the Republicans. The Republican organization in Jackson County has been reduced in effectiveness to about the plane of the Democratic organization in St. Louis. Tom Pendergast, Democratic boss of the county, has an effective organization, which has attended to getting the Democratic vote registered and which will attend to getting it to the polls on election day.

In an apathetic election, effective organization results usually are particularly apparent. The organization gets its following to the polls, while the disinterested citizen not amenable to organization influence does not trouble to vote. The Democratic majority in Kansas City is conservatively estimated at 20,000 and it would not be surprising if it went to 25,000.

The two parties are particularly fortunate this year in their can-

HOOVER TO SPEAK ON WORLD BROADCAST NEXT SATURDAY

President to Help H. J. Heinz Co. Celebrate Sixty-First Anniversary.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—President Hoover will be the principal speaker on an International radio broadcast next Saturday night, Nov. 8, which will commemorate in America, Europe and Australia the sixty-first anniversary of the H. J. Heinz Co. of Pittsburg.

On the program, originating in Washington, Pittsburg and London, also will be Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways; Charles Nagel of St. Louis, former U. S. Secretary of Labor; J. W. Warlow, managing director of the H. J. Heinz Co., Ltd., of London, and Howard Heinz, president of the Heinz Co. of America.

It was said Mr. Hoover's appearance on the program would be brief, and that he had consented to give greetings to employes of the Heinz company on the occasion because Heinz is an old friend.

BOY FLYER SETS NEW RECORD FOR TRANSCONTINENTAL TRIP

Stanley Boynton Crosses U. S. East-to-West, in 24 Hours; Four Under Old Mark.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Stanley Boynton, boy flyer, seeking transcontinental flying honors, arrived here today at 4:50 p. m. His total elapsed time was 24 hours, 2 minutes from coast to coast.

The Lexington (Mass.) boy's time lowered by four hours, 31 minutes the record set last Oct. 4 for the East-West flight by Robert Buck, 16-year-old flyer of Elizabeth, N. J.

Boynton flew here from Winslow, Ariz., on the last leg of his transcontinental journey, making a stop at Needles, Cal.

EWALDS BAR FINGERPRINTS

Former New York City Magistrate and Wife Refuse Police Request.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. George F. Ewald, whose fingerprinting was overlooked when the resigned City Magistrate and his wife were indicted on office-buying charges a few weeks ago, will leave no thumb marks at police headquarters unless a Supreme Court Justice compels them to do so, their counsel said today.

They were asked by police to come voluntarily to headquarters Monday to be photographed and fingerprinted like other indicted persons. I. Nick Gordon, their attorney, immediately declared they had no intention of doing so. Special Prosecutor Todd said he would seek a court order next week requiring them to appear.

RASKOB CALLS G.O.P. ATTACK ON HIM 'LIBELOUS'

Democratic Chairman Denounces Campaign Poster Captioned "Who Caused Stock Market Crash?"

INTIMATION IS HE SOLD SHORT

He Denies and Denounces Insinuation, but Republican Headquarters Says It Won't Withdraw It.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, tonight accused the Republican National Committee of broadcasting the insinuation that Raskob had deliberately conspired to depress the stock market by selling short. He pronounced the story false and libelous, in that it attacked his "business integrity and intelligence," and threatened legal action against any agency giving currency to it.

Raskob's warning and denial were provoked by a campaign poster which the Republican National Committee began circulating Friday in large numbers throughout the country. The poster is headed: "Who caused the stock market crash?" Under this caption appears a facsimile of an interview with Raskob, published in the Ladies Home Journal in August, 1929, in which the Democratic chairman pointed to the large increase in national wealth during the last 10 years, and observed that fortunes had been made, and could still be made, through the "wise purchase of common stocks." Besides this facsimile and glaring type, the poster bears the question: "Did Raskob sell short?" Under the question appears the following statement: "Mr. Raskob, as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and as an operator in the stock market, was in a position to wield a tremendous influence."

Attack by Insinuation.

The object of the poster is plain. It seeks to convey the intimation, without making a direct statement, that Raskob first "bulled" the price of common stocks by making optimistic statements, then sold them short, using his political office and his financial prestige to break the market. The inference would be that he sought to make money and discredit the Hoover administration at the same time.

In his reply, issued through Democratic National Headquarters here he says: "My attention has been called to a poster or advertisement issued by the Republican National Committee, conveying the inference that I have, by short selling in the market, deliberately influenced the depression of the market. I wish to notify the newspapers of the United States that I regard this as a libelous utterance, and must hold any agency that publishes it responsible. The inference is carried in large type in which the question is put: " 'Did Raskob sell short?' The juxtaposition of the headlines conveys an affirmative answer to this pernicious query.

Denies Selling Short.

"As a matter of fact, not only did I not sell short in the market that suffered collapse after almost every optimistic prophecy by President Hoover and his executive departments, but never at any time since the advent of the Hoover administration—which embraces the whole of the Hoover panic from the crash of a year ago until this hour—did I either personally or through agents, either directly or indirectly, sell short even a single share of stock or any commodity.

"I am moved to issue this warning because the charge transcends the limitations of politics, and is a direct assault on my business integrity and intelligence."

At headquarters of the Republican National Committee it was stated that no comment would be made on Raskob's declaration, other than that the committee was responsible for the poster, and had no intention of withdrawing it. It was indicated that the party strategists regarded the poster as an effective piece of campaign propaganda on the eve of the election.

Whispering Campaign.

The theory that Raskob conspired to depress the stock market in order to embarrass the Hoover administration has been the subject of a "whispering campaign" by Republican party workers for several weeks, and Senator Arthur Robinson of Indiana has been broaching the suggestion openly in

COLORFUL SCENE AS RAS TAFARI AWAITS CROWN

Field of Tents, Housing Throngs of Tribesmen, Pitched on Edges of Addis Abeba for Ceremony.

LIKE AN AFRICAN CONEY ISLAND

Coronation of the Emperor of Abyssinia to Mark Beginning of New Era for All of Ethiopia.

By the Associated Press.

ADDIS ABEBA, Abyssinia, Nov. 1.—There was no sleep in the mud-thatched cottages of this town tonight; none in the field of tents pitched about its edges, nor in the palace of Ras Tafari Makonen, for when the dawn breaks tomorrow over the 8000-foot mountains which hem in the capital of Abyssinia Ras Tafari will be crowned Emperor Haile Selassie I.

Emperor Haile Selassie, Ras of Rases, Lord, King of Kings of Ethiopia, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, the Elect of God and the Light of the World. The little man, whose luxuriant hair and coal black beard contrast so strongly with his frail frame, is to bear those titles as descendant in the royal line from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

Americans have come 6000 miles to bear the good wishes of their President; England has sent her Duke of Gloucester; all the kingdoms of the world have sent their representatives bearing costly gifts, and tens of thousands of native tribesmen have come out of the hills to take their part in the coronation.

On Their Knees in Church.

There was no sleep in the palace because Ras Tafari and his buxom wife, the Princess Waziru Menen, were on their knees in the Church of St. George, where the coronation ceremony is to take place.

The entire water supply of the town was shut off tonight until the new Emperor and his wife could take a ceremonial bath before beginning their all-night vigil in front of their crowns in the Cathedral.

The failure of the water supply mystified natives and foreigners alike, but was soon explained by palace officials.

The first official ceremony in connection with the coronation took place today when Ras Tafari, in a great purple cape, stiffly encrusted with precious stones, unveiled a heoric equestrian statue to King Menelik in the square before the cathedral.

Among the tents which have sprung up because all the buildings of Addis Abeba could not house the visiting throng, pariah dogs slunk about in the unaccustomed abundance of food.

Addis Abeba, sprawled across two mountains and surrounded by forests of eucalyptus trees, looks like an African Coney Island. Flags of a dozen nations wave in the sharp breeze which comes with the evening. The hum of an extraordinary activity comes from the city of tents. American automobiles swing toward the curb to pass swaying camels. Barefoot natives astride donkeys move about their business.

Movies "on Location."

American motion-picture crews, "on location" wherever they turn, have been making pictures for a week in preparation for the ceremonies which will begin with the dawn. Distinguished visitors have been received for days with the pomp appropriate to their rank.

It is the beginning of a new era for Addis Abeba and for all of Ethiopia, for Ras Tafari's wish is to make of his country a counterpart of the European civilization he admires. He wants new factories to rise above the forests; he wants his people to know of the world with which he can keep in touch by the elaborate radio receiving set an American company has sent him.

It was only one of 1000 lavish gifts. There is a refrigerator which makes ice cubes for the cocktails Ethiopia has come to like; modern rifles from the King of England; motion picture cameras and the reels of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic explorations.

In the open spaces near the tents of the encamped thousands, black warriors of imposing physique ride through the evolutions of the demonstration which will come tomorrow. Women, heavily armed, ride horses and donkeys in the gaudy costumes they will wear tomorrow. Petals of flowers are thrust into their ears and noses and the Pagan cus-

CONVICT SLAIN, KEEPER WOUNDED AT SING SING

Another Prisoner Wounded When Four Make Futile Attempt to Escape.

By the Associated Press.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 2.—An attempted escape of four prisoners from Sing Sing prison was frustrated tonight. One was killed, another was wounded, a third was overcome by tear gas and the fourth surrendered.

The 23-acre prison yard was transformed into an armed camp within a few minutes after news of the attempted escape became known. Equipped with machine guns, riot guns and tear gas bombs, a force of prison guards and Ossining City police cornered the escaping convicts in the prison yard.

The four prisoners made their break from the cell block after all the 700 inmates of the house were supposed to be locked in for the night. They had been permitted to go the prison chapel for confession and returned while the five keepers were patrolling the tiers of cells. By a show of arms, they overpowered Bourdon and took his keys. None of the keepers inside the prison buildings is permitted to carry arms. One by one, the convicts summoned the other four keepers to the ground floor and thrust them into the storage room with Bourdon. They had taken only the keys to the outer door of the cell block from Bourdon, but had overlooked the keys to the storage room. A few minutes after the keepers were locked in Bourdon opened the storage room door and gave the alarm.

Led by Harry Gordon, 24 years old, the convicts emerged into the prison yards, facing armed guards on the walls all about them. They had gone only a short distance when guards discvered them and called on them to surrender. Gordon fired wounding Keeper Howard Marquard. Marquard returned the fire killing Gordon. The firing became general and Herbert Davis, 25, fell with a slight wound in the head. Tear gas bombs overcame Ed Ryan, 28. The fourth convict, William Lapere, 26, escaped temporarily in the confusion but surrendered an hour later. The two convicts and the wounded keeper were taken to the prison hospital where physicians said they would recover.

LORD NELSON'S COLUMN 'GROWS'

London Landmark Higher Than 90 Years Ago, Steeplejack Says.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Lord Nelson's column in Trafalgar Square has "grown" 14 feet, 4 inches in the 90 years it has been erected.

This discovery was made by a steeplejack named Larkin, who compared its height today with the official records in the office of Works. No official explanation has been forthcoming. Meanwhile, the Government has ordered scientific measurements to be taken to find out what is wrong with the famous London landmark.

40 MEN HELD UP IN DOWNTOWN HANDBOOK

Trio Robs Charles La Vee and Customers in Betting Place at 318 Walnut St.

Forty men in a handbook establishment at 318 Walnut street, were held up and robbed late yesterday. A man who said he was Walter J. Kiefler, 1905 Chouteau avenue, one of the victims, reported the robbery.

Police who hurried to the address found the place closed. An hour later they located the proprietor, Charles LaVee, who confirmed the holdup report and said he had lost $55 to the robbers. LaVee was inclined to think the total of the loot was small and many of those present were not betting, while those who did wagered small sums.

Kiefler told police he and about 40 other men were in the place when three men, two of them armed, entered and announced: "This is a holdup. Line up against the wall. Anybody that makes any noise is liable to get shot."

Kiefler told police the robbers took about $10 from him and said he saved $30 in a purse by tossing it behind a radiator. He was unable to estimate how much was taken from the others.

KIDNAPERS OF DETROIT MAN DEMAND $10,000 RANSOM

Wealthy Retired Real Estate Dealer Abducted Thursday Night, Relatives Tell Police.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 1.—Relatives of Charles Kaier, 42 years old, wealthy retired real estate dealer, reported to police tonight that Kaier was kidnaped Thursday night by four men who have demanded $10,000 ransom.

Police said the report was made to them after Mrs. Kaier had taken $2000 from a bank to a hotel where she was to meet the kidnapers. The abductors, police were informed, did not keep the engagement, and Mrs. Kaier collapsed.

The report to police said that four men, who represented themselves as Federal agents, visited the Kaier home Thursday night and told him he was wanted at headquarters. He accompanied them, and later the ransom demand was made, police said.

The police did not learn immediately what negotiations led to today's unkept rendezvous.

Detective Sergeant Reuben Haynes, who is working on the case, said that Mrs. Kaier was in a highly nervous condition and could not be interviewed tonight.

Haynes said the bogus Federal agents used the name of the District Attorney in their conversation with Kaier.

Hoover's Ballots Mailed.

TRAIN KILLS BOY IN AUTO AND CROSSING WATCHMAN

Machine Pushed 50 Feet by Missouri Pacific Engine Wrecks Guard's Shanty at Second and Missouri, East St. Louis.

FOUR OTHERS IN CAR SUFFER INJURIES

Thomas Hannon, 13 Years Old, and William Lamb, 60, Victims of Accident—No Gates at Series of Tracks.

A 13-year-old boy and a crossing watchman were killed at 6:30 o'clock last night when a Missouri Pacific passenger train struck an automobile at Second street and Missouri avenue, near the Relay Depot, in East St. Louis. The automobile was pushed about 50 feet, knocking over the watchman's shanty which stood in its path.

The boy was Thomas Hannon, 2512 Belleview avenue, East St. Louis, riding in the automobile, which was driven by his father, Michael Hannon, a former Missouri Pacific engineer, who suffered fractures of the skull and ribs.

The watchman, William Lamb, 60, of 4 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, was found unconscious in the wreckage and died an hour later at St. Mary's Hospital. No witness was found who could tell where the watchman was when he was struck.

Hannon and Henry Timper, a sheet metal worker, of 484 North Twenty-sixth street, whose skull was fractured, were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, with Hannon's surviving children, John, 6, and Mary Ellen, 5, who received minor injuries.

Hannon and Timper, with the three children, were driving to St. Louis when the accident occurred as they attempted to cross a series of tracks about 100 feet wide. The train, bound from St. Louis to Chester, Ill., was slowing down for a stop at Relay Depot.

Members of the train crew were permitted to proceed on their run after they promised to appear at the Coroner's inquest. The crossing, little used by passenger automobiles, is not equipped with gates. Lamb's duty was to watch for trains and warn motorists with a black-and-white stop sign.

TWO NEGROES GET DEATH PENALTY FOR KILLING WOMAN

Jury Out at Clinton, Mo., Only 27 Minutes; Defendants Admitted Beating Victim.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLINTON, Mo., Nov. 1.—A verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree with the death penalty was brought by a jury here this afternoon against Eual Richardson and Emmet Gallie, Windsor Negroes, charged with the killing of Mrs. Elizabeth Neiman, an aged white woman at Windsor, on Oct. 18. The jury deliberated 27 minutes.

Mrs. Nieman's body was found in her home by neighbors. A small sum of money, about $35 in silver, was the object of the murder. Gallie and Richardson confessed they beat Mrs. Nieman to death.

The trial took two days, the entire evidence being offered by the State. The verdict was greeted by cheers and handclapping.

300,635 ELIGIBLE HERE FOR GENERAL ELECTION TUESDAY

Only 276,345 Registrants in Last Off-Year Vote — Polls to Be Open From 6 A. M. to 7 P. M.

CONGRESS AND STATE POSTS ON BALLOT

St. Louis Citizens to Pass on 7 Amendments to State Constitution and 9 to City Charter.

Polling places in St. Louis' 670 precincts will open at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning for the off-year general election and will close at 7 p. m.

Ballots which St. Louis voters will receive will bear the names of candidates for State Superintendent of Schools, Judge of the Supreme Court, Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, Congressman, State Senator, Circuit Judges, State Representatives, Judges of the Courts of Criminal Correction, Judge of the Probate Court, Prosecuting Attorney, Circuit Clerk, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Criminal Causes, Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction, License Collector, Recorder of Deeds, Collector of Revenue, Justices of the Peace and Constables.

St. Louis voters also will express themselves on seven amendments to the State constitution and nine city charter amendments, which have been described in the Post-Dispatch. Of principal interest in St. Louis are Proposition No. 5, permitting consolidation of St. Louis and St. Louis County under certain stated conditions; No. 3, extending from 20 to 50 years the period for which cities and towns of more than 5000 population may issue bonds for acquisition of public utilities, and No. 6, the excess condemnation amendment.

City Hall, Courts to Close.

The City Hall, Municipal and State courts, the Merchants' Exchange, Stock Exchange and banks will be closed.

City employes, numbering about 6000, exlusive of the police department, have received lists of names of persons in their precincts and are charged with the responsibility of seeing that these persons get to the polls and vote the Republican ticket. The canvassing and campaigning by both the Democratic and the Republican organizations has been unusually thorough for an off-year election. Final instructions will be given Republican workers at meetings in each precinct today.

Bernard F. Dickmann, general chairman of the Citizens' Democratic Campaign Committee, said last night the Committee had spent only $3000 in the campaign, probably, he added, the smallest amount for a campaign within 50 years. He emphasized the fact that most of the Democratic candidates had been placed on the ticket by the Citizens' Committee. The Committee will depend on volunteer workers as watchers and challengers at polling places.

On the other hand, the Republican campaign chest contained more than $40,000 including assessments against candidates totaling more than $17,000 and contributions of city employes amounting to $15,000 to $20,000.

300,635 Qualified Voters.

The revised registration list of the Board of Election Commissioners shows 300,635 qualified voters. At the last off-year election in 1926 registered voters numbered 276,345, 66 per cent of whom, or 183,000, voted. The registration for the presidential election of 1928 was 364,939. The vote, 337,558, was 93 per cent of the registration.

Heading the ticket, State Superintendent of Schools Charles A. Lee, a Democrat, seeking a third four-year term, is opposed by John H. Gehrs, professor of agriculture at the Cape Girardeau State Teachers' College.

Supreme Judge David E. Blair, Joplin, a Republican, who will complete a 10-year term on the bench in Division No. 2 at the end of this year, faces George R. Ellison, a Supreme Court Commissioner of Maryville.

Eastern Missouri counties and St. Louis will elect a Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals to fill the unexpired term ending Dec. 31, 1932, of Charles H. Daues, resigned. The candidates are George F. Haid, Republican, now on the bench by appointment of Gov. Caulfield, and Kenneth Teasdale, former president of the Jefferson Club, organization of young St. Louis Democrats.

Congressmen Unopposed.

No change in the roll of St. Louis Congressmen is possible since all were renominated and are without opposition. In the Tenth District, composed of St. Louis County, and a part of St. Louis, Congressman Henry F. Niedringhaus, Republican incumbent, was nominated and Owen G. Jackson, Democratic nominee, withdrew because the Democratic State platform convention did not adopt a wet plank. No Republican filed in the primary to oppose John J. Cochran, Democrat, representing the Eleventh District. Likewise, in the Twelfth District, L. C. Dyer, serving his ninth term, has no Democratic opponent.

The political importance of control of both branches of the Legislature has been stressed in campaign speeches of both parties in view of the necessary of revising congressional and State senatorial districts at the next session of the Legislature, convening in January.

State Senators will be elected for four-year terms in even-numbered senatorial districts. William F. Depelheuer, serving his third successive term in the Thirtieth District, is opposed by John Trantina, the Democratic nominee. William Maffitt Bates, Republican, completing his first term from the Thirty-second District, faces James L. Wren, an attorney, who has been elected to the House of Representatives three times. Edwin Nolte, brother of Comptroller Nolte, Republican, and Joseph A. Broderick, an attorney and a Democrat, are candidates for Senator in the Thirty-fourth District.

Both Democrats and Republicans have full tickets of candidates for State Representative, 19 of whom will be elected in the five St. Louis districts.

Bar Association Indorsements.

Four Republicans and two Democrats were indorsed by the St. Louis Bar Association for the six full terms on the Circuit Bench. The Republicans, Arthur H. Bader, Robert W. Hall, Granville Hogan and Frank Landwehr, are all incumbents.

One of the Democrats indorsed, Judge John T. Fitzsimmons, received the highest vote of any candidate in the Bar Association referendum. With Judge Bader he was appointed by Gov. Caulfield to serve in the newly-created courts. He has served as Deputy Coroner and Chief Deputy Circuit Clerk. The other Democrat indorsed, James E. King, served as Associate City Counselor under Mayor Rolla Wells.

For the unexpired term of the late Circuit Judge Moses N. Sale, Fred J. Hoffmeister won the place on the Bar Association ticket. The term expires Dec. 31, 1934. His Democratic opponent is Edgar H. Wayman, who never before has sought public office.

In the race for Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, Division No. 1, Edward E. Butler, Republican incumbent, was placed on the Bar Association ticket. His Democratic opponent is James J. Milligan, whose name was placed on the ticket after recommendation by the Democratic Citizens' Committee.

Weinbrenner Approved.

For election to the unexpired term of the late Paul A. Gayer, in Division No. 2 of the Court of Criminal Correction, ending Dec. 31, 1932, Judge J. Raymond Weinbrenner, now serving by appointment, was indorsed by the Bar Association. His Democratic opponent is Irwin Sale, Democratic nominee for Congress in the Tenth District in 1926.

Probate Judge Charles W. Holtcamp, Republican, seeking his seventh term, received the Bar Association indorsement. Irwin H. Gamble was drafted by Democrats to fill their ticket. He has never been a candidate before.

Eugene J. Sartorius, Democratic nominee for Prosecuting Attorney, who won the Bar Association indorsement, is opposed by Police Judge Harry P. Rosecan, who, although he received the second highest vote among nine nominees for the Circuit bench in 1928, failed then also to get the Bar Association indorsement and was defeated for election. However, Rosecan, facing Harry H. Richards, who was approved by the Bar Association and a citizens' committee of prominent men and women, defeated him in the primary last August by a vote 59,079 to 20,254.

Circuit Clerk John Schmoll, candidate for a third term, has the opposition of Louis G. Waldman, Democrat, drafted to fill the ticket. Schmoll, active in Republican politics for many years, has served as chairman of the Republican City Committee and as a delegate to many Republican national conventions. He served as Director of Public Welfare by appointment of former Mayor Kiel. In 1920, he was defeated for the nomination for Sheriff but was elected Circuit Clerk in 1922 and re-elected in 1926. Waldman, proprietor of the L. G. Waldman Printing Co., was a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court for Criminal Causes in 1926.

The candidates for Clerk of the Court for Criminal Causes are Alderman William Hoefle of the Second Ward, Republican, and John L. Wilson, drafted by the Democratic committee. Alderman Hoefle, of the Second Ward, Republican, and John L. Wilson drafted by the Democratic committee. Alderman Hoefle, now a salesman, was employed in the Assessor's office for 16 years, serving four years as chief clerk.

Baur Seeks Re-election.

Gus A. Baur, who served 12 years as a member of the Board of Aldermen until his appointment four years ago as Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction, is a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket. The Democratic candidate is John P. English, who resigned as Twenty-fourth Ward Committeeman when nominated for Clerk.

License Collector Oliver G. Chapman, who served as a member of the old House of Delegates from 1909 to 1911, seeks another term. His Democratic opponent is George W. Hobbs, who was a bank examiner during the Gardner administration, and who was in charge of the Democratic organization committee during the campaign of United States Senator Harry B. Hawes in 1926.

Saying he is the first Recorder of Deeds to show a surplus of fees over expenses of that office, William L. Tamme, Republican, again is a candidate. He has served as a member of the Board of Aldermen. The Democratic candidate is William P. Lightholder, a former member of the Legislature and chief deputy under Recorder Paul Young Jr., from 1903 to 1907. For several years he was secretary of the Real Estate Exchange.

For 22 years Edmond Koeln has served continuously as Collector of the Revenue, Unopposed, he will serve another four-year term.

NEW PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL TO TAKE OFFICE TOMORROW

First Act of Dr. Vargas Will Be to Dissolve Congress —Financial and Other Reforms Promised.

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 1.—Financial reform, comprising a vast economic program, is one of the principal planks in the platform of Dr. Getulio Vargas as Provisional President of Brazil.

This was made known toqay after Vargas, who was acclaimed by thousands last night when he arrived to take over the Government following the successful revolution, had conferred with various political leaders on the future of Brazil.

Vargas announced that he would take office as provisional president on Nov. 3 and that his first official act would be to dissolve Congress.

The Junta will probably be abolished within 48 hours.

More rebel troops reached Rio today from Minas Geraes, Sao Paulo and Rio Grande do Sul. The police here have been very active against Communists, who are charged with being responsible for the police revolt and street fighting on Oct. 27.

It was understood tonight that all banks would resume exchange operations on Monday. A rate for the milreis lower than the 9.3 to the dollar was forecast. This figure has been the official quotation at the Banco do Brasil for the last two weeks.

Among those with whom he talked at Cattete Palace were Gens. Tasso Fragoso and Menna Barreto, leaders of the junta which governed the capital after the ousting of President Washington Luis a week ago; Capt. Juarez Tavora, youthful leader of the revolution in nine northern states, and Pataleon Tellez.

Many Reforms Proposed.

Other principles for which the Vargas administration will stand were announced as follows:

Simplification of administrative processes and war on political parasitism.

Reduction of administrative expenses.

Simplification of legal procedure.

Honest elections.

Advancement of public instruction.

Constitutional reforms relative to judicial and electoral procedure.

Reformation of the powers and responsibilities of the legislative and executive branches.

It also was said that Dr. Osvaldo Aranha, who had much to do with carrying on the revolution, probably would be Minister of Interior and Justice in the new Cabinet. Thus the Government will be dominated by leaders from Rio Grande do Sul, the southernmost state, in which the revolt was born.

Dr. Vargas was president of the State, held many other local and Federal offices, and was leader of the Liberal Alliance. Dr. Aranha has served as Mayor of Alegrete, Minister of the Interior of Rio Grande do Sul, state and Federal Deputy, and became acting president of the state when Vargas recently went to the front. Both are lawyers.

Confess to Conspiracy to Undermine State Co-Operative Stores.

MOSCOW, Nov. 1.—Twenty-four persons were arrested by the secret police today and charged with counter-revolutionary activities in the economic field. Most of them were well-to-do employes of the state co-operative stores here.

They were accused of illegally obtaining goods from the stores and disposing of them to private traders. The secret police assert that all confessed to having participated in a plot to undermine the co-operative system.

Story of Rise of Ras Tafari To Ancient Throne of Ethiopia

Successful Rebel of 1916—He Has Risen in Face of Opposition—He Has Traveled and Is Considered Progressive.

By the Foreign Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The man named Tafari Makonen, crowned today as King of Kings of Ethiopia, has thus brought to a happy ending a strange chapter in the oldest Christian kingdom in the world. Future historians may not treat the frail occupant of this slippery throne as kindly as do present-day chroniclers, but none will deny him the merit of having gained high place by his own ingenuity and force of character.

In 1916 Tafari fomented and led a successful rebellion against the reigning Emperor named Lij Yasu, a grandson of the great King Menelik, but a bad lot, weak, dissolute and corrupt. Lij was deposed and Zauditu, his aunt, was placed on the throne. Tafari, then 25 years old, was proclaimed regent for his cousin, and heir to the throne.

Tafari has spent the time since then in improving his country, which covers 350,000 square miles, and in making secure his own position. From the first he was highly unpopular with the priests, a numerous and powerful body, and with the old chiefs who had fought with Menelik against the Italians.

Tafari Wins His Way.

When Lij was captured he was given into custody of a powerful northern chief, who was required to make oath he would not let him fall into the hands of Tafari. The Empress sided with the old guard, and the Regent Tafari was to a degree powerless. The weakened central government got a bad name abroad, and something had to be done.

The governors of three provinces, those in the south, the west and the northwest, were the worst offenders in the eyes of the capital which is in the middle of the kingdom. Tafari was patient and persistent. He ruled the country as the regent of the Empress, and slowly trained soldiers and amassed money and munitions. In 1926 the old Minister of War died. He had been a power in the state and a friend of Menelik. Tafari took over the various jobs and governorships left vacant by his death, and started out to put Abyssinia over in a big way.

Early in 1928 he ordered the Governor of the Southern province to come into the head office and bring his samples. He came, but with his army, camped outside the gates that night, and defied the Government with great blustering. The next morning found Tafari's troops surrounding him, so he crumpled up and surrendered.

Palace Revolt Crushed.

In September, 1928, came the "palace revolt," doubtless organized by the Empress for the purpose of overthrowing the Regent by a coup-de-main. Her household troops led by the Commander of the Imperial Guard were to do the job. It took Tafari just one afternoon to settle that rebellion and there was little bloodshed.

The Empress then announced that Tafari should have complete charge of public affairs, and she raised him to the rank of Negus.

It is within the present year the most important events have taken place. A small tribe, called Azebu Gallas, in the North, confirmed troublemakers and slave raiders, were at their old tricks. Tafari sent Ras (King) Gugsa, a well-known Governor and soldier, north to discipline the rebels. Gugsa was the husband of the Empress, but that seems to be a sort of side job in Abyssinia. He did not subdue the tribe, and started a campaign of calumny against Tafari, saying particularly that he had turned Catholic. This was the most exciting thing he could say in the North, where everybody belongs to the Coptic Church and the priests are the rulers of the district.

About last Christmas wild rumors were afloat that all the North was about to flame into revolt and that certain powerful Governors elsewhere would join the rebellion. His enemies said later that Tafari set these rumors going, which probably is not true, but when the fight came the Governors were on Tafari's side.

Troops from the South began to appear in the disaffected North, and suddenly the plan became clear. Tafari was out to crush his disloyal agents, and he had his crusher well oiled.

Airplane Propaganda.

Before the battle, Tafari's airplanes dropped leaflets on Gugsa's camp. One of these was signed by the Coptic Bishop saying Tafari was a loyal son of the church. The other was a proclamation from the central Government calling on Gugsa's men to desert on pain of having bombs dropped on them. Many deserted, but many were loyal, and the issue was joined.

The battle was fought last March 31 on the plain of Anchim, and lasted two hours. Tafari's troops struck as Gugsa's men were leaving camp after an airplane bombing. The Government lost 200 dead and 800 of Gugsa's dead lay on the field, including Gugsa himself, who died gallantly in hand-to-hand fighting.

Then came the touch which stirred more deeply still the seething country. The Abyssinan throne has all too frequently been emptied by poison or the knife, and two days after her husband's death the Empress suddenly died. But the evil tongues which might have laid this to Tafari were stilled, for he announced his accession to the throne on April 3.

The Ras Tafari, who now becomes Ras of Rases, is the most progressive of all the descendants of Solomon to ascend to the throne. He has traveled in Europe with great state and circumstance, and he has sent Ethiopian boys to school in England, France and the United States. He has built some roads and hospitals, started work looking to the abolishment of slavery, and has even started in on graft and corruption in office.

He probably will be recognized by all Powers. The United States is already committed, Mr. Hoover having sent Tafari an autographed photograph of himself in a nice frame.

200,000 CHILDREN GREET NEW QUEEN

King Boris of Bulgaria and His Bride Showered With Flowers at Sofia.

By the Associated Press.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 1.—Bulgaria's youngest generation is a little disappointed in the Italian Princess Giovanna, whom King Boris has brought home to reign as his Queen. For one thing, she didn't wear a crown and ermine robes today as she stood on a palace balcony beside the King, while 200,000 school children marched by, cheering and tossing bouquets at the royal pair.

But she won the hearts of the more mature Bulgarians in this day's celebration. She smiled for two hours with the sun in her eyes; she refused to sit down, and she took ill-aimed bouquets on the chin like a veteran.

She drew upon her experience as a Princess of Italy when she opened the schools of the vacation colonies named in her honor.

Her subjects were almost lyrical in her praise tonight.

This morning the Queen attended the All Saints' day mass in the private Catholic chapel of the Palace and later went with her husband to the Orthdox mass in the cathedral in honor of the national Saint-Hero, Ivan Rilskey. Their arrival was timed to avoid the crowd which had gathered in expectation of their earlier arrival.

Giovanna, it appears, has a special ecclesiastical dispensation permitting her to attend ceremonies of the Orthodox Church when they have national significance, so that her absence on such occasions may not be misconstrued.

The accidental discharge of a rifle by a Bulgarian Army recruit who stumbled as he was patrolling the railway line near Philipopolis as the train bearing King Boris and Queen Giovanna passed was given today as the official explanation of a report yesterday that the train had been fired upon.

MAYOR THOMPSON STILL IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Resting Comfortably, Following Operation for Appendicitis, Bulletin by Physicians Says.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Physicians attending Mayor William Hale Thompson, at Passavant Hospital, following his operation for appendicitis, issued the following statement at 6:30 o'clock tonight:

"The Mayor's condition remains critical. His temperature and pulse are as we would expect under the circumstances. He is resting comfortably."

The Mayor was described as "mentally cheerful," and reacting as well as could be expected physically, in bulletins issued at the hospital. He slept 11 hours and awoke in a jovial mood.

The Mayor's first question after he awoke was about the speech which he had hoped to deliver on behalf of J. Hamilton Lewis, Democratic candidate for Senator, at a political mass meeting yesterday, but which was read to the audience.

He wanted to know how his speech was received and if any of the papers had printed it. When told that they did not publish it, he said, "I didn't think they would."

The speech was a bitter attack on the Chicago Tribune and its present and past publishers, and on Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial candidate. The Mayor, a Republican, said he had decided to support the Democratic aspirant because Lewis was wet.

BROKERAGE FIRM ACCUSED OF PLOT TO CHEAT PUBLIC

Nine Partners of Prince & Whitely Suspended by New York 'Change Alleged to Be Involved.

WITNESS SAYS HE LOST $200,000

Juggling of Books to Conceal Facts Charged—Defendants Ordered to Appear in Court Nov. 7.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—On the complaint of the Attorney-General that the nine partners of Prince & Whitely, 53-year-old brokerage firm suspended by the New York Stock Exchange Oct. 9, had been "conspiring and scheming to cheat and defraud the public," Supreme Court Justice Byrne in Brooklyn today ordered the co-partners to show cause Nov. 7 why they should not be individually enjoined from further stock dealings in this state.

The motion was signed on request of Deputy Assistant Attorney-General William H. Milholland of the Bureau of Securities, representing Attorney-General Ward. Milholland's affidavit charge Prince & Whitely officers with using the funds of the Prince & Whitely Trading Corporation, an investment trust, in their own brokerage business. The nine defendants were directors of th Trading Co., as well as partner in the brokerage firm. They ar James H. Hoyt, senior member G.-Lisle Forman and Morrison B Orr, the two floor members of th brokerage house who were suspended; Lawrence S. Critchell James H. Stark, Oscar B. Vanzandt, Otto Antonsen, Gerald W Hoyt and Felix Hughes.

Charges Juggling of Books.

Milholland charges that betwee $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 of th trading corporation's funds wer used in the stock brokerage con cern. Bookkeeping entries wer later made to show that this ha been repaid, he said, when, i fact, it had not.

Testimony of John C. Thor president of the Hôtel St. Reg and a prominent realty man, quoted at length in Milholland complaint. Thorn, it is under stood lost approximately $200, 000. He paid in full, but none o the securities he ordered was de livered to him. Receivers fo Prince & Whitely told Thorn hi stocks had been pledged with vari ous banks for loans made to Princ & Whitely. Milholland, in oth places, points out the firm "did n execute the orders given."

On Aug. 15, it is charged, th defendants "authorized the loan $1,500,000 to J. M. Hoyt &C without collateral or other secur ity than the indorsement of the in dividual defendants for the pu pose of being deposited as margi with the defendants as members of Prince & Whitely, as well apparently to increase their as sets as partners of that firm. Th is referred to as a clear "violatio of their duties."

Misrepresentation Alleged.

At various times, it is asserte the defendants represented th they owned certain assets whi were not actually theirs. The made a "misrepresentation of the assets to the New York Stock Ex change" it is charged and the numerous moves are described "a scheme of the defendants misrepresent and deceive."

Elsewhere it is alleged "the de fendants did not purchase the se curities ordered to be purchase by the plaintiffs and the publ generally." Yet they had mai tained these stocks were boug and had received payment f them.

To show increased assets in i report to the Stock Exchange la June and in order to show a sou financial condition, the firm h up the prices of the stock of Atl Stores, Brockway Motors, Hah Department Stores and sever other securities of which it ha thousands of shares. Several da later these same securities sold their normal level.

At Bridlespur Hunt Club Point-to-Point Meet

EBONITE AGAIN WINS BRIDLESPUR CUP RACE

Andrew Johnson's Mount Victorious Second Year—2500 Attend Despite Chilly Wind.

Pink-coated horsemen rode triumphantly over hazards and down the home stretch before about 2500 sportsmen and sportswomen at the second annual point-to-point race meeting of the Bridlespur Hunt Club yesterday.

Despite a chilling breeze that swept the hill on the land of Dr. Robert E. Wilson and H. W. Herweck, southwest of the Denny and Clayton roads, most of the spectators arrived before the first event and only a few left before the last pair of flying feet had flicked over the plank obstacles.

It was a gala, warmly bundled up crowd, come to participate in a social as well as sport event. Women wore fur coats and the men drew heavy overcoats about themselves. The crowd cheered the winners and gave the applause of sportsmen to the losers.

Club members made up a pool on the races said to have totaled more than $13,000, although wagering among the crowd was perfunctory.

A band, its music made faint by the wind, played during the intervals of the six races while the spectators, some of whom were in a small grand stand under the judges' stand while others lined the some stretch rail, visited the paddocks.

Colorful Setting.

Sporting prints of bygone years were made vivid by the pink-clad riders while those who raced in some events in vari-colored silks contributed to the color of the race track. Three tallyhos, one driven by Adolphus Busch, rumbled serenely past the rows of parked automobiles and the red and brown foliage of the autumnal countryside contrasted with the distant bluish silhouettes of the buildings of modern St. Louis.

Ebonite, mighty black gelding of Trail's End stable, with Andrew Johnson in the saddle, took the lead and held it in the Bridlespur Hunt Cup race, the third event on the program, repeating his triumph at the club's first meet last year. The cup must be won three times for permanent possession, although the winner's name is engraved on it each year. August A. Busch Jr., on his bay gelding, High Way finished second and Adelbert von Gontard, on Mrs. Von Gontard's bay gelding, Fox Cover, was third in a field of six that raced a mile and a half over plank fences. Entries were limited to Club members.

Ebonite arched his neck with obvious pride as Mrs. George Tiffany placed a shawl of pink roses about his neck and Mrs. Louis A. Hager Jr., presented his rider with the coveted silver cup.

Most of the races started in a valley, about half a mile from the finish line in front of the judge's stand, and pursued an irregular oval about the base of the hill. Distant pink spots on black dots became crouching riders and straining horses as they drew near the stands and then receded into dots again as they coursed over the obstacles about the hill and meadows.

Fox Catchers' Plate Race.

The Fox Catchers Plate event, open only to members of the local club and the Mission Valley Hunt Club of Kansas City, Mo., and limited to horses regularly hunting with hounds was won by Patrick, a bay gelding, owned by R. L. Nafziger, of Kansas City, and ridden by George Forrest, of Kansas City. Louis A. Hager Jr., on High Court, a chestnut gelding of the Trail's End Stable, took second and Princess Schnie, a chestnut mare, ridden by Von Gontard was third. All horses carried more than 160 pounds and the course led over two miles of plank fences.

The first event on the card, The Gap Hunters, for amateur riders over a distance of three-eighths of a mile on the flat was won by W. B. Shelp Jr.'s Al Stebeler, with his owner in the saddle. Runfra, owned by Johnston and Schrader, and ridden by Donald S. Scharpe, was second, and Sweet Bunny, owned by Frank C. Baker and ridden by August A. Busch Jr., third.

The Subscribers' race was the fourth event, run in racing colors a mile and a half over plank fences. It was won by Montin Boy, a chestnut gelding, owned and ridden by John Lone. Several lengths behind, Big Surprise, owned and ridden by G. Vest, captured second after a struggle down the stretch with Sir Harold, Jack Krey's chestnut gelding, with Robert G. Bell up. W. B. Shelp Jr., was thrown near the water jump and suffered a twisted ankle.

Blind Brook Event.

The final event was the Blind Brook, a mile and a quarter over the brush courses, ridden by riders approved by the committee. Reno, owned by R. L. Jurden and ridden by Joe Kwateck, won. Irish Maid, owned by Jack Krey and ridden by Arthur Mueller, was second, and Tangara, owned by Allen Fordyce and ridden by William Fordyce, third. Donald Sharpe, on Little Fellow, was thrown, but not hurt.

High Court, ridden by Frank Dapron, won The Open-to-All race, participated in by professional riders, coming in about six lengths ahead of Flight, a Trail's End Stable brown gelding, ridden by Jefferies. Brown Parcel, owned by Frank C. Baker and ridden by Joe Kwateck, was third.

Among those in the stand were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Hager Jr., August A. Busch Jr., Dr. Robert E. Wilson, H. W. Herweck, Mrs. Webster Tilton, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Siegel, Mr. and Mrs. Adalbert Von Gontard, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Dozier, Mr. and Mrs. Garneau Weld, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hall Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Maloy, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Orthwein, Miss Lily Busch Magnus, Baroness Hannah Schilling Von Constatt, Miss Alice Strauch, Edward L. Bakewell, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Stinde, Mr. and Mrs. Leicester Faust, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. M. C. Ormord, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wright, Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, Dr. and Mrs. I. D. Kelley Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gates Williams.

TRUCK CRASHES THROUGH E. ST. LOUIS DISPLAY WINDOW

Front of Two-Story Building Falls; Damage Estimated at $5000; Men in Vehicle Flee.

A five-ton truck crashed through a display window of the Hockaday Furniture Co., 531 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, at 5 p. m., yesterday, causing the front of the two-story brick building to collapse. Damage to the building and furniture was estimated at $5000 by W. A. Hockaday.

Police are seeking two men who were in the truck and who fled, according to Hockaday, when he ran from the rear of his store at the sound of the crash. The truck was marked "Miller Coal & Hauling Co., 712 Bowman avenue."

Witnesses said it swerved suddenly across the sidewalk at high speed after its front wheels apparently had caught in the street car tracks. The truck tore out an iron post supporting a steel girder of the building and went through the window and its rear partition, the front wheels breaking through the floor of the store.

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN TO GET UNDER WAY NOV. 10

Five Organization Meetings This Week — Goal $2,200,000 — 5000 Volunteer Workers.

Five organization meetings will be held this week in preparation for the opening of the Community Fund's ninth annual campaign on Nov. 10.

The goal this year will be $2,200,000, and more than 5000 volunteer workers will take part in the solicitation with the slogan, "More than ever this year." The campaign will extend over the entire community, a special worker being designated for each neighborhood, industrial plant, mercantile firm, school and club. Sidney Maestre, president of the Mercantile-Commerce Co., will direct the campaign.

Meetings at which the final organization plans will be worked out and solicitors instructed are scheduled as follows: Special gifts division, Hotel Statler, 12:15 p. m. tomorrow and Friday; mercantile unit of commercial division, City Club, 6:15 p. m. tomorrow; manufacturing unit, City Club, 6:15 p. m. Wednesday; financial unit, Coronado Hotel, 6:15 p. m. Thursday; county division, Hotel Chase, 6:15 p. m. Thursday, and colored population division, Pine Street Y. M. C. A., 6:30 p. m. Saturday.

200 to Seek Large Gifts.

Two hundred of the volunteer workers, who are members of the special gifts division, will concentrate upon the canvassing of the larger donors. A. Wessel Shapleigh, treasurer of the Shapleigh Hardware Co., is chairman of the division, and Mrs. John T. Davis Jr. of 17 Westmoreland place, heads the women's team.

George M. Berry, president of the George M. Berry Motor Car Co., is chairman of the City Division, which sends its workers into all parts of the city, canvassing by regions. Regional chairmen are, Henry W. Kiel, of the Downtown Region; William R. Campbell, Central Region; John Schmoll, South Side; William L. Clucas, Southwest; Mrs. Wilbur B. Jones, West End, and Frank A. Scharlott, North Side.

The County Division, which takes care of county solicitation, is headed by Walter V. Scholz. Serving with him will be M. W. Coggeshall, who will direct canvassing in Webster Groves, Maplewood and Richmond Heights; W. W. Butts, in charge of University City and Clayton; Mrs. Hugh McKittrick Jones, who will head the workers of Overland and the district west of the McKnight road, and Davis Biggs, who will superintend activities in Kirkwood, Bonhomme, Meramec and Carondelet.

Division for Employes.

Solicitation of employes is in the hands of the Commercial Division, of which Gale F. Johnson, divisional manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., is chairman. Assisting him will be Donald Danforth, who is chairman of the Manufacturing Unit; Lindell Gordon Jr., chairman of the Mercantile Unit; Postmaster A. J. Michener, Chairman of the Public Unit; E. B. Meissner, chairman of the Utility Unit; James E. Taussig, chairman of the Railroad Unit; Frank N. Hall, chairman of the Financial Unit, and Chancellor George R. Throop of Washington University, chairman of the School Unit.

The Colored Population Division is headed by S. E. Garner, assistant Attorney-General of Missouri. As regional chairmen he has appointed G. D. Brantley, Mrs. T. J. Nevins, Dr. C. H. Tinsley and Mrs. A. N. Vaughn. The chairman of the Special Gifts Committee is Frank L. Williams, principal of the Carr Lane Vocational School.

Other divisional chairmen are: Publicity, R. Fullerton Place; Come and See Division, Stanley Clarke; Speakers' Bureau, E. M. Grossman; Auditing Division, Chauncey B. Adams; Information Division, Mrs. John A. Haskel.

PAIR IN AUTO HURT ON RETURN FROM BRIDLESPUR CLUB RACES

Donald Scott Sharpe and Wife Injured When Car Hits Tree on Wydown Boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Scott Sharpe of the Embassy Apartments, 530 Union boulevard, were slightly injured last night when their automobile struck a tree on the right of way of the Clayton street car line on Wydown boulevard west of De Mun avenue.

Their automobile scraped a light delivery truck as Sharpe was passing it and he lost control of his machine. The tree fell across the street car tracks.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe were treated at Deaconess Hospital for lacerations of the face. They were returning from the Bridlespur Hunt Club, where Sharpe had competed in the races.

$12,000,000 SUISUN BAY RAILROAD BRIDGE DEDICATED

Train Ferry Solano Makes Last Trip After 51 Years of Service.

By the Associated Press.

MARTINEZ, Cal., Nov. 1.—The historic old train ferry Solano carried its last train from Port Costa to Benecia today as the Southern Pacific's $12,000,000 railroad bridge across Suisun Bay was formally dedicated. With the bridge opening, the Solano ended 51 years of service to be scrapped with her sister ferry, the Contra Costa.

The bridge removes the last physical barrier to railroad travel north and east from the San Francisco Bay region.

United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, Mayor James Rolph Jr. of San Francisco, President Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific and other notables were carried across the bay on a special train on the Solano's farewell trip. A. E. Blum of Oakland, one of the few living persons who made the first trip aboard the Solano. Nov. 28, 1879, uncoupled the craft for her final voyage.

The historic "C. P. Huntington," diminutive locomotive, came out of a long retirement to be the official "first train" across the span. The new bridge is a mile and an eighth long.

BRITISH WOMAN FLYER HERE

Mrs. A. Spencer Cleaver Stops for Two Hours.

Mrs. A. Spencer Cleaver, British flyer, arrived at Curtiss-Steinberg Airport yesterday, following a flight from Indianapolis, Ind. After two hours here she departed for Kansas City.

Mrs. Cleaver, who is on her way from New York to Los Angeles, flys her own plane, an open sport model, and is accompanied by a mechanic.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Adele K. Cleaver, English aviatrix on a transcontinental flight, arrived here late today. She expected to take off tomorrow for Wichita, Kan.

MRS. CLARA TAUSSIG, 73, DIES AT CONCERT

Former City Comptroller's Widow Succumbs to Apoplexy at the Odeon.

Mrs. Clara Taussig, widow of Benjamin E. Taussig, former Comptroller of St. Louis, died of apoplexy last night at the Odeon Theater, where she was attending a Symphony concert. She was 73 years old.

Mrs. Taussig had gone to the concert with her son, James Taussig who made his home with her at 3747 Washington boulevard. When she became ill two physicians were called from the audience. One of them was her cousin, Dr Albert Taussig.

Mrs. Taussig's husband, a lumber dealer, died in 1927.

ROBERT MAGRUDER FOSTER, EX-CIRCUIT JUDGE, DIES

Retired Lawyer Succumbs to Heart Disease at 78; Began Practice Here in 1875.

Robert Magruder Foster, retired lawyer and former Circuit Judge, died yesterday of heart disease in his rooms at the Usona Hotel, 5000 Waterman avenue, where he resided with his wife. He was 78 years old.

Mr. Foster began the practice of law in St. Louis in 1875, served as Circuit Judge from 1903 to 1909, returning to private practice until his retirement in 1915. Born in Madison, Ga., he came to St. Louis as a youth and studied law at Washington University.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Sterling Foster of San Francisco, Cal., and Robert M. Foster of Helena, Ark., and a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Sorano of Paris, France. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

681 FAMILIES SEEK AID FROM PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION

Only 262 Applied for Help in October of Last Year.

Families numbering 681 applied to the Provident Association for assistance during October, as against 262 for the same month a year ago. During September 546 needy families applied.

The unemployment count of the organization shows about three times as many persons out of work at the present time in families under care of the association as for the same period last year. The largest increases are shown in the following industries: Iron and steel, food, paper and printing, stone clay and glass, automobiles, railroads, building trades and gas and electric trades. About 30 per cent of the unemployed are 40 years of age or more. The count includes only able-bodied persons.

TELLER GETS 3 YEARS FOR THEFT OF $4478

Russell Biederman of Vandervoort Bank Sent to Federal Reformatory.

Russell Biederman, who embezzled $4478 while a teller at the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Bank, was sentenced to three years in the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., by Federal Judge Faris yesterday on his plea of guilty of violating the national banking laws.

Biederman, 23 years old, entered his plea on Oct. 10, but sentence was deferred while the Court investigated an application for parole. "I will not consider an application for parole in this case for the reason that this sort of thing has gone too far in this city," Judge Faris said in passing sentence. "Some steps must be taken to stop it."

Counsel for the young teller told the Court his client had lost the money gambling in East St. Louis gambling resorts, and argued for a parole on the ground that "it would be a club over the boy's head," and that penitentiary acquaintances would have a bad influence over him.

Biederman's parents, with whom he lived at 6113 Charlotte avenue, Pine Lawn, stood beside him when he was sentenced. The father has been employed at Vandervoort's for 40 years.

DETECTIVE FILES $25,000 SUIT AGAINST MRS. M'CORMICK

Charges He Was Falsely Imprisoned by Agent Shadowing Senator Nye.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial nominee, was made defendant today in a $25,000 damage suit instituted by a private investigator as an aftermath of her "shadowing" of Senator Gerald B. Nye, chairman of the Senate committee which investigated her primary campaign expenditures.

George L. Cole, the petitioner, alleged he was falsely imprisoned and arraigned by W. C. Dannenberg, head of a detective agency, employed by Mrs. McCormick to investigate Senator Nye. Dannenberg was made a co-defendant in the suit, filed in Superior Court.

Cole's attorney said his client was taken to Dannenberg's apartment and held there while statements were forced from him.

tom contrasts strangely with the gold crucifixes about their necks.

For Abyssinia, the only unconquered empire left in Africa, has been a Christian nation for 1600 years. Addis Abeba itself was founded only 40 years ago by King Menelek after his armies had routed the Italians in a battle among the protecting mountains. Its name, translated, is "Blossoming Flower."

Nothing has been left undone to impress the world with as splendid a ceremony as it has seen in generations. Preparations for this celebration have cost the Government nearly $3,000,000, it is said, and Ethiopia's technicians have worked wonders in the construction of roads and the provision of electirc lights.

In the press of the nations to shower honors upon the new Emperor, the United States alone has stood somewhat aside. Her laws preclude the bestowal of honorary titles upon the ruler and she has been content to send assurances of her good will, friendship and sympathetic assistance when assistance is needed.

She has sent no costly gifts, but a simple photograph of President Hoover, who signed the portrait with his own hand. Her commercial companies, however, in token of their understanding of Ras Tafari's modernization of his country, have sent him gifts which the Emperor and Empress are said to regard even more highly than the often more costly presents from other sources.

Six weeks of work have gone into the construction of a great hall adjoining the church where the coronation ceremony will take place. The church itself will hardly accommodate the great number of distinguished guests from other nations. Some of the 45,000 tribesmen, invited to be present by the Emperor, will be seated in the hall. The others, such of them as are fortunate enough to have tickets, may sit in grand stands which line the route over which the Emperor and his consort will ride after the coronation.

Tomorrow evening the Emperor will receive the heads of the foreign delegations and preside at the banquet which will close the most glorious day of his career thus far.

Hoover Sends Felicitations to New Ruler of Ethiopia.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—President Hoover, in a message to the Ethiopian Emperor today, extended the felicitations of the Government and people of the United States to the new ruler on his coronation.

"On behalf of the American people and Government, I have great pleasure in extending to your Majesty my most sincere felicitations on the happy occasion of your Majesty's coronation and my best wishes for your Majesty's health and happiness," the message said. "I am sure that my special Ambassador has not failed to express my best wishes to your Majesty and my confidence that the traditional ties of friendship and mutual understanding which so happily exist between our two countries, as well as the sympathetic co-operation of our peoples, will be further strengthened during your Majesty's reign."

DR. E. W. EBERLEIN DIES ON WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Suffers Heart Attack While Lunching With Wife; Practiced Here 32 Years.

Dr. Edwin W. Eberlein, 2816 South Grand boulevard, died yesterday from a heart attack while he was lunching with his wife on the occasion of their eleventh wedding anniversary. He was 54 years old and had practiced medicine here for 32 years.

Dr. Eberlein was graduated from Washington University Medical School in 1898. He served in France during the World War. He had opened new offices in the University Club yesterday. He is survived by his widow, his mother, and a sister, Mrs. Edwin Kropp. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at Ziegenhein's undertaking establishment, 2623 Cherokee street, with burial in Valhalla Cemetery.

ADMIRAL C. F. HUGHES RETIRES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Admiral Charles F. Hughes today retired from naval service, having reached the statutory retirement age of 64. He was succeeded as Chief of Naval Operations recently by Admiral William V. Pratt. With his retirement, Admiral Hughes reverts to the permanent rank of Rear Admiral.

Admiral Hughes entered the Naval Academy from Bath, Me., and graduated in 1888. Through 46 years of service, he commanded the battleship New York and several battleship divisions before becoming Commander in Chief of the fleet in 1926. He became Chief of Naval Operations Nov. 14, 1927. His decorations include the Distinguished Service Medal and Commander of the Order of Leopold (Belgium). Admiral Hughes at present resides in Maryland.

MISSOURI G. O. P. LIKELY TO LOSE 5 SEATS IN CONGRESS

didates for Supreme Judge, both candidates being men of high standing of whom there never has been criticism. Both are known as Judges of ability, Judge George R. Ellison of Maryville, the Democratic nominee having served as Supreme Court Commissioner, with the same duties as a Supreme Judge. His Republican opponent, Judge David E. Blair, has been a member of the court 10 years and is a candidate for re-election.

Charles A. Lee, Democratic candidate for re-election as State Superintendent of Schools, is thought to have the better of his contest with John H. Gehrs of Cape Girardeau. Lee in two successful campaigns for the office has shown himself to be a strong candidate, stronger than most of the Democrats on the ticket with him. During his eight terms of office he has been active in promoting increased educational facilities, especially in the rural sections. Dr. Gehrs, the Republican nominee, is a teacher in the Southeast Missouri teachers college, and has a comparatively limited acquaintanceship through the state.

The re-election of Judge George F. Haid, Republican, to the St. Louis Court of Appeals over Kenneth Teasdale, Democrat, is expected. The district usually returns a substantial Republican majority, no Democrat having been elected to the court since 1912, the Bull Moose year, when Judge William H. Allen was chosen.

In the congressional elections there is a virtual certainty that the Republicans will carry three districts, that Niedringhaus and Dyer will be re-elected in the Tenth and Twelfth Districts, neither having opposition, and that Manlove will be re-elected in the Fifteenth over Frank H. Lee. In two other districts, the Fourth and Fourteenth, the contests are considered close, with Short, Republican, rather a favorite over Fullbright, Democrat, in the Fourteenth. In the Fourth there is little basis for an opinion as to whether Culver, Democrat, or Hopkins, Republican, will be the victor.

11 Democrats Given Edge.

It appears that the Democrats will carry all the remaining 11 districts, Romjue in the first, Losier in the second, Milligan in the third, Shannon in the fifth, Dickinson in the sixth, Major in the seventh, Nelson in the eighth, Cannon in the ninth, Cochran in the eleventh, Williams in the thirteenth, and Barton in the sixteenth.

In State senatorial races the Republicans who are considered virtually certain of election are Morgan in the fourth, Depelheuer in the thirtieth, Kelly in the eighteenth, Bates in the thirty-second and Nolte in the thirty-fourth. The Democrats considered virtually certain of election are McKittrick in the sixth, Clark in the eighth, Rollins in the tenth, Luther in the twelfth, Gunn in the fourteenth, Henry in the sixteenth, Haymes in the twentieth and Bales in the Twenty-second.

In the second, Crouse, Democrat, and Wallace, Republican, are in a close race, with conditions said to be somewhat favoring Crouse. The twenty-fourth is the Buford District, where the obstreperous Democrat is opposed by Dr. W. H. Breuer, and where there is no certainty of the outcome. Other close contests are those of Terry, Republican, and Roberts, Democrat, in the twenty-sixth, and Titus, Republican, and McCawley, Democrat, in the Twenty-eighth. McCawley and Roberts are generally picked as probable winners, though the districts are so close that no pre-election prediction would be safe.

In addition to these offices 150 members of the House of Representatives of the State Legislature are to be elected, as are 14 Circuit Judges, and several county officers in all counties.

T. H. REED APPEALS TO VOTERS TO OK PROPOSITION FIVE

Most Important Amendment on Ballot — No Charter Rights Involved, He Says in Radio Talk.

Prof. Thomas H. Reed of the University of Michigan, consultant of the City-County Metropolitan Development Committee which formulated Proposition 5 for Tuesday's election, spoke last night on radio station KMOX.

"The most important proposition upon which you will vote at this election," said Dr. Reed, "is No. 5, the enabling amendment which permits St. Louis and St. Louis County to vote next spring on a charter setting up a City of Greater St. Louis, but preserving within that city the rights of local self-government of St. Louis and the cities, towns and villages of St. Louis County.

"It is a mere enabling amendment, for unless the charter is enacted under it, nothing will happen. The passage of Proposition 5 by itself will consolidate nothing, set up no new government, alter no tax rate. It is only through the adoption of a charter that anything can occur. And that charter must be ratified by the people of St. Louis and also by the people of St. Louis County. St. Louis cannot outvote the county.

Both Must Ratify.

"The fact that the charter must be ratified by St. Louis and St. Louis County separately is sufficient guarantee that it will be fair to both. There is no occasion for self-appointed tribunes of the people trying to save the public from the privilege of expressing themselves upon the charter. The people will know how to take care of themselves on the charter, as they will know how to take care of themselves in voting on this amendment."

Prof. Reed explained that Proposition 5 defines in a general way the kind of charter which will be presented to the voters. This charter, he said, must guarantee the continued existence of the different municipalities which are to be federated into Greater St. Louis. Municipalities can unite only by three-fifths vote of their people, and the boundaries of municipalities cannot be altered by charter amendment.

He said that the city would, in effect, go back into the county, with which it has become more closely related than in 1876, when the city withdrew from the county because it was not interested in keeping up county roads. He discussed the problems which the federating of municipalities is intended to meet—recreation, sanitation, water supply. St. Louis County, he suggested, may find its water bills cut in two.

Relation to Taxes.

"Attempts have been made," he said, "to outweigh these advantages with vague talk about increase in taxes. The tax rate of the greater city is fixed at 60 cents by proposition 5. This is the same rate now permitted by the Constitution to be levied in St. Louis County, and once the greater city is in existence there will be no county tax. Because of the transfer of functions from St. Louis to the greater city, proposition 5 lowers the tax limit of St. Louis, if a charter is enacted, from $1.35 to $1.05. Some reductions in taxation will also be possible in the cities of St. Louis County. There is no possibility of any increase in taxation comparable to the advantages in community development.

"Remember this, that proposition 5 itself cannot increase your taxes. It will not do anything. The whole tax question must be treated in detail in the Charter, and it is only when the Charter has been prepared that anyone can speak with authority of what the financial outcome of the arrangement will be.

"When you vote for proposition 5 you are only voting to have a look at the charter and see whether it suits the needs of your community. You commit yourself to nothing by voting "yes" on proposition 5 except your desire to see if a satisfactory charter can be worked out."

ALEXANDER P. ROBINSON DIES

Former Standard Oil Manager Here Was In Los Angeles.

Alexander P. Robinson, former manager of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana in St. Louis, died yesterday at his home in Los Angeles, Cal., of acute indigestion. The body will be brought here for burial.

WEALTHY CHICAGO WOMAN JAILED FOR FAKING ROBBERY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of Edwin Price, wealthy packers' supply manufacturer, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $1 and costs today by Judge Hugo Friend in the Criminal Court. She was found guilty of conspiracy to have her jewels taken in a faked robbery in order to collect the insurance to cover gambling debts.

It was found that the reported robbery of Mrs. Price, Feb. 28, 1929, had been prearranged by Maurice Barnett, a jeweler, and Max Krakow, a manufacturing jeweler, so that the insurance company would be defrauded. Barnett and Krakow were tried and convicted months ago. Mrs. Price said she did not dare appeal to her husband to pay her losses at "Bugs" Moran's Waverly Club, but confided in Barnett, who arranged the robbery.

The modern product of a great music house

the new 1931 BRUNSWICK RADIO

For years Brunswick has been a name always closely allied with fine music. Great artists have recorded their interpretation of the world's greatest music on Brunswick records. Brunswick-built reproducing instruments have long been made by Brunswick craftsmen who handed down the tradition of fine workmanship from father to son.

It is only natural to suppose that this name, so long celebrated in the concert halls and salons of America, when applied to radio, would be placed only on an instrument worthy of Brunswick's musical reputation.

Investigate for yourself the rich tonal beauty of a Brunswick radio. Note the unusual features that make it years ahead in design and reproducing quality. Your Brunswick dealer will be glad to explain to you the importance of the UNI-SELECTOR, Tone Control, and other Brunswick improvements that place this new radio in the forefront of the future!

ATWATER KENT RADIO

with the GOLDEN VOICE

NOW judge for yourself the thrilling progress of radio. New ideas! New heights of performance! New developments in design!—giving radio its rightful place in beautifying your home.

Open house at any Atwater Kent dealer's, November 3 to 8

A model to suit every taste, every home, every pocketbook. All have the new Atwater Kent design, matched walnuts, finest cabinet work, exquisite satin finish—no over-ornamentation. See for yourself, at any Atwater Kent dealer's in the coming week, this special Salon Showing—the kind of radio you like to live with.

Listen to the Golden Voice

It is already telling its story of truth and beauty in hundreds of thousands of homes. Critics say it's the last word in tone quality—the Golden Voice. Any Atwater Kent dealer is ready to prove the tone with a special demonstration. Hear every instrument of the famous Atwater Kent Orchestra separately. Then listen while the whole orchestra plays, so that you hear all the instruments blending into a complete design. You'll enjoy this test. Ask for it.

Try the perfected Tone Control

See for yourself how you can emphasize bass or treble at will, with a touch of your finger. Four definite shadings of the Golden Voice.

And the Quick-Vision Dial

The greatest aid to easy operation in all the years of radio. The whole range of stations is right in front of you—in figures so big that grandmother can read them from her chair. All station channels are clearly marked in kilocycles. Get the one you want in a split-second.

Find out why the whole world says: "I'd rather have an Atwater Kent"

In eight years of leadership, Atwater Kent has never before offered such value and completeness from every standpoint of radio desirability. With new, advanced engineering and Atwater Kent dependability. With the quality you've wanted in your radio, now within the reach of all.

Don't miss this Salon Showing—any day from Monday, November 3, to Saturday, November 8. And find out how easily you can own one of these new 1931 Atwater Kents on remarkably attractive time payments.

G. O. P. FIGHTING HARD TO DEFEAT CARTER BUFORD

Contest Between Democratic State Senator From 24th District and Dr. W. H. Breuer Is Bitter.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ROLLA, Mo., Nov. 1.—One of the bitterest, if not the bitterest, political battles being waged in Missouri in this year's rather drab campaign is between State Senator Carter M. Buford, Democrat, seeking re-election from the Twenty-fourth District, and Dr. William H. Breuer, Republican, of St. James, one of the outstanding physicians and citizens of the district.

Buford, after his record in the 1929 Legislature when his friends saved him from threatened impeachment for disorderly conduct on the floor of the Senate and in committee sessions by obtaining from him an agreement to remain away from the Senate, is fighting for "vindication."

The Republicans see on opportunity, in view of Buford's record, to carry the district, and have been impelled to fight harder by a desire to reprove a group of Republican office holders, under the leadership of Secretary of State Becker, for attempting to prevent the naming of a Republican candidate against Buford.

Dr. Breuer will get the votes of a large number of Democrats who resent the sort of representation they had in Buford in the last Legislature.

Whether Buford will be re-elected is uncertain. The district in the by-elections usually returns a Democratic majority of 1500 to 2000. In 1926, his last time up, Buford won by a majority of 3405, while in the same election United States Senator Hawes carried the district by 2227. However, at that time Buford's opponent was a woman, and women never seem to run well in Missouri.

Estimating a normal Democratic majority of 2000, it will be necessary for more than 1000 Democrats to scratch Buford and vote for Breuer if Breuer is to win. That will be a good many scratches, but the Republican leaders of the district insist that their canvasses show that number will be exceeded, and express the opinion that Breuer will be elected by nearly 1000 majority.

It would appear that the big job before the Republicans and the Democrats who want different representation, is to induce those Democrats who scratch Buford to vote for Breuer. Information received from reputable sources indicates there will be at least 1000 Democrats who will scratch, but there is doubt that this number will vote for Buford's opponent. And a mere 1000 scratches will not defeat the Senator.

The objection to Buford, who heretofore has been popular in this section of the State, is based on his conduct at Jefferson City two years ago, intensified considerably by reports which have circulated through the district of his recent conduct in Judge Brackmann's Court at Clayton when it became necessary for the Judge to order a recess while Buford, who had interrupted a case on trial by boisterous conduct, was led from the courtroom by friends.

Buford as State Senator.

The facts of his Jefferson City record have been widely circulated in the six counties of the district. The voters have learned that the Senator appeared at many important committee meetings and on the floor of the Senate seemingly under the influence of liquor, his conduct leading to an adjournment of the Senate on several occasions when important legislation was pending, other Senators seeking by adjournment to avoid or terminate disgraceful scenes.

His conduct, which was the subject of many caucuses of Democratic leaders in the Senate, who sought a way to solve a puzzling problem without official action, came to a climax one afternoon when Buford, in the midst of a rambling and barely intelligible speech, was interrupted by a young Senate clerk in the gallery, who shouted in a loud voice: "Take that drunken Senator out of here!"

In the presence of the Senate and of many women in the galleries, Buford made a long and profane reply to the young man.

The Senate adjourned in great confusion, and a caucus of Democratic Senators was called to determine what action should be taken. After hours of debate it was decided that Buford should be given his choice between resigning or being expelled. He refused to resign, but agreed to leave Jefferson City and to remain away from his seat in the Senate for the remainder of the session. This was accepted in lieu of resignation or expulsion. The Senator returned to his seat in a few days but took no part in the proceedings.

Little was heard of him until he filed for renomination. In the primary he was successful.

Aid From Republican Forces.

There were no candidates for the Republican nomination, but after the primary a movement for a meeting of the Senatorial Republican Committee to name a candidate was initiated. Immediately Republican forces friendly to Buford began efforts to prevent the selection of a candidate. Secretary of State Becker, who has had Buford's support on legislation in which he was interested, attempted to save the Senator from opposition.

He had the assistance in the stage of the movement of William P. Elmer, Republican member of the Legislature from Dent County, and a few minor Republican office holders. At the first meeting of the committee, a quorum was prevented, and at the second meeting Elmer voiced his objection to the naming of a candidate, but then it was apparent he was defeated, and when Dr. Breuer was placed in nomination, Elmer made the seconding motion.

So far as is known, neither Becker nor Elmer, nor any of the others of prominence in Republican politics has taken part in the campaign since Breuer's nomination. State Auditor Thompson saw fit to send word to the district that he never had opposed the selection of an opponent for Buford. At the same time he sent a contribution for the local Repunblican campaign.

Dr. Breuer is a strong man, popular and respected and even under different circumstances would poll a heavier vote probably than any Republican who could have been nominated. His strength, coupled with Buford's weakness, may accomplish his election.

Election Predictions.

Republicans who are in close touch with the campaign insist that Dr. Breuer will win by at least 1000. They say that Phelps County, usually Democratic by about 1000, will give Breuer a majority of at least 200; that Crawford County, usually Republican by 500 or 600, will increase the majority to 1000 for Breuer; that Washington County usually Republican by from 100 to 200, will go for Breuer by 400, and that Dent County, usually Democratic by 400 to 600, will give Breuer 200 majority. They say Buford will carry his own county, Reynolds, by about 800, a usual Democratic majority, and that his majority in Iron County will be reduced from 500 to 100.

Democrats who are supporting Buford say they expect his majority to fall far below the usual Democratic majority for the district, but that they do not think he will be defeated.

To Address Tuberculosis Society.

Dr. Iago Galdston, of the New York City Academy of Medicine, will speak at the annual meeting of the St. Louis Tuberculosis and Health Society to be held Thursday noon at Hotel Statler.

ANTI-PROHIBITION WOMEN INDORSE SIX FOR CONGRESS

Missouri Branch Urges Support for Three Democratic and Three Republican Wets.

The Missouri branch of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform is advocating election of three Democrats and three Republicans, among the 32 candidates of both parties, as Congressmen from Missouri. It has announced it is backing all congressional candidates who have come out definitely against prohibition in some way.

Included among those it favors are the three St. Louis Congressmen, all of whom are unopposed, Henry F. Niedringhaus, Republican, Tenth District; John J. Cochran, Democrat, Eleventh, and L. C. Dyer, Republican, Twelfth. The others are: R. E. Culver, St. Joseph, Democrat, Fourth District; Joseph B. Shannon, Kansas City, Democrat, Fifth, and Frank H. Hollmann, Warrenton, Republican, Ninth.

BROOKLYN (ILL.) DEMOCRATS GET INJUNCTION AGAINST G. O. P.

Judges and Challengers Allowed to Remain in Polls Till Votes Are Counted.

A temporary order restraining the Chief of Police and three Republican election judges of Brooklyn, Ill., Negro community north of East St. Louis, from interfering with Democratic judges and challengers at the election Tuesday, was granted by Circuit Judge Miller at Belleville yesterday.

The order sets forth that the Democratic judges and challengers are to be "permitted to remain in the polls during the voting and counting of ballots and until such time as the result of the election is announced." At an election in 1928, returns from Brooklyn were not announced until on the afternoon following the election when an overwhelming Republican majority was reported.

Application for the order was filed by Maurice V. Joyce, East St. Louis attorney and member of the Democratic State Central Committee. The judges and the Chief of Police, all of whom are Negroes, are: B. A. Hughes, G. L. Moore, G. O. Kegler and Anthony Speed.

Fire at Case Plow Factory.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DIXON, Ill., Nov. 1.—The foundry and blacksmith shop of the J. I. Case Plow Co.'s plant here was destroyed by fire last night with a loss of $5000. Officers of the company said the plant would be rebuilt at once and employment given to mechanics thrown out of work.

ST. CLAIR TO PICK TEN FOR COUNTY OFFICES TUESDAY

Contest for Sheriff Has Developed Most Interest With Prohibition Big Factor in Result.

A United States Senator and State and county officers will be elected in Illinois Tuesday. Polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. A Sheriff and nine other county officers will be chosen in St. Clair County. Twelve State offices will be filled.

For United States Senator, James Hamilton Lewis (Dem.) is opposing Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick (Rep.)

In the election of county officials, political leaders are concentrating their forces on the election of a Sheriff. In St. Clair County, Jerome Munie of O'Fallon, Ill., a Democrat, is opposing Henry O. Bilzing of Belleville, Republican. Although St. Clair County is normally Republican, Munie is accorded a good chance to be elected because of discord between Republican leaders in the county and because a large proportion of wet voters in the county are expected to vote a straight Democratic ticket.

Munie has held no public office. Bilzing has been chief deputy at Belleville for nine years and was a law student at St. Louis University.

Karch Opposes Dr. Irwin.

Charles A. Karch (Dem.), attorney of East St. Louis, is opposing Dr. Ed. M. Irwin (Rep.), Congressman from the Twenty-second District, which includes St. Clair, Madison, Monroe, Bond and Washington counties. Although Congressman Irwin is an avowed wet, Karch has made an active campaign pledging himself in favor of repeal.

Republican candidates for county office who are leaders in the Belleville faction are being opposed by a small group of East St. Louis Republican leaders. For the office of Judge of the County Court, Judge W. R. Weber (Rep.), who has presided for six years, is opposed by Paul Farthing (Dem.), East St. Louis attorney, former master in chancery of the City Court.

County Clerk Ross C. Adams (Rep.), former County Treasurer and chairman of the County Central Committee, is a candidate for re-election opposed by Justice of the Peace, D. A. Prindable (Dem.) of East St. Louis.

Sheriff Charles Ahrens (Rep.) is seeking the office of County Treasurer, opposed by Edwin M. Schaefer (Dem.) and chief deputy in the Recorder's office.

Other St. Clair Candidates.

Other St. Clair County candidates are: For Probate Judge—C. E. Chamberlin of Lebanon (Rep.), incumbent, opposed by Joseph E. Fleming, East St. Louis (Dem.).

For Probate Clerk: Henry C. Rosenberg (Rep.) of Belleville, William Frech (Dem.) of Lenzberg.

For County Superintendent of Schools: John E. Miller (Rep.), incumbent, of East St. Louis; E. H. Runkwitz (Dem.), of O'Fallon.

Member of Board of Assessors, two to be elected, Republicans are Dan O'Connell of East St. Louis and Walter T. Knobeloch of Belleville. Democrats are Jule A. Holten of East St. Louis and Edward S. Helms of Turkey Hill.

Member of Board of Review: William F. Niess (Rep.), of Engelman Township and Frank P. McKane (Dem.) of East St. Louis.

State Senator Ed P. Petri (Rep.) of Belleville is seeking a fourth term from the Forty-ninth District. He is former Sheriff of St. Clair County and Warden of the Southern Illinois State Penitentiary. E. P. Kline (Dem.) of East St. Louis, who is chairman of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors, is opposing him.

Four candidates seek three offices as State Representative. Each voter may cast three votes, all for any one candidate or divided. The nominees are: R. H. Huschle (Rep.) of East St. Louis; Al Towers (Rep.) of Belleville; Frank Holten (Dem.), East St. Louis; Grover C. Borders (Dem.), East St. Louis.

Contests in State.

Other candidates for State office are: State Treasurer, Clarence F. Buck (Rep.); Edward J. Barrett (Dem.). Superintendent of Public Instruction, Francis G. Blair (Rep.); Eva B. Batterton (Dem.). Trustees of the University of Illinois, Republicans are George A. Barr, Edward E. Barrett and Leonard A. Colp; Democrats are Walter W. Williams, C. A. Ewing and M. C. Zacharias. To fill a vacancy, Mrs. Margaaret Day Blake (Rep.) is opposed by Marjorie Robbins Hopkins (Dem.). For Congressman-at-Large, Richard Yates (Rep.) and Frank L. Smith (Rep.), who the Senate refused to seat, opposed by William H. Dieterich (Dem.) and Walter Nesbit (Dem.).

Five propositions will be submitted: An amendment to the Constitution for redistribution of taxes; repeal or modification of the eighteenth Federal amendment; a bond issue of $14,000,000 for forest and game conservation; to give women the right of jury service; and a revision of the State banking laws.

37,000 VIEW EXHIBIT AT CITY ART MUSEUM

American Paintings Most Popular Attraction of Year; Other Displays Scheduled.

The exhibition of American paintings at City Art Museum in Forest Park, which will be withdrawn after today, has proved to be the most popular attraction that has been shown there this year. More than 37,000 have viewed it since the opening Sept. 22.

In a similar period last spring the foreign section of the Carnegie International Exhibition drew only a little more than 30,000, although the total attendance during the two months it was shown was more than 50,000. These two exhibitions are regarded as by far the most attractive of the year's program at the museum.

Since the opening of the current exhibition it has been rearranged and 13 pictures have been sent to Chicago for the annual exhibition of America paintings at the Art Institute there. The collection now on view includes 93 canvasses, 21 of them by St. Louis artists.

Three exhibitions will be shown at the museum during November. One will be early American portraits, another paintings, sculptures, and examples of applied art by contemporary Hungarians, and the third a collection of sculptures and drawings by Georges Hilbert, a French artist.

The portraits, painted between 1750 and 1850, will be hung by Tuesday. The 22 artists represented include Joseph Blackburn, John Singleton Copley, Ralph Earl, James Frothingham, John Neagle, Rembrandt Peale, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully, and John Wollaston.

METHODIST TRAINING SCHOOL WILL OPEN NEXT SUNDAY

Fifteen Courses to Be Offered at Sessions Which Will Continue Through Nov. 21.

The St. Louis Methodist Standard Training School for Religious Leaders will open next Sunday at St. John's Methodist Church, Kingshighway and Washington avenue, and continue through to Nov. 21.

Fifteen courses will be offered. Sessions will be held at St. John's Church on Sunday afternoon and Tuesday and Thursday nights and at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

Dr. John W. Prince, professor of Religious Education at Northwestern University, will be in charge of The Curriculum of Religious Education. Other out-of-town teachers and their subjects are: The Rev. Roy Burt, Chicago, Ill., "Materials and Methods of Missionary Education;" Mrs. W. B. Ferguson, Nashville, Tenn., "Primary Worship;" Mrs. C. KDKA to Observe Tenth Anniversary Of Broadcasting Pittsburg Station Will Put Special Program on the Air Tomorrow.

Tomorrow night, the tenth anniversary of broadcasting will be celebrated by a special program from KDKA, Pittsburg, Pa., and its associated short wave transmitters. Since its first broadcast, on Nov. 2, 1920, when it announced the election of Warren G. Harding as President, KDKA has not missed a day of broadcasting. This first broadcast followed test programs from two experimental stations set up in the home of Dr. Frank Conrad, assistant to H. P. Davis, vice president of the Westinghouse Co. Conrad's programs became so popular with radio amateurs that stores began to advertise sets that would receive the programs. This convinced Davis that broadcasting had a future, and he began the developmental work that has resulted in KDKA winning fame throughout the world.

The new KDKA transmitter, which is to do test broadcasting with 400,000 watts in the early morning hours, stands on a site of 130 acres. Its circular antenna is on 100-foot poles that surround an area of some eight acres.

Ireland to Build A Radio Station of 120,000 Watts Power

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Two broadcasting developments currently reported from London hold a peculiar interest for Americans, because they parallel kindred developments in this country.

One is the plan of the Irish Free State Government to erect a broadcasting station capable of a power output of 120,000 watts and operating on a wave length almost exactly between one of the cleared channels used in the United States and one of those allotted exclusively to Canada. The other is an experiment now in progress to determine

St. Louis Symphony Orchestra Plays Today on KMOX — Floyd Gibbons to Visit St. Louis Thursday to Open Broadcast Series for Trolley Company.

From 5 to 6 o'clock this afternoon the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will go on the air over KMOX in the first of 20 weekly Sunday radio concerts designed to advertise St. Louis. This will be the first use of a major symphonic orchestra in such a civic role. In the brief intermission between the two parts of the concert, "The Spirit of St. Louis" will relate something of the story of St. Louis and the city's important role in this country's economic, educational and cultural development.

Senor E. Fernandez Arbos, the Spanish guest conductor of the orchestra, is to lead today's concert. He is conductor of the Royal Orchestra of Madrid. Other guest conductors for these broadcasts will be Vladimir Golschmann, who directs the French Government's orchestral concerts at the Sorbonne, Paris and Georg Szell, municipal music director of the Prague, Szecho-Slovakia.

The St. Louis Symphony Society is donating the services of the orchestra for these radio concerts. KMOX is donating the time on the air. The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and the Industrial Club are collaborating preparations of the stories to be told by "The Spirit of St. Louis."

The program for the afternoon's concert follows:

Overture to Mignon ....Thomas
Andante Cantabile ....Tschaikowsky
"L'Arlesienne Suite No. 2".........Bizet
(a) Pastorale
(b) Intermezzo
(c) Minuet
(d) Farandole

Floyd Gibbons, NBC star, war correspondent and "Headline Hunter," will make a personal appearance in St. Louis next Thursday to open a new local broadcast series, "Stirring Episodes in St. Louis," to be sponsored by the St. Louis Public Service Co.

JOSEF LHEVINNE, famous pianist, who will play Beethoven Concerto during broadcast of concert by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra this afternoon.

Gibbons will be the central figure of the first episode commemorating the Armistice which ended the World War. The series will be broadcast over KWK. He will tell of the origin of the false Armistice report which led to premature rejoicing throughout the world, discuss scenes in the trenches as firing closed, and tell how St. Louis units in France received the news. He will be assisted by the Mary Hart Players, the stock company which has been playing at the Orpheum Theater. Incidental music will be arranged by Max Steindel, first 'cellist of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and played by the Steindel String Quartet.

Gibbons' appearance in St. Louis will be his first under a new policy of the National Broadcasting Co. in making him available for a limited number of visits to the larger cities. He will arrive in St. Louis Thursday morning and will be the guest of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon at 12:15 p. m. in the Gold Room of the Jefferson Hotel.

The new Public Service hour will be a regular feature on Monday evenings from 7 to 7:30, beginning Nov. 13.

Arrangements have just been completed by WIL to install 100 per cent modulation and automatic frequency control in its transmitter, it is announced by L. A. Benson, president of the Missouri Broadcasting Corporation, which operates the station. A firm of Chicago engineers will begin the installation immediately and it is expected it will be completed within a few weeks.

Upon completion, the signal strength of WIL should be increased four times without any increase in the power output. In other words, operating with a power of 250 watts, which the station is authorized to use, the signal strength will be the equivalent of a 1000-watt station operating without such equipment. The quality of broadcasting also should be improved. The installation will cost about $10,000.

Several developments have caused speculation in New York and Washington as to possible plans of the National Broadcasting Co. to establish its own chain of super-power stations, either synchronized on one wave length or operating for the time being on the cleared channel now used by the transmitters involved.

When the NBC took over program operation of KGO at San Francisco and KOA at Denver, little comment was aroused. When it recently leased the 50,000-watt WTAM at Cleveland, there was considerable wondering. Then came the statement of M. H. Aylesworth, president of the NBC, to the Federal Radio Commission, that synchronization had been proved practicable following tests by WGY, WEAF and KDKA, all three 50,000-watt stations. Now the NBC announces an expansion of its program and production forces in preparation for new developments that may revolutionize radio broadcasting.

Reports in New York Say NBC Contemplates Its Own Chain of 50,000-Watt Stations—KDKA to Celebrate 10th Anniversary of First Formal Broadcast.

Sooner or later the Radio Commission is expected to permit the 50,000-watt broadcasting on 40 of the cleared channels. It is pointed out that the NBC or the allied General Electric, Westinghouse and R. C. A. interests own or operate WBZ, at Springfield, Mass., and WBZA, at Boston, which propose to erect a great joint transmitter to "cover" New England; the 50,000-watt WGY, at Schenectady, N. Y.; the 50,000-watt WEAF and the 30,000-watt WJZ, which is seeking a 50,000-watt permit, at New York; KDKA, at Pittsburg, Pa., which has a new 50,000-watt transmitter, that will be stepped up to 400,000 watts, will be for early morning tests and can be equipped to use 1,200,000 watts; WTAM, at Cleveland; KYW, in Chicago, which is operated by a newspaper, though owned by the Westinghouse Co., and has a 50,000-watt transmitter that is limited to use of 10,000 watts; KOA, using 12,500 watts at Denver, and KGO, a 10,000-watter at San Francisco. Both KOA and KGO have asked for 50,000-watt permits.

With the above stations, the NBC would need only to acquire the 50,000-watt WLW at Cincinnati, O., or the 10,000-watt WHAS at Louis-

Auto Dealers Now Teach Few Buyers to Drive

Youth of Country Said to Be Learning to Run Motor Cars Instinctively.

There is a natural factor at work which will tend to increase traffic safety, according to an analysis of a survey made among Oldsmobile dealers of the country. This factor is the yearly increase in the number of young but trained automobile drivers.

A representative group of Oldsmobile dealers were asked recently if they were often called upon to teach a purchaser to drive. The replies were unanimously in the negative. Most of the dealers declared it was a rare occasion to sell a car to a nondriver.

"Many thousands of boys from 10 years up today know far more about automobiles than their fathers did in 1920. They also are familiar with traffic rules and signals. Only their short stature and the law keeps them from driving.

"As these boys become of legal driving age they are fully trained to handle automobiles through the years of keen, youthful observation as riders."

Paris Building Wide Roads.

To care for the rapidly increasing automobile traffic, the City of Paris, France, has appropriated $27,510,000 for enlarging and improving the principal highways into the city. Nearly $20,000,000 of this will be used to widen roads in the suburbs to permit four traffic lanes.

Chevrolet Dealer Sessions Advanced Two Months

Aggresive Sales Drive Launched Earlier Than Ever Before—St. Louis District Meetings to Open Nov. 5.

An indication of the aggressive policies to be adopted by the automobile industry toward making 1931 rank with past years in volume is seen in the announcement that Chevrolet's annual dealer meetings are to get under way this week, two months in advance of the customary date.

Four groups of sales officials from the Detroit office, each accompanied by a carload of theatrical equipment, stage hands and electricians, are to hold 50 meetings at as many central points in the next five weeks. The sessions will be attended by upward of 20,000 Chevrolet dealers and associated bankers.

In previous years these meetings, which are held to acquaint the dealer organization with company plans for the new year, got under way in January, during the New York automobile show week. As formerly part of each meeting centered on presentation of Chevrolet's annual new model, it may be wondered whether there will be a tie-up between the meetings and an early announcement of a new Chevrolet for 1931.

H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager of Chevrolet, said only that a part of the star chamber sessions with dealers would be on this matter. He explained the holding of the meetings earlier this year by stating that normally November and December are dull months in the industry and dealers are better able to leave their places of business in these months than in January or February. He said also that by holding the meetings now the dealers would have complete information on 1931 plans before the turn of the year and would be able to put them into effect two months earlier than formerly, thus better preparing themselves for the early spring rush of business.

Group two, in charge of M. D. Douglas, general parts and service manager, opens at St. Louis on Nov. 5, and holds 13 meetings with extreme points at New Orleans, San Antonio, Denver and Kansas City, winding up at Davenport.

Meetings in each city last for two days. The first day's sessions are held in a leading theater or hall, and every phase of car merchandising is presented on the stage in the form of talks and playlets, with the home office officials as speakers and actors. By this means such subjects as accounting, service, advertising and new and used car selling, are dramatized for more effective presentation.

On the second day star chamber sessions are held with the field sales organization.

Need of Highest Type of Auto Service Stressed

New York Expert Addresses Meeting of St. Louis Managers' Bureau.

George Grosch, representing the Business Training Corporation of New York, addressed the largest meeting of the Service Managers Bureau of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association ever held in the four years' history of that organization. The meeting and dinner at the Gatesworth Hotel were attended by 145 service managers and service salesmen for automobile dealers.

Brosch spoke on the necessity for improved methods of giving satisfactory service to owners of automobiles. The principal object, he said, is to keep the owner of a car satisfied, not only with his car, but also with its performance and stability, by giving him perfect adjustment and repair service at as moderate a price as possible.

Particularly, he dwelt on the importance of the new car dealer's service station rendering every possible service to owners to keep cars out of the hands of irresponsible and unskilled alley repair shops.

Another speaker at the meeting was O. H. Turner, superintendent of the David Ranken Jr. School of Mechanics and Trades. Turner told of the educational methods at school to train automobile mechanics and invited the co-opera-

NASH dealers are doing a great thing for motor car buyers. We are initiating a national movement calculated to save them millions. We are destroying price camouflage; we are advertising delivered prices. The above prices are for cars delivered fully equipped with nothing more to buy. Not the price at the factory—but the price delivered to you.

Recently the Nash factory astounded the world with an announcement of Nash quality at sensationally low factory list prices. Nash dealers now take the next great step in value-giving, by making the delivered price the lowest it is possible to charge.

Demand the delivered price when you inspect a car. Then compare that car and its delivered price with the similar model Nash car at the Nash delivered price—and you'll buy the Nash.

The smart new Nash models are the fastest, the most powerful, the finest performing, and the most luxurious cars that have ever borne the Nash emblem.

ville, and take over one of the two Texas transmitters operating with 50,000 watts on cleared channels, to be in a position to make its own chain of 50,000-watt stations a reality.

There have been reports that the NBC has approached Powel Crosley Jr., owner of WLW. But no one has intimated that Crosley had even considered letting go of the station whose development has been the hobby of years.

Incidentally, it is not being forgotten that the Columbia System has bought interests in the 50,000 watt KMOX at St. Louis, the 25,000 watt WBBM at Chicago and the 10,000 watt WCCO, at Minneapolis.

A new chain broadcasting project is reported in New York. It proposes a selected group of widely scattered stations synchronized to operate on a single cleared channel. The plan is to operate two and a half hours a night, to broadcast seven full-time productions each week, and to have each evening's entertainment sponsored by a group of advertisers. The sponsors would get broadcast credit for joint sponsorship of seven two and a half-hour programs a week at about the cost of exclusive sponsorship credit for a single hour long program once a week. Daytime programs could be sold to other sponsors, individually or in groups. The system of synchronization proposed depends on creation of a beat note between the carrier waves of two special stations. The Federal Radio Commission is said to be willing to let the promoters set up a test chain with which to try out the idea.

A morning series of A & P programs is to be broadcast over KSD at 8:45 daily except Sunday. These will be in addition to the regular Monday night concerts over KSD by the A & P Gypsies. The new morning programs, which will begin tomorrow, will consist of news about food, its uses and preparation, meal planning, budgeting and nutrition. Medical and health authorities will take part. A brief musical program will open and conclude each 15-minute broadcast. Harry Horlick, director of the A & P Gypsies, will conduct a group of musicians from that orchestra.

Graham McNamee, the announcer, has established the Graham McNamee scholarship for study of singing as a tribute to his former teacher, Mme. Esperanza Garrigue. George Farrell, a 19-year-old page for the National Broadcasting Co., is the first winner of the scholarship. Mme. Garrigue, who is a singing teacher in New York City, is a sister-in-law of President Masaryk of Czecho-Slovakia. She has coached a number of Metropolitan Opera singers, and was McNamee's teacher.

Farrell was chosen to receive the scholarship after Mrs. McNamee had seen him in an NBC studio and sent him to Mme. Garrigue for an audition. He is the oldest of seven children, and last year was a freshman at the College of the City of New York. His voice is baritone.

A new series of Weed broadcasts will begin at 7:30 Friday night over the CBS net. Each week the story of the origin of some part or principle used in building motor cars will be told. There will also be a musical program by an orchestra and Marie Gerard, soprano; Harriet Lee, contralto, and William Hain, tenor.

A broadcast from the national corn husking contest at Norton, Kan., will be carried during the Farm and Home Hour on KWK on Friday, Nov. 14.

Both of the NBC networks and that of the CBS will broadcast election returns from states in which important contests are to be decided Tuesday night. David Lawrence and William Hard will interpret and comment for NBC listeners on the late returns, speaking from Washington. The chain headquarters staffs will be assisted by the Associated Press, the United Press and the International News Service in receiving and preparing bulletins for broadcasting.

At 2 p. m. next Thursday an attempt will be made to rebroadcast over KSD and allied NBC stations a concert at Edinburgh, Scotland.

'Sound Train' to Visit St. Louis Three Days, Beginning Wednesday

A "radio sound train," designed by the Grigsby-Grunow Co. for use at the Chicago Exposition in 1933, is to visit St. Louis next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. It consists of a locomotive and parlor car.

The car has a broadcasting chamber which is sound-proof and includes in its equipment even a baby grand piano. It is possible to broadcast, receive and reproduce music from the train with a volume equal to that of a 35-piece band. In addition to the studio, the car has a baggage compartment, amplification electrical room, reception room and observation platform.

The locomotive is a duplicate of a modern railroad engine, having pilot, boiler, steam domes, smoke stack, bell, whistle and tender, as well as a cab for the engineer and his assistant. Automatic signal devices and lights and air brakes make the "train" unusually safe to operate.

Motive power is furnished by two special gasoline motors and synchronized transmissions which develop 250 horsepower.

The train was built for the Grigsby-Grunow Co., maker of Majestic receivers, and is operated by a crew of five men. Headquarters for the train when in St. Louis will be at the Benwood-Linze Co., Washington at Nineteenth street, local Majestic distributer.

What's New in Radio Industry

St. Louis Dealers See Three New Models Added to Sparton Line—Atwater Kent Salon Showing This Week—Crosley "Buddy" Set Performs Well — Trade Notes.

New Sparton Sets Shown.

Some 150 dealers from St. Louis and vicinity attended a dinner meeting Tuesday night in the Melbourne Hotel at which two of the three new Sparton models were shown. The sets exhibited were the new Sparton Junior, a receiver of the mantel type, and a low-priced model called the Sparton Jewell in the range between the Junior and the hitherto lowest-priced Sparton. The new radio-phonograph combination with automatic record changer that handled 12 records at a time will be displayed later. These three models are additions to the Sparton line.

It was stated that the Sparks-Withington Co., maker of Sparton radio, is in an exceptional financial position, having $9,332,055 in quick assets of which $8,000,000 is in cash and marketable securities. Against these assets the statement showed accounts payable of only $730,830 and estimated tax liability of $350,000, the ratio of quick asests to quick liabilities being nearly seven to one. As will be recalled, the Sparks-Withington Co. recently acquired the Cardon-Phonocraft Corporation, maker of Cardon tubes.

Bud Dorton, president of the Sparton Club, presided at the meeting. Talks were made by Gene Straus and Sidney Landau of the E. J. Straus Radio Co., the Sparton distributer, and by Prof. Roy Glasgow of Washington U., who had a large share in designing Sparton receivers.

Atwater Kent Salon.

Following closely upon the production of the 3,000,000th Atwater Kent set, according to the Brown & Hall Supply Co. of St. Louis, distributer of Atwater Kent radio, dealers throughout the United States will conduct this week an informal national salon showing the new Atwater Kent line.

Local activities in connection with the salon showing will center on the display floors of all dealers where the entire line, each model with its four distinct tone shadings, may be seen and operated.

The National salon showing has become an annual event and marks the beginning of the fall and winter radio buying season, says Norman S. Brown, president of Brown & Hall Supply Co.

Crosley Mantel Type Set.

One of the more thoroughly tried out small receivers is the Crosley "Buddy' model, a mantel type set standing only 15¾ inches high. It has the same circuit and number of tubes as Crosley "Pal" and "Mate" receivers. There are two AC screen grid tubes in the R. F. stages, a screen grid detector and a 45-type power tube. Naturally, this circuit gives excellent distance reception, while the tone is exceptionally good.

The "Buddy" has an attractive cabinet, and may be placed anywhere in a house or hotel room or apartment. It also makes a good portable set, for it can be used anywhere that AC current is available.

Philco Steps Up Production.

Ray C. Layer and Herbert S. Schiele of the Artophone Corporation, 1624 Pine street, have just returned from a Midwest Philco distributers' meeting at Chicago. At the meeting, it was announced that Philco production at the Philadelphia factory will be stepped up to 40,000 sets a week.

Phones Gene Straus From Ocean.

Capt. Sparks, president of the Sparks-Withington Co., phoned yesterday morning from the liner "Leviathan," to Gene Straus, of the E. J. Straus Radio Co., to tell him that he had done an excellent job as distributer of Sparton receivers. He also assured Straus that the new Sparton combination would be along within a few days. Sparks is returning from an extensive tour of European automobile and radio factories.

Ireland to Erect 120,000-Watt Station

Irish listener reaction to the American type of sponsored or advertising programs.

The British Marconi Co. has been awarded the contract for a high-powered transmitter, whose normal energy of 60,000 watts can be doubled when ever the Dublin authorities desire. Its proposed wave length of 413 meters, which is about 725 kilocycles, would place it between 720 kilocycles, which is now occupied by WGN, Chicago, and 730 kilocycles, which is occupied by CNRM, CKAC and CHYC, all of Montreal.

Merchants Tire Co. To Distribute Federal Tires in This District

The Federal Tire and Rubber Co. has contracted with Harry B. White, Merchants Tire Co., 2710 Washington boulevard for the exclusive distribution of Federal tires and tubes in St. Louis, St. Louis County and the East St. Louis district for a period of five years.

The Merchants Tire Company, in the past three years has been one of the three largest distributors in the United States of Dunlop tires and tubes, featuring a special form of service guarantee which protects the tire user against "accidents" as well as "defects" during the first year a tire is in service.

Harry B. White, president of the Merchants Tire Co. states that this same form of "service guarantee" will now be issued on either Federal or Dunlop tires sold by his company.

Living-Room Comfort Is Now Possible in Closed Motor Cars

"There was a day when winter driving involved a long string of discomforts, but now, living-room warmth is available for every closed car at small expense," says H. C. Merry, distributer of Perfection hot-water heaters.

"The 1930 type of hot-water heater makes use of the heat developed by the engine in a way that prevents gases and odors from entering the passenger compartment. A hot-water radiator, just like the one in your living room at home, is installed under the dash, and a noiseless, motor-operated fan circulates the air in the car around its heated coils. Just snap a button on the dash, the heater does the rest.

It is a lifetime investment, as it can be easily transferred to a new car when the old one is traded in."

P. W. White Forms Automobile Company

P. W. White and his son have opened an automobile establishment at 3116 Locust boulevard under the firm name of P. W. White & Co.

White has been in the new car business for 18 years, most of the time on St. Louis' Auto Row. He formerly was with the Universal Motor Car Co.

Longest Taxi Route.

Described as tse world's longest auto taxi service, the Trans-African Motor Safaris has been started to carry tourists from the Juba terminus of the Nile steamers to Cape Town. The trip is scheduled to take about eight weeks, including stops.

Uses a Fleet of Cadillacs

Seven of nine new Cadillac cars delivered to the Waeker Helderle Undertaking Co., Grand and Gravois avenues. All are eight-cylinder cars of the new 1931 models. The body types are six seven-passenger sedans, two five-passenger coupes and a two-passenger coupe. Emil Wacker, president of the firm, and Frank Kunda, vice-president, bought the cars from the Oliver Cadillac Co.

Wins Car With His Editorial

C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motor Co. (right), congratulating Clayton Rand, editor of a Gulfport (Miss.) newspaper, on winning the Nash sedan pictured in a country-wide editorial contest sponsored by the Milwaukee Press Club. The car was donated for the contest by Nash. Rand drove the car home after a visit to the Nash factory at Kenosha, Wis., and a banquet in his honor at the Milwaukee Press Club.

Missouri Pyroil Co. Organized to Cover St. Louis Territory

The Pyroil Co. of Missouri has just been organized with offices at 4908 Easton boulevard to distribute Pyroil products in Missouri and Southern Illinois. The parent concern has headquarters at La Crosse, Wis.

The organizers of the new company here are A. L. Williams and E. A. Kauffman, both of whom have had long experience in oil and automotive circles, locally and elsewhere. Williams and Kauffman have owned and operated the Prime Oil Co. for the past two years. This concern will be merged with the Pyroil Co. of Missouri. The latter will immediately establish local dealers in all counties in Missouri and Southern Illinois.

Pyroil is a special heat-resisting upper cylinder oil in concentrated form containing non-mineral graphite for treatment of other oils and gasolines.

"Free Wheeling' Car Can Be Driven Like Any Other Automobile

One of the outstanding advantages of the new "free wheeling" Studebakers is that they can be driven exactly like a conventional car. Provisions of conventional engagement in all gears makes the full braking power of the engine readily available whenever desired, says Arthur R. Lindbergh, Inc., distributer.

Wheel base of the new Commander eleght has been increased to 124 inches, and power to 101 horsepower. The nine-bearing doubly-balanced crankshaft has an improved Lanchster vibration damper with centrifugal governor.

The new carburetor silencer developed by Studebaker is, in effect, a small muffler attached to the air intake of the carburetor, which subdues 90 per cent of carburetor noise.

Retained in the new Commander eight is the full-power muffler which increases effective horsepower by reducing back pressure, and the valve spring damper which prevents spring surge and thereby removes one of the main causes of spring breakage.

Willys-Overland Dealers to Exhibit The Penrose Trophy

The Penrose Trophy, which goes annually to the winner of the Pikes Peak stock car race, has started on a journey to showrooms of the Willys-Overland distributers and dealers all over the country. The trophy was recently won in the mountain climbing classic by a Willys six roadster against the largest field of cars ever entered in the event. It will remain in the possession of Willys-Overland until the conclusion of the 1931 race, when it will be awarded to the winner of that event.

The Penrose Trophy is of hand-wrought silver, stands more than three feet high and has an interesting background. It is more than 200 years old, was purchased in England by Spencer Penrose, the donor, some years ago, and is valued at $5000. For years it was used as a magnum for champagne by nobility of Europe.

In the race to the summit of Pikes Peak, the Willys six covered the 12 1-3 miles in 24 minutes and 18 1-5 seconds, the fastest time ever made in this event for cars selling under $1000. Second place was won by another Willys six.

St. Louis Dealers Win Working Models Of Dirigible Hangar

The Continental Auto Supply Co., 5837 Delmar boulevard, and the Henry & Maginnis Tire Co., 1721 Morgan street, are displaying full-scale working models of the great airship hangar at Akron, O., where the Goodyear Zeppelin is building two of the world's largest dirigibles for the U. S. Navy. The models were won by the two firms in the Zeppelin race sales contest held by Goodyear dealers.

The models have doors that open automatically, and through them protrudes the nose of a miniature Zeppelin. The doors are similar to those in the Akron hangar, except that the latter weigh 1200 tons. Ten football games could be played on the floor of the Akron hangar, and six miles of railway freight cars could be housed in it on tracks with 12-foot centers.

Make Fast Time To Hup 'Sky Parade'

The party of representatives of the Weber Implement & Automobile Co. who traveled by plane to the Hup "Sky Parade" celebration the past week went in a Lockheed plane loaned by the Shell Corporation and piloted by Lieut. Doolittle.

The plane made the trip from St. Louis to Chicago in an hour and 35 minutes and the stretch from Chicago to Detroit in an hour and 28 minutes. Speeds up to 180 miles an hour were made. George Weber Sr., Charles Coultas, J. A. Hine and T. H. Speicher were the passengers.

The "Sky Parade" was a gathering of Hup distributers and dealers from all parts of the country who traveled by plane, train and auto to Detroit to take part in a drive-away from the Hup factory.

Gramm Truck Co. Opens Branch Office On Chouteau Avenue

The Gramm Truck Co. has opened a branch office at 2805 Chouteau avenue, with W. E. Lauer as manager.

This branch will care for distribution of trucks in the Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois territory.

Rusznak Motor Co. Takes Over Ford Car Dealership in St. Louis

The Rusznak Motor Co. has taken over the business of the Beck & Hopper Motor Co., an authorized Ford dealer, and will continue a Ford sales and parts agency, and will add Ford service. Louis Rusznak is head of the firm.

Rusznak said that special emphasis would be placed on Ford service.

Kirn Auto Parts Co. In Larger Quarters

The Kirn Auto Parts Co., engaged for the past ten years in the new standard replacement parts business at 6335 Easton avenue, will move to larger quarters at 6511-6519 Easton avenue, tomorrow. Necessity for expansion of stock and machine shop facilities prompted the change, according to Carl T. Bertholdt, assistant to James A. Kirn, president.

Parts, fender and running boards for all cars will be in charge of H. H. Coe, and J. Myers will superintendent the enlarged repair shop. The Kirn company is affiliated with the National Standard Parts Association.

To Ban Auto Guards in New York.

To curb volunteer "guards," who elect themselves to "watch" parked automobiles when the owner enters theaters is the purpose of a proposed city ordinance in New York. This is said to be a "racket" that has spread alarmingly throughout the theatrical district. When owners return and fail to give liberal tips cars aften are mutilated, tires punctured or the driver subjected to abuse.

Why Car Lubricant Should Be Changed For Winter Driving

"Why is it necessary to change transmission and differential lubricant?" asked Dan Hyland, manager of the Alemite Co., 3229 Locust street, discussing measures which should be taken to prepare a car for winter driving.

"First, because grease wears out just as oil does. After 5000 miles of driving, the lubricating value of grease is nil.

"Second, because the grade of lubricant suitable for summer is not right for winter. Cold thickens and more or less hardens grease, so a thinner grade must be substituted before winter sets in."

According to Hyland, the Alemite winter gear lubricant formula was developed to meet the demand for a cold-test product that would remain fluid at 10 degrees below xero. "Experiments prove it will not congeal or channel at even much lower temperatures," he says.

"A lubricant that congeals into a thick mass allows gears to cut a path or channel in it, so that the gear teeth come into contact without any protective film between them. This, of course, sets up excessive friction, making gears hard to shift and noisy, and accelerating wear that may necessitate costly repair bills."

Auto Speedway Planned.

Plans are under way for the construction of an automobile race-track at Clarksville, near Trenton, N. J. The three-mile concrete track will have a grandstand to seat 100,000 persons.

Playing ball with the public

A De Soto Sedan can be bought for as small a down-payment as

Ordinarily, the allowance for your present car more than covers this initial payment.

If our generosity in what we allow for used cars traded in on new De Soto Eights and Sixes is giving us the reputation of being over-liberal, it is certainly a reputation that needs no apology. We are proud of it. ¶ We believe in playing ball with the public. We believe in making it absolutely easy for buyers to buy new automobiles, and it pays us to do it. The more De Soto cars we sell today, the more we will sell tomorrow, because each De Soto helps to sell another De Soto. ¶ After all, we are in the new-car business, not the used-car business. If we offer you more for your old car than it is worth to anyone else, it's simply because we are willing to go the limit to win you as a customer and keep you as a friend.

Graham Develops Heat Control System For Winter Operation

After an exhaustive series of tests in the "cold room," Graham has developed an intake manifold and fuel system for cold weather operation that differs widely from general practice.

The cross-section of the gas passage through the manifold has been made rectangular with a wide, flat bottom surface, and the ports into the cylinder block likewise made rectangular. Changes of direction of the gas flow in the manifold are made at acute angles instead of around gently curved bends, so that the gas stream is sharply reversed just before entering the ports.

The exhaust manifold discharges all exhaust gases at a central outlet, instead of at the forward end, thus receiving the hot gases from all cylinders. During cold weather the owner can easily divert all this hot gas through a heater compartment surrounding the carburetor riser by means of a control located on the dash.

The automatic expansion type carburetor used has only one variable adjustment that gives proper mixture under all conditions of operations.

Tests in the Graham cold room show that from a cold start the new heat control raises the temperature of the gas mixture to 80 degrees in half the time required by conventional devices.

New Device Provides Easy Entrance and Exit From a Coach

F. S. Wiemeyer, Inc., 2626 Locust street, has been appointed distributer of "In-Easy-Out," a device for making entrance to and exit from a coach as easy as with a sedan. It is a patented arrangement for a folding seat.

When it is installed, the occupant of the seat beside the driver can make a slight turn as if in a swivel chair, and rear seat passengers can get in or out without disturbing front seat occupants and without discomfort.

The device can be attached quickly and easily without drilling or special tools. It makes it unnecessary to tilt the folding seat, and the seat does not shift when the door of the car is closed. The device is lubricated automatically.

It is manufactured by the Do-Ray Lamp Co., Chicago.

Capt. Hawks Signed To Broadcast Over Both NBC Networks

American Flying King, Who Is Texaco Aviation Chief, to Be Broadcast Expert.

Capt. Frank M. Hawks, speed king of the air, is to broadcast soon exclusively over NBC networks. He will retain his position with the Texas Co., for which he is superintendent of the aviation division.

No definite time for Hawks' first broadcast has been set, but he will take the air at intervals to talk on outstanding aviation events. He and Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the women's altitude record, probably will appear at times on the same programs.

Capt. Hawks' outstanding feats in the last few months were his transcontinental trip from Los Angeles to New York, via Albuquerque, Wichita and Indianapolis, when he flew 2500 miles in 12 hours 25 minutes and 3 seconds, and his flight from Detroit to New York, a distance of 640 miles, in two hours and 41 minutes.

Capt. Hawks began setting aviation records June 27, 1929, when he made a non-stop flight of 2700 miles from New York to Los Angeles in 19 hours 10 minutes. The following day he retraced the same course in 17 hours 36 minutes. Next came a round trip from New York to Los Angeles in 36 hours 44 minutes, elapsed time.

He piloted the first towed glider across the continent from March 30 to April 6, 1930, the towing monoplane being piloted by J. B. (Duke) Jernigin Jr.

Aug. 6, Hawks flew to Los Angeles from New York to play a "game of golf." He made the trip in 14 hours, 30 minutes and 43 seconds elapsed time, stopping at Columbus, St. Louis, Wichita, Albuquerque and Kingman, Ariz. A week later he lowered Col. Lindbergh's record on the return trip.

From New York he flew to Detroit on Sept. 9, making the 640 miles in three hours five minutes. Three weeks later he established a record for flight from Detroit to New York.

Records he established in October were: Boston to New York, 193 miles, in 53 minutes, Oct. 7; Philadelphia to New York, 90 miles, in 20 minutes, Oct. 8; New York to Washington, 225 miles, one hour and 11 minutes, Oct. 21, and Washington to New York, one hour and three minutes, Oct. 21.

Glycerine Producers Predict Decrease in Freezing of Radiators

Although more than 17,000,000 cars in the United States are likely to encounter freezing weather during the month of October, the indications are that fewer motorists will be caught by freeze-ups this year than ever before, says a bulletin of the Glycerine Producers' Association, whose members manufacture all the standard radiator glycerine anti-freeze used in this country.

Thanks to the efficiency of the United States Weather Bureau and the development of permanent antifreeze solutions, the association points out, motorists are becoming educated to the importance of servicing cooling systems before the arrival of cold weather. By making use of the temperature statistics available through the Weather Bureau, motorists can now judge the time when cold weather is apt to strike in their locality and fortify their motor cooling systems accordingly.

These delegates were elected to the International Convention of Automotive Boosters to be held in Cleveland, Nov. 13 to 19: Huston Link, Eugene G. Monnig and W. A. Douglass.

Matheson Rejoins Graham Brothers

Renewing a relationship that had its beginning in the early days of the industry, C. W. Matheson has joined the three Graham brothers, according to an announcement by Robert C. Graham.

Matheson came into national prominence as general sales manager of the original Dodge Brothers corporation at a time when the Grahams were directing their own truck building organization, later merged with Dodge Brothers.

DICKMANN AGAIN RAKES GRAVOIS WIDENING TAX

Democratic Leader Says City Is Helping Syndicate to Collect.

Bernard F. Dickmann, chairman of the Democratic campaign committee, yesterday renewed his attack on the city administration for failing, as he contends, to give proper notice to the 24,000 owners of property who have been assessed for benefits in the widening of Gravois avenue.

City Counselor Muench, in a statement Friday, said that the regular legal procedure had been followed, and that the benefit assessments were made by commissioners appointed by the Circuit Court, without interference by the administration.

Dickmann, in his latest statement, says the only publication in the matter was a notice in the City Journal, which is not generally read. This notice fixed the outer boundaries of the benefit district, but Dickmann says that it is customary to make these districts larger than the acual area to be assessed, therefore, that the appearance of the notice did not indicate to property owners, especially those living some distance from Gravois avenue, that they were to be assessed.

"Liens on Property."

Dickmann says that, while the city was not required by law to publish a notice to property owners, nevertheless the city should have done so, in the daily newspapers. He argues that the benefit assessment bills are not tax bills, but liens on property. He reviews the agreement made by the city administration with Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. for the sale of these judgments. This was done ostensibly to provide ready money, to make immediate work on this and other improvements possible.

"I have been told," Dickmann says, "that the contract provides that the City of St. Louis, at its own expense, shall prepare and mail at least four notices, if necessary, to each property owner assessed for benefits, and shall collect the money and remit the same in full to the syndicate. Here is an added expense, and the use of public servant, postage, stationery, etc. In other words, the City of St. Louis agreed to make of itself a collection agency for this syndicate, but the worst is yet to come."

The "worst" of the new arrangement, as Dickmann views it, is that the city, which in the past has been lenient with property owners, has turned over the benefit judgments to a private syndicate, which may insist on prompt payment, and may obtain executions against those who fail to pay. "The 5 per cent discount and the exemption from taxes represent an amount of money that is lost to the city, and must be made up out of other public funds," Dickmann says.

Dickmann suggests that an ordinance be passed requiring such assessment notices, in future, to be published in newspapers, setting forth the names of all property owners affected. He also asks the City Counselor "if the 14,000 property owners affected by the improvement of Kingshighway, Northwest, are not in total ignorance of the fact that a lien has been placed on their property." He also asks: "Have the property owners in North and Northwest St. Louis received any advice that the Commissioners in the Twelfth street widening have included them in that benefit district? Then too, there has been considerable complaint on the part of the property owners as to the manner in which the City Administration handled the matter of the special benefit districts in the establishment and construction of playgrounds. The Taxpayers of St. Louis are interested in public affairs of this character and it behooves the City Administration to be open and above board in all matters relating thereto."

DO-X READY TO LEAVE HOME FOR FLIGHT TO AMERICA

German Air Liner Due to Start for Amsterdam Today; to Take Off at Lisbon for New York.

By the Associated Press.

ALTENRHEIN, Switzerland, Nov. 1.—Germany's great air liner, the DO-X, rested in its own hangar tonight for what was expected to be the last time until it returns next spring from a voyage to America.

The fuel tanks were full and engineers had made last adjustments in final preparations for a start to Amsterdam at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning (2 a. m., St. Louis time).

The sky above Lake Constance was clear, and if today's unclouded weather lasts another 24 hours, the silver-gray giant will begin its Amsterdam flight on schedule.

Commander Christiansen said he planned to head his ship into the west, following the Rhine until it winds into Holland, but his exact route will be determined by the weather he encounters and by how much daylight is left after the takeoff. If the start takes place promptly at 8 o'clock, the pilot should sight Schellingwoude, the Dutch naval airport, outside Amsterdam, between 1 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

It is probable that the DO-X will remain there for two or three days, perhaps longer, before continuing by way of Southampton, Havre and Corunna, to Lisbon, whence the flight to New York is expected to start on or after Nov. 10.

Missouri Mother Knew Best . . .

WISE mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The best proof that this method really works comes from the fact that mothers who try it once continue to use it for years, when its help is needed.

The experience of Mrs. M. Brown, 5960 Ridge Avenue, St. Louis, is typical. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with Robert and Marilyn practically all of their lives. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

For three generations, California Fig Syrup has been the choice of knowing mothers. Physicians endorse the use of this pure vegetable product whenever a child's bowels need help. It contains no harmful drugs; cannot form any habit. Weak stomach and bowels are strengthened by it; appetite is increased; the digestion and assimilation are assisted. So weak, undernourished children usually gain in strength, weight and energy; become happy, buoyant, rosy by its use.

Seven million bottles used a year speaks volumes for its effectiveness and merit.

ENDS LIFE AFTER FAILING TO GET MARS ON RADIO

Philadelphian Left Note Directing That Tools Be Sent to Him There in 2430.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—Poems and articles which he apparently wrote shortly before committing suicide today indicated that Adolph Hayden, 44 years old, had hoped to establish radio communication between the earth, Mars and the hereafter.

Hayden, a radio engineer, gave his "future address" as "Southern End Terminal, North Pole Tunnel, Mars," and asked that his radio tools be sent to him there in the year 2430. The man ended his life by fashioning a rubber mask attached to a gas jet. He twisted a rope about his arms and in some manner attached a padlock to the rope.

Prohibition Is Made Real Issue in Close Campaign in Massachusetts

Marcus A. Coolidge, a Wet and the Democratic Candidate for Senator, Is Thought to Have a Chance to Defeat the Dry Republican Candidate, William M. Butler.

Both Office Seekers Rich Men, Lacking in Personality—Old Feud With Henry Cabot Lodge Weakens Butler's Forces, but He Is Helped by Stand on Tariff.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.

THE senatorial contest in Massachusetts, which ranks in national importance with those in Ohio and Illinois, comes as close to being a clean-cut wet and dry battle as any in the present campaign. The prohibition issue, of course, is not completely isolated, but it is plainly the dominant issue, and if the wet Democratic candidate is elected it will be with the aid of Republican votes cast in revolt against the eighteenth amendment. If such is the result—and it appears probable—Massachusetts will have two Democratic Senators for the first time since the Republican party came into being.

Two rich manufacturers, William M. Butler, dry Republican, and Marcus A. Coolidge, wet Democrat (no kin to the former President), are running for the senatorship, and it would be hard to find two more colorless candidates. There is nothing in the personality of either to win votes from the other—which is one reason for saying that the wet and dry issue stands out as the determining factor.

It is significant that the Republican leaders, in computing election chances, do so in negative terms. They talk not of the chance that Butler will win, but that Coolidge will lose. By the same token, the Democrats stress the idea that the weakness of their own candidate as a vote-getter will be more than offset by the greater weakness of Butler. From all of which it will be seen why the campaign, despite its important implications in national politics, has been devoid of fireworks.

Recent Drift to Butler.

Two weeks ago the election was regarded by most impartial observers as "in the bag" for Coolidge, and that was the gloomy view of many Republican workers. There were signs everywhere that Republicans in great numbers, especially among the element locally known as "the Young Guard," were preparing to scratch Butler because of their growing dissatisfaction with the dry laws. Betting odds were 10 to 8 on Coolidge.

Since that time Butler appears to have gained strength. There has been a marked increase in optimism—or, more accurately, a decrease in pessimism—among his followers, while the Democratic forecasts of success are somewhat less enthusiastic.

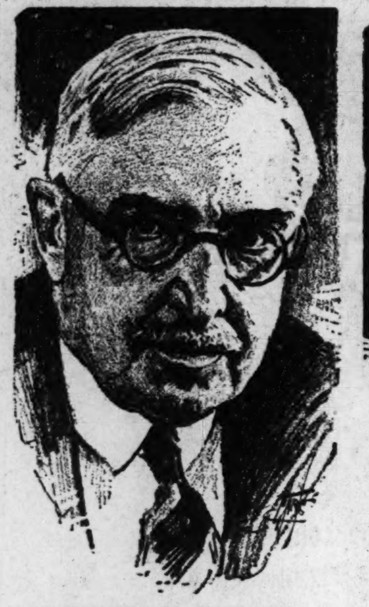
Massachusetts is normally a Republican state by perhaps 100,000 votes. It has only four Democratic Representatives in the House out of a delegation of 16. David I. Walsh, the Democratic Senator, is able to hold on only by virtue of his great personal popularity, his gifts as a campaigner and the strength he has built up among Republican business men. Al Smith, it is true, carried Massachusetts in 1928, but only by a plurality of 17,000. The net of this analysis is that Butler notwithstanding his dryness and his total lack of popular appeal, may yet pull through. A man of greater magnetism than Coolidge would almost certainly beat him, but Coolidge may not.

In the last days of the campaign, the Butler managers are making a frantic drive to get out the full Republican vote. If they can overcome Republican indifference, they say, they will win; otherwise, they concede that the result is in doubt. "If only we had some other candidate than Butler!" is the self-pitying plaint of the hard-boiled boys who care only for results.

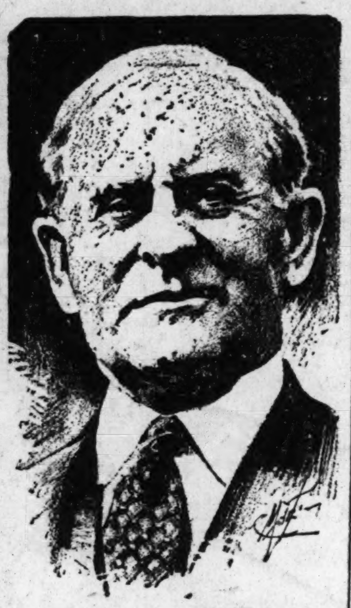
Remain Regular, Is Plea.

Urgent appeals are being made to Republicans to remain regular, no matter what their views on prohibition. What is happening here is the reverse of the situation in Pennsylvania. There prohibition is being used to hide the real issue; here in Massachusetts, where prohibition is the real issue, the voters are being told by the Butler managers that other considerations should be paramount. The managers are making a heavy play on the fact that Senator David I. Walsh, with all his wetness, found it possible to go out to Montana and campaign for the re-election of the dry Senator Thomas J. Walsh.

Wet Republicans are exhorted to forget about prohibition and plump for Butler because he will "stand by the President," will bring to bear on legislative problems a long experience in political life, and will protect Massachusetts industries against the South. It is not a very inspiring rallying cry, but it is the best the Republicans can do in the circumstances. It may get results among some Republicans who have been threatening to go off the reservation on the prohibition issue. The pull of Republican regularity is strong, and the idea of two Democratic Senators in Washington from Massachusetts is one that the average hereditary follower of the G. O. P., be he wet or dry, is finding it hard to stomach. Only the count of the ballots can show to what extent insurgency has taken hold.



WILLIAM M. BUTLER,
Republican candidate for United States Senator from Massachusetts.



MARCUS A. COOLIDGE,
Democrat and a wet, who is credited with chance to defeat Butler.

Butler is one of the coldest men in public life. The writer recalls him as he sat in his hotel room at Cleveland in 1924 and bossed the convention that nominated his friend, Calvin Coolidge, for the presidency. He was cold, ruthless, efficient—too efficient, as he has since discovered, for his own political good. That is a story that will fit in at this point.

That Feud With Lodge.

The late Senator Lodge was also at the convention. For many years he had been one of the big men from Massachusetts at Republican national gatherings. He had taken part in all the conferences of the national leaders; on every hand he had been consulted and deferred to. In the Massachusetts delegation, wherever Lodge had sat had been the head of the table. Butler, the new boss, with his new, business man's efficiency in politics, rode roughshod over Lodge. Lodge was crushed, humiliated. He never forgave Butler. Nor have Lodge's relatives and intimate friends ever forgiven him.

During the primary campaign which resulted in the nomination of Butler, Mrs. Constance Lodge Williams, a daughter of the late Senator, wrote an open letter in support of Butler's chief opponent, Eben S. Draper. She said that her father had been treated at the national convention "like a pickpocket." Henry Cabot Lodge III came up from New York, where he is a newspaper man, and spoke for Draper.

The Butler managers say that much of the old soreness among Lodge's friends has passed away. That may be true, but it is not denied that some of it still remains and is a factor in the campaign. Those who resent the cavalier treatment of Lodge by Butler may not go to the extent of voting for his Democratic opponent, but they are certainly not throwing up their hats for Butler.

Butler came up in politics as the protege of that master politician, the late Senator Murray Crane. He was elected to the State Legislature and a year or so later, according to his official campaign biography, became "Crane's closest ally." He was later, successively, State Senator, president of the State Senate, member of the Republican National Committee, manager of the Coolidge pre-convention campaign, and from 1924 to 1928 chairman of the National Committee. In 1924, after the death of Lodge, he was appointed to the United States Senate, where he sat until defeated by Senator David I. Walsh in 1926. He lost by 55,000 votes. His friends say he was defeated because, being chairman of the National Committee and regarded as the mouthpiece of President Coolidge, he was unable to express himself freely, for fear of embarrassing Mr. Coolidge.

Urges 48-Hour Labor Law.

However that may be, he is under no such obligation now. He is expressing himself freely—or as freely as he can within his limited ability to make a public speech—as a friend of the laboring man. Though dry, he is not saying much about prohibition, but is devoting himself mainly to a crusade for the "protection of Massachusetts industries."

The chief plank in his platform is a national 48-hour week law for women and children in industry. Butler advocates this not only as a great humanitarian measure, but as necessary to "equalize" labor conditions throughout the country. He says that Massachusetts, which now has the 48-hour law, must be freed from the handicap imposed by less stringent labor laws in the Southern states. The 48-hour law is Butler's main talking point. He is for a constitutional amendment if that is necessary in order to get it on the statute books.

In general, Butler is painting a roseate picture of himself as a friend of labor, both in his capacity of textile manufacturer—he has large milling interests in Massachusetts and elsewhere—and of public servant. He is more interested, he says, piously, in giving men work than in giving them beer.

All this is proving vastly amusing to the liberal forces of Massachusetts. There is general agreement among them that Butler's labor record as a legislator has been thoroughly bad. He is a former head of the Arkwright Club, an influential group of textile manufacturers, which has consistently opposed efforts to ameliorate working conditions in the mills. Butler is attacked for his whole labor philosophy as a member of a class. His apparent conversion to a more humanitarian point of view is not taken seriously. "He has learned to mumble the language of reform," said a liberal leader, "but that is all."

Butler's Labor Record.

Questioning Butler's sincerity in advocating a national 48-hour law, Marcus Coolidge said in one of his speeches: "Certainly my opponent's labor record in his public life would make it appear that he is more in sympathy with Southern labor conditions. My opponent, as you know, has opposed virtually every humane labor measure advocated in this state and has been a consistent opponent of the 48-hour law for women and children. . . . Labor says I have never been hostile to its cause but it has condemned the labor record of my opponent."

Butler says in his campaign speeches that what we are now experiencing is a period not of hard times but of "hesitancy." Real hard times will be faced, he warns, if the Democrats come into power and begin to "tinker with the tariff."

Marcus Coolidge lives in Fitchburg, the home town of Senator Walsh. He is the head of the Fitchburg Machine Works, which held lucrative wartime contracts. One of the points being made against him by the Butler forces is that he moved part of his plant into New York, thereby depriving Massachusetts workers of jobs.

Coolidge comes of a long line of New England ancestors. Somewhere in the distant past he and Calvin have a common ancestor, but the relationship has thinned down to a point where it is unrecognizable. The name, however, is a valuable campaign asset. It labels him, for one thing, as a "Yankee," and it helps to establish for him the character of a "safe and sane" man.

Coolidge's father, a Democrat, is remembered for having served a term in Congress from a rock-ribbed Republican section. Marcus Coolidge's office-holding experience has been limited to one year as Mayor of Fitchburg. His opponents point the finger of scorn at this meager record and ask the voters to compare it with the impressive record of Butler.

For the first time in years, the Democratic ticket is headed by two "Yankees"—Coolidge for the Senate and Joseph B. Ely, a lawyer of Western Massachusetts, for the governorship. The ideal ticket from the vote-getting point of view would consist of a "Yankee" and an Irish-American. Plans for such a division fell through. Mayor Curley of Boston sponsored former Mayor "Honey" Fitzgerald for the nomination for Governor, but Fitzgerald became ill and withdrew from the race. The result was the nomination of Ely. For the other place on the ticket, Coolidge won the nomination over divided Irish-American opposition.

So there are two Protestant Yankees on the ticket, and the Boston Irish frankly don't like it. They recall that Coolidge at the New York national convention of 1924 voted steadily for McAdoo, though nearly all his colleagues on the Massachusetts delegation went for Smith. Their disaffection is one of the factors on which the Butler people are counting to pull him through. To what extent this will be expressed at the polls remains to be seen. There seems to be no valid reason why a Democrat of Irish extraction should vote for Butler rather than Coolidge—but political results are not always determined on logical grounds.

Senator Walsh is out working to hold the Boston Democratic vote in line and the speech by Al Smith here last Tuesday night was directed to that end. No amount of effort, however, could possibly inspire in the Irish-Americans the zeal that they brought to the Smith cause in 1928. There has been, moreover, a falling off of about 25,000 in the Boston registration—a condition which causes some disquietude among the Democrats.

Side Currents of Campaign.

Ely is running for the governorship against the Republican incumbent, Frank G. Allen. Practically all observers, whatever their political slant, agree that Allen will be re-elected. Not that Ely is an unattractive candidate. He is, on the contrary, far more attractive than Coolidge, and he is wet. He faces, however, much stiffer opposition. Allen has given a satisfactory administration, and, what is more important, he is on excellent terms with Mayor Curley. Though of opposite parties, the one a "Yankee," and the other an Irish leader, Allen and Curley have played together politically, to their mutual advantage.

Curley aspires to become Governor. He didn't like the idea of another Democrat stepping in to succeed Allen and possibly getting himself re-elected. Curley has lost no opportunity to say a good word for Allen, and his support of Ely has been of the most perfunctory kind. Such are the ways of politics, here and everywhere. Ely will win the governorship only if there is a Democratic landslide greater than anybody now expects.

Balancing the disaffection left by the mixup in the Democratic primary, there is disgruntlement on the Republican side growing out of the hot contest for the nomination between Butler and Eben S. Draper. There was a campaign filled with genuine fireworks. Butler ran as a dry—it is whispered about that he was advised to do so by Calvin Coolidge—and Draper as a dripping wet. A third candidate, "Bossy" Gillis, the comical Mayor of Newburyport, complicated the fight. He ran as a moist candidate and the wet votes that he took away from Draper were sufficient in number to give the nomination to Butler by 7000.

Draper did not make the usual political gesture of congratulating and offering his support to his successful opponent in the primary. He retired to his tent and stayed there. He made the flat statement, indeed, that he didn't see how he could vote for the dry Butler. There was more than political frustration in his attitude; there was also genuine personal animus. (Butler seems to have a positive genius for making people sore.)

It appears that at a big meeting during the primary, a prominent Butler adherent, just after Mrs. Draper had spoken and while she was still on the platform, accused Draper of being a drunkard, and then, turning to her, added: "And Mrs. Draper knows it, too." Draper, feeling that his wife had been insulted, was enraged. A man of more tact than Butler might have smoothed matters over, but Butler appears to have handled the affair with singular ineptitude.

I have said that the fight in Massachusetts is fundamentally a wet and dry fight, and it is. But, of course, the general business depression, here as elsewhere, enters into the equation. Massachusetts has been hard hit. The textile industry, partly because of the growing competition of the Southern mills, has been particularly hurt. And even in this State, once committed to high protection as to a religion, there are stirrings of a suspicion that perhaps the Hawley-Smoot tariff is not an unmixed blessing.

To repeat, the whole logic of the situation, after due allowance has been made for the lukewarmness of the Boston Irish-Americans toward the Democratic ticket, points to a victory for Marcus Coolidge. But there are factors on the other side that make the result uncertain. Some of these have been suggested. Another is the intensive work that is being done for Butler by the dry organizations. They realize that a wet victory in Massachusetts over the man who led the Republican party to its overwhelming national victory in 1924 would be a hard blow to the cause, and they are striving mightily for their candidate.

Still another factor—possibly the decisive one—is the money that is being poured into the campaign by the leading Republican candidate. It is impossible to give definite figures, but there is ample evidence that money is being spent, and spent freely. Tons of campaign literature are going out from Republican headquarters, the radio is being used extensively, and Butler speakers are busy everywhere in the State. It is said that almost anybody can get a job as a speaker and be well paid for it. There is money on the other side, too, but not in the same amount.

Nobody who knows Massachusetts politics doubts that large sums will be placed on election day where they will do the most good—sums which will never figure in any accounting of campaign expenses. It is just possible that judicious use of funds will bring about some such astonishing overturn as that seen in the primary, when Butler, the dry candidate, carried certain of the mill towns, very wet towns, over the wet Draper. No, the election of Marcus Coolidge is not yet quite in the bag.

The Democrats are claiming that they will oust two or three Republicans from their seats in the House. This will be the result if there is a large Democratic sweep.

At the same time that they pass on candidates the people of Massachusetts will vote in a referendum on whether or not the prohibition enforcement law, known as the "Baby Volstead Act," shall be repealed. All indications are that the wets will win the referendum, whatever may be the decision as to candidates. Massachusetts in 1928, in a similar referendum, voted strongly for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Some observers argue that the presence of the "Baby Volstead" repeal proposal on the ballot will be a real help to the Republican ticket. There are many Republican wets, they say, who will be content to express their feelings against prohibition by voting wet in the referendum.

The sum of it is that Butler, in his new incarnation as a friend of the laborer and as a handshaker among the voters—yes, it has even come, ludicrously, to that — is panting down the home stretch in a close race with Marcus Coolidge. "Build With Butler" is his slogan. Mayor Thompson's "Big Bill the Builder" would never do, for nobody would ever think of calling him Bill. He is William M. Butler, rich manufacturer, dry, and his opponent is Marcus Coolidge, rich manufacturer, wet. Leave it at that.

France Not Disarming Because Europe Is Menaced by Fascist and Bolshevist

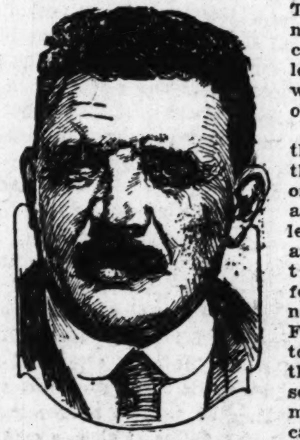
By EDOUARD HERRIOT.
(Copyright, 1930.)

PARIS, Nov. 1.

THE future of Europe may well hinge upon the result of a series of conferences beginning at Geneva on Monday, Nov. 3. The Preparatory Commission for the Limitation and Reduction of Armaments meeting there faces a task fraught with significance to Europe and the rest of the world as well. We have learned with pleasure that President Hoover has delegated two eminent statesmen to attend the conclave—Hugh Gibson, United States Ambassador to Belgium, and Hugh Robert Wilson, the United States Minister at Berne, Switzerland.

This meeting is awaited in France with lively curiosity and a certain measure of anxiety. Beginning last October, Aristide Briand mounted the tribune of the League of Nations to expound the views of our Government in conformity with the spirit of the text of the pact. He again took up the question of the triple formula I proposed and defended at Geneva in 1924: Arbitration, security, disarmament.



EDOUARD HERRIOT,
Former Premier of France.

In measured terms he described the anxiety of French pacifists, and our desire to pursue the work begun at the naval conference in London as well as the impossibility of France's acceptance of disarmament without adequate security. He told of the progress already made and in particular declared that a more happy result is expected from the convention in the way of financial accord; but he insisted on the necessity of the three principles that form the basis of France's doctrine. Let us not dissimulate on this question of disarmament there is obviously disaccord between our country and a quite formidable group of Powers, including Germany, Austria, Hungary and Italy, perhaps even Britain. We must, therefore, express ourselves frankly on this subject.

Disarmament Not Security.

Since the Geneva assembly many men of much political importance have given their opinions on this general subject. In an article appearing in Le Journal, dated Oct. 7, which stirred up a great controversy here, Paul Boncour, a member of the Unified Socialist party as well as a delegate to the League of Nations, wrote the following sentence: "The worst error we can commit is to believe that disarmament in itself is security." Alexandre Varenne, also a member of the Unified Socialists, spoke in the same vein. Clermont Ferrand, a Radical Socialist at the Congress of Grenoble, supported the same theme. If proven pacifists and authentic democrats find themselves in full accord with Briand it is their duty to give their reasons publicly. Frankness above all.

Naturally we have not forgotten either Locarno or the pact of Paris. We remain faithful to our purpose to support German democracy. But when we open our eyes, what do we see?

After the elections of Sept. 14, which profoundly stirred all peace-loving Europe, there took place a great eruption of steel helmets, with which are associated Princes and former ruling families and sons of the ex-Kaiser. Moreover, and let us stress the point, this significant meeting occurred at Coblenz—territory demilitarized by the Treaty of Versailles; it strangely resembled mobilization; the chief of the organization, Seldte, delivered himself in words scarcely favorable to a reconciliation with France.

Dursterberg pointedly advocated war with the object of the return to Germany of Alsace and of the Belgian cities, Eupen and Malmedy, as well as union with Austria. We are constrained to believe that if men with steel helmets become masters of Germany neither the Treaty of Versailles nor the Locarno accords nor the Kellogg-Briand pact will offset the effect of their fanaticism.

And, to emphasize the seriousness of this movement, at once antipacifist and antidemocratic, we learn of the presence at Coblenz—a fact truly unfortunate for France—of the notorious Italian Fascist Deputy Maltoni. Witnesses of the ceremony report seeing this guest on more than one occasion saluting delegations from the front row of the tribune.

While Dr. Schacht, speaking at Columbia University, advocated a definite cancellation of post war military treaties, without doing us the honor of telling us what he intended to use as substitutes, a Deputy of the center named Joos, replying on Oct. 6 at Berlin to the speech of a French Deputy, complained of the mistrust displayed by France—in the matter of evacuation of the Rhineland—declared the reconciliation of the two countries could not be effected by a maintenance of the status quo, and demanded a revision of treaties without even agreeing that this revision should be forcibly pacifistic.

Moreover, he declared that the problem of disarmament should be treated separately, without allowing France to link it with the question of security. In the Reichstag Strasser, one of the chiefs of the National Socialist party, asked that there be substituted "for the corrupt and criminal regime which has lasted for a dozen years, the moral ideal of Bismarckian empire."

Thus, on one hand we see a demonstration by steel helmets, a hundred thousand men advocating the "rearmament" of Germany, a purely military demonstration on the maneuvering field by manifestants in the Feldgrau, an ex-crown prince in the marching columns, and on the other hand a series of troubling declarations, among them the offensive idea of a return to the Bismarckian formula. Who can fail to understand our fears? We pay our respects to the liberal spirit of German social democracy; but we mistrust those who fight that spirit so bitterly. Upon reflection one may well understand that a strong France can protect German democracy as well as her own.

Italy's Aims.

Italy continues to conduct her campaign for revision of treaties and directs it against France. Recently Popolo D'Italia, whose official connections are well known—since it belongs to a brother of Mussolini—went so far as to say that Itailans inhabiting Nice and Corsica "live under foreign domination." On last Oct. 7 we learned from Rome that 48 battalions of Fascist militia had enrolled for 10 years' service in black shirt units and had been incorporated into army divisions.

At the grand Fascist council Minister Grandi again declared that Italy claimed naval parity with France, a statement that closed the door to all negotiation. In the palace at Venice where members of the council betook themselves in military uniforms for the installation of the new directory, the chief topic of conversation was war-like discipline and the shedding of blood; it was noteworthy also that the newly chosen members were all adversaries if not sworn enemies of Yugo-Slavia.

The same council fixed the status of the newly organized civilian battalions—cohorts endowed with all the characteristics of an army. Italian youth has been militarized: from 8 to 14 years in Balilla units; from 14 to 18 in vanguard formations; from 18 to 21 in young combat groups called Fasces, newly formed; then in the militia. Does not Italy realize that Germany has never renounced the country she still calls "South Tyrol?"

Austria Smiling on Fascism.

In Austria the chiefs of the Heimwehren are elaborating the project of a constitution inspired by the Fascist model, with a supreme council exercising all powers, legislative and executive. Their influence weighs heavily upon the entire Austrian political organization. German ex-Maj. Pabst, chief of staff of the Heimwehren, who was recently expelled by Chancellor Schober, has been authorized to return and will work in accord with Hitler. And the entire economic life of the country for which we naturally, we French, entertain lively sympathy, risks being compromised in mere adventure. The economic and agrarian bloc itself seems likely to be involved, its program, the Anschluss. The high command of the Heimwehren declared its intention to struggle not only against Marxian principles but against liberalism as well.

As for Hungary, we have not forgotten the significant words uttered at Geneva by Count Apponyi. And how can we forget a danger that constantly reminds us of Russian bolshevism? It has already attacked colonies of great European countries, and may tomorrow attack those countries themselves.

France Reducing Its Army.

What is particularly amazing, however, is the fact that while a large part of Europe is becoming Fascist or Bolshevist, skillful propaganda accuses France of remaining the center of militarism. We had before the war, for the mother country and her colonies, an army of 810,000 men under a three-year service period; we have today an army of only 556,000 men enlisted on a one-year service basis. We are ready to effect a still greater reduction, once we are reassured concerning the intentions of other European nations.

After the evacuation of the Rhineland, after the substitution of the Young plan for the Dawes plan, after freeing Germany from all foreign control, have we not the right—the moral right as well as the political right—to hope for some sort of grateful recognition on the part of other nations? However, we have observed the contrary. We are now accused of maintaining a "psychosis" for war.

France will remain faithful to article eight of the pact she signed. Since the end of the war she has played fair. She's paying her debts and has undertaken in great part the restoration of her ruins. She has renounced payments due her by the peace treaty; she has not obtained all of the guarantees which this treaty led her to hope for. She has kept her army, it is true; but she has not armed her civilian population; she is educating her youth in the ways of peace, not those of war. Who better than she has the right to invoke before all fair-minded consciences in the world the vision of her dread?

Notwithstanding the present situation, France has observed the provision of the peace pact. But what now does this pact say concerning the question of disarmament? Article eight, which has been so bitterly discussed, reads thus: "Members of the League recognize that the maintenance of peace requires a reduction in national armaments to a minimum compatible with national security and with international obligations imposed by common action."

It is to this text that we must always return. The pact provided that the Council of the League "would prepare plans for reductions in armament, taking into consideration the geographic situation and special conditions peculiar to each people." It also conceived an international organization which unfortunately has never materialized. At any rate, it links strictly for each nation the question of disarmament with that of security. There is found an answer to the importunities of those who wish to separate the two terms.

France, busied protecting her independence and democratic principles, at the same time asks nothing more than respect for the peace pact and the League of Nations. She will never attack anyone, but she does not want another invasion. She wants to be able to protect herself.

—That "Article Eight."

THE members of the League recognize that the maintenance of peace requires the reduction of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations. The Council, taking account of the geographical situation and circumstances of each State, shall formulate plans for such reduction for the consideration and action of the several Governments. Such plans shall be subject to reconsideration and revision at least every ten years. After these plans shall have been adopted by the several Governments, the limits of armaments therein fixed shall not be exceeded without the concurrence of the Council.

The members of the League agree that the manufacture by private enterprise of munitions and implements of war is open to grave objections. The Council shall advise how the evil effects attendant upon such manufacture can be prevented, due regard being had to the necessities of those members of the League which are not able to manufacture the munitions and implements of war necessary to their defense. The members of the League undertake to interchange full and frank information as to the scale of their armaments, their military, naval and air programs, and the condition of such of their industries as are adaptable to warlike purposes.

Europe's Formula for Happiness.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

P. A. TATE, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri, is quoted as making the following statement before a gathering of W. C. T. U. members:

There are 25,000,000 automobiles in the U. S. and only 2,000,000 in all the rest of the drunken world.

Several inferences might be drawn from such a statement, among which that every person in the U. S. is a strict abstainer from alcoholic beverages, while Europe ostensibly is full of topers. Another is that idiotic, pagan conclusion that material wealth, or the auto-bath tub-silk shirt combination is the sum and substance of all earthly perfection.

I have seen both Europe and the U. S. My observation is that the typical American is temperate in nothing except candor, consistency and an appreciation of the worth while things of life.

The amount of bootleg whisky and beer consumed in this country would make an ocean. The Government has thrown control of this traffic, and the revenue that should accrue from it, into the streets for the gangs to fight over.

No human, sane in mind, believes 2000 or 50,000 men of a particular character, at a salary of $2100 per annum plus all the financial temptations, with a job that may terminate at any moment, and usually does within three years, can completely change the habits and thwart the determination of even a large fraction of 120,000,000 people.

In Europe the people, as a rule, are simple, temperate and in full enjoyment of those essential attributes which contribute to the full measure of human happiness. Worldy goods, such as automobiles, porcelain bath tubs and silk shirts, are not among those attributes. Drunken Europe has centuries of traditions and experiences behind its formula for human happiness, and I know that the reformers by force in this 135-year-old country have only a faint notion, if any, of that formula.

ANTI-FANATICISM.

Doubts Machine's Ultimate Benefits.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

READING Mr. Lionberger's article, "Value of the Machine," one may think that the working classes are better off by the use of machines of high efficiency. He cites the case of the Des Peres sewer, where machinery displaced 5000 men. Now, if this labor-saving machine had not been used in the construction, would not these same hypothetical men have been gainfully employed? How does such machinery, after depriving a man of his job, "ultimately re-employ and enrich him"? I can readily understand how the wage of the man who operates a labor-saving machine is higher than for ordinary manual labor. But that is because of his higher productivity whereby he is doing the work of five manual laborers.

Could Mr. Lionberger convince the coal miner, out of work, that oil in place of coal for fuel will "ultimately re-employ and enrich him"? And will the electrical refrigerator enrich the ice man or the present street sweeping machines enrich the manual street sweeper, or the different computing office machines enrich the skilled clerk?

Mr. Lionberger's article impresses me that wages is the paramount issue with him, but employment for the greater number would be my greater consideration, as here and the world over there is always a surplus of labor to be absorbed without withdrawing it from "other productive labor."

SMITTY.

These Lawless Times.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

FIRST it was the divine right of kings. Then it was the divine right of the people. Now it is the divine right of these United States.

American ethnocentrism has come to the point of spontaneous combustion. If not today, then tomorrow. Our post-war wealth and position have acted like wine to our adolescent senses, and we reel like a freshman out on his first bat.

Even though such a thinker as Goethe said, "We cannot choose but err," the American feels that he knows better—he cannot choose but do right.

With this dangerous philosophy sunk into the minds of practically every American, we sail ahead into an era of waste, luxury, millionaires, speakeasies, gangsters and anti-social politicians. Our advertisers shriek out across the country the story of the priceless value of their worthless wares. The politician accepts bribes. The opium traffic increases its trade along with the number of detestable slaves bound to this vicious drug. The bootleggers make their poisonous liquor and sell it at prohibitive prices. Gambling, murdering, stealing, kidnaping have become not only accepted but also lauded sports. And meanwhile the thinker stands in shame, outlawed by outlaws because he cannot choose but do right.

What has become of justice? Common sense? The ideals of our Puritan ancestors? American intelligence? What has crept into our midst that has glorified and canonized evil?

E. H. H.

THE CITIES AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

As the first chill days of winter descend on our cities, the problem of how to bring the thousands of unemployed safely through until spring takes foremost place in the public conscience. Buoyed up by the prosperity chorus which predicted a business upturn in the fall, many municipalities delayed preparing for the emergency. Now all are being forced to action. September employment, says the Department of Labor, was only 1 per cent above the August figure, scarcely a fulfillment of the rosy predictions. Through the months estimates of the total unemployed have grown, until now the American Federation of Labor predicts 5,000,000 persons will lack work this winter, making with their dependents a total of 20,000,000, a sixth of our population, in need.

All authorities are hastening plans for relief. The Government with its Cabinet committee and its official "job hunter," the states with road building and public improvement plans, are facing their responsibilities, but it is on the cities that the heaviest direct burdens will fall. Industrial centers such as St. Louis contain many persons who never before faced a winter without employment. In addition there are the itinerant workers and the jobless from smaller places who make a large city their annual winter headquarters.

"Give a job, not a loaf of bread," is the watchword suggested by Col. Arthur Woods, head of the Federal Unemployment Commission. This may well be the foundation of all city campaigns, but so uncertain is our present economic situation that there will be need for soup lines and public lodging houses in almost every city before winter ends. Since there are not enough jobs to go around, most of the cities are proceeding along the lines of both self-help and charity in their preliminary plans. In the efforts of other cities may be found examples worthy of emulation in St. Louis.

New York, projecting a six-month campaign of relief, has attacked the problem of helping its 800,000 unemployed with a thoroughly organized force. Every one of the city's 37 departments will have a part. The Board of Estimate has added to the city budget $1,000,000 for unemployment relief. A group of business men has pledged $150,000 weekly, to provide a payroll for 10,000 men. The Park Department has received a $236,000 appropriation, to employ 2000 men at $5 a day. Police have taken an unemployment census, and inspectors will report on health and housing conditions. The Salvation Army has opened 12 soup kitchens, and other charitable organizations have begun activities.

In Detroit, where Mayor Murphy was recently elected on an unemployment relief platform, the city has adopted a $4,400,000 building program. This will include 18 new schools, additions to public buildings and a new house of correction. Four hundred men are taking turns daily at city jobs. The Department of Public Welfare is supporting 15,000 families and 1000 single men, at a cost of $525,000 a month. The city employment agency has found work for 2500 of its 83,500 applicants. Incidentally, the census of last April set Detroit's unemployed at 78,153. Mayor Murphy has obtained promise of 20,000 part-time jobs from 20 of the city's leading industrial concerns. Schools are collecting clothing for the needy.

Business organizations in Chicago plan a relief fund of $12,000,000. They will solicit 10,000 to 25,000 citizens for pledges of $1 to $2000 monthly. Registration of jobless and a city employment bureau also will be inaugurated. The employes of many firms have pledged one day's pay each month to the cause. Tickets good for a night's lodging at the old Cook County Jail are being sold to citizens at 25 cents each, to be distributed by them. William Wrigley has provided a shelter for 2000 men.

Other cities are hastening municipal improvement projects to provide work. Minneapolis has launched a $1,000,000 program which will employ at least 10,000 men, all of whom will use pick and shovel instead of machinery. San Francisco proposes a $750,000 program of road and sewer work. Cleveland's City Council has approved a $200,000 bond issue for park improvements, and will work 2000 men in three-day shifts. When a crowd of 5000 gathered at the city hall to apply for this work, Mayor Marshall announced he would ask for $500,000 additional. The Boston City Council has ordered a $1,000,000 relief program, and Mayor Curley will organize a committee to raise $2,000,000 more. Milwaukee has appropriated $200,000, and will hire 13,500 men on city work for three days a week. Pittsburg, in addition to a $100,000 relief fund, will expend $300,000 for public works, all by hand labor.

St. Louis has begun its campaign by calling on the Board of Aldermen to appropriate $200,000 for city work. St. Louis is poor. She is rich, but the business of our city politicians is to keep taxes down and boast, as ex-Mayor Kiel did, that they are the lowest in any big American city. Organized efforts will be made to obtain promises of work for extra men at local industrial plants. The Mayor's committee, which held its first meeting last Friday, also will co-operate with local charity organizations in providing relief for emergency cases. The community chest is asking for a $2,200,000 fund. The experience of the Provident Association, which is receiving about three times the number of applications for relief as at this time last year, indicates the gravity of the situation St. Louis will have to face.

SOCRATES GOES TO CHURCH.

The Socratic sermon series which will be inaugurated in the First Congregational churches of St. Louis and Webster Groves today is certain to be an interesting educational experiment. The plan is that there will be no set speeches or debates, but conversation among 17 social and religious thinkers who will sit at a round table before the congregation. Lawyers, business men, professors and others are to be in the discussion group. The intention is that those at the table will discuss a subject pro and con much as they would do in the parlor of one of the group. After the threshing at the table an open forum will be declared and the congregation of listeners invited to participate. Properly enough the first subject will be that uppermost on the public mind, namely, "Unemployment—Who's to Blame?" Other topics to be treated in the same manner on forthcoming Sundays include man and the machine, lawlessness, and race prejudice. In case the First Congregational churches of St. Louis and Webster Groves be accused of an improper innovation in houses of worship, they may remember that innovation was one of the chief charges against the great Athenian whose method they emulate.

MUDDLING THROUGH IN PALESTINE.

Great Britain has at last been forced to confess that its glib wartime promises both to Jews and to Arabs are impossible of fulfillment. After a full investigation of conditions in Palestine, sequential to the massacres of 1929, the British have adopted a new policy in Palestine restricting Jewish immigration and altering the terms under which the Zionists lease land from Arab owners. This new policy has aroused the wrath of Dr. Chaim Weizmann and other Zionist leaders, who argue, with some logic, that Great Britain has departed from the letter and spirit of the Balfour Declaration of 1922.

The British reply to this charge is that the League of Nations mandate forces as much consideration for one racial group as another. It might be added that such impartiality is also dictated by the exigencies of practical statesmanship. The Arabs have never been sympathetic with, or reconciled to, the Zionist idea. They look upon the Zionists as invaders of their native soil, an attitude that throughout the world's history has aroused the fiercest antagonisms. That is especially true in a land where food is scarce and the struggle for existence hard. The Arabs ignore entirely the traditional claims of the Jewish people on Palestine.

Because of the idealistic and spiritual quality of the Zionist movement, as well as because Great Britain must always consider the possibility of a general Mohammedan uprising in her far-flung dominions, the problem in Palestine is intensified. There are many students of international affairs, including Jews, who feel that it is impossible of solution; that it will never be feasible for Jews and Arabs to live side by side in Palestine with equal rights and privileges. Some go so far as to say that only the collapse of Zionism will avert future unhappiness and bloodshed.

In the meantime, we think it unfair to accuse Great Britain of prejudice and partiality. The British are simply attempting to muddle through a difficult situation with the least possible hurt to either side. The real error lies not with the Ramsay MacDonald Government, but with its predecessors which made promises incapable of fulfillment.

WIND AND WHIRLWIND.

The American Association of Universities, in dismissing the University of Mississippi, has delivered a splendid rebuke to the educational spoils system of Gov. Bilbo, who last summer fired the chancellor and one-third of the faculty without warning in order to fill their places with political supporters. One of the chief effects of the association's action will be its bearing on University of Mississippi graduates who seek to pursue graduate studies in other universities which accept the association's ratings. Previously action of the same nature was taken by engineering and chemical societies in regard to those courses at the university. Gov. Bilbo, no less than the corrupt rulers of Israel in Hosea's day, has sown the wind and is reaping the whirlwind.

SCRAP THE LONGWORTH MACHINE.

Democratic leaders are looking confidently to the elections Tuesday. They expect a big victory. Some of them profess to think the House will be Democratic. Such a turnover is possible, of course, though hardly probable. If the improbable should happen, what then? Nobody imagines that a Democratic House could magically remove the business depression and send prosperity galloping across the country in its pre-Hoover stride. The average ability of the Democratic candidates is about the same as that of the Republican candidates. There is little to choose between them on that score.

But suppose it were otherwise. Suppose the Democratic candidates for Congress were, every one of them, statesmen of the first rank—intellectual giants capable of wringing the neck of every difficulty on the calendar. Even so, they would still be unable to bring any quick relief to the jobless millions. For the men elected to Congress next month will still be more than a year away from office. They will not take their seats until December, 1931.

That is one of the anomalies the people would like to get rid of: lame-duck sessions, legislation by men whose constituencies have repudiated them. Informed citizens are aware that Senator Norris has a plan for dispatching our lame ducks. They know that his proposed constitutional amendment has several times been passed by the Republican Senate and that it has been killed in the Republican House controlled, as it is, by Speaker Longworth's machine. We assume that a Democratic House would adopt the Norris resolution. For that reason a Democratic House, or a sufficient change in the membership to scrap the Longworth machine, is desirable.

FOUR ADDITIONS TO THE HALL OF FAME.

By six votes William Penn has failed of election to New York University's Hall of Fame, which has just added four names in the latest of its quinquennial ballotings. The new entries on what has come to be considered the nation's honor roll of the historically elect are: James Monroe, Walt Whitman, James A. McNeill Whistler and Commander Matthew Fontaine Maury. It is a nicely balanced foursome, embracing statecraft, literature, art and science. The first three are well known, but the fourth, as so often with men of science, has not become a familiar name to the lay majority. Be it then explained that Commander Maury was a naval officer, of the Confederacy in the war years, who did pioneer work in hydographic and meteorologic research. Ocean travel and cable service owe a debt to his ocean weather charts. He helped found the Naval Observatory, he investigated temperatures and currents of the marine depths, he invented the electric torpedo.

This honor to Whistler and Whitman helps atone for the neglect and ridicule allotted them through most of their lives. Whistler, said Millais, had "never learned the grammar of his art," and there were many who thought the poet knew no grammar whatever. Yet each laid a groundwork for future creators in his particular field. Penn, on the contrary, has been secure in his claims to greatness for more than two centuries. The man of peace, the great colonizer, can wait a while, certain of future election to the formal honor he now misses—unless some iconoclast writes a book debunking him.

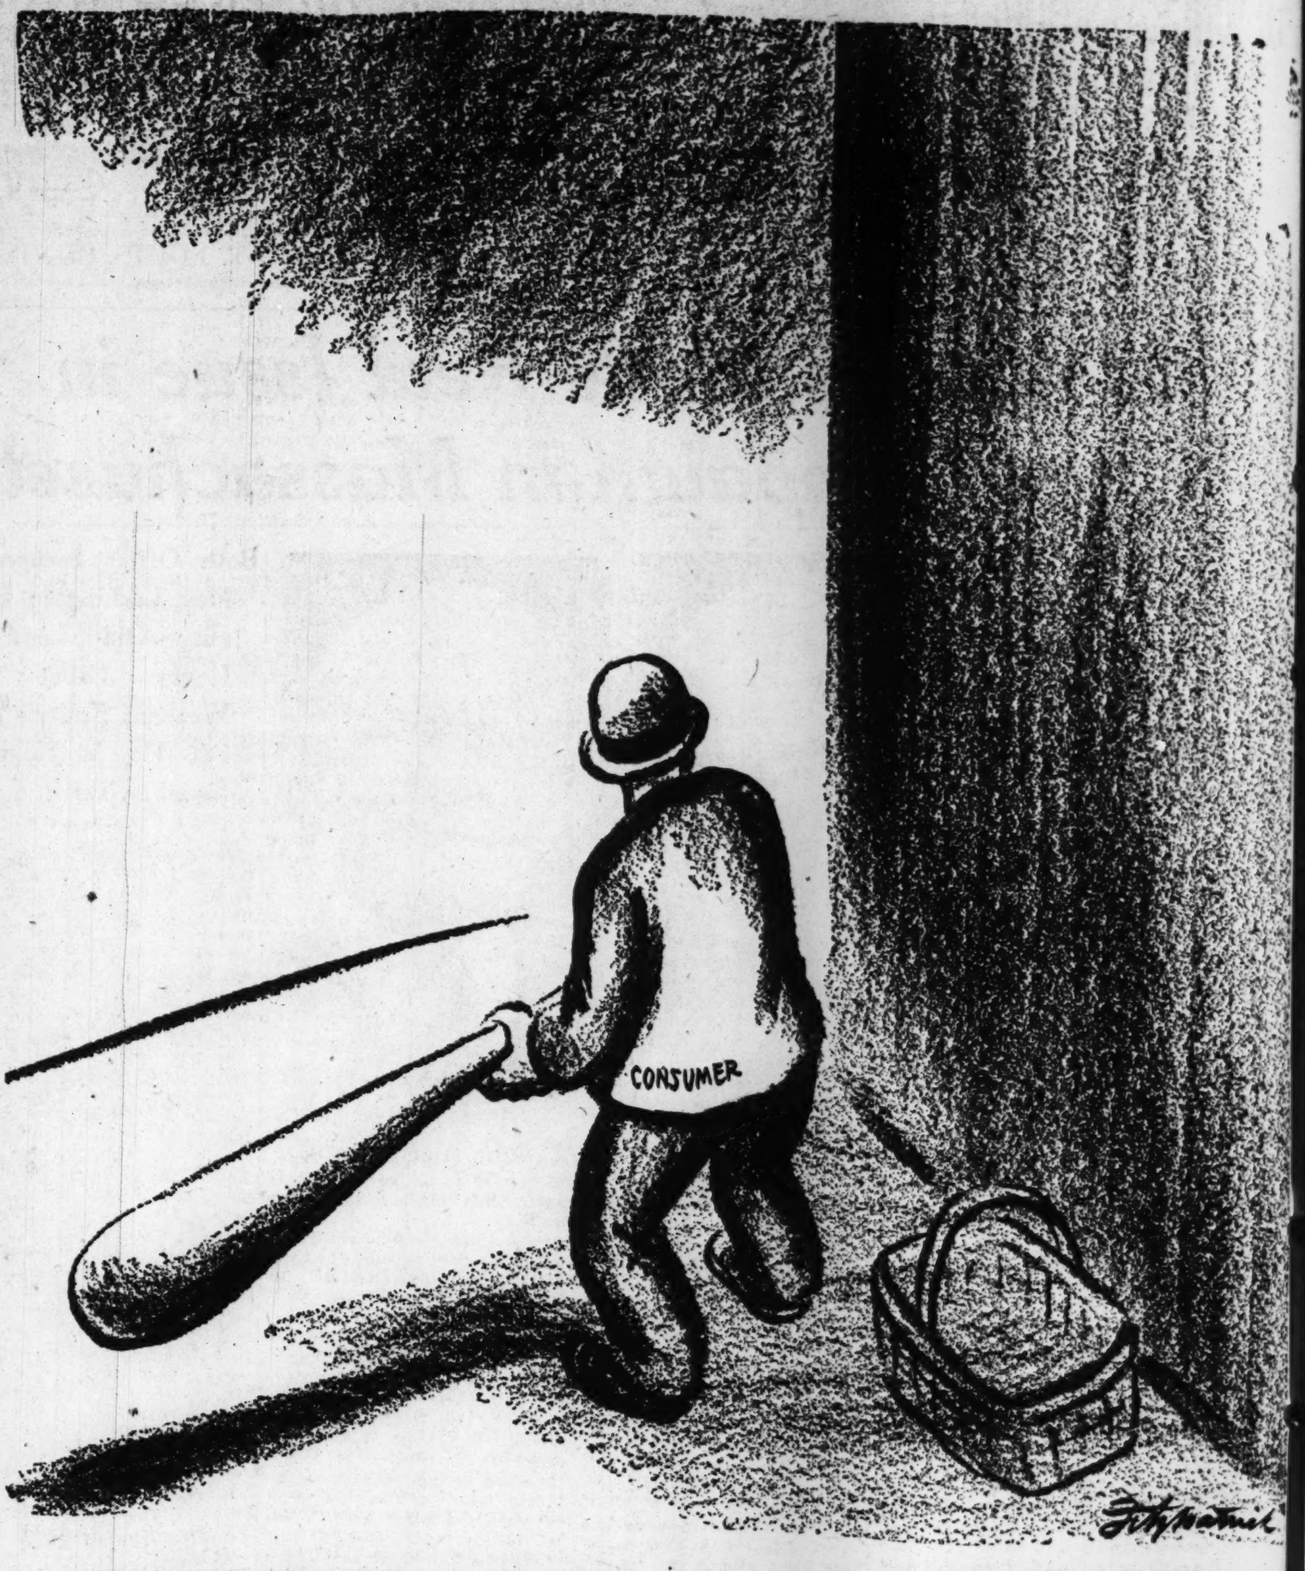
How about a little tariff relief?



WAITING FOR THE CANDIDATES WHO VOTED FOR THE TARIFF.

What Cuba Means to Us

Cuba came into national being through assistance of U. S.; treaty makes it our duty to guarantee adequate government there; commercial pact gives assurance of favorable tariff; but now our sugar levy, 190 per cent, adds heavily to island's distress; Cuban prosperity rests with us, and our prestige suffers by present crisis there.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Chester Lloyd Jones, Director of the School of Commerce, University of Wisconsin.

SO greatly have international exchanges developed that world crises in the long run affect the prosperity of all nations. Highly industrialized states with a wide variety of economic activities usually suffer less severely. Less developed countries and especially those which depend on a limited number of agricultural crops feel the depressions with greatest acuteness. As a result our Caribbean neighbors are passing through a period of marked economic distress much more serious for many of them than we realize.

Of these Republics to the southward, Cuba is of greatest interest to the United States not only because of our current economic connections but for reasons of more general character affecting our general national policy.

Cuba came into being through American assistance. The political agreements entered in the period when Cuba joined the family of nations put upon the United States the duty to assure its independence and a local government adequate to protect life and property.

The commercial treaty negotiated shortly after, in 1903, was adopted to discharge a moral obligation to do what was possible to establish and maintain the prosperity of the island. Each country granted to the other more favored tariff rates than were to be granted to any other country. The agreement bound the two Republics together in economic interests as the previous one had established the basis for close political co-operation.

These conventions have stood now for more than a quarter century. There have been sharp conflicts of opinion at times, but the relations of Cuba and the United States have been an outstanding demonstration that co-operation between an Anglo-Saxon and a Latin American nation, to the advantage of both, is possible and a fact.

When the United States entered the World War, Cuba was the first of the Latin American states to join cause with its northern neighbor. At the end of the war she was the first of all those which had made war loans to settle her debt—and paid it in full.

The commercial agreement, like the political one, was an unquestioned success. Cuba became in favorable years our best Latin American source of supplies and the greatest Latin American market for the products of our farms and factories. During the past quarter century Cuba has also become the leading country to the southward as a field of investment for our surplus capital.

But Cuba has now come upon distressing days. For five years her chief crop, sugar, has met an unfavorable market. Production has outrun demand. The tariff policy of the United States, which formerly was of such great advantage to her, has become increasingly unfavorable. It has looked toward granting special advantages to production of sugar in other areas.

There is no question of the legality of the new measures adopted. They do not violate any treaty engagement. Even if they had not been adopted or if the rates had been lowered instead of raised, Cuba might not now be prosperous, but there is no doubt that the new tariff law as it applies to Cuba brings discouragement where what was hoped for was a helping hand.

Cuba is politically independent. Whether she prospers or not may be, officially, no affair of ours, but both economically and politically an interdependence has arisen between her and the United States which makes her affairs not foreign to us.

Opinion as to the United States in Cuba rests not on what may be legally correct but on what her people feel should be expected from a friendly nation with which political and economic associations have been made, by the wish of both parties, more intimate than with any other nation of the world.

Nor is the effect of legislation which has an unfortunate effect on Cuba confined to the island only. The success or failure of American policy there has unquestionably a far-reaching influence on the attitude of all the nations of Latin America. Action on the part of the United States which, whatever its motive, results in cutting down Cuban prosperity, cannot fail to diminish American prestige and raise doubts as to the value of American friendship.

In 1924 Cuba sold us 7.5 billion pounds of sugar, valued at $319,793,000, about 4.2 cents a pound. Since that time, except in 1927, the price of sugar has steadily fallen due to oversupply of the markets of the world. In 1929 we bought 8.3 billion pounds of Cuban sugar and paid $157,601,000 for it, about 1.9 cents per pound. If ever Cuba needed easy access to the world's greatest sugar market, this was the time. Our tariff on Cuban sugar was then already 1.76 cents per pound, or about 90 per cent of its value.

In 1930 we raised the Cuban sugar rate to 2 cents per pound. Sugar sold last month at 1.1 cents per pound at New York. Two cents a pound was a tariff charge of over 190 per cent. It is hard for Cuba under such circumstances to believe that, in fact as in name, the United States policy toward her puts her in the position of the most favored nation.

CATTLE ETHICS.

Albert Einstein in the Forum.

TO ponder interminably over the reason for one's own existence or the meaning of life in general seems to me, from an objective point of view, to be sheer folly. And yet everyone holds certain ideals by which he guides his aspiration and his judgment. The ideals which have always shone before me and filled me with the joy of living are goodness, beauty and truth. To make a goal of comfort or happiness has never appealed to me; a system of ethics built on this basis would be sufficient only for a herd of cattle.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1

ANOTHER old structure on Capitol H rich in memories, has fallen in t hands of a wrecking crew. The Malt Building, just northwest of the Capitol, 17 years used by Senators for their offic is being razed in the new plaza park d velopment which will surround the Feder legislative and judicial establishments.

In 1889, when Harrison was inaugurat the Maltby House was one of the leadi hotels.

Three years later, however, the Sen took it over to provide private offices members. Freshman Senators were assig there, for the quarters were considered l desirable than those in the Capitol.

HENRY CABOT LODGE of Massach setts once had offices in the Malt Others were Joseph Bailey of Texas, Rob La Follette Sr. of Wisconsin, William Clark of Montana, Edward D. White Louisiana, later Chief Justice of the Unit States; James K. Jones of Arkansas, Jo P. Jones of Nevada, Matthew Quay of Pe sylvania, David B. Hill of New York.

Only four now in the Senate had offi in the Maltby. And they are the old Senators in point of service: Senator Si mons, Democrat, of North Carolina, w entered the Senate in 1901; Overman, Democrat from the same State, and Sm of Utah, a Republican, who took their se in 1903, and Borah, Republican of Ida who entered the Senate in 1907.

These Senators were forced to put with many inconveniences unknown n For example, there were only a half-do telephones in the Maltby. There was booth on the main corridor of each flo and if a Senator was called or wished use the phone, he had to leave his off to do so. In the Senate office buil now there are some 600 telephones.

PERHAPS the greatest inconvenie was that Senators housed at the Mal had to brave all sorts of weather to ans roll calls. Through rain and snow, b and cold they were forced to make t way to and from the Capitol. Now, in weather, they are rapidly whisked thro a subway which connects the Capitol a their offices, in a railway car.

As an illustration of the difference tween now and those days, there is an perience of Senator Perkins of Califor One Washington's birthday, the Senator w chosen to read Washington's farewell dress. Unknown to him, the Senate h convened an hour earlier that day.

A page was dispatched to the Maltby find Senator Parkins. He found him in office, feet propped on a desk, familiariz himself with what he was to read. Wh told that the Senate awaited him, he r all the way to the Capitol. But the asc of the hill was too much. Senators had wait another 30 minutes until Perkins co catch his breath.

DEMOCRATS HOPE TO WIN SOME OF COUNTY OFFICES

Candidates for Circuit Judge, Prosecutor and Head of County Court Seem to Have Chance.

A political campaign devoid of any important party issues, will give St. Louis County voters little reason to deviate from their favorite tickets when they go to the polls Tuesday to elect 14 county and 25 township officials.

Republican leaders, depending on their normal majority of about three to two and on the absence of party issues, have concentrated every effort to defeat constitutional amendment No. 5, permitting consolidation of St. Louis and St. Louis County under certain stated conditions.

Meanwhile, the Democrats, while also officially opposing the amendment, have taken advantage of Republican underactivity along regular political lines to dage the most intensive campaign in years to fill at least a few of the major offices with minority aspirants.

Few Attacks on Records.

Despite the fact that the Democrats, to win, the 14 county offices, must depose 10 incumbents, there have been few attacks on the records of those seeking re-election. Meetings have been held in virtually all of the 144 precincts of the county and candidates report that they have been generally well attended.

The most promising outlook, according to Democratic observers, is held by their candidates for the two circuit judgeships, Prosecutin Attorney and Presiding Judge o the County Court. Henry N. Ev ersole and Benjamin A. Wood Democratic nominees for Circui Judges, are running on their rec ords as practicing attorneys. Ev ersole also served your years a City Attorney of Fulton, Mo., an three years as Assistant Prosecut ing Attorney of Calloway County Their opponents are Robert W McElhinney, former Electio Commissioner and a son of a fo mer Circuit Judge, and Fred E Mueller, former Prosecuting Atto ney and unsuccessful candidate fo Circuit Judge in 1928.

Hamp Rothwell, Clayton atto ney, with long experience in tri work, seeks to replace Harry W Castlen, Republican incumbent, a Prosecutor. Rothwell, making vigorous campaign, promises pe sonal attendance at felony trial and a capable staff of assistants.

Thomas H. Thatcher, retire commission merchant of Ferguso has a strong following in his cam paign to defeat Albert Wehmeyer who seeks re-election as Presidin Judge of the County Court.

Taxpayers' League Has Slate.

Every county voter will receiv tomorrow a circular of the Ta payers' League, which mails out slate before every important ele tion. Selections are made by a executive committee of 12, heade by Josephus M. Todd, Webst Groves attorney.

The slate of the League w carry the names of three Dem cratic candidates: Eversole a Wood for Circuit Judge a Thatcher for Presiding Judge the County Court. The League h withdrawn its support from Pro ecuting Attorney Castlen.

Voters of Central Townsh comprising the populous porti of the county, will select four j tices of the peace at large, inste of the usual two. Cascade Chrysanthemum At Shaw's Garden Exhibit Newest Addition to Flower World Was Originated by Paul A. Kohl—November Show On.

Something new in the world of flowers will be displayed today in the annual Chrysanthemum Show, which has attracted 10,000 visitors a Sunday to Shaw's Garden every November for 26 years.

The new thing is the "cascade chrysanthemum," a plant that ripples downward in a very cascade of flowers. It combines the new and the old, for a variety found most suitable for this novel use is the original chrysanthemum indicum, the daisy-like Oriental flower from which hundreds of modern varieties were developed.

Cascade mums were originated this summer by Paul A. Kohl, Shaw's Garden floriculturist and designer of the exquisite Japanese gardens which, since 1928, have notably fed the international reputation of the Chrysanthemum Show. The "cascade" development is somewhat in line with the trailing "basket chrysanthemums," introduced by Shaw's Garden a few years ago.

Selecting his plants last summer, Kohl "pinched" the shoots to form a plumy lateral body, and pointed it due north, so that the sun would reach the base of the plant, where it was needed. The tip was tied down to prevent its lifting toward the sun. When buds were formed, the plant was pointed southward and removed from its straight-jacket. Thus the buds had direct sunlight for full development, and the tip of the trailing plant swung gracefully upward toward the sun.

Two of the floral cascades sweep downward for a full five feet in the miniature landscape at the foot of the balcony in the Floral Display House. Others have a nook in the west side of the Japanese garden which forms the main body of the show. The cascade flowers are just opening, and are expected to reach full bloom during the week.

Visitors stroll among thousands upon thousands of the tiny, bright "Caprice" varieties to two bamboo pergolas sheltering lordly "Turners" in white, pink, yellow and bronze. Somewhere in that garden—and everywhere, it seems—one may find every conceivable shade of every color but blue. Yet ranks of magnificent tall varieties against the thatch-woven walls will draw the glance to far corners of the show.

Among these single-stem varieties, several feet tall with blossoms several inches in diameter, are the lavender "Nerissa," yellow "Nagirroc," lavender, twisted "Vermont," white "Mrs. Louis B. Turner," and very tall "Miss Arnola Wright." Down with the "Caprice" varieties is a new bush chrysanthemum, the semi-double "Beauty of Truro," with hairy, irregularly quilled petals in an odd combination of tan and ruddy shades. Smallest in the show are the pompons, "Baby Doll" and "Wee Dot," less than half an inch across.

This, traditionally the most popular flower show of the year in St. Louis, will continue through the month of November. Passing of the early "Caprice" mums and the blooming of later varieties will transform the display from week to week.

C. A. BOSTON NAMED HEAD OF AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION

Author of Several Legal Books Chosen to Succeed the Late Josiah Marvel.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—The presidency of the American Gas Association, left vacant recently by the death of Josiah Marvel of Wilmington, Del., was filled today by the election of Charles A. Boston of New York, by a lote of the Executive Committee.

Boston has long figured prominently in the affairs of the Association, has written books, papers and magazine articles on several phases of law, and has been engaged as counsel in numerous important cases.

He participated in the reorganization of the United States Shipbuilding Co.; counsel for the executors and trustees in settling the estate of Joseph Pulitzer, owner of the New York World and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; counsel for Johns Hopkins University in litigation over the estate of James Buchanan ("Diamond Jim") Brady; and has recently been engaged in settlement of the estate of the late S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Airline Railroad.

Boston is a native of Baltimore and was educated in the schools of that city and in Johns Hopkins University.

BRITISH BUILDERS OF R-100, WITHOUT ORDERS, TO QUIT

Sir Dennistoun Burney Says He Has No Idea When, If Ever, Plant Will Reopen.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Whatever the outcome of the inquiry into the disaster of the giant airship R-101, Great Britain is not expected to build anymore airships for a long time.

The Howden Airship Station, where the Airship Guarantee Co. built the R-100, which made a flight to Canada in August, is closing at the end of November. Sir Dennistoun Burney, head of the company, explained the station was closing because the company had no orders for building and he had no idea when, if ever, it would be reopened.

The R-100 is at present laid up and proposed alterations and enlargements have been postponed indefinitely.

'FLYING DUTCHMAN' PRESENTED

Opera Warmly Received After 23 Years; Telva Has Role.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The blood-red sails of his eerie craft bore "The Flying Dutchman" to a landing on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House today for the first time in nearly 23 years. Not since 1907, in the regime of Heinrich Conried, had Wagner's opus been heard in New York's home of the opera. But if the warmth of this afternoon's reception may be taken as an indication, "Der Fliegende Hollander," under Gatti-Casazza sponsorship, may moor his ship to the property cliffs at more frequent intervals than the seven-year periods enjoined by Satan's curse.

Maria Jeritza sang the role of Senta, the Norwegian ship captain's daughter. Friedrich Schorr portrayed the Dutchman; Rudolf Laubenthal the unsuccessful suitor, Erik, and Marion Telva was Mary, Sente's former nurse. The other two roles were taken by singers new to the Metropolitan, Ivar Andresen, a basso from the Royal Opera at Dresden, sang Daland, the Norwegian captain; Hans Clemens, a native of Westphalia, portrayed the steersman.

16TH AND 17TH CENTURY MAPS EXHIBITED BY TWO COLLECTORS

Fort St. Louis Shown Due West of Lake Michigan on Chart of 1720.

Maps of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, collected by James B. Musick and E. Oscar Thalinge rof the City Art Museum staff, are being shown in a map shop at 1426 Olive street. The maps are from a period when cartographers were concerned quite as much with the decorative quality of their maps as with their accuracy, and are ornamented with elaborate cartouches and views and are hand-colored.

One of the latest of the maps shown was engraved by Johannes Baptiste Homann about 1720. It shows North and South America in approximately the form we now know them. Fort St. Louis, near Creve Coeur, is shown on the Illinois River. St. Louis is shown as due west of the southern tip of Lake Illinois, now Lake Michigan, and Lake Erie.

The earliest is a map of the world as it was known in 1595. North America appears in recognizable form, although the interior is entirely fanciful, but South America is shown in approximately the shape of a dog biscuit. The St. Lawrence River is shown as draining the Mississippi Valley and one of its tributaries ends in three diminutive lakes, possibly an echo of rumors of the existence of the Great Lakes.

J. J. O'Connor Left $40,000 Estate.

John J. O'Connor, 4210A Olive street, an attorney, who died Oct. 10, left an estate valued at $40,034, as shown in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday. The principal beneficiary under his will is a daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Crow. The will named Benjamin Wolf, an attorney, es executor.

BARGE LINE EXTENSION OPPOSED BY RAILWAY

Southern System, in Petition to I. C. C., Assails Illinois River Plans.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Opposition to the extenison of Government barge line service to the Illinois River and to the demand for railroad co-operation in rates was entered today before the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Southern Railway System.

The carrier, protesting against an application of the Inland Waterways Corporation for a certificate of necessity covering the Illinois extension and for the establishment of rail and water rates over it on a basis of 80 per cent of competitive rail rates, asserted that the extension was unnecessary, unfair to railroads and unjust.

There is no reason to believe there has been any "real showing as to barge and rail transportation being cheaper than all rail transportation," the railroad protest said. It added that there is "no more need for a new water line than there would be for a new all-rail line" and that the waterway program "would mean the duplication of facilities and service which have been demonstrated adequate, to the injury of existing rail carriers, and, in our opinion, without any real compensating benefits to the public."

"It should also be remembered that the rail carirers must maintain at great expense their roadbeds and pay thereon enormous Federal and local taxes, while the Federal owned and operated barge line pays no taxes, and the waterways on which it operates are dredged and maintained in proper condition without any expense whatever to the barge line," the document said. In operation the waterways corporation would require all connecting railroads to make joint rates with it on a large amount of traffic, the railroad said, and at the same time the "operation of the new line will develop no new traffic but will mean the traffic of the rail carriers will be reduced."

Present business conditions, so far as railroads are concerned, were said to be due primarily to a lack of traffic.

FUNERAL OF LUKE C. LINDSLEY

Funeral services for Luke B. Lindsley, 77 years old, oldest employe of the Water Department in point of service and probably the city employe in longest service, were held yesterday at his home, 211 Ferry street, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. Lindsley, who started as a laborer for the Water Department in 1872, was a maintenance man at the Bissell's Point station at the time of his death. He died Thursday after a brief illness. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Martha Lindsley, and two sons, William and Everette.

ONE-MAN CARS EXPECTED SOON ON BROADWAY LINE

Several Hundred Employes Learning Double Job of Motorman and Conductor.

One-man operation of street cars on the Broadway line, the city's longest street car line, probably will be established in several weeks after operating employes become familiar with the dual role of motorman and conductor.

Several hundred employes working out of the two Broadway sheds are now learning the double job, and it is reported that more than 50 per cent of the 100 Broadway runs will be of one-man operation. Company executives declined to comment on the reported change from the present style of operation, although admitting that the employes were under instruction.

The Street Car Men's Union has protested against one-man car operation on the ground that it increases unemployment. One-man cars are now operated on the Southampton, Kirkwood-Ferguson and Creve Coeur lines.

WILL OF FORMER JUDGE KLENE MADE MORE THAN 47 YEARS AGO

Inventory of Estate Filed in Probate Court Lists 106,611 Shares of "Worthless" Stocks.

The inventory of the estate of former Circuit Judge Benjamin J. Klene, who died Sept. 19, lists a total of 106,611 shares of stock in various corporations under a notation "worthless." The bulk of this consists of 102,000 shares of an oil company with a par value of $10 or a total par of $1,020,000. In the same class are 28 shares of the common stock of a navigation company with a total par value of $28,000 and 1010 shares of a coffee company at $10 par.

Benjamin C. Klene, a son, as administrator, filed the inventory in Probate Court yesterday. He explained he found the stock among his father's effects but, in his opinion, none of it had any real value. Some of it appeared to have been held by Judge Klene as trustee, while other of the reputed worthless holdings was said to have been taken by him as security for attorney fees.

The actual value of Judge Klene's estate, as shown by the inventory, is $1231. This, however, does not inllude an interest in contingent fees due him in litigation pending, the value of which can not at present be determined, but may be considered substantial, the administrator indicated. In his will he left his estate to his widow, Mrs. Anna Klene, 5804 Pershing avenue. The date the will was drawn is not shown but, according to the son, it was written more than 47 years ago.

SHERIFF STRODTMAN URGES PASSAGE OF PROPOSITION 7

Sends Postal Cards to Friends Asking Them to Vote for Change in Law.

Sheriff George W. Strodtman has sent out postal cards to his friends, asking that they vote for Proposition 7, on the constitutional ballot in Tuesday's election. No. 7 is a constitutional amendment, submitted by initiative petition, and provides that Sheriffs and Coroners may succeed themselves in office.

Sheriffs and Coroners formerly served two years, and could be re-elected once. An amendment was adopted in 1906 increasing their terms to four years, and forbidding them to serve two consecutive terms. It is now proposed that they shall continue to serve four years, and shall be eligible to succeed themselves, as are other county officers.

STATE GRANTS PERMIT FOR NATURAL GAS SYSTEM

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 1.—The Missouri Public Service Commission today granted a permit to the Suburban Gas and Service Co. to build and operate a natural gas distribution system to serve Avondale, Clay County, and the territory along United States Highway No. 69, between Liberty and Avondale. The company previously had obtained a permit to operate a distribution system in Liberty.

The company estimated the cost of the pipe line and distribution system at $198,600. It estimated the annual gross revenue from the extension would be approximately $72,000.

The commission also granted a permit to the Missouri Power and Light Co. to build and operate a distribution system in Farber, Audrain County, for either natural or artificial gas.

The two permits were issued after the applicants had made a showing that they had received franchises from the towns to be served, as the commission has no power to grant a franchise or its equivalent.

FOR NONPARTISANSHIP IN VOTE FOR JUDGES

L. E. Smith in Radio Speech Calls for Election of Bar Association Slate.

The Bar Association's slate of indorsements for judicial and prosecuting offices was recommended to the voters, in a radio talk on Station KWK last evening, by Luther Ely Smith, chairman of the committee which conducted the vote of members of the Bar Association.

Smith said the principle of nonpartisanship in judicial selections was not a new one. He pointed out that President Taft, a Republican, appointed two Democrats to the Supreme Court and promoted another Democrat, Justice White, to the office of Chief Justice. President Harding, Republican, appointed Justice Butler, a Democrat, to the Supreme Court. President Harrison, Republican, appointed Justice Jackson, a Democrat, to the Supreme Court. President Hoover placed a Democrat, Attorney-General Mitchell, in his Cabinet.

The St. Louis lawyers, Smith said, were trying to do something about the defects in the administration of justice, by establishing the nonpartisan principle in election of Judges. They hoped to raise the standard of fitness in such offices higher at each succeeding election. He urged voters to support the Bar Association's selections, eight Republican and three Democratic nominees, who are:

Judges of the Circuit Court (six to be elected): John T. Fitzsimmons, D.; Arthur H. Bader, R.; Robert W. Hall, R.; Frank Landwehr, R.; Granville Hogan, R., and James E. King, D.

Judge of the Circuit Court, unexpired term, Fred J. Hoffmeister, R.

Judge of the Probate Court: Charles W. Holtcamp, R.

Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction No. 1: Edward E. Butler, R.; No. 2, J. R. Weinbrenner, R.

Prosecuting Attorney: Eugene Sartorius, D.

62,000 SEE YALE HOLD DARTMOUTH TO 0-0 TIE

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 1.—Two high-powered offensives, two superbly courageous defensive barriers banged into each other today and the result was a scoreless, but peculiar deadlock between the football forces of Yale and Dartmouth.

Before a crowd of 62,000 spectators, falling unexpectedly far short of the big bowl's capacity, Albie Booth, Yale's diminutive quarterback, returned to action in such good health, so well recovered from the bumps he received in the Army contest that he led the Elis throughout the game and came close to winning it.

Booth, on a dazzling 32-yard end run, scampered across the Dartmouth goal early in the second period, after leading a series of Big Blue drives, but the uproar subsided and the mighty atom's effort was wasted when Referee E. J. O'Brien detected holding in the Yale ranks. This was the closest Yale came to scoring, although, all told, the Elis wasted five good drives deep into Green territory in the first half before being compelled in the last half to take the defensive themselves and beat off a succession of charges by the hard-hitting Indians from Hanover.

Field Goal Goes Wide.

Dartmouth, on the attack, throughout the last half, four times was within striking distance of the Eli goal, due to the sensational ball-lugging of Bill Morton and Wild Bill McCall. But the Blue defense, while considerably battered, was equal to the emergencies.

On the last play of the game, with the ball in Dartmouth's possession on Yale's 12-yard line after a series of berserk rushes and brilliant passes, McCall tried to drop-kick from the 21-yard mark that barely missed breaking the deadlock and giving the Indians a 3-point victory.

McCall got his boot away beautifully and there were moments of breathless suspense until Referee O'Brien waved his hands to indicate the pigskin had gone a trifle wide of the uprights.

Although Dartmouth was running wild at the finish, showing more drive in fact that Yale had displayed in the first half, the dead-lock was a fair split of the spoils. The Green registered a total of ten first downs to eight for the Blue, and packed a bigger passing threat, with three successful forwards netting gains of 88 yards. The Ellis, on the other hand, outrushed their rivals, 185 yards to 128, and Booth more than held his own in the punting duel with Morton and McCall.

Second Tie With Yale.

It was Yale's second successive tie game, the Elis having held Army to a 7-7 count a week ago, but marked the first check in

BAUSCH FAILS AND PENN RUNS OVER KANSAS, 21 TO 6

JAYHAWKERS ARE BEATEN BY PASSES IN BITTER DUEL

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—Pennsylvania's rugged but erratic eleven rose today to fulfil the promise of power it has shown all season and beat back with splashes of brilliance the beef and drive of the Jayhawkers of Kansas.

Penn pulled out the struggle by a final count of 21 to 6 but the score gave little indication of the closeness of the bitter duel that thrilled 62,000 in the big horseshoe of Franklin field. It was a battle of individual brilliance in the pinches against sustained power that finally got to rolling, and the pinch-hitters of Penn, bolstered by a line that rose staunchly in the crisis, staggered down the stretch to the victory.

Seven times in the second half, after being completely out-played in the first two periods as Penn smothered their highly publicized halfback ace, Jarring Jim Bausch, the Kansans had opportunities to score touchdowns.

Out of those seven chances the Kansans salvaged one score and were halted by the final whistle with the ball on Pennsylvania's six-yard line. Yet in those same two final periods the Quakers had but one chance to score and they promptly turned it into a touchdown.

Bausch Fails to Score.

Bausch, center of a storm that has caused other teams of the Big Six Conference to declare they would schedule no more games with Kansas after this season, was completely overshadowed by the individual skill of Walt Masters, Bill Graupner, Dick Gentle and Carl Perina, the Penn backfield aces. While Bausch plugged the line with little success and left in the third quarter before unheralded Kansas backs scored the Jayhawker's lone touchdown.

Graupner tore off one 49-yard run back of a kick to lead Penn's first score, Masters tossed a 40-yard pass that wound up on the Jayhawkers' one-yard line, and another for 41 yards that carried to the two-yard mark.

Graupner's flashy dash ended on the Kansas 16-yard line in the first period and despite the power of the Western line Gentle took a pass from Greene to the three-yard line and Perina went over. Masters, punting beautifully all day, made his first long toss to Greene in the second quarter and gave Gette a chance to plunge over. Again in the final session when Kansas pressed the hardest, Masters rose again to halt the rout with another lofty pitch, this time to Gette and again Gette drove across.

Pennsylvania seemed on the way to an easy victory until the sluggishness disappeared from the Kansas line in the second half and the backs began to run and pass. The Jayhawker line, with Tom McCall, guard, Charley Smoot, center, Stuck and Paden on the ends standing out particularly, pushed Penn all over the field and substitute backs, Lee Page and

Notre Dame and Billiken 'B' Teams Play Here, Nov. 22

NOTRE DAME will meet St. Louis U. on the gridiron here on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 22, it was announced by the local school's athletic department last night.

Oh, but not the varsity teams. It will be Notre Dame's "B" squad against the Billiken freshmen.

The Nov. 22 date had been set aside for the freshman game with Washington U., but negotiations are on now to move that game forward. No Notre Dame team has played in St. Louis since the days of the Four Horsemen.

CHICAGO HOLDS PRINCETON TO SCORELESS TIE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1. — Chicago fought Princeton to a 0-0 tie before 32,000 spectators in their intersectional game today.

The Tigers failed in three attempts to score, while the Maroons twice missed scoring by an eyelash when receivers juggled forward passes behind Princeton's goal line.

ALABAMA ELIMINATES ANOTHER RIVAL FOR DIXIE CHAMPIONSHIP

By the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 1.—Alabama battered another Southern Conference foe into oblivion here today, defeating the University of Kentucky, 19 to 0, and continuing the raging wash of the Crimson tide toward another Dixie championship.

John Henry "Flash" Suther speared a 44-yard pass in the first period and stepped five more yards for the Tide's first touchdown.

"Shipwreck" Kelly, one of the great backs of the conference, coudl not get started because his cohorts couldn't keep the onrushing Tidesmen from his shoe tops.

Kentucky tried time and time again to use the air route but to little avail. Kentucky lost one of her best chances to get over six points soon after the first Alabama touchdown when Cavana stood in an open field and dropped a long pass from E. Johnson.

NEW YORK U. DOWNS CARNEGIE TECH, 20-7

PITTSBURG, Nov. 1. — New York University's 1930 football Violets, beaten for the first time last week by Fordham in a game which hinged on a fumble, applied the bitterly-learned lesson today of watching for the breaks, got them and defeated Carnegie Tech 20 to 7 on the Pitt Stadium gridiron.

The Violets converted an intercepted pass and a blocked punt in the first two periods into touchdowns to take a good lead, recoiled long enough to yield a touchdown to the plaid and then applied the coup de grace as R. McNamara, star Violet left half, dashed 41 yards and over the goal line in the final quarter.

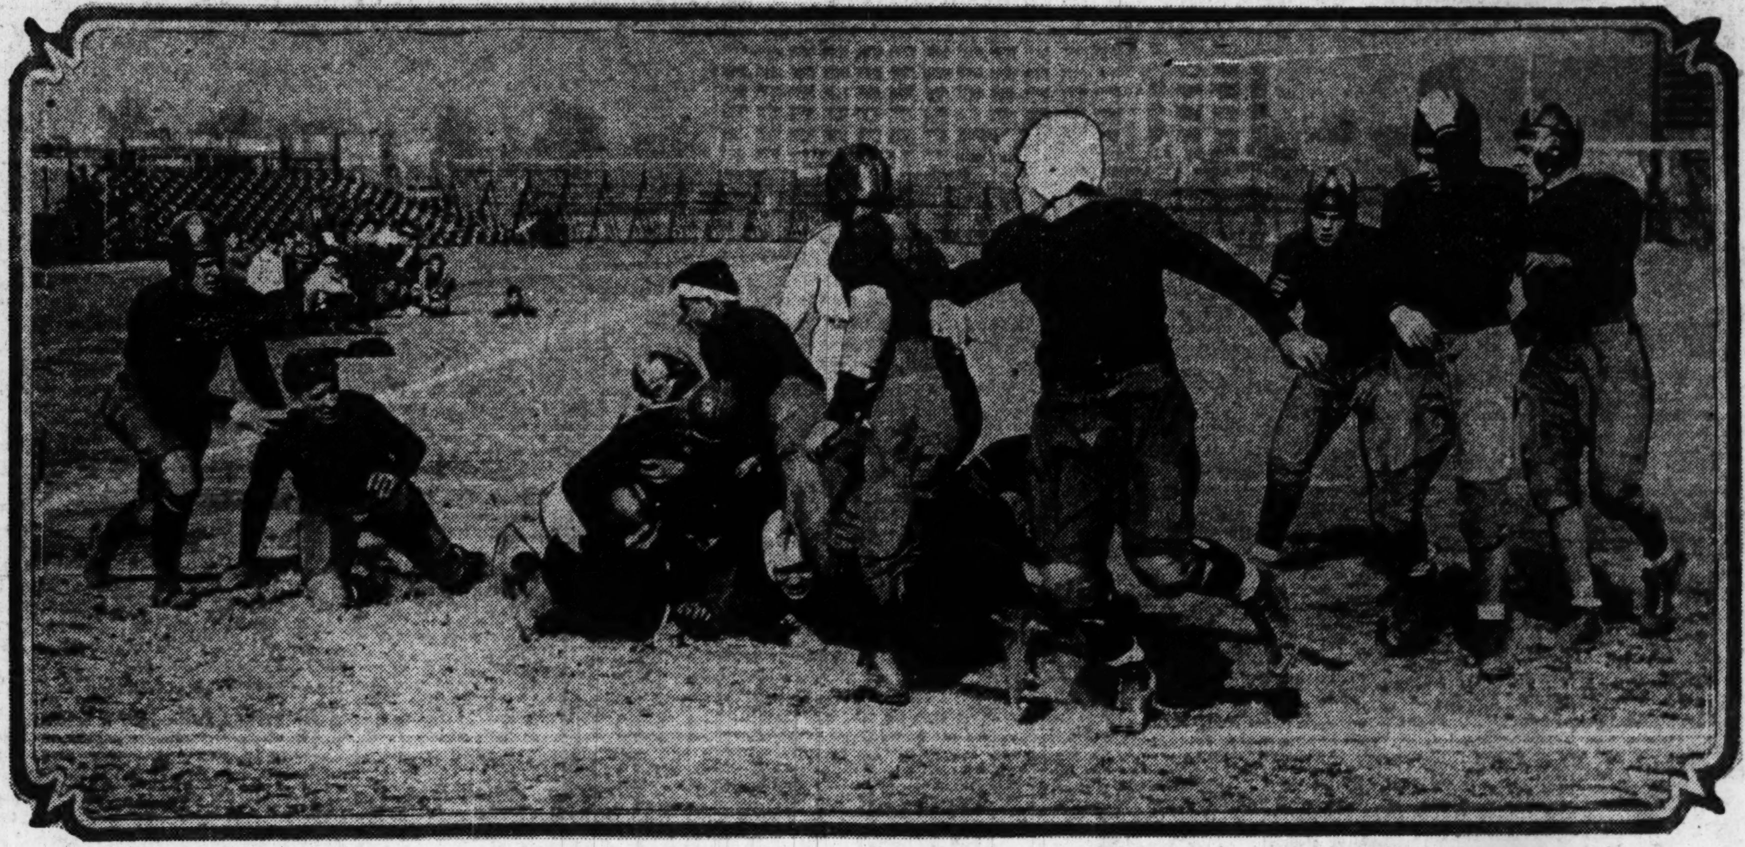
First Down on the 4-Yard Line—But Roosevelt Failed to Score



—By a Post-Dispatch staff photographer.

Tutinsky of Roosevelt is shown down on Cleveland's four-yard line in the second quarter of the High School game at Public Schools Stadium yesterday afternoon. But illegal use of the hands brought Roosevelt a 15-yard penalty and then Cleveland held for downs after a pass put the ball on the five-yard line.

Roosevelt Wins From Cleveland, 7-0; Central Loses to Beaumont, 6-0

By Harold Tuthill

The bitter enmity that exists only in athletic encounters between Cleveland and Roosevelt was in evidence yesterday afternoon, as Cleveland went down, 7 to 0, before the crushing Roosevelt team. Beaumont remained tied with the Rough Riders for the City High School lead with a last-minute touchdown. Central losing, 6 to 0. About 9000 persons saw the double-header at the Public School Stadium.

At no time did the Cleveland-Roosevelt battle approach a duel of personalities, but the Carondelet school repulsed the efforts of the Rough Riders seven times within the 10-yard line. This is exclusive of the touchdown which was scored by Gus Beiser in the second period on a 16-yard run. Henry Krause added the extra point by place-kicking.

Tutinsky Makes Long Run.

With the exception of the first quarter, when Cleveland opened up with a passing attack that temporarily baffled the Rough Riders, the Orange and Blue was kept constantly on the defensive and only some courageous work by Joe "Red" Mosar kept the Cleveland line from being riddled more than it was.

Nathan Tutinsky put Beiser in position to score when he tore off 23 yards in the middle of the second period. Beiser appeared from nowhere behind the Roosevelt line, on a delayed play, to find the way clear for a nice long run and six points.

Central Team Battered.

It had been expected that in the second game Central's courage would enable it to gain a moral 0 to 0 victory, but John Kyler spoiled that by shooting a pass to Lawrence Carlin, when the end of the game was a matter of seconds away, which resulted in a touchdown. Bob Kalbitz had his try for the extra point blocked.

Beaumont used every trick and ruse in its repertoire in an effort to defeat Central and to increase its chance of winning its first league championship, but the devices proved unavailing until Central reached the point where its team could barely move their worn-out arms and legs.

The condition of the eleven was not capable of withstanding the slashes of Herb Bohringer, who was injected into the lineup after the game was well under way. Bohringer led the team within striking distance several times in the fourth quarter and twice Kyler tried to place kick after Central stopped the advance. One of Kyler's kicks was low and the other was spoiled in the making by a bad pass from center.

Bohringer passed to Kyler on another occasion for first down on the 10-yard line. It was from here that Kyler tossed another throw to Carlin, who was almost standing on the goal line. The try for the extra point was only half-hearted.

As a result of the games, Central is virtually out of the championship running with two defeats. Roosevelt and Beaumont are tied for first place with two victories apiece.

Washington State Continues to Lead Coast Conference

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1. — Washington State College crushed an ever-threatening Oregon State College eleven, 14 to 7, today to continue in the lead for the Pacific Coast Conference football championship.

Two brilliant stands on the five-yard line gave the Washington team the victory. The victorious Cougars suffered 60 minutes of fear, partly through their own mistakes and fumbles and partly because of a wicked aerial attack by Oregon State.

Glenn Edwards, big Cougar tackle, made victory certain for Washington when he intercepted a pass and raced unmolested for a touchdown.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 1.—Notre Dame routed Indiana's fighting Hoosiers, as predicted, today by a lopsided score of 27 to 0, but was forced to employ its first-string men on an overtime schedule to accomplish the trick.

During the first two periods and 10 more minutes of the third, the Hoosiers surprised the Rockne forces and the 20,000 spectators by holding the "fighting Irish" even with their first string in the field for some time, to a scoreless tie. But the task was too hard for the Hoosiers and they folded up thereafter before the furious rushes of Notre Dame's new "four horsemen" crew and the brave stand turned into just another rout at the hands of the Ramblers.

Savoldi Breaks the Ice.

"Jumping Joe" Savoldi, the big hod lugger from Three Oaks, Mich., was the first to break the Hoosier spell. Tucking the ball under his arms on the Indiana 39-yard line, he smashed his way for four yards and then came back with a gallop of 35 yards, and the long-awaited, long-expected touchdown. Carideo kicked goal for the extra point and the pent-up fury of Notre Dame's attack broke loose with such devastation that within the next 20 minutes of play three more touchdowns had cracked the Hoosier defense into bits.

Fourteenth Victory in Row.

Today's victory was the fourteenth straight triumph in two years for the "fighting Irish," their fifth straight of the 1930 campaign and their eighth straight over Indiana in their traditional rivalry. Statistics of the game only pointed to Notre Dame's superiority. The Irish gained 432 yards from scrimmage to Indiana's 76. Schwartz was the leading ground gainer, slicing up 144 yards in nine attempts.

A. G. Eskew, who is heralded as St. Louis' most promising balkline billiard player, last night won ly won the first three-cushion straight rail tournament ever held on C. C. Peterson's new oval table. Eskew beat R. B. Olson, 50 to 21. He had a high run of 22. Olson's best inning brought seven points. This was the final match of a two-day elimination tournament. Larry Shingle recently won the first three-cushion championship tournament, played on the same oval table.

Sun Beau rated along until safely in position, went up to the pacemaker when called on, disposed of Vanity after a brief duel and was under pressure at the finish. Vanity displayed high speed, shook off Buckeye Poet and held on well nearing the end. Hot Toddy came with good speed in the final drive. Conclave showed a good effort. Buckeye Poet quit.

$2 mutuels paid: Sun Beau, win $5.50, place $4.40, show $3.60; Vanity, place $5.00, show $3.70; Hot Toddy, show $8.60.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 1.—Once again asserting his claim to the championship of the handicap division, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, veteran of four years of racing, today showed a clean pair of heels to the turf's best in winning the rich Washington Handicap for the second consecutive year at Laurel.

Always known as a great autumn horse, Sun Beau never ran a more brilliant race than today as he sped over the mile and a quarter in 2:02 4-5, the exact time he made last year in winning the same stake. Eleven speedy rivals trailed the consistent son of Sun Briar-Beautiful Lady from the Kilmer stable as he flashed past the judges' stand a length in front of W. R. Coe's lightly weighted 3-year-old filly Vanity. Mrs. K. E. Hitt's Hot Toddy got up in time to grab off the third-place share of the purse.

The large crowd at the Maryland State Fair Association course declared its respect for the champion by backing him down to a 3-to-2 favorite, receiving $5.20 for each $2 invested in a straight mutuel ticket. To Sun Beau's owner the victory meant an addition of $26,300 to his already large turf earnings of the year.

Frank Coltiletti, the popular little Italian jockey, was astride Sun Beau, and he gave the big horse a well-judged ride. Vanity was allowed to set the pace for the greater part of the journey, but once Coltiletti gave his mount the word, the race was all over.

A. C. Bostwick's Mate, also a favorite, walked off with the secondary feature of the day—a mile gallop known as the Spalding Jenkins Handicap and limited to 2-year-olds. Given a good ride by George Ellis, the Bostwick juvenile defeated Joseph E. Widener's Priory by a length and a half, with Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' Aegis third.

Mate sped over the eight furlongs in 1:38 2-5 to win the purse of $12,250. As the favorite, he paid $4.50 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Harvard Hard Pressed to Tie William and Mary

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 1.—The gallant little football band from ancient William and Mary outfought and outsmarted all of Harvard's mighty army here today, but superior man power enabled the Crimson to push over a fourth period touchdown and tie the score at 13-all.

Outweighed from five to 35 pounds in every position, the fighting lightweights from the small Williamsburg, Va., college, overwhelmed the starting Crimson substitutes with their amazing speed and then outplayed the regulars who were rushed in early in the second period.

The Virginians gained only a

Minnesota Smothers Bruder But Northwestern Wins, 27-6

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 1.—Minnesota's fighting Gophers caged the giant offensive of the Northwestern's Wild Cats today, but while Captain Hank Bruder was stopped, his teammates clawed and passed their way to a 27 to 6 victory over Minnesota to keep Northwestern squarely in the sun of the Western Conference title race.

Bruder's brethren from Dick Hanley's smallpox club, made up for his ineffectiveness by thundering across the Gopher goal four times, twice on brilliant passes thrown by Ernie Rentner, Wildcat fullback, and twice after Red Russell had battered his way through the touted Gopher stone wall line defense.

Besides seeing Bruder, out of a hospital less than a week after a light attack of smallpox, held to 15 yards gain in 10 plays, Minnesota homecomers, thickly packed in the crowd of 54,000, were given one big scoring thrill. This was a weaving 50-yard spurt for a touchdown by the smallest Gopher of them all, 140-pound Ken McDougal, in the final period.

Frank Baker, the big Northwestern wing, started things for the MANHATTAN, Kan., Nov. 1.—Forward passes flew all over Memorial Stadium here today and when the last one had been tossed, the Kansas Aggies emerged the victor over Missouri in a Big Six conference game, 20 to 13.

As far as line play and a running attack was concerned, the Aggies had a wide margin over Missouri but in the matter of forward passes the Tigers were equal, if not better, than the Kansas Aggie Wildcats who by winning today marked up their first conference victory in three attempts. It was Missouri's first titular game.

Tigers Lead at Half.

The Aggies led at the end of the first period 7 to 0. At half time Missouri was ahead 13 to 7. The fourth period started with the Aggies again ahead, 14 to 13 and just before the final gun another Aggie touchdown was scored.

Despite the brilliant Missouri passes in which Eaves, Van Dyne, Doarn and a half dozen other Tigers figured, the work of Capt. Alex Nigro and Eldon Auker for the Aggies stood out. Auker was a veritable nemesis for Tiger passes, intercepting no less than three, and Nigro gave perhaps his most brilliant exhibition of the season in broken field running and line plunging.

In the first period the Aggies were supreme and were on the offensive virtually all the time, leading 7 to 0 at the end. Ray McMillin, quarterback, scored the touchdown at the conclusion of a 42-yard drive after Capt. Nigro earlier had crossed the Missouri goal line but found his touchdown nullified by a penalty. Eldon Auker kicked the extra point.

Swartz' fumble, recovered by Armstrong, set Missouri going in the second period. Starting from the Tiger 28-yard line, three passes, Eaves to Van Dyne, scored a touchdown, the passing being one of the most scintillating bits of aerial play seen here for many seasons, the last toss the veteran end sent Van Dyne falling over the goal line. Bittner added the extra point and the score was tied.

McGirl Scores on Fumble.

On the succeeding kickoff came a play which puzzled the stands. Glen Harsh, sophomore back had replaced Nigro, and on the first play he carried the ball. He found a Tiger line ready for him, and somehow the ball rolled off his arm into those of Capt. Leonard McGirl of Missouri and the Tiger leader romped 35 yards virtually unmolested for a touchdown.

Officials huddled and came forth with the assertion the rule declaring a fumbled ball dead at the point of a recovery did not apply because the ball never touched the ground.

Nigro led a determined Aggie drive in the third quarter, finally scoring a touchdown after a six-yard line plunge and Auker put the Aggies ahead with a place kick.

Near the end of the fourth period Missouri missed possible victory when Garvin, a reserve end, stumbled and fell 15 yards from the goal line after receiving a pass from Kelly Heitz. Not an Aggie barred his way.

A long pass, from McMillin to Cronkite led to the last Aggie touchdown just before the final gun. The flip carried the ball from midfield to the Missouri one-yard line from where Swartz plunged over.

"DUMMY" TAYLOR'S TEAM LOSES TO MISSOURI'S DEAF MUTES, 51 TO 0

FULTON, Mo., Nov. 1.—The Iowa School for Deaf football team, coached by Luther Taylor, former New York Giant pitcher, was no match for the fast going Missouri School for Deaf team here this afternoon and bowed to the locals, 51 to 0.

Over-zealousness cost the Missouri team a lot of yardage in penalties but at that they scored almost at will.

The Iowa team was much lighter than the Missouri gridders and at no time could hold the locals in check. Large delegations of fans were here from Iowa, Kansas City, St. Louis and other points, there being a record crowd. The Illinois team will be here Nov. 21 to play the Missouri team.

Flora Defeats Newton.

FLORA, Ill., Nov. 1.—Flora High ran rampant over Newton here this afternoon, winning 53 to 6. Spence, Hogan and Broeg starred in Flora's backfield.

MARTY BRILL.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, IND., Nov. 1.

MARTY BRILL, Notre Dame left halfback, who has been carrying the ball to scoring positions for other point makers since he became a regular last season began "taking it over" today.

A very dependable ball carrier, Marty has served Notre Dame well in many strenuous conficts, but until today, due to some jinx, he had never crossed an opponent's goal line. Freguently he had been instrumental in advancing the ball to the shadow of the goal posts, but it was always someone who carried it over.

Today Marty dashed across Indiana's goal not once but twice, first he made a touchdown on a 33-yard sprint. It was his first. A few minutes later, with the ball on the Hoosier's two-yard line, he smashed across for the last score of the game.

HARVARD HARD PRESSED TO TIE WILLIAM AND MARY

total of 68 yards against the 386 made by Harvard, but few of the enemy advances were made in William and Mary territory. The Crimson threw everything into the fray, and during the closing minutes both Barry Wood and Capt. Ben Ticknor tried to kick the winning points when the Harvard attack stalled inside of the William and Mary 30-yard line.

The Crimson subs started off with a bang and Jack Crickard put over a quick score with an 85-yard run in the first period. This touchdown, however, instilled the Virginians with fury, for they started ripping and tearing through the Harvard team with amazing ease. When a Harvard signal misfired and a loose ball bounced about the Crimson's 35-yard line, Tommy Halligan, Virginian end, pounced on it and then carried it to Harvard's 20-yard line after completing Mitch Mozeleski's well-protected pass and, when this play failed, Halligan swapped positions with Mozeleski and fed Halfback Maxey a scoring aerial. Mozeleski then put W. and M. in front by drop-kicking the extra point.

Art Huguley opened as the Harvard quarterback and when, in the second period, the W. and M. forwards smashed his straight-running plays, he shifted to laterals. Halligan and Capt. Jimmy Murphy ruined Huguley's offerings and Barry Wood, along with most of the Harvard regulars, was rushed in to make the laterals click.

His first side way heave was intercepted by the fast-charging Halligan, who feinted and dodged 30 yards for a score. The Harvard cheering section, awed by the gallant light weight, voiced its disappointment when Mozeleski missed his second try for the extra point.

In the fourth period Harvard marched 65 yards on 15 plays. On fourth down, after three of White's line bucks were stopped for no gain, Mays rounded his right end, and, despite splendid interference, just barely made the three yards needed for Harvard's second touchdown. Mays then drop-kicked the tying point.

FULTON RALLIES IN SECOND HALF TO BEAT JEFFERSON CITY, 20-13

FULTON, Mo., Nov. 1.—Trailing by a score of 13 to 0 at the end of the first half, the Fulton High School Hornets unleashed a powerful attack against the Jefferson City Jays in a Little Ten Conference game here this afternoon and won out, 20 to 13, by scoring three touchdowns in the last half.

Uncorking a series of forward passes in the last quarter, the local lads put themselves in position to score three touchdowns. Jefferson City displayed an almost unaccountable reversal of form in the second half and when Fulton finally got under way the local team could not be stopped. Jefferson City outweighed Fulton about 20 pounds to a man.

NEBRASKA AND PITT PLAY TO SCORELESS TIE

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 1.—An alert Nebraska line, performing with the precision that has made Cornhusker lines famous in previous years, thwarted three desperate last-minute threats by the University of Pittsburg and the fifth intersectional game between the two universities ended in a scoreless tie today.

Prior to the fourth quarter, the Cornhuskers had played the Panthers on better than even terms. It was in the last fleeting moments of the game that the Nebraska line was put to the test. Unable to penetrate the line, the Panthers unleashed a forward passing attack which carried the ball to the Nebraska five-yard mark. Four attempts at the line gained only three yards, however, and Nebraska took the ball, and Fullback Young kicked to safety.

Once again the Panthers took to the air, bringing the ball to the Cornhusker seven-yard line and once again they were stopped in their tracks. A fumble by Nebraska within the 20-yard zone gave Pittsburg its third chance, but again the Husker line was impenetrable in the crisis and scrappy Husker backs knocked down Capt. Baker's passes. The game ended with the ball going on downs to Nebraska within its own 30-yard zone.

NORTHWESTERN HANDS MINNESOTA ELEVEN A CRUSHING DEFEAT

Wildcats in the second quarter after the Gophers had met their thrusts through the first period. Baker pulled a 27-yard Rentner pass out of the chill air, and scrambled three yards over the goal line for the first Northwesern score. Bruder's low kick on the try for point was ruled good because of a Minnesota off-side.

Soon after, Baker snared another pass, a short bullet-like heave from Rentner, and in the motion of his catch, threw it laterally to Leo Hanley, who went off in a blur of speed 63 yards for another marker.

In the third quarter, Minnesota threatened when Jack Manders, its big fullback, cracked off yardage on plunge after plunge. But then Russell returned to the game after a layoff, and began a superior plunging game of his own. Three, then five, and sometimes seven yards, Russell reeled off in gain after gain, fighting his way from midfield to the five-yard line.

Guard Counts Touchdown.

Then, on a deceptive spinner play, in which Russell served as the foil, the helmetless Woodworth, Wildcat guard, tore out from his place in the line, clutched the ball, and swung alone around Northwestern's right end for another touchdown.

Once again, the Wildcast started a march down the field with Russell bouncing off tacklers right and left. This time he jerked his way almost unaided to get the credit for his offensive by personally conveying the ball over the goal.

Wisconsin Held to Scoreless Tie by Ohio

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1.—Wisconsin and Ohio State met today for the first time in 10 years, found themselves perfectly matched in all departments and played a scoreless tie.

Twice each team penetrated the other's 20-yard line and each had the ball less than five yards from the goal on one occasion. Both times the offense failed with incomplete passes and the last period was a comedy of intercepted passes.

COLUMBIA IS UPSET WINNER OVER CORNELL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Ralph Hewitt, Columbia's backfield ace, led his team to a thrilling 10-7 triumph over Cornell, before 25,000 fans at Baker Field today, for the Lions' first major triumph since 1927 and the second over Cornell since 1905.

Hewitt, who was hurt in the fourth period on his way to another touchdown, won the game by two spectacular plays. In the second period he kicked a field goal from the 43-yard line, and in the next period received Cornell's opening kickoff and ran 90 yards for a touchdown.

NAVY, SHOWING NEW POWER, WINS OVER WEST VIRGINIA, 37-14

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 1.—Navy swept over West Virginia, 37 to 14, with new-found power, here today.

Middie touchdowns were scored by Tschirgi, Hagberg, Castree and Hurley, while Battles and Wholf scored for the visitors on forward passes from Bachtel.

Kirn, most consistent of Navy backs, occupied the bench, resting for the Ohio State game next Saturday.

Johnny Madison along with Frank Cox and Beach, made the Kansas attack something else entirely.

Bausch's Costly Fumble.

Kansas made 11 first downs, most of them in the second half, to 10 for Penn. Bausch was in one harassing drive that traveled 47 yards in the third quarter before bogging down on Penn's seven-yard line, but he cost Kansas a beautiful opportunity a moment later when Masters' kick was partly blocked and came to him on Penn's 16-yard line. But Bausch fumbled, Penn recovered and kicked to the 34-yard mark, where Madison and Shaake, the latter replacing Bausch, came hammering back for the Kansas lone score. Madison drove the final 14 yards straight through center. In the final quarter Penn held for downs twice within the 20-yard line and only the final whistle stopped another score as Beach smashed down the field. A field forward pass that wound up in a lateral added to Penn's confusion in the final moments.

The game was rough and hard all the way and sprinkled with liberal penalties. The defeat was Kansas' first of the season while Pennsylvania already had bowed to Wisconsin. The Kansans were East for the first time since losing to army in 1922.

BRAVES' PITCHER IS AT TRAINING CAMP

SANFORD, Fla., Nov. 1.—Ben Cantwell, pitcher for the Boston Nationals, has the jump on a lot of major league baseball players.

He has already arrived in Florida, in plenty of time for the opening of the spring training season.

Ben and Mrs. Cantwell are in Sanford to visit Mrs. Cantwell's mother, Mrs. Allan Jones, for the winter season.

Cantwell started on his baseball career as a twirler for the Sanford club in the old Florida State League, going from here to the Jacksonville team in the Southeastern League.

Backing Up a Manager

FOR the first time in five years the Cardinals and their followers are not spending a winter wondering who is to be their next manager and the inside story of how Sam Breadon happened to re-appoint Gabby Street in mid-season, told herewith for the first time, shows how a comparatively insignificant incident can have an important bearing on a pennant race and the life of a baseball manager.

When the National League schedule makers arranged an open date for the Cardinals on July 28 they unwittingly set the stage for the whole thing and the next step was taken by Secretary Clarence Lloyd when he arranged for the high-flying Redbirds to play an exhibition game on that date with the Rochester Redwings of the International League.

While in Rochester a member of the Cardinal squad, who at that time was not very active as a participant in championship games, is alleged to have looked at the malt and the hops when it was amber and foamy and further is alleged to have been so affected by the elbow-bending that he did comport himself in an unusual manner, showing such hilarity as to cause other members of the squad to wonder how many glasses, picked up and turned down, it took to make the man that way.

Gabby Street didn't make that trip to Rochester, but he heard about the hilarity of his athlete, and incensed that one of his men should stray from the reservation when he wasn't on the job, and especially an athlete who hadn't been fit for duty for some time, the Old Sergeant informed the player that he would have to pay the fiddler or the brew master, by losing $50 of his salary, a fine for breaking training.

Indignation Registered

NATURALLY the player was very indignant. He brooded over that $50 fine and then he sought comfort and consolation in appeals to his comrades. Of course they sympathized with him and agreed that the crime, real or alleged, had not been a heinous one and that any fine was unreasonable, unjust and unwarranted.

It so happened that the Cardinals were not doing so well on the field at that time. They had gone through two road campaigns which were especially disastrous. The Cardinals were down and though the team on paper still looked like the class of the league, the standing of the clubs showed that its pennant chances were remote.

There has been a change of managers every year and by this time the players were wondering who would be their next leader. Umpires, always ready to squelch a first-year manager, regarded Street as doomed for a return to the minors and when the Old Sergeant so much as showed himself out of the dugout to protest a close play, he was quickly ordered off the field. Yes, it was too bad, but it looked like Old Gabby was going to be a one-year manager and then go the way of all Redbird leaders. The players felt badly about it, because they were fond of the Old Sergeant, but they considered it inevitable.

Well, when the team returned home on Aug. 5, with a clean sweep of a four-game series at Cincinnati as the only bright feature of the disastrous trip, the player who had been fined $50 took his troubles to the office, laying his case before Sam Breadon. He told the club president that he had been fined unjustly and that several of the players had agreed that they would tell Breadon the same thing.

Breadon Does His Stuff

"I'LL hear none of this," Breadon told the player. "Street fined you. I didn't do it. So tell your troubles to him, and if any of the other players want to talk for you, send them to Street. He's the boss. I'll never interfere in anything he does and if he fines you, you stay fined as far as I'm concerned. I'll back him up in anything he does."

The player went out and it didn't take Breadon long to decide on the proper course.

"That's a dangerous situation," he soliloquized, "if the players are even thinking of going over Street's head. They must think he isn't boss. That's bad. I'll have to knock them off right now."

Breadon doesn't hesitate after making a decision. The player visited him on Aug. 5 and on Aug. 7 Charles E. Street signed a new contract, reappointed manager of the Cardinals for 1931.

Players who had been feeling satisfied Sam Breadon and they were wasting their sympathy. He had a job for 1931 and would be their manager for another year. Perhaps it might be well to go out and hustle a little more, to make their jobs secure. And they did just that.

Umpires who had regarded Street as a one-year manager, a fresh busher, realized that he had satsified Sam Breadon and they realized that if Sam was satisfied Street must have something. They showed a new respect for Gabby. He could present his case on the field without being ordered to the showers.

Street also took inspiration from the reappointment. It gave him confidence in the baseball he had been playing and in his managerial policy. And in the remaining months of the season the Cardinals shook off their losing ways and made their spectacular drive to a pennant.

And if it hadn't been for that player bending the elbow at Rochester he never would have been fined, Street would not have been reappointed and the chances are that the Cardinals would have staggered along, to finish third or fourth in the pennant race. Yes, that was pretty good beer at Rochester.

62,000 SEE YALE HOLD DARTMOUTH TO SCORELESS TIE

Dartmouth's previously unbeaten advance as the Green again failed to hurdle the hoodoo hanging over them in the Yale Bowl. The Indians have never beaten Yale, and only twice have got so much as a tie.

Booth, going the full route for the first time this year, carried the burden of the Eli attack from start to finish in an exhibition that fully demonstrated the little fellow's remarkable stamina. He absorbed plenty of hard knocks but never failed to bounce back to his feet.

Once the Green was penalized 15 yards for roughing Albie as he was punting, but otherwise there was no cause for a repetition of previous demonstrations from the Eli stands, anxious about the way their favorite was being handled.

Booth packed the ball 31 times from scrimmage and gained a total of 107 yards, besides doing all the kicking and doing it well enough to average 40 yards all afternoon. His longest run of 32 yards that for the moment looked good for a touchdown, only to be spoiled by a penalty, marked the only time he got entirely loose. His best gain otherwise was for 12 yards.

SUBSTITUTES' 34-YARD PASS GIVES SOONERS BELATED VICTORY

By the Associated Press.

AMES, Ia., Nov. 1.—A pair of Oklahoma substitutes today broke up the annual Big Six Conference battle with Iowa State College, completing a 34-yard pass in the closing minutes to give the Sooners a 19-to-13 decision.

Before the Cyclones' homecoming crowd of alumni, Buxton heaved the ball to Snell, who fell over the final chalk mark to break a 13-13 deadlock. It was the eleventh straight defeat for Iowa State and the third conference victory for Oklahoma this year.

Early in the second period, Coach Workman sent in Richard Greefe, sophomore quarter, to replace Trauger. The tall blond, whose high-school coach had said he was too slight of build for such a rough game as football, tossed a long pass to Swoboda, who tore the ball from the hands of two Sooner backs to score and then place-kicked the extra point.

A fumble by Greefe soon afterward gave the Oklahomans the ball on the Cyclones' 26-yard line. Mills passed to Massad on the State one-yard line. Massad plunged for the touchdown.

Greefe broke loose on a 57-yard sprint late in the second period and seemed headed for a touchdown, but Young, rangy Sooner center, hauled him down from behind on the Oklahoma 23-yard line. Falling at the line, Greefe then hurled a long pass over the goal line which was touched by an Oklahoma back, but which Moen, sophomore end, snagged from the Sooner's hands for Iowa State's second touchdown. The half ended 13 to 6 in favor of Iowa State.

Neither team scored in the third period, but in the final quarter the Oklahomans scored two touchdowns. The first was the aftermath of Tegland's fumble on his own 36-yard line. A pass, Warren to Kirk, netted Oklahoma 25 yards, and after four tries at the line, Kirk went over, Mills tallying the extra point.

When Iowa State's secondary defense commenced to break up Sooner passes, Coach Ad Lindsey of Oklahoma sent in the subs, Buxton and Snell, and they combined to score after Greefe fumbled in Iowa State territory.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 1.—A 0-pound stick of dynamite, substitute Halfback Ed Risk of Terre Haute, Ind., and Purdue University, exploded at intervals today and blasted Illinois down to its third straight Big Ten football defeat of the season.

Scoring a touchdown in each period, Purdue ran up a 25 to 0 count on the Illini, and it was Risk who was sent in for Lewis Pope in the first period, that led the way.

His first gesture was a sensational, twisting jaunt of 50 yards for a touchdown in the first two minutes of play, and before he finished, he had scored another and started a third one. His work for the afternoon included lugging the ball 17 times for a total of 132 yards—an average of nearly eight yards a crack, while his blocking and defensive work were factors in every play until he was replaced in the fourth period.

VASHON HIGH ELEVEN BEATS PHILLIPS TEAM OF CHICAGO, 12-9

A crowd estimated at 2000 saw the Vashon High School Wolverines of this city defeat the strong Wendell Phillips Negro High School team of Chicago, Ill., in yesterday's football game at the Stars Park. The score was 12 to 9.

Naylor made a run of 30 yards off tackle to score a touchdown in the opening period while in the third quarter Campbell threw a forward pass of 30 yards to Jordan who scored the second touchdown for the Wolverines. Riley blocked a punt, after which Thomas fell on the ball and scored the first tally for Chicago in the third period. Forshee kicked a perfect goal for the extra point. In the final quarter the Windy City team forced a safety to score two points before the final whistle blew. The visiting team outweighed the local eleven by at least 10 pounds to the man.

Campbell, Jordan and Naylor were the outstanding stars for the Vashon squad, while Riley, Forshee and Lloyd, who made an end run to gain 45 yards, were the stars for the Wendell Phillips team.

GEORGIA'S HOPE FOR NATIONAL TITLE SPOILED BY TIE WITH FLORIDA

By the Associated Press.
SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 1.—Georgia's march toward national gridiron honors was blocked here today by a courageous Florida eleven which presented a steel-plated defense to halt every Georgia thrust and hold the mighty Bulldogs, conquerors of Yale, to a scoreless tie.

Twice Georgia pounded at the doors of Florida's goal but the slashing drives of Roberts, Chandler and Downes, the aces of the Bulldog attack, could do little more than knock off small chips from the concrete Florida forward wall.

History repeated itself today, for two years ago on the same green-turfed gridiron a determined band of Florida sophomores upset a heralded Georgia team, 26-6. These same sophomores—now seniors—rose to the zenith of their power today and withstood every assault on land and air that Georgia offered.

CHURCHILL WEAVERS DECLARED BEST DOG IN FINAL FIELD TEST

By the Associated Press.
CRAB ORCHARD, Ky., Nov. 1.—Churchill Weavers, by War Cry out of Mandy Lee, won the title of National Field Champion by being adjudged the best hound after the third and final cast today of the All-Age Stake of the National Fox Hunters' Association. Churchill Weavers is owned by Robert Walker of Paint Lick, Ky.

Hunter, owned by the Golden Valley Kennels, Forest City, N. C., won second place; Rosemond, owned by Carl P. Hunt, Washington, D. C., third, and Myrtle Stone, owned by N. F. Harper, Scottsville, Ky., fourth.

The stake had no monetary value, but trophies were awarded the owners of the first four hounds. Today's cast brought to a close the 1930 meeting of the association.

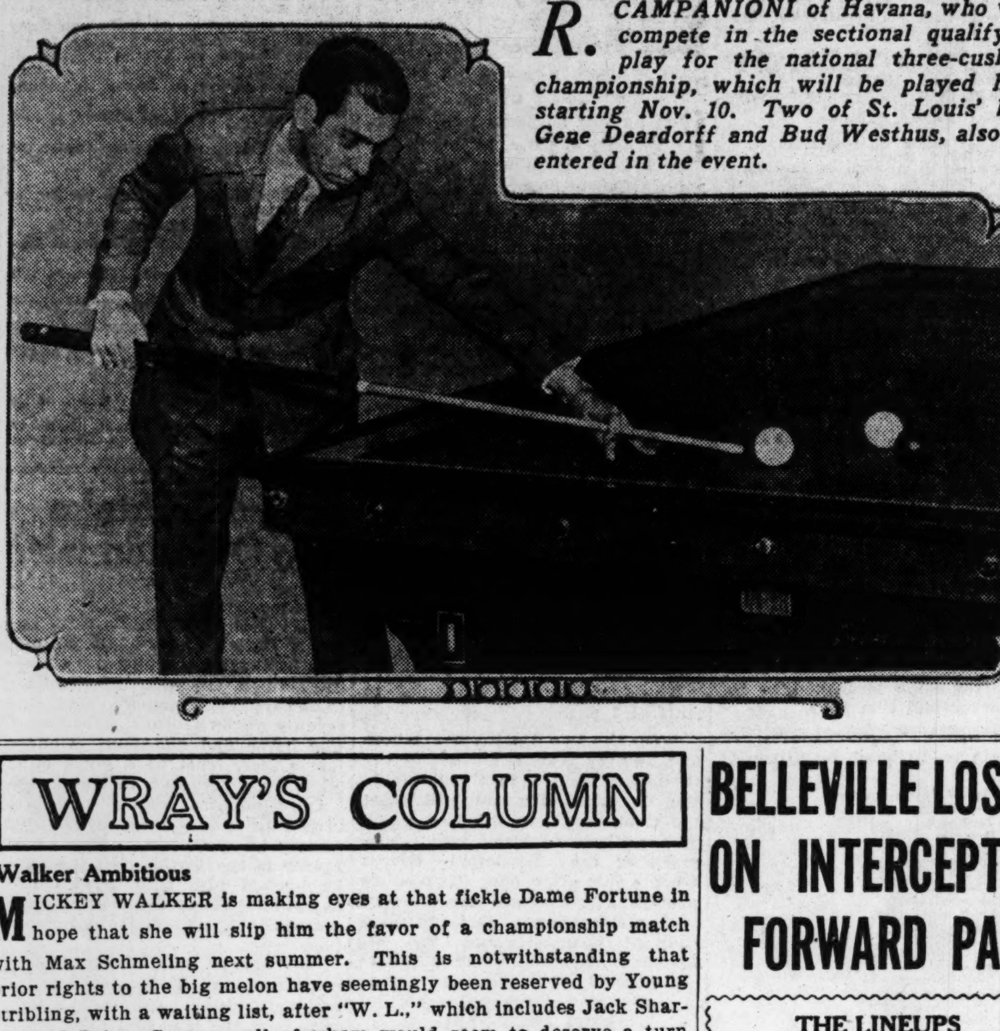
KANSAS FRESHMEN SMOTHER MISSOURI, 41-6

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 1.—The University of Kansas freshman football team triumphed over the Missouri Tiger freshmen here this afternoon, 41 to 6. The Jayhawkers led by 14 to 0 at halftime.

Kansas gained 370 yards at scrimmage to 107 for Missouri and earned 23 first downs to the Tigers' five.

Dick Weaver, Concordia youth, was the Jayhawker spark plug, although Marshall, Manning, Kroenert and Hayes shared in the glory. Stuber Hatfield and Knapper were the Missouri stars.

Cuban Cue Champion Who Will Play Here



R. CAMPANIONI of Havana, who will compete in the sectional qualifying play for the national three-cushion championship, which will be played here, starting Nov. 10. Two of St. Louis' best, Gene Deardorff and Bud Westhus, also are entered in the event.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Walker Ambitious

MICKEY WALKER is making eyes at that fickle Dame Fortune in hope that she will slip him the favor of a championship match with Max Schmeling next summer. This is notwithstanding that prior rights to the big melon have seemingly been reserved by Young Stribling, with a waiting list, after "W. L.," which includes Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, all of whom would seem to deserve a turn ahead of the snub-nosed Mickey.

However, the boxing affairs of Madison Square Garden have become so fussed up by entanglements of various sorts and by the financial depression that original plans may have to be scrapped, allowing George Getz or some Chicago promoter to slip in and grab the big gate match right out of Mr. Bill Carey's mitt.

Jack Kearns, who ballyhoos for Mickey Walker, with a view to campaigning another heavyweight king, is already in the field with his literature which contains the statement that Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, has promised Walker a fight in Chicago next June. And whatever else he may or may not be Kearns has proved that he is a go-getter as a manager of fighters.

Match Not Improbable.

THUS the Walker-Schmeling fight is not as improbable as at first consideration it might appear. The principal argument against such a contest of course is the disparity in weights which would be about 20 pounds. And what's a mere 20 pounds among champions? Mickey will try to prove that it amounts to nothing, in a few days, when he fights Johnny Risko this month. That will be a match with even a greater disparity of weights.

In fact history seems to laugh off any discrimination against heavyweight hopes because of their lack of tonnage. Fitzsimmons weighed about 165 as title holder. Charley Mitchell weighed only 155 pounds when he fought the mighty John L. Sullivan 31 rounds to a draw in Chantilly, France. Sam Langford was just a middleweight when he gave Jack Johnson, then in his prime, a wonderful battle for 15 rounds. Jem Mace, Bendigo, Joe Choynski and other truly great fighters became famous despite weight handicaps—so the weight angle may be left out of consideration, in some instances. The boy with the punching plant can get along very well with the heavier and clumsier man.

Walker is a great little fighter against a bigger and slower opponent who will come to him. A clever boxer like Sharkey or a backaway fighter like Stribling would do better against the little fellow than would a big, slow boy.

Schmeling is comparatively slow. Also he is not much of a boxer and apparently he is spending a lot of time getting worse than he was.

Schmeling Lacks Practice.

HE will have been idle for two years, with the exception of the fight he had with Sharkey. It must be said that he showed little in that event except gameness and was a shining mark for both of Sharkey's hands. He was a badly outpointed fighter and was always too slow with his leads and counters.

Then, besides his slowness, he wades into the enemy and that would be "nuts" for Mickey. Walker's chunky little arm - pistons would chug home early and often against a battler of Maxie's type. It would be no surprise at all if he beat Schmeling and won a ring title for the third time in his career.

If Mickey has to work his way up to a match with Schmeling through an elimination, matters may not be so easy for him. Stribling and Sharkey, for example, figure to beat Mickey and they would be the first men he would be asked to face. Primo Carnera—well, that would just be an absurdity because Mickey couldn't hit Primo above the belt without the aid of a stepladder.

The heavyweight situation has other angles that need ironing out. For example, there's the Miami fight which, according to contract, Madison Square Garden must feature in its Florida arena each year for five years.

Campolo and Sharkey failed to get together and that was the first dent in the Garden plans. Now it develops that Stribling does not want to fight Sharkey in Miami or elsewhere and that possibility falls down.

Carnera is not wanted by the New York promotion interests. And so it appears that Campolo and Stribling will furnish the rather flat dish to be served at Miami.

There remains Mickey Walker—unless the lid is down on him, in New York fistic society. Mickey has said that he is ready to fight Stribling before he meets Schmeling and that speaks well for that sturdy little scrapper's fighting heart. It would also be about the best hookup from an interest standpoint that could be arranged, aside from Schmeling and Stribling.

Mickey at least would make a fight of it—which is more than Sharkey did when he faced Stribling two years ago in Miami.

LAST AUTO RACE CARD OF SEASON AT CREVE COEUR

The final automobile racing program of the season will be held this afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock at the Upper Creve Coeur Lake track. The feature of the program will be the Greater St. Louis sweepstakes championship 25-mile race.

Outstanding drivers of the Central States will match their skill and the endurance of their automobiles in one of the hardest fought auto classics of the season. The half mile track has been groomed to make it the fastest it has ever been and the drivers are expected to save from two to three seconds in qualifying. Due to the 100-foot turns the cars will start three in a line and 12 of the fastest will go in the 50-lap championship run.

The qualifying trials will be held this morning.

To get to the Speedway take an Olive-Delmar Loop street car to University City and then the blue busses to the Speedway. Nearly 8000 fans turned out for last Sunday's events.

KAISER, TERRY AND ALFANO TO BOX ON TIPPETT'S NEXT CARD

Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser, veteran local featherweight, has been signed by Matchmaker Jock Tippett to appear in one of the three 10-round bouts which will feature the next card of the Walter Hatsfeld Post at the Gayety Theater, Nov. 10. Kaiser has agreed to meet any opponent Tippett may select. Kaiser injured a hand in a bout last spring and laid off all summer giving the injury a chance to heal. He declares he is ready to resume ring work and has been training hard lately.

Lou Terry, St. Louis lightweight, has agreed to appear in one of the other 10-rounders while Ray Alfano, East Side lightweight, will be a principal in the other.

TEXAS PASSES UPSET SOUTHERN METHODIST

By the Associated Press.
AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 1.—Unleashing a terrific offensive and a defense their opponents could not fathom until the closing minutes of play, the powerful University of Texas Longhorns upset Southern Methodist University, 25 to 7, here today.

A crowd estimated at more than 20,000 saw the favored Mustangs crushed and hopelessly beaten.

Title hopes of the grid team of Belleville High School were given a setback yesterday afternoon as the defending champions lost their first game of the season to Collinsville, 7-0, and dropped from first place. The co-leading East St. Louis eleven overpowered the light Alton squad in a ragged game, 27-0, on the East Side field.

Granite City came through as expected and had little trouble with Madison, defeating the visitors, 52-0. Coach Bozarth started his regulars but after they made a touchdown on the first play, sent in the second team. Those lads ran the score to 46-0 at the half and the fourth team carried the battle for the rest of the game. The victory keeps Granite City in a tie with East St. Louis for the lead.

The game at Collinsville was a sensational affair with the host team holding Belleville scoreless until the last period. The Maroon quarterback, Kane, attempted a long pass that Dave Jack intercepted and ran 65 yards for a touchdown. Bob Gauen placekicked the extra point. The Collinsville victory was an upset and Belleville will have to defeat the East Siders and Granite City in order to retain the title.

Superior weight wore the Alton lads down at East St. Louis, although the visitors gave the league leaders a good game. East St. Louis depended upon its passing attack to gain ground and counted 19 first downs to Alton's three. A long pass, Kavalier to Warfield, who ran 35 yards for touchdown, was the only score in the first half. Kavalier went through center for the point.

The second half was easy for the East Siders and they scored twice in the third period. Alton's short punt put the ball on its own 20-yard line and Kavalier went through tackle for score. He also went through for the point. The latter part of the period East Side began a march down the field with Edmundston going through guard for the third touchdown. Warfield went through center for the point.

Alton opened the last session with passing, but the tosses were blocked and intercepted. After a short toss had been stopped on the 45-yard line, Warfield broke through and ran for the fourth touchdown. The try for point was fumbled.

DUC ELEVEN OPPOSES THOMAS A. C. TODAY

The Ducs, pace setters of the Jewish Community Center Football League, and the second place Victor eleven, are favored to win their games this morning at Beaumont High School fields. The Ducs tackle the Thomas A. C. in the feature game, while the Victors and Rough Riders tangle in the opener.

The leading Duc aggregation, in four games, has scored a total of 57 points, and they have not been scored upon. Buck Cohen, husky Duc fullback, is the leading scorer, with 20 points to his credit.

Led by Alvin Feldman, all-County quarter last year, University City outplayed Maplewood High yesterday in a County League game that assures U. City of at least a tie for the title. The final score was 14-0, and Feudman made eight of the points, scoring one touchdown and kicking two extra points. Maplewood fought hard throughout the game but was no match for the smooth-working outfit of the Indians.

U. City had the ball in Maplewood's territory throughout the first half and had one touchdown called back when Feldman ran out of bounds after receiving a pass near Maplewood's goal. Just before the first quarter ended, Deckert intercepted a pass in midfield and then U. City made a first down on straight football The second quarter started with the ball on Maplewood's 34-yard line, from where Feldman raced to a touchdown. Feldman's kick for the extra point was good.

In the fourth period U. City had the ball on Maplewood's 10-yard line but couldn't get through to score. Near the end of the game, Feldman intercepted a pass on the 40-yard line and ran it to the 25-yard line. Then McMurray passed to Feldman for a first down and a 20-yard gain. Deckert carried the ball over on two plays, and Feldman again kicked the extra point.

Normandy Trounces Clayton by 26 to 0

The Normandy team, the surprise eleven in the county league this season, continued its string of victories yesterday on its own field, when it downed the hitherto undefeated Clayton outfit, 26 to 0, in a conference game. This defeat put Clayton out of the championship race.

Clayton made more first downs than the winners, gathering 10, while Normandy made only 9.

Normandy started its scoring immediately after the opening whistle. Its kickoff went to the 8-yard line, and after Normandy gained the ball on downs, Rogers went over from the 3-yard mark. Young's kick was good.

The one time Clayton came close to the goal was in the second period. It went to the 4-yard line, but was not able to push the ball across.

Swacker, Rogers again and Bourner counted the other Normandy touchdowns.

U. S. ARMY POLOISTS WIN IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 1.—Led by Capt. C. A. Wilkinson, the United States Army polo team defeated Los Pinguinos quartet of Argentina, 13 to 5, in the opening match of the Argentine national championship.

Wilkinson, who played at No. 2, scored five goals and figured in other plays. The United States team completely outclassed its less experienced opponents, composed of four brothers of the Braun Menendez family.

The Argentines managed to hold the invaders scoreless for the first chukker and went out in front in the second. In the third period Alejandro, who scored twice in the preceding session, was injured and was replaced by another brother, Armando.

The Army team finally began to click and in short order held command of the situation.

18 IMPORTANT GAMES RESULT IN TIES

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Tie games studded the collegiate football firmament today.

In the more important contests there were 18 games resulting in a deadlock. The historical "Big Three" in the East—Yale, Harvard and Princeton—participated in drawn games.

Other important ties were: Brown-Syracuse, Pitt-Nebraska, Georgia-Florida Wisconsin-Ohio State and Georgia Tech-North Carolina.

ED ZAMZOW, LOCAL BILLIARD PLAYER, DIES

Ed Zamzow, for the past two decades one of St. Louis' leading amateur billiard players, died at his home here yesterday after an illness of almost a year. His death, following closely that of Dr. L. P. Macklin, takes from the billiard world two of its finest amateur players.

Zamzow, always exuberant and demonstrative, was not only a colorful player, but one of the greatest three-cushion shot makers ever seen here. He numbered among his victims some of the world's leading professional players.

The highlight of his career came when he was still a youngster. Alfred de Oro of Cuba, then champion of the world at three cushions, was meeting all comers at the Grand Academy, in 1908. Zamzow, a brilliant young player, was matched with the master and to the surprise of the champion, the kid won, 50 to 33. DeOro roared his displeasure and demanded that George Schaefer, owner of the academy, schedule another match with Zamzow.

Young Ed, still going in sensational form, again beat the champion, by the same score, 50 to 33. This time DeOro swallowed his pride and appeared convinced, at least for the moment, that Zamzow was too good for him.

In recent years, Zamzow played most of his billiards at Peterson's, where he was recognized as one of the best players St. Louis has ever had.

TEXAS AGGIES BEAT CENTENARY ON POINT AFTER A TOUCHDOWN

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 1.—Featuring little Harry Stiteler, 137-pound quarterback, starting his first game, the rejuvenated Texas Aggie eleven bowled over the Centenary gentlemen, 7-6, here today.

The Aggie touchdown came in the opening minutes of the second quarter, after Stiteler unleashed a pasisng attack to Hewitt, Tracy and McFadden. Then the little signal caller went over for a touchdown. Stiteler also kicked the extra point. Murff of Centenary scored a touchdown by returning a punt 96 yards. Brown failed to kick the extra point.

WESTERN TEAM AVOIDS SHUTOUT BY SPECTACULAR DOUBLE PASS

By the Associated Press.
WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Army football players ran rough shod over the University of North Dakota today to win, 33 to 6.

The Cadets took the offensive from the start and dazzled the crowd of 15,000 with a new variation of the old Army game in the shape of tricky reverses, spinners and passes that pushed across five touchdowns in the first three periods.

It remained for the westerners to pull off the most spectacular play of the game in the final period when they averted a shutout by tallying a touchdown and kept the Army from adding to its total.

With the ball on the Army 27-yard line, Schave flung a forward to Felber, left end, who was just about to be tackled when he slipped the ball laterally into the arms of Jarrett, star quarterback. Taking the pass in full stride, Jarrett raced across the line for a well earned touchdown. Richmond's placement kick missed its mark.

There was no outstanding star among the Cadets and the five touchdowns were made by as many different men

COUSIN JO, RANK OUTSIDER, WINS LATONIA PURSE

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., Nov. 1.—The twenty-first running of the Fort Thomas Handicap produced one of the biggest upsets of the Kentucky fall racing season when C. Kuckol's Cousin Jo, a despised outsider in the mutuel betting, led home such highly regarded juveniles as Looney and Shea's Martha Jones, Gallaher and Combs' Oswego and the Audley Farm's Knight's Call.

The fixture, which carried a purse of $5960 to the winner, attracted 12 starters. Oswego, on the strength of his stakes victories at Lincoln Fields and subsequent brilliant showing here, was backed into favoritism and Knight's Call, which had finished third to Twenty, Grand and Equipoise, in the Jockey Club Stakes at Churchill Downs, was a stanch second choice.

After a five-minute delay, Starter Hamilton got the field away to a good alignment. Martha Jones jumped into a long lead at once and at the half mile post, enjoyed a two-length advantage.

Cousin Jo, under reserve, was racing second and Oswego and Knight's Call third and fourth, respectively. Turning for home, Cousin Jo began to move up on the tiring pacemaker, and in a rousing finish, got up in the last stride to nip the Looney and Shea filly by a nose. The latter had enough left to stall off Oswego by a length for the place.

Knight's Call failed to finish in the money by a nose.

The winner covered the six furlongs in the fast time of 1:12 4-5. She rewarded her backers at $58.20 for each $2 investment to win, $17.46 to place and $6.32 to show.

EIGHT HOCKEY GAMES AT ARENA IN DECEMBER

By W. J. McGoogan.

The St. Louis Flyers are scheduled to open the league hockey season at Tulsa, Nov. 25, and will play at Kansas City on Nov. 29 before returning home to open their home season with a game against the Chicago Shamrocks on Dec. 4 at The Arena, the league schedule, released yesterday, shows.

Eight games each are to be played with Chicago, New York and Buffalo and six each with Tulsa, Kansas City, Duluth and Minneapolis. Half of the games will be played here and half in the other cities. Forty-eight games, 24 at home and 24 abroad, are scheduled for each of the eight teams in the league.

December is to be the big month at The Arena, eight games being set for that month, while four are scheduled in January, six in February and the same number in March.

If The Arena is not ready by Dec. 4, the opening game with Chicago likely will be transferred to that city. However, work is being rushed on the ice plant and unless difficulties not now anticipated arise, The Arena should be ready for the first game.

Joseph Goldschmidt, business agent for the Flyers, announced that he had received the signed contracts of six players and they have been ordered to report here this week preparatory to going to Tulsa or Kansas City for pre-season training. They are Larry Goyer, Chief Boileau, Vic La Pointe, Ray Fowler, Syl Acaster and Fred Kearney. All of them were with the team last season, although La Pointe was sent to Philadelphia, from which team he was returned to St. Louis.

Names of new players will not be announced until their signed contracts are in hand, Goldschmidt stated.

The Flyers' home games:
Dec. 4—Chicago.
Dec. 7—Tulsa.
Dec. 9—New York.
Dec. 10—New York.
Dec. 13—Kansas City.
Dec. 14—Kansas City.

MULE SHOE BRINGS LUCK TO KANSAS AGGIE TEAMS

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Nov. 1. — An ordinary mule shoe is a treasured possession at the Kansas State Agricultural College.

The shoe was found by a football player on the stadium field at Columbia, Mo., last fall when the Aggies beat the Tigers, 7-6.

Aggie athletes carried the same shoe with them when they won from Missouri in basketball last winter and again this spring when they won two games from the Tiger baseball team.

Now the shoe is looked to for luck in football this year.

ERBE RETURNS TO BEN MILLER LINEUP, TODAY

Tom Erbe, the Ben Miller's good right fullback who has not played since the middle of last season when he was suspended for fighting, returns to Billy Foley's lineup this afternoon in the St. Louis Soccer League program at Sportsman's Park. Erbe will pair off with Frank Vaughn. Foley promises other changes in his lineup, including the introduction of Hughie Hill, formerly of the Chicago Bricklayers, at center halfback. Hughie played forward in Chicago. His brother, Tommy, is one of the best halfbacks in the Chicago district. George Ballom will return to center forward for the Millers today and Benny Nash will be shifted to outside right. John Marre, boss of the Tabler Club, will use his regular lineup against the Millers. Joe Hand is not yet fully recovered from an injury to his ribs and Zenson will continue at left fullback.

Manager Tate Brady will give one DeGray, late of Germany, a chance at right fullback in the game against Phil Kavanaugh's Coca-Colas.

The first game is scheduled to start at 2 p. m.

With the two McHenry brothers and Tommy Kelley, all late of the Geraghtys, added to their lineup, the St. Louis Hurlers will meet the Cook A. C., in the first game of the Sherman Park group program of the Municipal Soccer League this afternoon. Two other promising games are the meeting of the Schenbergs and Spanish Club at Carondelet and the St. Matthew-Anderson game at Fairgrounds.

Scarsdale Stake To Questionnaire

By the Associated Press.

EMPIRE CITY, N. Y., Nov. 1.—James Butler, owner of the Empire City track, had the pleasure of seeing his colt, Questionnaire, capture the Scarsdale Handicap, mile and seventy yards feature, here today. The horse and his rider, Charlie Kurtsinger, received a great hand when they returned to the scales.

Questionnaire, which had returned from Maryland, where his form was very poor, was held lightly in the betting, but the public backed him with good confidence and knocked his price from 5 down to 3. It was really no contest.

Kurtsinger got Questionnaire away well and let him rate to the far turn, where he moved up very fast, took the lead and drew away to win galloping by eight lengths.

Mokatam beat Sandy Ford three lengths for the place. The race was worth $3980.

JIMMY LONDOS MEETS DUSEK HERE NOV. 12

Jimmy Londos, Greek heavyweight wrestler, will meet Rudy Dusek of Memphis and Omaha in the main event of a Coliseum wrestling card on Wednesday night, Nov. 12. The bout was announced last night by Promoter Tom Packs.

Londos is still recognized as the titleholder in New York and Pennsylvania by virtue of his victory over Dick Shikat at Philadelphia last June, when he gained possession of a "championship belt" which the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission had presented to Shikat after his triumph over Hans Steinke a year previous.

Dusek "qualified" for his coming engagement with Londos by disposing of Jim Clinstock, Milo Steinborn and Paul Jones in a series of elimination tryouts conducted by Packs at the Coliseum during the past two months. In other local bouts within the last year Dusek defeated Matros Kerilenko, Dick Daviscourt and Fred Grobmeier, losing only to Dick Shikat, who pinned him last summer.

The bout with Dusek will mark Londos' second appearance on a St. Louis mat since his triumph over Shikat. Shortly after the Philadelphia bout, Londos met and defeated Jim Clinstock at the Battery A arena here.

OKLAHOMA CITY BEATS DAVIS AND ELKINS, 13-2

ELKINS, W. Va., Nov. 1.—Outgained 19 first downs to four, Oklahoma City University none the less defeated Davis and Elkins at football here today, 13 to 2. The victory kept the Oklahomans' record unspotted for the season to date.

After holding the scarlet hurricane twice on the Oklahoma City one-foot line in the first half, the visitors counted two touchdowns in the third period.

BILLIKEN COACH MUST FIND THREE NEW REGULARS

By Dent McSkimming.

Facing the necessity of grooming players to replace Center Cecil Mullerleile, Tackle Fred Joseph and Tackle Rufus Schultz, Coach Chile Walsh will begin tomorrow to prepare the St. Louis University football team for the game with Loyola of Chicago, here, next Friday night. The three regulars above named suffered injuries in the Rolla game that make it improbable they will be fit for duty within the next two weeks. Mullerleile probably is lost for the season.

After Loyola of Chicago comes Loyola of New Orleans. Fortunately for the Billikens, the Chicago team is not regarded as a serious threat. New Orleans, however, has real power. Walsh will undoubtedly try to get past the game with Chicago Loyola with his reserves.

The Rolla game served a useful purpose, so far as the Billiken team is concerned. It proved, better than could any other test, that the St. Louis line needs strengthening and it is with this purpose in mind that Walsh will resume practice.

It is worthy of note that the Oklahoma City University team, which beat the Billikens early in the season, handed the strong Davis-Elkins team a 13-to-2 walloping yesterday. Loyola of New Orleans beat St. Xavier of Cincinnati, 27 to 6, at Cincinnati, on Friday.

Bears Meet Grinnell Next.

Out at Francis Field, Dr. Sharpe and his coaching staff will get the Washington Bears ready for Grinnell which visits here next Saturday. This will be the first Missouri Valley Conference game of the season at home for the Bears and their third conference game of the season.

Grinnell apparently has at last developed a scoring punch. The Iowans beat Creighton in a conference game Friday, 18 to 2. After winning their opening game from a minor college, Grinnell lost three games in a row to Marquette, Detroit and Drake, scoring only 13 points in the three games, but came back to win two in a row from Carleton College and Creighton. Washington seems to have the edge, for Drake beat Grinnell, 20 to 7, and then, on Friday night, had the hardest kind of a time beating Washington, 12 to 0.

THREE SPEED SKATING RACES SET TOMORROW AT WINTER GARDEN

The second week of speed skating at the Winter Garden, under the auspices of the Missouri Skating Association, will get under way tomorrow. Three events are scheduled tomorrow night and two Wednesday night.

In the three races scheduled tomorrow, all at 440 yards, the juvenile and junior boys' events will be run off at 5 p. m., and at 10:30 o'clock the girls' race will be skated. On Wednesday night Class A and Class B boys, in the intermediate division, will compete.

All skaters participating in indoor and outdoor events sponsored by the Missouri Skating Association this year must become members of the organization, it has been announced.

COLD TREATMENT ROOM NO ADMITTANCE
CIGARS WITH ALL THEIR NEW-MADE FRESHNESS AND FLAVOR SEALED IN!

NEW "COLD-TREATMENT" DOES IT!

CIGAR smokers, rejoice! At last a way has been found to give you that greatest of smoke-thrills—a cigar that is as fresh and fragrant when you light it, as it is at the minute it's made.

If you've ever smoked an absolutely fresh-made cigar, you know that no other smoke can quite compare with it. It lingers in your memory as the pleasantest smoke experience you've ever had.

And now you can have that thrill every day. Dutch Masters' NEW "Cold-Treatment" makes it possible. This pioneering process takes each Dutch Masters cigar just as it is finished—just at the precise moment when the fine tobaccos are at their fresh, Peak of Perfection flavor . . .

And then "seals" that fresh aroma and flavor within the cigar itself, to stay there until your match releases it for you!

Try a Dutch Masters "Cold-Treated" cigar to-day. And discover for yourself that greatest of smoke-satisfactions—a cigar with its aroma and flavor as fresh as the minute it was made! All popular sizes and shapes—10¢ and up

Mfrd. by the Consolidated Cigar Corp., New York, N. Y. Distributed by Stickney-Hoelscher Cigar Co., 409 Olive Street.

A Dutch Masters is always an agreeable companion. It is a mild cigar—you can enjoy the "Peak of Freshness" flavor as often as you wish each day.

There's as much difference between a Dutch Masters "Cold-Treated" cigar and an ordinary cigar, as there is between a fresh peach and a dried peach.

Behind this massive door is the "Cold-Treatment" room where Dutch Masters cigars are having their new-made freshness and flavor sealed in by this amazing new process.

The second week of speed skating at the Winter Garden, under the auspices of the Missouri Skating Association, will get under way tomorrow. Three events are scheduled tomorrow night and two Wednesday night.

In the three races scheduled tomorrow, all at 440 yards, the juvenile and junior boys' events will be run off at 5 p. m., and at 10:30 o'clock the girls' race will be skated. On Wednesday night Class A and Class B boys, in the intermediate division, will compete.

All skaters participating in indoor and outdoor events sponsored by the Missouri Skating Association this year must become members of the organization, it has been announced.

Golf Beginners Should Work For Sound Swing, It Leads To Consistency, Jones Says

By Bobby Jones,
American Open, British Open, American Amateur and British Amateur Champion.

All golfing methods differ from each other in many particulars. Each good player presents an appearance so unlike any other that he can be recognized from great distances merely by the manner in which he swings his club. The inexperienced observer often fastens on to these differences, concludes that each man employs a radically different swing, and sets about modeling his form upon that of a player he will select. And that one he will ape faithfully and exactly to the last detail.

Bobby Jones.

A closer study of the better players reveals the fact that while no two are alike, or even nearly so, still there are certain things, both large and small, which all of them do. Not only are we justified in regarding these unanimously accepted practices as sound, but it would seem that every golfer, large or small, fat or lean, would do well to adopt them as his own. The fact that almost every effective swing displays certain things which he can tell him ers is evidence enough that these things ought to be a part of every method.

Proper Foundation Essential.

Indeed, these ar about the only details of the stroke that the instructor is able to give to a rank beginner. These are the only things which he can tell him positively to do. The rest of the job consists of correcting faulty movements and in fitting together a stroke upon the proper foundation already supplied. But the stroke as a whole is not developed upon any set lines. The fundamentals must be observed, but there is great latitude allowed for accommodating individual needs.

It seems to me that a thorough understanding of these fundamentals of the stroke is the first thing at which the beginner should aim. It might be said, of course, that there is a fundamentally correct swing from which everyone varies only slightly.

But that is not what I mean for a thorough understanding of that sort of a swing and the ability to produce it are the two things that all of us are seeking and so few have ever attained. I have reference only to the obvious things which are easily seen and accomplished by the average inexperienced player, things that an ordinarily good player learns for himself and an expert never has to think about, but nevertheless points which can be noted by everyone at a great saving of time and trouble.

Sound Swing Makes Consistency.

One of the great reasons for the consistency of the best players is the possession of a sound swing, by which we mean nothing more than a swing in which the successive positions are taken in accordance with accepted practice among expert players. It will be found that the man who departs far from what we call the orthodox, if he is even at times effective, is yet an erratic and unreliable player. He who starts in an unexciting position and commits no unwarranted extravagances is usually the more consistent player because be places himself in positions and moves his club in paths from which and through which other successful players have found the going easier. All men are enough alike to make it safe to follow examples which have been proved effective by others.

BOWLING NOTES

The South Side Chevrolets paced the teams in the Peterson Scratch League last week, rolling a three-game total of 3066 and taking three games from the Hellrungs. Four of the South Side bowlers cracked the 600 mark, Jim Wilson getting 654, Kastner 629, Flesh 625 and Leicht 612. The Lamberts moved to within one game of the lead by winning three games from the Sunshines while the Flints were taking two from Schmitt's Ready Mixers. In the other match the Witter Razz, paced by Otto Stein with 630 and Pat Spencer with 621, won the odd game from the Petersons.

The Fehligs are leading the Hoo Hoo Club League on Schaefer's alleys with a record of 21 games won and six lost. The Boecklers are second, one game behind, with the Schillings third. The Goodfellows hold both team records with scores of 2877 and 1027. High team average is held by the Carrs, who have a mark of 856.

Boehmer led the individuals in the Outlying Banks League on the Florissalleys, rolling a series of 598 with a high count of 226. His team, the Savings, won two games from the Natural Bridges. In the other matches the Cass Banks won three games from the Lowells, the West St. Louis Trust took three from the Lindells and the Eastons won the odd game from the Northwesterns.

The Hogans won three games from the Schweiglers on the Beresford alleys last week, rolling 2650 to 2447. John Waser was high for the winners with 563. F. Barry was next with 551. Bill Leaf led the Schweiglers with 477.

Cornwall's 641, which included a single game record of 279, led the bowlers in the Vandervoort-Jaccard League. Cornwall's scores helped the Emanelos take three games from the Scruggs. Carey was high for the losers with 543. Murphy was the only other bowler to gather more than 600 sticks, getting 628, and his team won the odd game from the Ramblers. The Collections took two from the Smokers and the Banks white-washed the Basements in the other matches.

The Delivery team closed on the Credits in the Nugents League by winning three games from the Uptowns while the Credits were dropping the odd game to the Smartleighs. Only one game separates the teams. In the other matches the Wellstons won two from the Office Five and the Basements took three from the Publicity team. High single was won by Ebenreck with 255. Erbe's 621 was high three.

The league leading Murrays won three games from the Cohens in the Happy Days Sport Club League last week, Visel being high for the winners with 526. Tom Dunn's 590 was best for the losers. The Kellys took two from the Conleys in the other match. Mrs. Mogin, 440, and Art Hauple, 463, being high.

Otto Stein Jr. will be handicaped 87 pins when he tackles Chris Sottrel in the final half of their twenty game special bowling contest on the Washington Alleys this evening. Sottrel defeated the Witter Razz star 1833 to 1746 in the initial block on the Hyde Park Recreation drives last night. Both bowlers were well below their true stride as their respective averages of 183 and 174 will attest.

COUNTRY DAY ELEVEN LOSES TO MILWAUKEE, 9-6

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 1.—The St. Louis Country Day School, making an invasion of Milwaukee for the first time in two years, lost to its old rival, Milwaukee Country Day, today, 9-6. The game was the sixth between the two schools and Milwaukee's fifth victory in the series which began back in 1919. It was through the passing and plunging of Capt. Kim Moe and Hallfrisch that Milwaukee gained a hard earned victory. For St. Louis, Morgan, Morton and Putney divided honors. Their efforts were confined to the last period, however, after Milwaukee had piled up a 9-0 lead.

The first quarter was a see-saw punting duel between Moe and Hallfrisch of Milwaukee, and Morton and Morgan of St. Louis, the local institution had the advantage of first downs, 5 to 2, but Morton and Morgan totaled about the same in yardage gained.

The second quarter was a nightmare for St. Louis. Twice Milwaukee threatened and its second attempt scored a touchdown. On the first defensive work by Morgan stopped the Milwaukeeans on St. Louis' 35-yard line. A pass over the goal placed the ball on St. Louis' 20-yard marker. A poor punt by Putney gave Milwaukee the ball on their foe's 42-yard line. A pass, Moe to Charles, netted 20 yards. Moe fumbled the next pass for a 10-yard loss, but sent a beautiful 20-yard pass to Hallfrisch that was good for a first down. Thre plunges by Moe netted six yards and another pass like a bullet to Hallfrisch in the end zone produced a touchdown. Green made the place-kick for the extra point.

With the aid of a strong wind and the great kicking of Kim Moe, Milwaukee continued to threaten in the third quarter. Early in the third quarter Moe kicked out of bounds on the five-yard line and kept St. Louis in distress with little ability to get out of its predicament.

Then another kick out of bounds on the five-yard line and Milwaukee was in a position to score its safety, which it did when Klode and Moe, co-captains, blocked Putney's punt for a safety.

The fourth quarter brought St. Louis its score. An exchange of punts had given St. Louis the ball on its own 15-yard line. Led by Morton St. Louis started on a great yardage spree that finally netted its score. Morton twisted twice for 20 yards around right end for two downs. Two beautiful passes netted 30 yards more. The first Putney to Charles, was good for 25 yards. The second, Putney to Morton for five more. Then Morgan, Van Brecht and Renard combined to score the touchdown on a series of short plunges with Morgan going over from the two-yard line for the touchdown. Putney missed the place kick.

Lineups:

CITY HALL DEDICATED IN UNIVERSITY CITY

Municipal Offices Moved to Magazine Building—Gov. Caulfield Speaks.

University City turned out last night to dedicate its new City Hall, or to celebrate the homecoming of the city fathers after 20 years, the speakers could not quite decide which.

As many of the populace as could, crowded into the aldermanic chamber on the fifth floor of the octogon-shaped one-time Magazine building at Delmar boulevard and Harvard avenue to hear Gov. Caulfield and other speakers representing St. Louis and the county extol the city and its unusual City Hall. Others strolled through the city offices or congregated on the grand marble staircase to hear the speeches through loud speakers.

"I am no architect, or artist," Gov. Caulfield said, "and I have not been everywhere nor seen everything, but I think I can say certainly that you have the most beautiful City Hall in Missouri, and probably in many other States.

"It ought to stand as a symbol of the pride this city has taken in its civic government."

The new City Hall has been a landmark in University City for 24 years. Originally it was the plant of the Women's National Magazine, published by Edward G. Lewis, founder of University City. From 1906 until 1910. the affairs of the city were administered from Lewis' office in the building. Last spring the City Hall at 6618 Delmar boulevard was traded for the Magazine building, part of which had been used in late years, as a warehouse. About $30,000 was spent in remodeling the structure.

Other speakers last night were Mayor Ruth of University City Circuit Judge Nolte and Walter B. Weisenburger, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

"Architecturally speaking," said Weisenburger, referring to the tower-like appearance of the structure, "you people of University City are to be congratulated on having the most upright City Hall in Missouri or any place else."

15 COAST GUARD OFFICERS FREED IN MACHINE GUN THEFT

Twenty-five Other Members Still Held in Inquiry at Buffalo Headquarters.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Of 40 coast guardsmen under arrest in connection with the disappearance of machine guns and service revolvers from the coast guard headquarters in this city, the officers, 15 in number, were released tonight. Commander M. W. Rasmussen, in charge of the station, has submitted to Washington a full report of the affair and is continuing his investigation.

The commander is convinced that one or more coast guardsmen conspired with persons outside the service for the theft of the weapons.

The most mystifying angle in the theft is the removal of an entire case of machine guns from a busy part of the main building. These guns are thought to have reached a liquor running gang on Lake Erie or to be in the possession of others. Gunmen pay high prices for such weapons, due to difficulty in obtaining them.

A delegation of St. Louis Democratic leaders will meet him upon his arrival at Union Station at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

TEXAS POLITICAL BOSS DIES

Sheriff Baker Was Czar of Rio Grande Border Country.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 1.—The last of the great political dictators in Texas passed today with the death of A. Y. Baker, Sheriff of Hidalgo County, and unquestioned political czar of the Rio Grande border country for a decade. His grip was broken a few months ago, following the publication of articles about him in New York newspapers and magazines. He succumbed from an apopletic stroke suffered Friday at his home in Edinburg, Tex.

Recently Sheriff Baker and seven of his followers were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury at Houston on charges of conspiracy to deprive citizens of their rights.

$214,892 Contract for Plane Motors.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The War Department has announced awards to the Wright Aeronautical Corporation of Paterson, N. J., of a $214,892 contract for 40 air-cooled "Cyclone" engines and spare parts. The Detroit Aircraft Corporation received a second contract to furnish at $20,316 a fast Lockseed single-engined transport plane for use in further service tests. The Department announced that 20 of the Cyclone engines would be installed in Fokker single-engine cargo planes, while the remainder would be used for spares.

ADVOCATES PROPOSITION 6 FOR THIRD ST. WIDENING

Statements favoring the passage of Proposition 6, State constitutional amendment providing for excess or marginal condemnation, were issued yesterday by Erastus Wells, chairman of the board of the Chamber of Commerce, and Charles E. Williams, vice president of the Associated Retailers. Both are members of the Citizens' Committee favoring Proposition 6.

Wells said that marginal condemnation is essential to the widening of Third street, a necessary improvement for the downtown district, and not dependent upon the general river front improvement plan. If the river front improvement takes place, the Third street widening would be a part of it, but the Third street work is of immediate necessity, Wells argues. He calls widening of Third street "a utility pure and simple, as essential to St. Louis as are the elevated railroads of New York and Chicago." He pointed out that the new Third street will be the natural route from downtown streets to Gravois or Natural Bridge avenue, the two ends of the Twelfth boulevard widening. Wells believes that it will not be practicable to make this needed downtown improvement without the authority to be obtained from Proposition 6.

Williams discussed Proposition 6 as necessary for the river front improvement. "As a member of the Regional Plan Commission," Williams said, "I see for the St. Louis of tomorrow a beautiful river drive, comparable to the beautiful drives that other cities have made and capitalized, but the citizens of St. Louis and the State must give us the tools to accomplish this by enacting Proposition 6."

YOUNG HOOVER REACHES ASHEVILLE TO RECUPERATE

President's Son Appears in Good Health and Stops to Admire View.

By the Associated Press.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 1.—Herbert Hoover Jr., arrived in Asheville today for a stay of several months for recuperative purposes. He left the train from Washington at Azalea Station, eight miles from Asheville and made the rest of the trip into the city by motor.

The President's son was met at the station by his wife, who preceded him here by three days to open Blue Briar cottage on Sunset Mountain, several friends of the family, and a group of Secret Service operatives and police. Young Hoover, smiling as he stepped from the train, showed no signs of his recent illness. He was tanned and apparently in good health. Arriving at his new home, young Hoover paused for a moment to admire the view. "I think this is great," he said.

Formal Parties For Observance Of Halloween

Bridlespur Hunt Club Also Celebrates Conclusion of Point-to-Point Races — Many Other Functions.

HALLOWEEN, consecrated long ago in England and Scotland to harmless revelries, when imaginative ghosts walked and witches played pranks on a peaceful people, was celebrated in St. Louis this season with numerous and much more formal functions than the childish games of ducking for apples and consuming bowls of popcorn which present-day society seems to have discarded. Much of the doorbell ringing still popular with the young generation was done Friday night, the real anniversary of the vigil of All Saints' day, but the country club celebrations with two excep- ions appeared on last night's calendar.

The first autumn party at the Deer Creek Club on Litzinger oad was given Friday night. The uests were asked in the invita- ions to appear in "rags and tags" and the costumes ranged from overalls and red shirts to the fan- astic attire of the gay nineties. Calico beach pajamas were worn, nd farmers and farmerettes in loppy hats were among those present.

Pumpkin heads and corn husks provided much of the decoration. Corn was stacked in the corners, with life-sized bats and ghosts dding realism to the Halloween notif. The balcony was arranged with a cloud on which a witch rode on her broom, and nearby was built a huge grinning pumpkin moon, in the mouth of which was a slide on which the guests made spectacular entrances to the dance floor below.

There were two long dinner tables covered with red and white checked cotton cloths, where eaves and pumpkin heads were piled as centerpieces. For the place cards there were ears of corn on which were pumpkin heads perched on pipe cleaners to look like men, alternating with black cats on their own ears of corn.

At the Bridlespur Hunt Club in he Village of Huntleigh the party erved a twofold purpose—to celebrate Halloween and the successful conclusion of the second annual point-to-point races run in the afternoon over the countryside ad- oining the club grounds. About 40 members and their guests, many of them from out of town, nd a few participants from Kan- as City, made hurried trips to heir homes following the riding events to change to formal attire nd returned to the club for the teeplechase dinner dance.

The decorations were in keeping with the spirit of the occasion. Blankets from the stables of more than 20 members were draped about the walls, each made in the iding colors of its respective own- r and bearing his name. The August A. Busch colors, for example, are red and yellow, consequently this blanket occupied an important position in the decora- ive scheme. Trails' End Stables, owned by Andrew W. Johnson, Howard V. Stephens and Bradford hinkle, were represented by a gold nd black blanket. Edward L. Bakewell, who is mayor of the mall and exclusive Huntleigh Vil- age, uses red and black on his orses, while his neighbor, Adal- ert von Gontard, was flying red nd white on the clubhouse walls. ouis A. Hager Jr. has chosen gray nd purple and Roy Siegel laven- er, so that the rainbow hues were lso in evidence. Further tribute o the horse was given in polished ridles and saddles which hung bout the rooms, and hoods de- ended from autumn leaves in the orners.

The dinner tables were covered ith pink linen cloths, and ar- anged with Halloween pumpkins nd fall fruits on beds of corn usks.

The St. Louis Country Club had ore conservative decorations, also taining the atmosphere of the y. Oak trees covered with bril- ant colored autumn leaves con- ealed the walls, and from their ranches cats and bats leered in e reflections of amber light lobes. Artificial moons hung on e ceiling. Orange shades il- minated dinner tables adorned ith chrysanthemums.

The largest party for 110 guests as given by Mrs. H. Blakeley Col- s, 56 Portland place, in honor four of this season's debutantes, iss Jane Perry Francis, Miss Ade- e Ely Smith, Miss Christine For- ce and Miss Margaret Vieths.

Entertainments for Out-of-Town Visitors

THE outdoor sports events, which take precedence over the more formal dinner dances for the week-end, have attracted a number of out-of-town visitors. Additional guests will arrive for the late autumn season and debutantes are preparing to entertain them at their functions.

Mrs. Webster Tilton of New York, formerly of St. Louis, is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Dozier of the St. Louis Country Club grounds, and will share honors with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnston of New York at a luncheon Tuesday for which Mrs. Carl Langenberg of the St. Louis Country Club grounds will be hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, also formerly of St. Louis, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson, 10 Portland place, and will be guests of honor this morning, following the hunt to be run over the country adjoining the Bridlespur Hunt Club, at a breakfast party at Trails End Stables.

Miss Jane Scott of Baltimore, Md., who is the guest of Miss Christine Fordyce, debutante daughter of William C. Fordyce, 19 Washington terrace, is taking part in the festivities of the younger set and was the guest of honor at a dinner party given by Miss Fordyce Tuesday evening. Mrs. Carl R. Gray Jr., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. E. N. Beach, 4618 Westminster place, and is being entertained at informal social affairs during her stay.

Miss Amelia Overall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Overall of Kent road, will have as her guests later in the month Miss Mary Robertson and Miss Peggy Milligan, both of Pittsburg, Pa., former classmates of Miss Overall at Miss Porter's School, Farmington, Conn. The young women will share honors with Miss Overall at her debut dinner dance, to be given at the St. Louis Country Club, Thanksgiving eve.

Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Kelley Jr., 32 Portland place, will have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. George Bole of Tulsa, Ok., who will arrive Nov. 14. At the same time Mr. and Mrs. Birch O. Mahaffey, 9 Portland place, will entertain Mr. and Mrs. H. Lester Cuddihy of New York.

Mrs. Henry A. Boeckeler, formerly of St. Louis, who has been spending her time for the last few years in the East, is the guest of Mrs. George H. Shields of the Kingsbury Apartments, and is being complimented at several social affairs.

Debut Dance Canceled.

THE dinner dance, which was to have been given by Mrs. George L. Allen, 26 Westmoreland place, to present to society her granddaughter, Miss Geraldine Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard B. Allen, 4632 Maryland avenue, has been definitely canceled because of the illness of Mrs. Wayman C. McCreery, a sister of Mrs. Allen Sr.

Pre-Wedding Parties For Mary E. Bleakney

PRE-WEDDING parties have been arranged for Miss Mary Ellen Bleakney, daughter of Mrs. Jesse Atkinson Bleakney, 6007 Cates avenue, whose marriage to Carl L. A. Beckers, son of Mrs. Clara Beckers, will take place Nov. 22. Mrs. A. L. VonRump has given a miscellaneous shower at her home in Webster Groves. Yesterday Miss Katherine Williams gave a luncheon bridge and Miss Margaret Smith will entertain at her home with a similar affair on Wednesday. On Nov. 13 Miss Gerturde Hoppe will entertain with a luncheon and handkerchief shower.

Mrs. J. Warren Jones Jr. of Hanley road will entertain the wedding party on Sunday evening, Nov. 16, at dinner. On the evening of Nov. 21 Mrs. Lee McCandless and Mrs. M. E. Jones will receive the young women of the bridal party for a spinster dinner. This will follow the rehearsal.

The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the Church of St. Michael and St. George the Rev. Dr. Karl Morgan Block officiating, and Paul Fries at the organ. An informal reception at the church will follow. The bridal party will be served at the home of the bride's mother.

The members of the wedding party are: Mrs. Elizabeth Orr, matron of honor; Mrs. Morris Jones, Miss Emily Beckers, cousin of the bridegroom, Mrs. J. W. Jones Jr. and Mrs. Lee McCandless, bridesmains; Morris Elmer Jones, best man; Lee McCandless, Robert Winter, Carl Langenohl, Arthur E. Jones, Clifford Mendel and Eugene Conrad, ushers; Mary Helen Truesdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cavour Truesdale, flower girl, and Everett Leslie Bayha, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bayha, ring bearer.

The pair will depart for a trip to Florida and on their return will spend January with the bride's mother while their apartment is being made ready.

Historical Society To Open Its Season

THE Missouri Historical Society will have its first regular meeting of the winter at the Jefferson Memorial, Tuesday evening. Dr. Karl Morgan Block, rector of the Church of St. Michael and St. George, will talk on "The Home Life of Thomas Jefferson."

The direct and collateral descendants of Thomas Jefferson will form the Reception Committee. They are: Mrs. Karl Morgan Block, Mrs. Robert Lee Carter, Mrs. William M. Dallett, Mrs. Warren F. Drescher, Mrs. Frank Y. Gladney, Mrs. Lindell Gordon, Mrs. A. A. Hart, Mrs. Earl Mitchell, Mrs. Mary Owen, Mrs. Mary B. Pollard and Mrs. James A. Sublette.

Harriet Louise Baur To Wed H. F Spoehrer

THE engagement of Miss Harriet Louise Baur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Baur, 14 Arundel place, to Hermann F. Spoehrer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Spoehrer, 6288 Fauquier drive, was announced yesterday at a bridge luncheon at the home of the bride-elect.

Miss Baur attended Mary Institute and Washington University. Mr. Spoehrer was graduated from the School of Engineering at Washington University.

The wedding will take place in January.

Patroness Bar Lifted By Mrs Hoover

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.

WASHINGTON society in the last week has noted something of a reversal in Mrs. Herbert Hoover's policy of refusing to allow her name to be listed as a patroness for unofficial social functions. Literally hundreds of such requests pour in upon the First Lady, and until recently she had steadfastly declined to appear as a sponsor. She has relented, however, in the face of the Armistice day ball, to be given at the Mayflower Hotel by the officers and members of the District of Columbia Veterans of Foreign Wars, the night of Nov. 11. She and the President will head the list.

Mrs. Hoover also has interested herself in the Wellesley College Club benefit at a local theater next week. She has taken a box. In addition she has given her name as a patroness for the benefit in a theater for the Young Women's Christian Home, which is being unhoused by Government construction work in its new park plan.

The White House has lost for the season Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr., who has gone to Asheville, N. C., with her husband for the winter. She had gone about frequently with the First Lady while the President's eldest son remained at the Rapidan River camp for his health.

By far the most brilliant event of the week was a reception at the Turkish Embassy given by Ambassador Ahmet Muhtar, one of the progressive Turks who laid the foundation for their young republic. He had as house guests for the oc-

Christmas Holiday Parties Arranged

TWO interesting parties are in prospect for the school set during the Christmas holidays. On Dec. 30 Maj. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert, 2 Hortense place, will give a dance at their home for their daughter, Miss Myrtle McGrew Lambert, a student at the Bennett School, Milbrook, N. Y. The guests will be invited for 9 o'clock and a supper will follow.

On the following evening, which is New Year's eve, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis, 6464 Ellenwood avenue, will give a large dinner dance for their daughter, Miss Anne Waters Francis, at the St. Louis Woman's Club. Miss Francis is a student at Mary Institute and the guests will include members of the school and boarding school sets, with a few of the young college set home for the holidays.

Patronesses for Junior League Children's Play

THE following group of women will serve as patronesses for the Junior League play for children, "Racketty-Packetty House," to be given Saturday mornings, Nov. 15 and 22, in the Hadley Vocational School, Lake and Waterman avenues:

Mrs. James M. Franciscus, Mrs. George W. Niedringhaus, Mrs. Donaldson L. Lambert, Mrs. George T. Moore, Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd, Mrs. Ralph Foster Bixby, Mrs. Knox Taussig, Mrs. Frank Mayfield, Miss Meredith Jones, Mrs. Charles H. Garrison, Miss Elise Beck, Mrs. Ernest R. Kroeger, Mrs. Elias Michael, Mrs. Sidney Schwab, Mrs. Frederick Dozier Gardner, Mrs. Walter Fischel, Mrs. George R. Throop, Mrs. Lewis M. Rumsey Jr., Mrs. Martin Lammert, Mrs. George Kimball Conant, Mrs. John W. MacIvor, Mrs. Karl Morgan Block, Miss Mary Rossman, Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert and Mrs. O. P. J. Falk.

The plays are being coached by Mrs. C. H. Williamson.

Woman's Club Juniors Plan Social Program

THE Junior members of the St. Louis Women's Club, admitted last season, are planning a series of social events of their own this season, independent of those conducted by their elders.

A contract bridge tournament will begin Monday and a tap dancing class Thursday with Junior Boehmer instructing. On Nov. 23 a series of backgammon games will be given with Mrs. Alfred H. Murphy instructing.

Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness is chairman of the junior membership.

Many Parties for Debutantes Set For This Week

Miss Irene Crouch Williams and Miss Margaret Ellen Wagner to Make Debuts Wednesday.

THE week's social calendar includes several parties for the debutantes and one of the most important weddings of the year. This afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. William Hugh Cunliff, 14 North Kingshighway, will give a mixed tea for Mrs. Cunliff's debutante cousin, Miss Helen Kirtland Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Nelson Spencer. Chrysanthemums in the autumn shades will adorn the tea table and the guest of honor with Mr. and Mrs. Cunliff will receive in the living room where more of the blossoms will be used in decoration. The guests will be the debutantes and their escorts.

Monday evening several parties will be given at the Opera Club in the Pal Lido of Hotel Coronado. The Opera Club, sponsored by the Junior League was formally opened last Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. M. Bain, 3801 Flora boulevard, will give a reception Monday evening at their home.

The wedding of Miss Medora Steedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fox Steedman, 34 Westmoreland place, to George E. Bass, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bass, 4651 Lindell boulevard, will be a social event of Tuesday. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock at Christ Church Cathedral and will be followed by a small reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steedman. The bride's only attendant will be her sister, Mrs. Albert Pope Hinckley of Pleasantville, N. Y., who, with Mr. Hinckley, arrived last week to take part in the prenuptial parties for her sister and Mr. Bass. On the same day Mrs. Thomas Francis, 6464 Ellenwood avenue, will be hostess at a luncheon at the St. Louis Country Club for her debutante cousin, Miss Mary Francis Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Day of Ferguson.

Two coming-out parties will occupy the attention of the debutantes Wednesday. Mrs. John T. Williams will give the first of two luncheons for her daughter, Miss Irene Crouch Williams at their home, 5635 Waterman avenue. The second luncheon will be given by Mrs. Williams for her daughter, Tuesday, Nov. 11. Miss Margaret Ellen Wagner will make her bow the afternoon of the same day at a tea which her mother, Mrs. Edwin H. Wagner will give at their home, 3 Moorland drive.

Thursday Mrs. Felix E. Gunter, 37 Portland place, will entertain at luncheon for Miss Sally Taylor, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hillsman Taylor. Friday the first meeting of the season of the Fortnightly for the school set will be held in the tower room of the Congress Hotel. The week's festivities will culminate Saturday evening with the debut dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club, to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKittrick Jones of the McKnight road, for their daughter, Miss Grace Jones. Saturday morning the Junior League will give a charity performance of a play for children, "Racketty-Packetty House," at the Hadley Vocational School, Lake and Waterman avenues. This performance will not be open to the public.

Miss Dorothy Church Weds E. J. Morgan Jr.

MR. AND MRS. WELLS LEGGETT CHURCH, 217 Linden avenue, Clayton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Church, and Evan J. Morgan Jr. of Milwaukee, at a family wedding yesterday afternoon at the Church home. Dr. Powell of the Clayton Methodist Church performed the ceremony in the presence of a limited number of guests. There were no attendants. The bride wore an afternoon gown of beige chiffon with matching accessories, and a corsage of flowers.

Following a wedding trip to Ephraim, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will reside in Milwaukee.

The bride is a graduate of Miss Evans School and Mr. Morgan of Cincinnati University.

Program for Admiral Byrd.

REAR ADMIRAL RICHARD E. BYRD will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer of Barnes road on his visit here Friday, Nov. 14, for an illustrated lecture at the Odeon that evening under auspices of the Girl Scouts of St. Louis and St. Louis County. He will talk on his South Polar expedition and will show his private motion picture record of the exploration. Proceeds will go toward a fund to construct buildings on the Girl Scout camp near Pevely, Mo.

Owing to the short time Admiral Byrd will stay in St. Louis, several social affairs planned in his honor have been canceled. Mrs. Guy W. Oliver is commissioner of the Girl Scouts of St. Louis.

Weddings and Engagements

The marriage of Miss Dorothy E. L. Born, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. William Born of Marmaduke avenue and Frederick William Bendick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bendick Sr. of Scanian avenue, took place in the auditorium of Alhambra Grotto, Oct. 1, the Rev. H. Kochheim, pastor of Mount Tabor Evangelical Church, officiating.

Mrs. William F. Wemhoener, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, wearing a gown of peach faille silk, basque effect and full skirt which flared to the floor. She carried an arm bouquet of talisman roses. The bridesmaids, Mrs. John H. Bendick Jr., Mrs. Robert E. Siemens, Miss Louise Born, Miss Leona Bendick, Miss Julia Hopkins and Mrs. Samuel C. Mittleberg, wore silk dresses, with circular skirts veiled in silk net. They were of pastel shades of blue, pink and green and their flowers were arm bouquets of roses selected to contrast with their gowns.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory satin fashioned with a bodice of rose point lace. The skirt in the front just touched the floor while a circular train was built into the folds of the back. The long sleeves which came to a point over her hand were also trimmed with rose point lace. A cap of this same lace with orange blossoms held the long tulle veil. She wore white moire slippers and carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. She wore a wrist watch, a gift of the bridegroom.

John H. Bendick Jr. served his brother as best man and William F. Wemhoener Jr., Robert E. Siemens, Frank Werner, Arthur Ettinger, Milton Ernst and Samuel C. Mittleberg were groomsmen. Vera Mae Biesterfeldt was flower girl and wore peach taffeta with tulle and carried a basket of assorted flowers. Billy Born, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. Glenn A. Tumelson, Norman R. Stender, Albert H. Lamping, Guy Winkle, August Faulstich, George Faulstich and Oscar G. Kirchner served as ushers.

The wedding was the first to be solemnized in Alhambra Grotto. The auditorium was decorated with ferns, palms, smilax and assorted flowers. About 1500 friends attended the ceremony while the reception which was held in the Grotto banquet hall, was attended by about 500. Following a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Bendick have returned to their home, 6728 Scanlan avenue.

Miss Helen H. Mueller of 3952A Utah place was married Wednesday to Joseph M. Brunnert of Old Monroe, Mo., in the Church of the Holy Family, Father Huelsmann performing the ceremony, assisted by Father Schmitt and Father Schuler of St. Henry's Church.

Miss Marion Bockelman was maid of honor, Miss Catharine Brunnert, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Hildagard Klunk, bridesmaids, and little Adele Bromschwig flower girl.

Mr. Brunnert's attendants were Edward Mueller, brother of the bride, and Joseph Schulte.

The bride was gowned in white lace with long tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, while her attendants wore crepe romaine and velvet with hats and slippers to match. The maid of honor wore turquoise blue and the bridesmaids peach colored dresses. Each carried a large bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to about 50 guests at Hotel Mark Twain. Mr. and Mrs. Brunnert will make their home in St. Louis.

Miss Marie Elizabeth Varwig, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Varwig of Webster Groves, Mo., and the Rev. C. H. Rohlfing of Hermann, Mo., were married last Saturday, Oct. 18, at the Eden Seminary Chapel. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, the Rev. J. W. Varwig, assisted by the Rev. H. Lohans, pastor of the Webster Evangelical Church.

Miss Hertha Varwig, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a peach satin and tulle gown, made with a long full two-tier skirt. Miss Lydia Rohlfing, sister of the bridegroom, as one of the bridesmaids, wore a blue satin gown with a long circular skirt. Miss Dorothy Robinson of Webster Groves wore an orchid satin gown made on similar lines. The attendants wore string of pearls and crystals, the gift of the bride, and carried bouquets of pink roses. Ray Varwig, brother of the bride, was best man. Fred Kollath of Wausau, Wis., and Alvin Kniker of Olman, Ill., both students of Eden Theological Seminary, were groomsmen.

The bride wore a gown of seed pearl satin, made with a long circular skirt with a circular flare of tulle at the bottom. A wedding veil with a cap of imported Irish the scene of one of the season's most attractive parties Friday night when more than 300 participated in a dinner dance. The tables, in decorations suggestive of Halloween, were spread in the dining room, which was adorned with masses of bright autumn leaves, with great clusters of green orange and purple grapes made of balloons suspended from the ceiling. The guests also were entertained by a gypsy fortune teller and a cabaret, the members of which were costumed as ghosts and witches. Miss Mary Francis Day, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Day, Ferguson, entertained a party of debutantes and their escorts.

GRAY HAIR IS EASILY DARKENED

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Anyone can darken their gray or faded hair, and look twenty years younger with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

THE only session of the Wednesday Club Nov. 5 will be under the auspices of the special program committee, representing the work of the current topics section. A new rule, that this commitee shall have charge of one day during the club year for each section, is now in force.

At 3 p. m. Mrs. Archer O'Reilly, second vice president and chairman of program, will introduce the speaker, Edward McKernon, who is a writer and speaker on journalism. The subject of Mr. McKernon's lecture is "Not for Publication." He formerly was with the Associated Press.

"Journeys in the Orient" will be the subject of an illustrated talk which will be given by Samuel Rosenkranz at 8 o'clock, Friday evening at the Town Club. This is one of the series of travel talks which the Town Club program committee is presenting this winter. Rosenkranz is an instructor in English at Roosevelt High School. Guest privileges will be extended for the talk, which will be preceded by a dinner.

At 1:30 p. m. Tuesday, the child study group of the College Club will meet to hear Dr. Clara M. Auer, discuss "Personality and Types of Personalities Predisposed to Failure."

The regular Tuesday meeting will follow at 3 p. m. and will be devoted to a social hour and informal bridge. Representatives of Western College, Dr. Frances L. Bishop, Mrs. Alfred Friedli, Miss Charlotte Lomax, Mrs. Robert P. Walsh and Mrs. Nathan Wittington, will assist Mrs. Seward McKittrick and Miss Susan Sherry in the dining room.

Wednesday at 3:30 p. m., the French Study group under the leadership of Miss E. Louise Stone will hear Mrs. Georgette Study, secretary of the Alliance Francaise of St. Louis, on "People and Scenes in the Paris of Today." This talk will be in French.

The monthly meeting of the Art Section of Scottish Rite Woman's Club will be held Wednesday at 1 p. m. in the lounge of Scottish Rite Cathedral, with the chairman, Mrs. Arthur L. McGuire, presiding. After a short business session, the topic "The St. Louis Art Museum," will be discussed. Mrs. Rosa Kentorwitz, leader of the day, will relate how St. Louis acquired the Museum, and also its main exhibits. The interest and influence of the Art Museum in the city will be included in the discussion. Mrs. John H. Bueschen will consider Greek vases and bronzes. The Period Rooms will then be discussed by Mrs. Ben Heitzman; Mrs. Edward Von Arx will have a paper on the Ballard rug collection.

A piano solo will be played by Mrs. August Henke and Mrs. E. Hager will sing "Farewell to Summer" and "Waters of Minnetonka." She will be accompanied by Miss Marjorie Pugh. The usual luncheon will precede the meeting, with the following hostesses: Mrs. Hugo Juergens, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Adolph E. Meyer; Mrs. Guy Randall, Mrs. Groome Whittlesey, and Mrs. John A. Hillman.

The Social Welfare Section, Mrs. Henry Bischoff chairman, will meet at 2:30 p. m., with the following hostesses: Mrs. August Henke, Mrs. J. Sherman, Miss T. Steinmeyer. Other officers of the section are Mrs. Nathan P. Withington, vice chairman, and Mrs. A. R. Miller, secretary.

Tuesday evening at 8:30 p. m., following the meeting of the Lodge of Perfection, A. A. S. R., the Dramatic Art Section, Mrs. John Hillman, chairman, will present Mrs. R. C. Fagley and Miss Dorothy Rapp in a sketch, "Maniken and Miniken," which will be followed by a presentation of the Russian Orthodox Church Choir of St. Louis in costume. At the conclusion of the program Scottish Rite Woman's

so it must be the better way

If you are looking for a way to change gray, streaked or faded hair to a natural youth color..don't endanger the health of hair or take chances on its appearance by experimenting with a new and untried preparation. You don't have to. Here's a preparation that has been used successfully by more than 4 million women who refuse to be gray. They will all tell you it is the surest and very quickest way to give hair the exact shade you desire—without harming the hair or scalp in the least. As a matter of fact it darkens the hair so evenly and naturally that no one will ever know. So don't take foolish chances with your hair. Just ask any druggist for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur.

MRS. JAMES ROSS CLEMENS, 30 Gray avenue, and her son, Cyril Clemens, who have been traveling through Europe, will not sail for home until late in November. Major and Mrs. John C. Gotwals, who have been with Dr. and Mrs. Clemens since last spring, left early in October for their new home at Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Morton, 765 West Kirkham avenue, expect to depart about the middle of the month for their winter home at Stuart, Fla. They will stop for a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stehlin at Jacksonville, before going on to Stuart.

Mrs. Edward T. Durfee and her two young sons Edward Jr. and George, who have been the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Francisco, 213 East Swon avenue, will depart Wednesday for the East. Mrs. Durfee, will be accompanied by her sister, Miss Jane Francisco, who will remain for several of the big football games.

Mrs. B. B. Tatum of New York, who has been the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. B. Franklin Hickman, 28 Algonquin Lane, for a fortnight, will depart Wednesday for a short stay in the East, before going to her winter home at Miami, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rutter, 309 East Big Bend road, moved this week into their new home at Trevillian avenue and Berry road.

Mrs. Lovell Bay, 662 West Lockwood avenue, has returned home from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. King of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris B. Mathis, 29 South Maple avenue, were host and hostess for their bridge club Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Farrand Booth, who have been making their home with Mr. Booth's father, L. F. Booth, 451 Lee avenue, since their marriage in September, are now in their own home on Kingsbury avenue near North and South road, Clayton.

Mrs. Roland Mernitz, Jacksonville, Fla., who with her small daughter, Mary Louise, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rumsely, 116 Park road for a fortnight, returned home Monday.

Mrs. John T. Johnston, 323 South Rock Hill road, entertained at an informal tea Friday complimenting Mrs. Leslie T. Chambers, San Diego, Cal., the guest of Mrs. Arthur T. Chambers, 119 Portland terrace.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Huette Jr., 627 Lockwood avenue, entertained at a dinner party and informal reception last Sunday in celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary and also the forty-eighth wedding anniversary of Mr. Huette's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Huette Sr.

Mrs. Arthur Waite, 114 Trevillian terrace, is expected home this week from New York, where she has been with her mother, Mrs. E. R. Marsh, since leaving her summer home at Lake George, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Cashin, 228 Oakwood avenue, have sold their home and will be at the Chase Hotel for the winter months.

Mrs. George Walton of Bronxville, N. Y., who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Houts, 444 Algonquin place, will be the honor guest at two bridge parties this week, one to be given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. John M. Holmes, 6345 Washington boulevard, and the other Thursday afternoon by Mrs. James Hopkins, 3931 Westminster place.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Zimmerli, 110 Sylvester avenue, departed last week for a motor trip of three weeks through the South.

Mrs. Charles Bevker, 156 Helfenstein place, has returned from Lafayette, Ind., where she attended home-coming week at Purdue University. Her daughter, Miss Evelyn Becker, is a student at the university.

Mrs. Philip Custer Baker of Detroit and her small daughter, Thelma Lorraine, are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Baker's mother, Mrs. William John Barker, 17 Lockwood avenue. Mrs. Barker gave a luncheon, followed by a theater party, Wednesday, Oct. 22, for Mrs. Baker. Saturday afternoon, Oct. 25, Mrs. John W. Annin, 27 Austin place, gave a bridge luncheon complimenting Mrs. Baker. Tuesday afternoon Miss Margaret and Miss Elizabeth Milne, 237 Rosemont avenue, gave a bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs. Baker.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

Look Who's Here

Little Colleen Moore, Deserting the Screen for the Stage, at the American Tonight in Her First Play, "Cindy" — Mary Hart Captures Rollo Peters for Her Next Show at the Orpheum.

AGAIN showing the advisability of a combination of the legitimate theaters around the country—a combination which was promised but which, so far has not materialized—the American Theater, dark last week while the Shubert was operating, reopens tonight while the latter house closes its doors. True both theaters appeared, at the start of the season, to have enough bookings to keep them busy but more dark weeks can be looked forward to with only enough good—lets make that GOOD—plays in sight to keep the customers coming to a single house.

The American's offering for the week is dainty little Colleen Moore, long a favorite of the cinema, who has deserted the screen for the stage and is now on a tour, at prices closer to the movie house charges than usual, in a comedy called "Cindy." Originally this opus started out under the name of "On the Loose," but, somewhere along the line, was switched to the present title.

While this is going on Mary Hart continues the run of Minna Gombell in "Nancy's Private Affair" at the Orpheum where the almost nightly capacity audiences seem to care little whether the American and Shubert are open or shut.

IN "Cindy," which is by Benjamin Glazer and Jack Lait, Colleen Moore is reported to have an offering suited to the talents which made her extremely popular in the cinema palaces throughout the world. During the first two acts, she is allowed free play for her comedy gifts, while in the last act the authors have contrived a scene which rises to a dramatic climax, allowing her an opportunity for exhibiting her emotional powers something after the style of her work in the later episodes of Edna Ferber's "So Big," which, together with "Flaming Youth," definitely established Colleen Moore as a cinema star of the first rank. It is planned to send Miss Moore to London in the spring to appear in the theater which Arch Selwyn has acquired there, in conjunction with Charles Cochrane. The tour she is engaged upon now is a preliminary one, prior to her engagement in New York in one of Mr. Selwyn's theaters.

NEXT Sunday night the Shubert will bring back the old thriller, "Dracula," which has been seen here twice before. On the same evening Miss Hart, riding high on the success of her Orpheum venture, will bring Rollo Peters, one of the best of the newer generation of actors, to town for the leading role in "The Command of Love," another comedy which is new to St. Louis. Peters was last seen here with the all-star revival of "Diplomacy" and previously with the late John Drew, in the revival of "Trelawny of the Wells." In addition, Miss Hart will have, in the same cast as guest artists Shirley Booth and Beverly Bayne. Movie fans, of an earlier day, will remember Miss Bayne as one of the high lights of the screen.

On the following night, a week from tomorrow, the American will offer the first really important play of the year, Shaw's "The Apple Cart," which comes as the initial presentation of The Theater Guild's subscription season.

"The Apple Cart," the first new play by Bernard Shaw in six years, has already been successfully produced in London, New York, Warsaw, Berlin and Vienna. The company which the New York Theater Guild is presenting here is that which performed the play last season in New York.

In leading roles will appear the Theater Guild Acting Company, including Tom Powers, Violet Kemble Cooper, Claude Reins, Ernest Cossart, Frederick Truesdell, Jane Wheatley, Eva Leonard-Boyne and Barbara Allen, W. H. Sams, John Dunn, Hannam C. Clark, George Graham, Audrey Ridgewell, George Colouris, Ferdinand Hast and others.

The scene of "The Apple Cart" is laid 30 years from now in the council chambers of the King and Cabinet of England, and George Bernard has his say concerning the problems and conditions of that future day. Among other things, he forecasts the coalition of the British Empire with the United States, England becoming virtually another star in the star-spangled banner. The audiences today are now placed in the position of the audiences who watched "Major Barbara" 25 years ago, and laughed at the impossibility of it all. But it is well to remember that as early as 15 years ago "Major Barbara" came true.

Amusement Calendar

AMERICAN — Colleen Moore, the movie star, in person, in the comedy, "Cindy." Starting tonight.

ORPHEUM—Second and last week of Minna Gombell, with the resident players in "Nancy's Private Affair."

LOEW'S — Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee."

MISSOURI—Nancy Carroll and Frederic March in "Laughter."

FOX—Warner Baxter, Myrna Loy and Noah Beery in "Renegades."

AMBASSADOR — Clara Bow, with Skeets Gallagher and Charles Ruggles in "Her Wedding Night."

ST. LOUIS—Second week of Amos and Andy in "Check and Double Check."

GARRICK — Mutual Circuit Burlesque.

Little Theater to Open Fourth Season With "Cock Robin"

"COCK ROBIN," a three-act play by Elmer L. Rice and Philip Barry, will open the 1930-31 season of the Little Theater of St. Louis, inaugurating its fourth year of productions under the direction of Frederick Kitson Cowley, tomorrow night. It will play through the week.

"Cock Robin" is a modern mystery, with the inevitable murder occurring this time during an amateur theatrical performance. The actors and not the audience however, are responsible for the tragedy. One member of the cast, after another, tries his hand at solving the riddle as to who did it, until a solution is most unexpectedly reached in the last act.

The cast will include George McAuliffe, Bruce McFarlane; Julian Cleveland, Howard Day, Richard Lane, Noel Grady, Hancock Robinson, C. W. Wood, John Jessup, Richard McCune, Alice Montgomery, Victoria Watkins, Carlotta Maxwell, Dorothy Burg, Clarke Torrance, Ben Fry, Henry Briggs, John McCune, Doctor Edgar Grace, Frank Bacon, Maria Scott, Mary Wickenhauser, Helen Maxwell, Elizabeth Thompson. The setting is from a design by F. Ray Leimkuehler.

Marine Band to Play Here on November 8

THE United States Marine Band will appear in St. Louis on Saturday, Nov. 8, for two concerts at The Arena, under the sponsorship of the local detachment of the United States Marine Corps League. The band, known as "The President's Own," is on a tour of the larger cities of the country.

Capt. Taylor Branson, who, as leader of the band, occupies the position once held by John Philip Sousa, has provided a program of pleasing variety in addition to the conventional marches and military airs. Solo instrumental numbers by several members of the band will add considerable variety to the program. Arthur S. Witcomb, cornetist, will be featured, along with Winifred Kemp, also a cornetist, Robert and Hervey Clark, trombone soloists, and Wilbur D. Kieffer, xylophone soloist.

Anthony in Recital Thursday.

Charles Anthony, the American pianist, who will give a recital at the Wednesday Club Auditorium Thursday evening, has announced that he will hereafter make his home in St. Louis. Mr. Anthony studied with Leschetizky in Vienna, has made appearances with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic and the Kneisel Quartet. His play "Pagans" was presented on Broadway with Joseph Schildkraut in the leading role. Mr. Anthony is the son of Gardner C. Anthony of St. Louis.

Fontbonne College Play.

A comedy, "Green Stockings" will be presented by the Fontbonne College Alumnae Association Wednesday night, at the St. Louis University Auditorium, under the direction of Milton McGovern. Members of the cast are: The Misses Mary Belle McCoole, Loretta Hennelly, Audrey McDonald, Dorothy Pelchman and Lenadore Bass, and Cornelius Dahm, Donald Gunn, Lee Otter, Lawrence Neville, Jack Reardon, and Jack Casey.

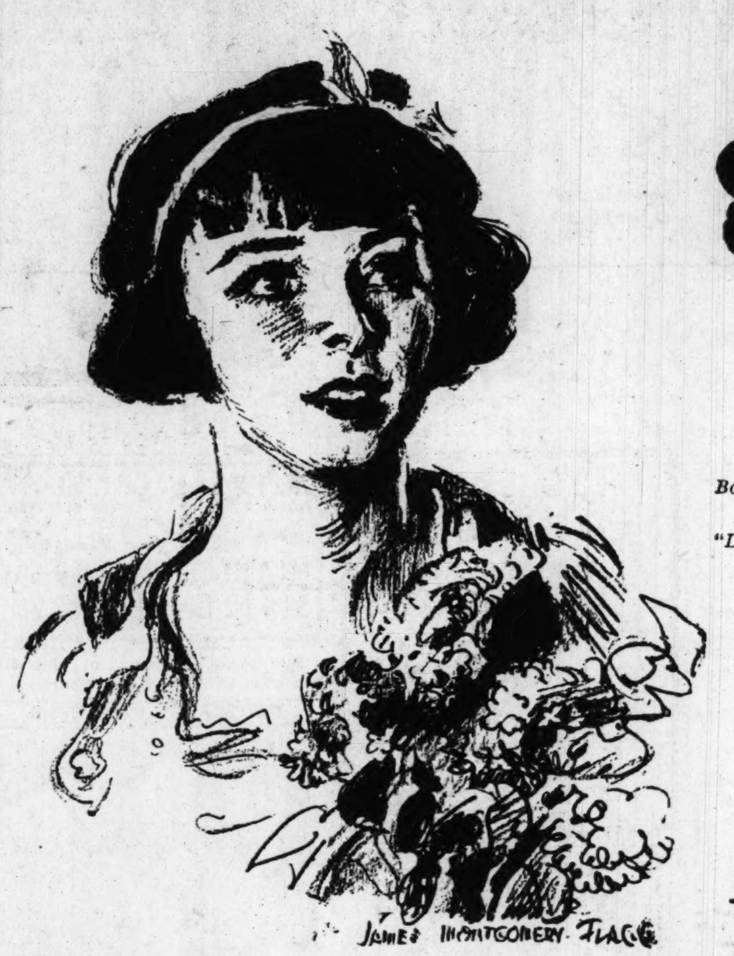
Yiddish Play Tonight.

"Shattered Dreams" will be presented tonight at the Odeon by the Yiddish players. The leading woman of this group of players is Anna Lillian, a dramatic performer of note in New York. With her in the cast is Morris Weissman and Isador Meltzer.

St. Louis Pianist Honored.

Henri Doering, young St. Louis pianist, and a concert artist of distinction, will be the first solo artist of the season to appear with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra when that organization gives its initial concert, under the direction of its new conductor, Basil Cameron.

A Movie Star Who Turns to the Stage—And Four Who Do Not



Colleen Moore In Person In "Cindy," At the American.

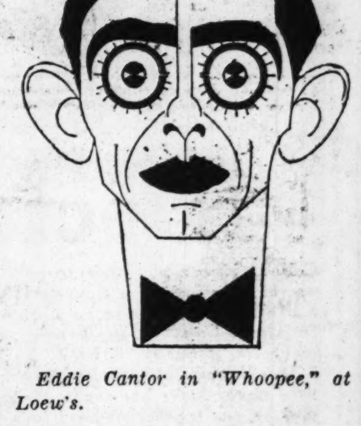
Clara Bow In "Her Wedding Night," at The Ambassador.



Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee," at Loew's.

Zimbalist Will Be Symphony Soloist In Week's Concerts

EFREM ZIMBALIST will be presented by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in its second concerts of the season next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, at the Odeon, as the first soloist of the many internationally famous artists who appear in the course of the symphony year Zimbalist is to play the Beethoven concerto for violin.

While in keeping with the spirit of the 1930-31 season the program is devoted largely to the standard symphonic repertory. Mr. Arbos will present—as at most of his concerts this season—one novelty; in this case "The Birds," a suite which Ottorina Resphighi, the contemporary Italian composer, has created by using as a basis melodies by Seventeenth and Eighteenth Century composers which were originally written for the lute and the clavecin.

Mr. Arbos also will present a very modern essay in the same direction—the "Till Eulenspiegel" of Richard Strauss. The other purely orchestral number on the program is Johannes Brahms' "Variations on a Theme by Haydn," which St. Louis has not heard for at least 10 years.

Mme. Clairbert Will Sing Tuesday Night

The Civic Music League will present at the Odeon Tuesday night as the second number in its series, the Belgian coloratura soprano Madame Clare Clairbert.

Madame Clairbert made her American debut with the San Francisco Opera Co. in September as "Violetta" in Traviata. Her American tour includes not only Opera but an extensive concert tour and appearances with the Boston and Minneapolis Orchestras.

Greta Garbo to Play Role of "Mata Hari"

WHEN she completes work in "Inspiration," Greta Garbo will play the part of Mata Hari, the daring German spy who became the toast of Paris during the World War. Benjamin Glazer is now preparing the continuity and dialogue of "Mata Hari", and it is probable that this film will be placed in production as soon as "Inspiration" is completed.

Clarence Brown, who directed Miss Garbo in "A Woman of Affairs," "Anna Christie" and "Romance," is the director of "Inspiration."

Behind the Screens Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 1.

THE voice that skyrocketed John Boles to stardom in the first days of musical pictures also has been the means of placing him in a secure position—now that the earlier, cruder form of screen musical has been abandoned.

After "The Desert Song," the first screen operetta, Boles was in great demand at all studios, and work in subsequent musicals built his box-office name. Thus he was lifted from comparative obscurity to a pinnacle where producers have been justified in giving him consideration for roles in which vocal ability plays only an incidental part.

NOW he is enacting the first strictly dramatic role of his career, that of Dmitri in "Resurrection," a picture being anticipated with unusual interest and not altogether because it is a talkie version of the film that made Dolores del Rio a star, and is again directed by Edwin Carewe.

A carefully planned "musical background" by Dmitri Tiomkin is expected to set it apart from previous screen works indiscriminately labeled "musicals."

Lupe Valez, in the Del Rio role, also has her first highly dramatic part.

Boles—he's a modest lad—has never made pretensions to being an actor. He gave up preparations for another professional career to study voice in Europe, returned to New York broke and luckily landed in a musical show, "Little Jessie James."

IT was Gloria Swanson who persuaded him to come to Hollywood as her leading man in silent pictures. Boles used to sing on the set, between "takes," and it was pretty well known in Hollywood that he could sing.

It didn't mean much then, but when talkies came in, that voice was money in the bank.

All of which affords opportunity for brief retrospection concerning this hectic movie industry. When Boles sprang up as a screen singer Hollywood was in a tremulous state of excited fear, fairly agog that a "silent" player had a voice!

Producers were pouring money into expensive sound stages, many of which now are frequently idle because the once formidable microphone has been duly spanked, taken out of doors and commanded to do as told.

OPERA stars, by the way, have only a fair batting average in the talkies, but their percentage may be improved with the screen debut of Grace Moore.

Lawrence Tibbett, with "Rogue Song," is the one outstanding success. Miss Moore, teamed with him in "The New Moon" and starred alone in a Jenny Lind story, is to be seen soon.

John McCormack, in "Song o' My Heart" was not the hit Tibbett was, and his salary figure is deemed prohibitive for further picture work, but Everett Marshall, who did well in "Dixiana," is slated for an encore.

DON JOSE MOJICA made one picture in English, "One Mad Kiss," which was far from a box-office achievement, and then was put into Spanish versions until his contract expired recently. He has returned to the stage.

Nino Martini, young Italian tenor signed when the craze for musicals was at its height, has made only one featured appearance, in "Paramount on Parade," since which he has been perfecting his English and making "shorts" in the East.

Renewal of his contract apparently depends on a comeback of musical talkies.

Mary Lewis, signed months ago for a talkie, still is untested on the singing screen. Her "Siren Song" was postponed first by operatic contract, then by studio fears for the success of pictures of that type.

One "smash hit" of the sort from any studio, it may be taken for granted, will restore them all to great demand.

OPERA has given these to the screen, but Miss Lewis was, in a way, the screen's first contribution to opera. She played in slapstick comedies here before going on the musical comedy stage, thence into the Metropolitan.

Which brings us easily to the local debut in opera of Hope Hampton, second film celebrity with operatic ambitions.

Entering films about 10 years ago, she became a star, but was never very successful on the screen. She chose to develop her singing voice, backed by her weathy husband, Jules Brulatour.

All Hollywood, even to the unobtrusive Garbo, was there to hear her sing "Manon," and all Hollywood praised her beauty of face and form.

But outspoken critics were dubious about her voice.

STARS who choose to lunch in the privacy of their dressing-rooms aren't necessarily high-hat. At noontime, in the studio restaurants, back-slapping hello-boy Hollywood is at its most offensive. Clatter predominates not only in the kitchen, but at the tables, and a star with any popularity at all is likely to spend his whole rest period responding to howdy-let's-chat-a-while greetings.

A middle-aged extra who wanted a ride to her bus line and said she was working in "Cinammon" (Cimarron) with Richard Dix and Estelle Taylor confided that she had been in pictures 12 years, after working on the Hungarian stage. That's movies: 12 years of hand-to-mouth existence, and after it all, begging for a ride!!

BUT it took Dave Anderson 14 years to get even from the cutting room floor to the screen.

Dave was a property man, but since talkies came in he has been the fellow who claps the marker at the beginning and end of each "take." In that capacity he is photographed as often as a star, but is never seen on the screen.

Recently he danced between takes with Marjorie Beebe, playing a taxi-dancer in the picture, and the director spotted him as a "type" needed for Marjorie's dancing partner.

So, after 14 years, the screen at last—but the story probably ends there. Dave goes back to "marking."

Lois Wilson, whose movie career has been one of varied fortunes, is doing a rare and sensible thing.

Her silent picture luck was very low when talkies came in, and then she enjoyed a temporary demand as a leading lady. Lately she has been neglected, and now she is cutting her salary figure, disregarding billing, and looking for any role that may come her way.

Commencing next Saturday the "Behind the Screens" gossip of the stars from Hollywood, will run weekly in the Saturday afternoon Daily Magazine section of the Post-Dispatch.

AT THE PLAY IN NEW YORK

By Robert Littell

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.

IT IS for such things as "Roar China" that the Theater Guild was born on a Broadway which, but for the Guild, would never have known how Soviet Russia felt about China in 1926, and would never have seen that feverish, deluded hope translated into a gigantic, sprawling spectacular melodrama that makes your heart bleed quite a lot for the poor coolie as he writhes under the heel of the white oppressor.

"Roar China," translated via German from the Russian of S. M. Tretyakov, is one of the Guild's most ambitious and interesting, if not most successful experiments. The theme is as far away from Broadway's diet of gunmen and love affairs as Marxian history itself. Half of the huge cast are Chinese. The stage of the Martin Beck Theater has been transformed into a huge tank, filled with real water, upon which float the brown-sailed sampans of the Chinese and in the background, the menacing facsimile of an enormous British battleship. And between battleship and sampan, between white men and yellow we see, in broad and brutally effective strokes, a summary (for Soviet consumption) of one corner of the struggle of the proletarian underdog.

A NON-PROLETARIAN and white-shirt front audience such as the Guild's could be forgiven for finding "Roar China" in the best (or worst) tradition of melodrama. The naval officers and the missionaries and bargaining capitalists and ping-pong playing bourgeois on board the battleship are bloody villains, while the lowly sampan coolies are most heartrendingly noble and heroic. But, as always happens with good melodrama, we forget all about what really would have happened and yearn for the hero. And while the audience didn't hiss, the white shirt fronts might have been heard to creak ominously when the British Captain declared that to avenge one white man two Chinamen must die.

It happened like this. In the river town of Wan Hsien an American capitalist (s s s!) had an argument with a boatman, fell out of the sampan and was drowned. This, with the help of the hysterical bourgeois women (s s s!) and a lackey of the kept press (hiss and a boo), was magnified into murder. Find the murderer, orders the Captain; find him or execute two men of any kind, otherwise we bombard the city.

The horror-struck coolies, to save their city from bombardment, draw lots, and two of them are strangled before our eyes. Their brothers roar hatred and defiance. Roar, China! And China roars her will to be free of the oppressor.

AT its infrequent best it is an exciting show. Exciting because of the size and the novelty of it, because of the magnificent set that Mr. Simonson has contrived, because of the three or more dozen Chinese who, in spite of the difficulty of understanding them at times, bring to their scenes a pathetic dignity and strangeness.

There are many other moments when the crude melodrama is oppressive, when the tiny, shouting figures cannot hold their own against the huge background, when excitement dies down for sheer lack of wind, when Mr. Biberman's energetic direction parts like a film, when drama is throttled by propaganda.

But I advise you to see it, if, as, and when it reaches St. Louis.

German Company in Two Operas Tonight

"Les Amours Champetres," a light opera in one act by the German composer Christoph Willibald Gluck, whose best known works are the operas "Orpheus and Eurydice" and "Iphigenia in Aulis," will be given tonight by the German Theater Stock Company in the German House, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues. The musical comedy, "The Betrothal Under the Street Lamp," by Jacques Offenbach, the celebrated composer of light opera, will follow as the second part of the program.

Miss Anna Beckmann, a well-known soprano, who has been heard often as a soloist in radio concerts, arranged by St. Louis broadcasting stations, will be a guest artist and play the leading roles in both pieces.

Rubenstein Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Rubenstein Musical Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Anna W. Lochmoeller, 4122A Farlin avenue, Thursday morning.

Argentina Here Next Week.

La Argentina, the Spanish dancer who was seen here last season will make her appearance at the Odeon on Tuesday evening, Nov. 11 under the direction of Elizabeth Cueny.

Making Whoopee

Ziegfeld Would Have Found Things Far Different Had He Started Turning Out His First Film in the Early Days of the Cinema—How to Start to Become a Film Actor.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD'S first try at the movie game, "Whoopee," with Eddie Cantor as the star, just as he was in the stage version, is on view this week down at Loew's. How much of a part Ziegfeld played in the production is not known, but he went out to the coast accompanied by a flare of trumpets and was met at the Los Angeles station by the Sam Goldwyn Silver Cornet Band. "Whoopee" has been a great box office draw everywhere, but Ziegfeld is back in New York, and rumors are that he is not going to desert the stage, after all, for the cinema.

Ziggy, who, as you know, goes in for glorifying the American girl by way of his Follies and other intellectual entertainments, carted a lot of his stage beauties out to Hollywood to uplift the screen. Something after the manner of carrying coals to Carbondale, Ill.—for the Hollywood cafes are full of waitresses who can give the New York chorines cards and spades on good looks—but Ziegfeld wanted his own type of beauties, and got them, together with $100,000 or so for his name and services, which consisted, largely, according to all reports, in getting in the way of the cameramen and regular directors at the studio. Be that as it may, "Whoopee," done all in color, is said to be the last word in film entertainment, as a spectacle at least.

NOW if you want to be a successful screen actor—and who doesn't these days—you'd better start by doing anything but acting. At least that is what would seem to be advisable from the experiences of the cast of this selfsame "Whoopee". From Eddie Cantor down they're all high salaried performers but none of them started out to be anything of the sort.

Take Cantor for instance, star of the show in the role of Henry Williams, the imaginary invalid. The magic contained in his shrugging shoulder and beady black eyes had to lie undiscovered while he tried his hand at being a newsboy, a Wall Street clerk, a hustler in the cloak and suit business in New York, and anything which turned up and seemed a likely way of earning a living. It was a casual hobby of eccentric dancing, picked up from newsboy comrades which first started him stagewards, never to stop until he had reached the top.

Or take Spencer Charters who plays Mr. Underwood, the irascible ranch-owner in "Whoopee." In his twenty-five years of acting he has played over 600 separate and individual roles, but when he began life in Steelton, Penn., it was as a steel-worker, with ambitions to be a mechanical engineer. And George Olsen, leader of the orchestra which plays an important part in "Whoopee", fought hard not to go into the trucking business when he was a boy and tried to be a lawyer instead.

Even Chief Caupolican, the Indian who plays the role of Black Eagle, was a sailor before the constant urgings of his friends put him to capitalizing his voice on the vaudeville stage.

ZIEGFELD, with the color effects and the talking machinery at his command, would have found things a little more difficult some years ago. Colin Chase, who is in "Renegades" at the Fox Theater, was in the films at the time when Ziegfeld was getting his first toe hold on Broadway, making his debut with Lenore Ulrich in the days when the old Essanay studio was the king pin of the film makers and he recalls some of the troubles of that period.

"Picture making was a quaint business in the Essanay era," Chase says. "A big feature film was 500 feet long, half a reel as we measure them today, and the few visionaries who suggested making productions two or three reels long were considered not quite right in the head. We usually completed two pictures a week, and could have made them in less time than that if the crude cameras of that period weren't always giving trouble.

"A player getting $50 a week was regarded with awe, and only a limited handful of stars were receiving the fabulous sums of $100. Scenarios were unknown; the director either made his picture entirely 'off the cuff' or he had a brief sort of a synopsis to go by, and made up his own scenes as he went along. Most of the work was done in direct sunlight, with muslin sheets overhead to tone down the light. The ghastly blue Cooper-Hewitt mercury lamps were just coming into use, but many directors were suspicious of them and worked in daytime or not at all."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.

TRAVEL notes of a hurried trip: St. Louis seems to have more back streets than any other city from a train window.

Every smoking room has a "hard times" howler.

The blackest Pullman porters are usually politest.

Passengers from Indianapolis invariably begin talking politics.

Railroads have so concentrated on speed they have failed to eliminate other discomforts such as dirt.

You cannot even open a train window nor can a porter without a window-jack.

One of the most hospitable cities in America is Houston, Tex., which may have something to do with its amazing showing in the last census.

Few cities the size offer such beautiful women as Austin, Tex.

There is a healthy rivalry between Fort Worth and Dallas.

New Orleans is an American city which has preserved its architectural past.

Fleeting glimpses of New Orleans: The picturesque home of Gen. Beauregard, the French quarter and the markets, wide Canal street, the apartment of Roark Bradford and the above-ground cemeteries.

Louisiana swamps have a haunting, dismal beauty.

In Mississippi such towns as Biloxi and Gulfport announce their names in electrically lighted arches.

Somehow in passing through Birmingham, Ala., I always think of Octavius Roy Cohen and Rose and Sherwood Moore.

Birmingham, incidentally, offers a brisk industrial activity from a train window.

Few towns have been so glorified in song as Old Mobile. And Mobile has a charming and song-inspiring languor.

Atlanta always strikes us as an aristocrat of Southern cities and nowhere do ladies seem so becomingly dressed or gentlemen as expertly courteous.

In South Carolina the hurrying traveler is impressed by the sprightliness of such cities as Greenville and Spartanburg.

In Dixieland cities, too, depot newsboys do not run off with your change.

This chronicler has somehow never been able to tell if he is just entering or just leaving Philadelphia.

New Jersey is clogged with big, enterprising cities, all dwarfed somewhat by nearness to New York.

One of the best dishes in the whole of America is in Louisiana. It is called Cajin jambalaya and is made of wild duck livers and rice.

The spectacle of showing two separate plays—a drama downstairs and a comedy upstairs—on a single New York stage did not greatly excite the jaded first nighters, although it caused a furore in London.

Broadway whispers that Eddie Cantor's fortune of more than two million shrunk to less than a quarter of a million in the market crash.

I don't suppose an actual millionaire has such fool ideas, but I always thought if I were rich I'd like to have a masseur rub the soles of my feet gently for about an hour every day.

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"
—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.
THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He defied Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

Does She Smile or Pout?

Smiles mean good digestion. The pouty girl is likely suffering from malnutrition. Give her two spoonfuls of Thompson's in a glass of milk two or three times a day with meals. It is a wonderfully digestible food and aids the digesting of other foods. Thousands of pouty girls have been changed to smilers through improved digestion — nearly all druggists and grocers handle Thompson's.

Kae English, a Ziegfeld girl, is wearing the new MEDIUM BOB. She knows how PROPER CARE makes lovely hair more beautiful.

Quickest way to give Hair new Life and Lustre

THE way modern hair dressers accentuate your hair by lovely lines and contours makes it important to keep the hair in perfect condition.

Now millions know the quickest way to give the hair new life and lustre; to bring out its natural color, is with Danderine. It is so easy to use; you simply moisten your brush with it each time you arrange your hair.

Danderine helps dissolve the crust of dandruff; helps stop falling hair; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It helps the hair grow long, silky, abundant; gives it more lustre than brilliantine. It makes the hair easy-to-arrange; holds it in place.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

DISTRICT COMPETITION AT SCOUT BADGE SHOW

Judging to Be on Attendance; 100 Demonstrations at Exhibit Nov. 13-14-15.

District competition between the five districts of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council will be introduced at a Merit Badge Show for the first time during the fifth annual Boy Scout Merit Badge Show at The Arena, Nov. 13, 14 and 15, according to Charles H. Mills, activities director of the council. The district competition will be held in addition to the troop and individual competition.

The basis for district competing, however, will differ from that of the others in that judging will be done on attendance only. Each district will have a distinguishing mark on its tickets, enabling them to be sorted out at the conclusion of the show. The district having the largest attendance during the three days of the exhibit will be adjudged winner, and will receive a streamer for its district flag.

Troop and individual competition will be in the main similar to that of former years. Three types of troop awards will be given, an engraved metal band for the troop flagstaff for meeting requirements of active participation in some phase of the show; prizes for selling tickets, and streamer awards for conducting the best booths at the exhibit. In addition a Grand Prize will be awarded the troop making the best record in all activities connected with the show. Prizes will also be given the 10 individual scouts who sell the greatest number of tickets.

The participation methods for scouts in the show will differ slightly from those of past exhibits, because of the change of location. Every scout taking part must report for duty 30 minutes before the show opens, at a special "Participants' Door" on the west side of exhibition building A. east of The Arena proper. Scouts on duty Thursday or Friday evening must report at 7 o'clock; those on duty Saturday afternoon should report at 12:30 o'clock.

Admission through the participants' door may be obtained only by a scout pass, obtainable at scout headquarters. This pass must be accompanied by the scout's registration card.

Only scouts in full uniform, minus the scout hat, may take part in a booth, and the uniform must be clean. Personal inspection will be given each participant before he goes upon the floor.

Nearly 100 merit badges and special scout subjects will be demonstrated at the show. Last year only 76 were exhibited.

Troop Notes

South District.

A Halloween party for the fathers of the scouts was given last night by Troop 200 of the Fanning School, at its cabin on the Tesson Ferry road. A feature of the program was a playlet given by the scouts. Classes in first aid and signaling have been started by Junior Assistant Scoutmaster R. Schilling.

Four new scouts, Robert Kent, Kenneth Veninga and Rolla Nekon, joined Troop 247 of the Froebel School.

North District.

The meeting night for Troop 3, of the Grace Holy Cross House, has been changed from Monday to Friday, according to an announcement by Scoutmaster Simons. Good turn sheets and Merit Badge Show tickets were given out at the meeting last week. Short talks were made by the scoutmaster and Assistant Scoutmaster Louis Thompson.

Ten scouts of Troop 122 of St. Theresa's Church received awards at a Troop Court of Honor held two weeks ago. Five other scouts also received miniature Eagle Scout badges for winning that rank at the last City Court of Honor.

The Eagle patrol, with a score of 661, won a Troop Comparall held by Troop 148, of Hyde Park Church, at its cabin last Sunday. The CooCoo patrol took second place with 645, followed by the Beavers, 435, and the Sioux 300. The Eagles will be taken on a trip to Springfield, Ill., as a reward. Three Tenderfoot scouts were taken into the troop at the last meeting.

West District.

The Beaver patrol, with a score of 84, holds a one-point lead over the second-place Buffalo patrol in an inter-patrol contest conducted by Troop 26 of the Delmar Baptist Church. A lecture and demonstration of the Signaling Merit Badge requirements was given by Deputy Commisioner Robert N. Johnston at the last meeting of the troop. Troop 26 will demonstrate the Basketry Merit Badge at the coming Merit Badge Show, under the sponsorship of H. A. Diamant of the Huke Willow Ware Corporation.

Gilbert Seidel's Beaver patrol increased its lead over the second-place Bears in an inter-patrol contest conducted by Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A., by winning a knot-tying contest, having a perfect attendance and all scouts in uniform, and passing several tests, at the meeting last week. The Bears took second place in the knot-tying contest. The Raven patrol is third in the inter-patrol contest, followed by the Eagles and the Adders. Sanford Rederer has been elected patrol leader of the Adders, as former Patrol Leader Stanley Lopata was forced to resign because of outside work. Several scouts of the troop met Tuesday and Wednesday evenings to work on projects for the troop camping booth at the Merit Badge Show. A hike will be taken to DuPont today.

Troop 90 of Temple Shaare Emeth devoted its meeting last week to working out inter-patrol contests modeled after the Camparall held each spring in Forest Park. Honors for the evening went to the Polar Star patrol, although all events were closely contested. The troop was introduced to a new active troop committeeman, Gabriel Stern, who is assisting the scouts with the chemistry demonstration the troop will give at the Merit Badge Show.

Troop 101 of the West Park Baptist Church, held its annual Halloween party at the church Tuesday evening. The parents of the scouts provided a dinner. The scouts are working to complete their Indian costumes for the troop's booth at the Merit Badge Show. The booth is planned to be different from anything ever shown at one of these exhibitions.

Scout Dan Mandel has been elected senior patrol leader of Troop 246, of B'nai Amoona, while Scouts Bernard Larner, Melvin Cassell and Isadore Fendelman have become patrol leaders. Scout Abe Lipsitz was elected scribe. Scout Irwin Larner librarian, and Scout Ely Fortus quartermaster. The troop has voted to devote each month to a separate project. October was test-passing month, each scout being pledged to pass at least two tests during that period. The scouts have improved their meeting place by work on the library and quartermaster room. A number of bird houses, nature specimens and handicraft articles are on display. An active fall program, including hikes, advancement and participation in council activities, has been adopted.

Twenty-five scouts from Troops 26, 31, 35 and 90 performed a civic turn last Thursday afternoon by mailing out 9000 Community Fund automobile stickers from local scout headquarters. The stickers were mailed to each scout in the city, with a request that they obtain permission from automobile owners to glue them on windshields.

Central District.

Troop 74 of Sherman School won first place in the Central District scout rally a week ago yesterday, beating out Troop 81, led by Scoutmaster Crucknell, and Troop 37 of Hodgen School. Troop 37 won a stunt contest at the campfire in the evening. Most of the troops in the district competed in the rally.

Plans for activities of Central District were made at a meeting of all deputy commissioners and members of the court of honor of the district at Gibson Heights Presbyterian Church last Tuesday evening.

Several Girl Scouts were entertained by Troop 106 of Second United Presbyterian Church at a banquet at the church Thursday evening. The troop committees of the two troops were guests of honor. Field Executive L. J. Case of the Central District talked on "Scouting."

Troop 132 of Central Institute for the Deaf has resumed meetings under the leadership of Scoutmaster Magooh. Plans for activities have been made.

Six scouts were admitted into Troop 155 of McCausland Avenue Presbyterian Church at an investiture ceremony a week ago Friday evening. Scouts from Troop Clayton 1 were guests at the meeting.

The first troop court of honor conducted in Central District was held by Troop 242 of St. Francis de Sales Church Friday evening. Awards were presented by Judge C. O. Pearcy, chairman of the district court of honor. The troop is dedicating its new camp, Lonedell, today. The newly organized Fathers' and Mothers' Club will be guests at the dedication.

BYRD WILL BESTOW AWARDS

Admiral Will Hand Golden Eaglet Badges to Girl Scouts.

The Golden Eaglet, highest Girl Scout award, will be bestowed upon six girls by Admiral Richard E. Byrd before his lecture at the Odeon Nov. 14 under the auspices of the Girl Scouts of St. Louis and St. Louis County. A girl must win 21 merit badges before becoming eligible for the award.

Tickets for the lecture, which will describe the Antarctic expedition, went on sale yesterday at the Aeolian Company, 1004 Olive street, where reserved seats may be obtained for exchange tickets.

"She's a Darling!"

Many women want to be, deserve to be, and could be far more popular than is their lot. Doctors know why. So do nurses. They say such cases are caused by auto-intoxication.

To remedy unpleasant body odors and unpleasant breath, you must recognize their cause. The trouble is deep-seated. Frankly, in the colon. Semi-constipation makes millions of systems abnormal. There may be a daily functioning, but all the waste is not always eliminated. The contents that remains poisons the blood and permeates the perspiration. It affects the breath. Nature is signaling her need of better elimination.

Calcium Wafers work wonders in one's appearance, too. With the inner system sweet and clean, the complexion clears most marvelously. Eyes brighten. The tongue is no longer coated, even on arising. And you never need take another harsh cathartic.

Perhaps you do not have proper elimination and don't have it. Try a tiny wafer of calcium, and see! It may make all the difference in the world. Leave harsh cathartics alone. You never need them if you take an occasional calcium wafer.

TRY THIS THOROUGH TEST

A five-day test should prove to you very conclusively the system's need for Stuart's Calcium Wafers, and the benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them for 10c. Or the family size 60c. Start this test today!

EIGHT JURY TRIALS IN WEEK; 5 CONVICTIONS

Many Plead Guilty of Major Crimes and Receive Reduced Sentences.

Eight jury trials were held in the criminal divisions of Circuit Court last week, resulting in five convictions and three acquittals. One man, O. C. Fielder, a 30-year-old Negro charged with murder in the first degree, was found guilty and sentenced to death. Fielder shot and killed his common law wife, Helen Fielder, and Louis and Lottie Tompkins, owners of the rooming house where Fielder and his wife stayed at 3218 Pine street. He was tried for killing Louis Tompkins. The testimony of police showed he was jealous of his wife and shot the three after having quarreled with his wife.

Willie Hood a 22-year-old Negro was given a life sentence by a jury for his part in the robbery of a restaurant at 5 North Twenty-first street, when another Negro, Clarence Taylor, was shot when he attempted to stand in the way of Hood's escape from the place. Julius Forney, a Negro companion of Hood's, who was tried previously, is under sentence of death for the murder.

A life sentence was also meted to Cornelia Tennell, 22-year-old Negro of 2728 Lawton avenue, for the killing of her former sweetheart, Arthur Jamison, of 617 Beaumont street.

The two others convicted by jury were Albert Yorke, 3937 North Twenty-second street, who was given two years in the penitentiary for a criminal assault upon a child, and Earl Lakins, 1304 Kentucky avenue, who was given two years for passing a bogus check. Those who were acquitted by juries were Ellen Tallant, a Negro, charged with robbery; George Shelton, who was charged with keeping a gaming device, and Henry Jones, a Negro, charged with burglary.

Many pleas of guilty were received during the week, notable among them being those of George A. Lubeley, former vice presidnt and cashier of the Natural Bridge Bank & Trust Co., and Carry C. Graham, who claimed to be a Chicago stock and bond broker. Lubeley was given three three-year sentences for embezzlement, to run concurrently. Lubeley was charged with embezzling $17,000 of bonds of his bank. He was known, however, to have been in arrears to the extent of $156,000 when bank examiners unexpectedly entered his institution. Lubeley lost the money he appropriated in other business ventures.

Graham, although charged with robbery under the Henry law, for which the minimum punshment is 10 years' imprisonment, entered a plea to a charge of assault to rob and was given two years in the penitentiary.

A companion, William F. Maher, also of Chicago, pleaded guilty of two robberies. He admitted participation with Graham in the holding up of the Coney Island Cafe, 110 North Eighth street, Aug. 11, 1929, and holding up a card game in the home of Dr. M. P. Morrell, 4500 McPherson avenue, the day previous. Maher received concurrent terms of five and two years.

Others who received penitentiary punishment on their pleas of guilty were: Albert Black, burglary, two years; John Craig, assault with intent to kill, two years; Paul Del Vecchio, uttering bogus check, two years; Leroy Smith and Ollie Evans, sodomy, three years; Nathan Martin, robbery, 10 years; Charles Madsen, robbery, five years, commuted to Booneville Reform School; Albert B. Clayton, uttering a forged instrument, two years; Fred Waldschmidt, burglary, five years, commuted to Booneville; William Edwards, grand larceny, two years; Theodore James, burglary, two years; Stanley Rygalski, burglary, five years, commuted to Booneville; Joe Katz, robbery, five years, commuted to Booneville; Dominick Aiello, assault to rob, three years, commuted to Booneville; James Haley, larceny of an automobile, three years, and Carl Lupo, assault to rob, three years, commuted to Booneville.

Others charged with major crimes, but who were permitted to enters pleas of guilty to offenses of lesser degree and receive less than penitentiary punishment were: John Cova, possession of gaming device, $100 and costs; Vengell Temecoff, receiving stolen property of less than $30 value; one year workhouse; Eugene Yountz, carrying a concealed weapon, $100 and costs; George Williams, petit larceny, 60 days workhouse; Herbert Forister, petit larceny, six months workhouse; Sylvester Harlog and James W. O'Brien, petit larceny, 30 days workhouse; Edward Ethridge, petit larceny, six months workhouse; Virgil Hunt, carrying a concealed weapon, 50 days in jail, paroled to report in court for a year; Claud Spradley, driving motor vehicle while intoxicated, 60 days in jail; August R. Buschelberg, permitting gambling device on premises, 60 days and $100 fine, paroled as to imprisonment to report one year; Chester Childers, permitting gaming device on premises, $100 and costs; Harry Holt, larceny from person, six months workhouse; Lee Givens, petit larceny, one year in workhouse, paroled to report one year; Dorothy Williams, petit larceny, nine months workhouse; Charles Kulp, petit larceny, one year workhouse; Joseph Marcus, leaving scene of accident, 74 days in jail; and George Kenney, common assault, $100 and costs. Richard Smith, charged with larce from a dwelling house, was d charged by nolle prosequi beca of insufficient evidence.

SALE ANNOUNCED OF APARTMENT AT 5386 PERSHING

Franciscus Realty Co. Handles Transfer of Five-Story Building to Amos Harding.

MONTH OPENS WITH INCREASE IN SALES

Speculative Purchase Made on Delmar Near Union—Investors Lured by Opportunities.

By Berry Moore

The closing event of the week was the sale of a five-story elevator apartment building at 5386 Pershing avenue through the Franciscus Realty Co. to Amos Harding, represented by the Dubinsky Realty Co.

The building has 18 apartments of four and five rooms, with every modern convenience, including electric refrigeration and electric stoves. The suites are rented furnished or unfurnished. A lobby is an attractive feature. The transaction was on a cash basis.

Another Delmar Purchase.

Another speculative purchase was that of the property at 5212-14 Delmar boulevard, east of Union, by Isaac Archshoefer, negotiated by the George W. Ottenad Realty Co. The improvements consist of double five and six room flats, occupying a lot 50x147 feet. The cnosideration was not reported. Ground values ranged from $500 to $600 a foot on this part of Delmar boulevard, which is essentially a business center.

Bernard F. and Otto J. Dickman of the Joseph F. Dickman Real Estate Co., composing a syndicate, recently purchased the southeast corner of Delmar and Union boulevard, improved with stores, offices and apartments, which have been remodeled at a considerable outlay. Several offers, which would have paid them generous profits, have been refused by the new owners, who acquired the corner because of the possibilities of this intersection.

Transactions on Delmar avenue have been prominent in the real estate market for several years. There has been a consistent demand for holdings on this thoroughfare for both speculative and investment purposes.

Sales Volume Increases.

Swelled obviously by belated purchases, an increased volume of transactions marked the advent of November in the real estate field. Trading was diversified in character, pointing to a more general awakening.

The renewed activity is ascribed to the fact that speculators are in the market again, lured by the opportunities offered for promising investments. Numerous purchases have been made recently, according to Chauncey P. Heath, president of the Chauncey P. Heath Realty Co., which already have been vindicated by resales and offers involving gratifying profits. This applies, he states, to investment as well as to residence properties. He cited as instances that a South Side corner purchased recently could have been resold within a few days at a handsome profit, and that a bungalow for which $4500 was paid, was resold for $5800.

More Title Examinations.

The large title companies, especially the Title Guaranty Trust Co., and the Land Title Insurance Co., which offer the most reliable barometers, report increased examinations, with the market in both the city and county reflecting increased activity. Title investigations include types of speculative properties which until recently, were comparatively dormant.

Offers for large apartment buildings in the central West End and the South Side, as well as for combination business blocks at pivotal points in the midtown and uptown centers were frequent during the week.

Life insurance companies, with surplus capital for investment, are said to be in the market for large apartments and office buildings available at prices with margins for substantial profits. It is said that not a few offers submitted recently for buildings of these types have been on behalf of life insurance companies. Bonds for a number of lofty apartment structures erected during the last three years were underwritten by life insurance companies.

Office Building Negotiations.

It was disclosed yesterday that negotiations had been begun for interests with ample resources for large holdings in the office building center of the downtown area, with their purchase contemplated on a cash basis. These holdings also have been sought by interests with other property offered in part payment. The properties now on a substantial income basis would be further enhanced in value with the leasing of space now held vacant pending their sale.

An unprecedented amount of capital is available for financing purchases at fairly low rates of interest, as contrasted with a year ago, when the bulk of surplus funds was being lent on call in the New York stock market at fabulous rates of interest.

RECIPIENTS OF AWARDS ON GRAVOIS SEEK INVESTMENT

Demand for Property Reported From Owners Whose Damages Are to be Paid for by City Check of $1,767,827

Real estate agents report an investment demand from owners of buildings condemned to make way for the widening of Gravois avenue.

There are 284 buildings that will be wrecked or moved back to the new line. These include business buildings, flats, houses and tenements The present tenants of these buildings are also in the market for new quarters, either as purchasers or renters.

A check for $1,767,827.47 was paid into the Circuit Court Oct. 23 by Mayor Miller and Comptroller Nolte to meet awards of damages to property owners on Gravois avenue which is to be widened from Twelfth street to Grand boulevard with a cutoff at Twelfth street and Calhoun avenue. The check, representing the total of damages as fixed by the commissioiners, was handed to Circuit Judge Landwehr.

The city received from Stifel-Nicolaus a check for $1,538.930.13 in payment for benefit tax judgments on the widening project. The brokerage company bought them at a 5 per cent discount.

Boundaries of the advertised benefit district fixed by the commissioners on the Gravois avenue widening project are as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of Broadway and Franklin, thence westwardly to Twenty-first street, thence southwardly to Chouteau avenue, thence westwardly to Grand boulevard, thence southwardly to McRee avenue, thence westwardly to Vandeventer avenue, thence southwardly and westwardly along Vandeventer and Southwest avenue to right of way of the main line of the Frisco tracks, thence southwardly along right of way to western city limits, thence southwardly and southwestwardly along said city limits line to intersection with the linear prolongation of Grand boulevard, as the same extends northwardly from Schirmer street, thence from last mentioned intersection northwardly along said line of prolongation and the said Grand boulevard, to Loughborough avenue, thence eastwardly to Virginia avenue, thence northwardly to Osceola street, thence eastwardly to Broadway, thence northwardly to point of beginning.

DURO BILT CO. LEASES SPACE ON WASHINGTON AV.

David D. Lynch & Co. has negotiated a five-year lease with the Duro Bilt Seat Co., Inc., for space on the second floor of the Wrought Iron Range Co.'s building at Twentieth street and Washington avenue. The amount of space is approximately 10,000 square feet.

The Duro Bilt Co. manufactures for the jobbing restaurant and hotel supply business seats, chairs, tables and table tops, together with steel cast mountings for the same. Lawrence Michelson is president and treasurer of the Duro Bilt Seat Co. The company will move from its present location, 703 Lucas avenue, Dec. 10.

M. H. Rodemyer & Co. represented the Wrought Iron Range Co. in the negotiations.

NATIONAL REALTY BODY ARGUES AGAINST TAX

Declares Capital Gains Levy Blocks Normal Sale of Land and Securities.

Backing up President Hoover's recent suggestion, made before the American Bankers' Association, that the capital gains tax is blocking the normal sale of land and securities, the National Association of Real Estate Boards cites instances of such blocking reported at the Association's headquarters during the current week by leading realty dealers from their own experiences.

"Only this afternoon," a leading member of its brokers' division writes, under date of Oct. 20, "we had a negotiation in which the owner said he could not afford to make the sale at the price offered, namely $280,000, and pay a $10,000 profit tax."

This is a Chicago instance. The same day another officer of the assiciation cited from his experience a St. Louis property in a strategic location, costing $100,000 some years ago and today valued at $850,000, the owner of which, specifically because of the gains tax that would be involved, refuses to consider sale.

In a growing number of cases a solution for the present is being worked out through putting the property under long term lease. A tract in a Chicago business sub-center, for example, bought in 1909 at a cost of $120,000 and valued at $500,000 has been put under a 99 year lease, the improvements being sold outright and the land leased with an option to repurchase at $500,000 on six months' written notice, this last device being employed specifically to defer the profit tax with the thought that possibly it may some day be materially reduced.

A metropolitan property acquired 15 years ago at a cost of $250,000 was held up from sale at $1,000,000 by the consideration involved in the capital gains tax, a realty dealer who negotiated the transaction involving this property reports. Here the amount of the capital gains tax that would have been involved was $93,750.

Building owners and managers who represent more than 1600 large properties throughout the country state under date of Nov. 30, 1929, in a letter addressed to members of the House and Senate committees that the capital gains tax "constitutes a distinct burden upon real estate which impedes transaction and in many cases prevents the highest and best use of property."

At the time the rate was put into the income tax law, nine years ago, it was fixed with reference to the brackets in the ordinary income tax and also with relation to the corporation tax, it being felt that under no circumstances should a capital gain of an individual exceed the tax paid by a corporation on the same kind of gain.

Since that time the maximum surtax has been reduced from 65 per cent to 20 per cent. The maximum normal rate has been reduced from 8 per cent to 5 per cent. The corporation rate has been cut one-half of 1 per cent, and for 1929 cut again 1 per cent. The normal tax on individual incomes and on estates and trusts has been cut 1 per cent all along the line for 1929. The 1½ per per cent rate has been cut to one-half of 1 per cent, the 3 per cent rate to 2 per cent, and the 5 per cent rate to 4 per cent. The personal exemption for heads of families has been increased from $2500 to $3500. Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, in a public speech last April, gave detail to show that the capital gain rate should be cut practically in two in order to place it in equitable relation to the other income tax rates.

FACTORIES TO BE SOLD IN SPECULATIVE PROPERTY AREA

Receiver of Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. Interests Real Estate Dealers in Olive, 21st and Locust St. Sites

Real estate dealers handling downtown property are interested by the announcement of William R. Gentry, receiver of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., that the company intends to sell or lease its factory properties at Twenty-First and Olive streets, Twenty-First and Locust streets, and Jefferson avenue and Randolph street.

The Olive and Locust street properties as is generally recognized, are too valuable for industrial purposes, considering that many less valuable sites may be found which would serve equally well for factories. When placed on the market, these properties will no doubt be offered for salesroom or warehouse use.

The Jefferson and Randolph plant is in an industrial and shipping district. Receiver Gentry also announced his intention to sell a factory owned by the company in East St. Louis.

The offerings are attractive in their speculative possibilities. Real estate men anticipate the keenest competition for the Olive and Locust street holdings, which are expected to advance rapidly in value with the business growth of these thoroughfares. The widening of Olive has had a wholesome effect on operations in the central section east of Grand boulevard. The properties, according to real estate men, are being placed on the market at a decidedly favorable time, in view of the large amount of capital available for real estate investments.

MOVIES OF EUROPEAN BUILDINGS SHOWN BY HENRY R. WEISELS

Moving pictures of European city scenes, taken by Henry R. Weisels, head of Weisels Real Estate Co., were exhibited to a group of his friends at Hotel Coronado Wednesday night. The pictures were taken during a three months' journey through Germany, Austria, Switzerland and other continental countries, made last summer by Weisels, his wife and their daughter.

City development was the special theme of the films, which showed many details in city planning, improvement work, and housing provisions, with recent apartment house designs. A buffet supper was served after the showing. Preston Bradshaw, architect, assisted Weisels in entertaining.

$70,000 TRACT FOR NEW MARKET SOLD

Jim Remley Co. Expects to Erect Packing Plant on Kienlen Av. in County.

The Apex Realty & Mortgage Co. has sold for the Brambe Co. a 30-acre tract of land on Kienlen avenue at St. Louis avenue in St. Louis County to the Jim Remley Markets, Inc. The new purchaser expects to establish there a retail market, warehouse and a packing plant. The amount involved was around $70,000. The Jim Remley Co. was represented by Hendricks-Rubeling Realty Co. of Wellston.

It is the Remley Co.'s plan to have a spur track brought into the property so as to receive carload shipments of groceries, poultry, meats and produce. Large parking facilities will be provided for the convenience of customers.

The tract was formerly the site of the Surety Tire & Rubber Co. plant, which was partly destroyed by fire a few years ago.

MARTIN & BREITT CLOSES TWO COMMERCIAL LEASES

The Martin & Breitt Real Estate Co. closed a long term lease on the building at 3123 Washington avenue to the Gardner Denver Co., which specializes in the sale of air compressors, concrete breakers, rock drills, pumps, air hoists, steel sharpeners and governors.

The building will be used for office purposes, showroom and stockroom. This company has its main quarters at Quincy, Ill., and will use its St. Louis office for southwestern distribution. The office has been located for a number of years at 115 North Second street. The lease was made for the account of H. L. Rothberg.

Martin & Beritt also has leased the fifth floor of the building at 900-902 Washington avenue to the American Fashion Dress Co. for a long term of years. The company has been on the second floor. The new quarters will provide approximately 7000 square feet. The firm specializes in the manufacture of popular priced dresses and will use the floor for office display and manufacturing purposes. The lease was made for the Hellrung & Grimm House Furnishing Co.

THREE MORE FILE FOR EXCHANGE DIRECTORS

W. A. Federer, C. A. Protzmann and C. A. Dougherty Seek Real Estate Places.

William A. Federer of the Federer Realty Co., William L. Protzmann of the Protzmann Realty Co., and Chester A. Dougherty of the Dougherty Real Estate Co., are the latest candidates to file for directorship in the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. The election will be held Tuesday, Nov. 18.

Federer is completing his first two-year term as a director and is seeking re-election. He served as chairman of the Exchange's committee on National Conventions for 1929 and 1930 and chairman of the Subdividers' Committee in 1930.

Protzmann served as a director of the exchange for the years 1924, 1925, 1927, 1928 and 1929, and was corporation secretary in 1928, and member of the executive committee. He was chairman of the Diary and Manual Committee of 1924; Ethics Committee in 1926; Taxation Committee in 1927; Insurance Committee in 1928; and Diary and Manual Committee in 1929. During the years 1926 and 1927 he also headed a special committee of the Exchange that brought about the abolition of the sprinkling tax by the City of St. Louis as a special tax against real estate.

Dougherty served as a director during the years 1922, 1923 and 1924. He was first vice president during 1923 and 1924, also a member of the executive committee. He was chairman of the Arbitration Committee in 1922; Committee on Housing Problems in 1923 and 1924; Relator Committee for 1928, '29 and '30; and chairman of the Arbitration Committee in 1929.

The other candidates who have filed are: Eugene D. Ruth Jr., of the Francis-Perry-Ruth Realty Co.; Carl G. Stifel, president, John H. Gundlach & Co.; Philip H. Zepp, real estate officer of Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.; and Charles Rippin, vice president of the Hemmelmann-Spackler Real Estate Co.

Bernard F. Dickmann, president and treasurer of the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., Inc., is the only candidate who has thus far filed for president of the exchange.

MINIATURE GOLF COURSE IN INTERNATIONAL LIFE BLDG.

Miniature golf will invade Real Estate Row when a nine-hole course is opened tomorrow on the first floor of the International Life Building, southeast corner of Eighth and Chestnut streets. Henri Chouteau is proprietor of the course, which will be connected by telephone service with the player's places of business. Miss Marie Hoerr is manager.

CHAUNCEY P. HEATH LEASES STORE AT 3542 WASHINGTON

The Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. reports a long-term lease on 3542 Washington boulevard, to A. P. Thursby, optician, who is now located at 720 Locust street, for the account of Sims Construction Co.

This store is on the first floor of the Kissel-Skiles Garage Building, in the Grand-Washington district, and will contain the modern equipment.

Two New Feinberg Salesmen.

Two new men added to Adolph K. Feinberg Real Estate Co. sales force are Henry C. Siemsen, formerly with Beaver Products Co., and E. C. Robinson, formerly with the Robinson Paper Co. The Feinberg company has been appointed agents for the Slupsky tract on

FOUR INDUSTRIAL CHANGES FORESEEN BY ECONOMIST

Virgil Jordan Predicts Building of Permanent United States, Wide Distribution of Natural Gas and Electricity.

"The business depression is not due to overproduction, but has been caused by narrow and old-fashioned banking policies, ill-conceived tariff attitudes and lack of management," said Virgil Jordan, economist of the McGraw-Hill Corporation of New York City, before the third annual meeting of the industrial property division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, declared recently in Detroit.

Speaking before an audience composed of industrial experts representing real estate, railroads, public utilities and chambers of commerce throughout the United States, Jordan said that the restriction of production would not bring relief in any quarter because it is based on the "myth of overproduction."

He declared attempts to deflate living standards means embracing a gospel of despair and rejected the fundamental principles of modern progress and that such paralyzing theories constituted an economic nihilism far more dangerous and destructive to any civilization than any form of communism or socialism.

Jordan declared future industrial development in this country would be based upon a continuation of the higher living standards and other ideas which created the prosperity of the past decade. He warned his audience against conducting business operations and making plans on the basis of the yearly calendar and stated that all industries must begin to think in terms of five-year intervals if American business as a whole is to overcome the effects of the regular recurrence of one bad year out of five and he asked the industrialists at this meeting to carry this doctrine to their clients and to their various communities.

"Continued pressure towards higher living standards is likely to bring about four important industrial changes," said Jordan.

"1. The next great industrial boom in this country will be based upon improvements in the building industry. Sooner or later the American people will cease to live on a pioneer basis of a mining camp and start to build a permanent United States. When this comes it will be on the basis of new materials and new processes, all of which will in turn develop new and larger industries which are merely in their infancy today.

"2. The industrial expansion of the future will be based on cheaper and more widely distributed sources of power which will be mainly natural gas and electricity. This year marked the beginning of the largest expansion in the natural gas industry in our history. We probably will be able to trace the lines of future industrial expansion along the routes of natural gas lines. A similar development on the basis of hydro-electric power already has gone far.

"3. The agricultural revolution now in progress as well as the development of the chemical industries will result in a steady expansion in all types of food processing.

"4. The next great industrial expansion probably will be based upon or center in a chemical field in those industries involving the utilizing of by-products of coal, petroleum, wood and farm products. We shall more and more be using our coal and oil not for the simple and direct purposes of heat and power but for the manufacture of new materials out of which new products will be made.

"5. I foresee the accomplishment within the next five years of a greater part of the processes of readjustment which has been going on in the fourth of the great basic industries—textiles."

FIVE LEASES ARE CLOSED BY ISAAC T. COOK CO.

The Isaac T. Cook Co. announces the negotiation of a lease with the O. C. White Equipment Co. of Detroit, Mich., for the store room at 2836 Olive street. The White company handles a line of tanks and oil-field supplies and has moved to St. Louis to be closer to the oil fields.

Marie Koppel has leased the store at 1804 Pine street for a sandwich shop. C. C. Ordwein has leased the store room at 809 Pine street for a tailoring establishment. W. J. Leopold has leased the two-story building at 4524-26 Delmar boulevard, to be used for a miniature golf course. George C. V. Fesler has taken lease on the store room at 2656 Washington avenue for the manufacture of cosmetics.

All parties in the above negotiations were represented by Isaac T. Cook Co.

THREE LEASES ANNOUNCED IN 10TH-OLIVE BUILDING

The Apex Realty & Mortgage Co. announce the completion of a long-term lease to the Hamilton-Schmidt Surgical Co. for the storeroom at 215 North Tenth street, together with an equal amount of space on the second floor directly above the storeroom. The space is being remodeled and will be ready for occupancy Dec. 1.

The Apex Realty & Mortgage Co. also announces the completion of a long-term lease with the Ford Cash & Carry Cleaning Co. 1002½ Olive street, for space in its present location; also, a lease to Williams & Co., commercial artist, for space on the fourth floor of the same building.

The Tenth-Olive Building is under 99-year lease to the Walgreen Co., which recently opened one of its new drug stores in the corner storeroom.

BUSINESS IS GAINING

IMPETUS EVERY DAY, and while merchants are only stocking seasonal requirements, the new year, almost upon us, should see merchants and manufacturers on the full swing toward prosperity.

That is our prophecy . . . and we urge business concerns to avail themselves of the present opportunity to secure business locations, to meet the new condition.

It will be to your advantage if we may be permitted to serve you.

If You're Slipping—Read This and Profit

To get ahead you need not deprive yourself of pleasures, but must make sound investments and cut out the waste. Nothing better than buying a home; nothing easier; nothing gives more pleasure and comfort to entire family; nothing more profitable. Think seriously. The quicker you start, the better for you. Life is what you make it—Success or Failure. If you are sincere and really want to succeed, we can help you.

See today—4751 Alma Avenue, Ladies of Sorrows Parish, Gardenville Public School, five rooms, modern; like new and a beauty; only $1000 required and $60.00 per month, which includes all interest; gets less each month; pay more if you can. This surely beats paying rent. In Northwest St. Louis, we offer 6344 Laura Avenue, a very cozy four-room modern brick, like new, for only $47.50 per month, with small down payment. In Southampton—5503-7 Nottingham Avenue, near Southampton car line and Buder School. Beautiful new five-room homes, built by Dettermann. Electric refrigeration and garage. Also suggest you look at our Sunshine Homes, the greatest values ever offered, 6100 block Wanda Avenue, two blocks east of Gravois at Schoenlau, five rooms, marble sills, marble mantels, tile walls in bath and many other new features. Also some less elaborate; 4900 block Upton Street, just west of 7100 Gravois; all priced to sell at $1000 down and convenient payments.

Our specialty is helping people acquire homes; our financing plans are convenient; and we offer you over twenty years' experience. It's your move; what will it be?

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

ANY HONEST MAN
Can succeed in our business. We do not want a salesman, but just a good, sensible man who we can train in our methods. The man we choose will be furnished with merchandise, advertising, and a factory representative will train him in our line. No experience is necessary. He must be prepared to locate in the territory assigned and handle the business of an entire state. Our product sells to all types of merchants, the profits are large, and the merchants reorder on an average of four times a year. The business is dignified, legitimate and big enough to interest anyone. We want one man for Missouri and one for several Southern States. These men must be 30 years of age or over, gentiles preferred and have $600 cash. This money is returnable. If you can fill our requirements you should make $12,000 or more yearly. Write for immediate personal interview. Give telephone.
Box Y-140, Post-Dispatch

AN UNUSUAL BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY
Men with good assets and $1000 or more capital, wanted to enter exceedingly profitable business. This is an investment, not a selling proposition. Unlimited opportunity for expansion and tremendous profits. Business consists in operating legitimate money-making equipment in high-grade business places on percentage basis. Every good merchant wants this equipment; you handle your own money, all cash trade; practically no overhead; no bad accounts; income starts immediately. Great opportunity to establish business of your own. We are manufacturers with 41 years of established success, rated AAA-1. Call or write for full information.
MILLS NOVELTY COMPANY,

oderately Higher Close at Final Session of Period— Early Day Losses of Fraction to 5 Points in Motion Pictures, Utilities and Specialties.

the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The stock rket concluded a month of sagg prices, and incidentally obrved the anniversary of the and smash of 1929, with a wan d feeble performance this week. Trading was in the lightest vole since the third week of Sepmber, and the action of the share arket seemed largely to reflect e vicissitudes of Wall street's irits, while the bond and leading mmodity markets held more en keel.

The quarterly reports of two ding steel companies and one ding motor manufacturer apared during the week, and pendg their publication the stock arket was uncertain of itself. rthermore, with a national elecn next Tuesday, the market splayed its traditional pre-elecn hesitancy.

During the first two days of the ek, the list showed faint signs of suming the rally from the low vels reached on Oct. 22, but durg the next three days it sank adily. The price index of 90 ding shares was carried within fraction of the low of the preus week, and the index of 50 instrials alone actually broke to e lowest point since August, 27.

Short covering at the end of the ek caused a slight rally, and the ice index of 90 shares showed a t loss for the week of about 4½ oints. The net loss for the month October amounted to approxitely 13 points, indicating a rinkage of about 9 per cent in oted values.

Necessitous Liquidation Ceases.

The most encouraging aspect of e week's trading was apparent ssation of necessitous liquidaon. The inability of the market make any decided technical reund after the almost steady dene of seven weeks, however, has en an abnormal and somewhat sconcerting aspect of the situaon, and has obscured the mart's technical position.

The three outstanding earnings atements were not far from Wall reet expectations. U. S. Steel, ith net of $2.06 a common share r the quarter, was at first glance ore favorable than expected, but iminating non-operating profit, t was only $1.78, or 3 cents ove the dividend requirement. ethlehem, with 63 cents a share, less than half the dividend of .50, was about as expected. Genl Motors earned 53 cents, or 22 ts less than the quarterly divind, but some quarters had looked r a less favorable showing.

Brokers' loans declined another 01,000,00, which makes a deation of about $700,000,000 in ve weeks, carrying the total to .512,000,000, or only 37 per cent the total of little more than a r ago. Call money held at 2 cent, with outside offerings at

Although there has been exnsive shifting of security loans om brokerage accounts to the ew York banks, the New York ederal Reserve Bank, in its onthly survey, commented upon e extraordinarily strong position these institutins, finding them in position to meet any credit deands that may arise.

Week-End Short Covering.

Week-end covering in the last arter hour of today's market ecked an extension of the decline. Early losses of a fraction to 5 oints in motion picture, utility d specialty issues were quickly gained on the late rally and the arket closed moderately higher. les totaled 1,001,290 shares.

Bearish operations were held mewhat in check by the resistnce in the industrial leaders, such U. S. Steel, General Electric, estinghouse, General Motors and dio, which moved narrowly and

WEEK-END COVERING CHECKS DECLINE

Moderately Higher Close at Final Session of Period—Early Day Losses of Fraction to 5 Points in Motion Pictures, Utilities and Specialties.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The stock market concluded a month of sagging prices, and incidentally observed the anniversary of the grand smash of 1929, with a wan and feeble performance this week. Trading was in the lightest volume since the third week of September, and the action of the share market seemed largely to reflect the vicissitudes of Wall street's spirits, while the bond and leading commodity markets held more even keel.

The quarterly reports of two leading steel companies and one leading motor manufacturer appeared during the week, and pending their publication the stock market was uncertain of itself. Furthermore, with a national election next Tuesday, the market displayed its traditional pre-election hesitancy.

During the first two days of the week, the list showed faint signs of resuming the rally from the low levels reached on Oct. 22, but during the next three days it sank steadily. The price index of 90 leading shares was carried within a fraction of the low of the previous week and the index of 50 industrials alone actually broke to the lowest point since August, 1927.

Short covering at the end of the week caused a slight rally, and the price index of 90 shares showed a net loss for the week of about 4½ points. The net loss for the month of October amounted to approximately 13 points, indicating a shrinkage of about 9 per cent in quoted values.

Necessitous Liquidation Ceases.

The most encouraging aspect of the week's trading was apparent cessation of necessitous liquidation. The inability of the market to make any decided technical rebound after the almost steady decline of seven weeks, however, has been an abnormal and somewhat disconcerting aspect of the situation, and has obscured the market's technical position.

The three outstanding earnings statements were not far from Wall Street expectations. U. S. Steel, with net of $2.06 a common share for the quarter, was at first glance more favorable than expected, but eliminating non-operating profit, net was only $1.78, or 3 cents above the dividend requirement. Bethlehem, with 63 cents a share, or less than half the dividend of $1.50, was about as expected. General Motors earned 53 cents, or 22 cents less than the quarterly dividend, but some quarters had looked for a less favorable showing.

Brokers' loans declined another $101,000,000, which makes a deflation of about $700,000,000 in five weeks, carrying the total to $2,512,000,000, or only 37 per cent of the total of little more than a year ago. Call money held at 2 per cent, with outside offerings at [illegible]. Although there has been extensive shifting of security loans from brokerage accounts to the New York banks, the New York Federal Reserve Bank, in its monthly survey, commented upon the extraordinarily strong position of these institutins, finding them in position to meet any credit demands that may arise.

Week-End Short Covering.

Week-end covering in the last quarter hour of today's market checked an extension of the decline. Early losses of a fraction to 5 points in motion picture, utility and specialty issues were quickly regained on the late rally and the market closed moderately higher. Sales totaled 1,001,290 shares.

Bearish operations were held somewhat in check by the resistance in the industrial leaders, such as U. S. Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, General Motors and Radio, which moved narrowly and

LIGHT TRADING LAST WEEK ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

Scullin Steel Preference Transaction a Feature of Trade — Missouri Portland Sells at Advance.

The St. Louis Stock Exchange experienced a quiet week with prices not significantly altered. Transactions fell materially under the aggregate of the preceding week and of the total nearly half represented deals in Scullin Steel preference. The major portion of the business in this stock was done on Monday, when 3794 shares figured in a transaction at 9¼ to which one house was both buyer and seller. The stock ranged up to 11 subsequently.

Wagner Electric and International Shoe had narrow ranges. Hamilton-Brown at 3 was up fractionally. There were 500 shares of Scruggs at 10 at one session, transactions being in 100-share lots.

Missouri Portland advanced more than a point.

Coca-Cola Bottling was a late week feature, selling between 37 and 44 at one session. The close was off a point.

Brown Shoe lost a fraction. National Candy and Rice-Stix closed unchanged.

Mercantile-Commerce closed 5 points higher at 225.

Local Business and Financial Items

(Paragraphs for publication in this column should be addressed to the Financial Editor.)

The St. Louis Stock Exchange announced the transfer of membership from Richard S. Hawes Jr. of Hawes & Co. to Clarence E. Maloy, vice president of Hawes & Co.

G. Lee Camp has been elected vice president of the Monsanto Chemical Works, in charge of sales. It was announced also the directors had accepted, with regret, the resignation of John W. Boyer as vice president.

• • •

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—E. N. Brown, chairman of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, said the management continues confident that net earnings for the year 1930 will exceed 1½ times the fixed charges. "As our net earnings for the four years from 1925 to 1929," he said, "have in each year been in excess of 1½ times the fixed charges, we expect that the bonds of the company, now legal investments for savings banks and trust funds in New York State, will continue to meet the present legal requirements."

QUIET TRADE MARKS 1929 STOCK BREAK ANNIVERSARY

showed a tendency to work higher while other shares were sagging.

Numerous stocks were in new low ground when the market turned into the final half hour. These included American Water Works, Pacific Lighting, Allied Chemical, du Pont, Gillette, Auburn Auto, Kennecott and Bendix, indicating that pressure was being directed more against individual specialties than the general list. American Telephone was heavy, reacting about 2 points to 193, or only ¼ from the year's low. However, it closed nearly a point net higher.

General Motors earnings statement for the third quarter figured prominently in the day's news. The corporation showed $2.85 for the first nine months of the year, which is taken as assurance that the full $3 will be covered, although probably by a rather narrow margin. The stock, together with du Pont, which has important holdings of General Motors, firmed.

The 61 per cent drop in bank clearings for this week as compared with a year ago was not so alarming at second glance, for clearings reached a record total during the stock market break in 1929. Nevertheless, the current figures were unfavorable in the light of 1928, which was a more normal year.

Peoples Gas Down.

Further inroads into the quotations of high-priced stocks was a feature of the two-hour market. Peoples Gas, one of the few remaining issues selling in the $200 class, broke 13 points and regained only three of its drop. Ingersoll Rand lost 9, but fared better on the late covering and its loss was reduced to 2 points. Diamond Match, in which a splitup soon becomes effective, lost more than seven points and closed 6½ lower. Allied Chemical found a new low at 192⅝, where it was four points off, but rebounded for a three-point net advance.

Gillette's maximum loss was five points, Auburn Auto's 3¾ and American Water Works 4½. None showed full recovery. The day's most specacular decline was in Wabash "B" preferred, an inactive, which slumped 33 points below the previous sale. The "A" preferred was also soft.

Net gains of 1 to 2 points were made in U. S. Steel, Air Reduction, Bethlehem Steel, Case, Radio, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Western Union and General Electric. American Can turned a two-point loss into a net advance of ¾ and there was fractional improvement in General Motors, du Pont, American Telephone, Eastman Kodak and Johns-Manville. Shorts were pressed in Coca Cola, which rallied five. Atchison was up three.

The usual Saturday dullness prevailed in the foreign exchanges. The Spanish peseta firmed after yesterday's reaction.

Mill Operations Increase.

UNION, S. C., Nov. 1.—The Monarch, Ottary and Lockhart textile mills will operate 50 hours per week beginning Monday. They have been running three days a week.

Closing Time for Foreign Mails.

Closing time for a parcel post for Great Britain and Germany and full European mails is set for 9 o'clock tomorrow night at the Main Postoffice, Eighteenth and Walnut streets.

WEEK'S COPPER MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Foreign buying of copper has been heavy, averaging about 5500 tons daily, the quota fixed by copper exporters. Sales for export during October are estimated at 65,000 tons, demand having been stimulated by reports of producers' curtailment proposals, although no further developments have been reported. Good domestic buying for delivery in the first quarter of 1931 has been reported, but this is said to have been largely by fabricating subsidiaries of large producers. Independent consumers are said to be well supplied and have been generally out of the market. The price is being firmly held at 9½ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley.

Lead continued to hold steady despite the small consuming interest; world production in September decreased.

The tone of zinc was a little steadier.

TURPENTINE, FLAX AND LINSEED

Linseed oil in 1 to 4 barrel lots was quoted at 10.4c per pound for raw and 10.8c for boiled.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 1.—Flax closed on track, $1.66¼@1.71¼; Nov., $1.66¼; Dec., $1.66¼; May, $1.72¼.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 1.—Turpentine steady, 37; sales, 111; receipts, 345; shipments, 143; stocks, 30,273. Rosin firm; sales, 291; receipts, 1418; shipments, 803; stock, 172,571. New York Coffee.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Saturday sessions were resumed in the coffee futures markets today, with business quiet and prices fairly steady after some early irregularity, on trade buying and a little covering. No. 2 contracts opened 3 lower and 2 higher, and closed 1 to 2 higher. Sales, 1000. Santos contracts opened 3 lower to 4 higher and closed 3 to 5 higher. Sales, 3000. Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts: December, 6.55; March, 5.77; May, 5.61; July, 5.51; September, 5.40. Santos—December, 10.45; March, 9.46; May, 9.03; July, 8.86; September, 8.70.

Spot coffee quiet. Rio 7s, 8¼ to 8½. Santos 4s, 12¼ to 12¾. There were few cost and freight offers from Brazil. Those received included Santos at 11½c. Owing to the holiday in Brazil, no market quotations were received here. Yesterday's receipts at the Brazilian ports were 44,000 bags. No Jundiahy receipts were reported.

New York Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The weekly statement of the New York Clearing House shows: Total surplus and undivided profits $1,222,785,500, unchanged; total net demand deposits (average), $170,022,000, increase; time deposits (average), $8,397,000, increase; clearings week ending today, $5,556,962,631; clearings week ending Oct. 25, $5,859,502,236; clearings this day, $1,392,383,622.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Saturday sessions in the sugar market were resumed today, but uncertainty over developments in Cuba seemed to restrict operations and trading was light in all departments. In the spot market no sales were reported and prices were nominally unchanged at 3.42c for spots, duty paid. It was believed refiners would pay this price in certain positions, with holders generally asking 1.32c more.

Changes in futures were narrow and unimportant. The market opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher, and showed little variation throughout the session. Final prices were net unchanged to 1 point lower. There was a little covering and trade buying, which was supplied through liquidation and local selling. Operators were inclined to await the outcome of the elections in Cuba, and the ratification of the recent proposals of the committee for the stabilization of sugar. Sales were only 2450 tons. Closing prices: Dec., 1.43c; Jan., 1.45c; March, 1.52c; May, 1.58c; July, 1.64c; Sept., 1.71c. No. 2 contracts were unchanged at 3.25c for December, with no sales.

Refined was quiet at 4.75c for fine granulated. Second hands were available below this level.

Sugar futures closed quiet; approximated sales 2450 tons. December 1.43; January 1.45; March 1.52; May 1.58; July 1.64; September 1.71.

BOND TRADE FAIR FOR A WEEK-END MARKET

Widest Swings Take Place in Foreign Obligations Which Are Irregular.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Domestic bond prices were only slightly altered while foreign issues moved irregularly in the short session today. Activity was fair for a two-hour session, sales approximating $4,400,000.

The widest swings took place in foreign obligations. Latin-American and continental European issues displaying mixed trends on very small turnovers. Brazilian 8s, Chile Mortgage Bank 6s of 1960, Bolivian 8s were the most active and higher. Antioquia 7s D, Caldas Department 7½s, Cordoba City 7s, Dominican first 5½s, Porto Alegre 7½s, Rio Grande do Sul 7s of 1956, were in supply a point or more below yesterday's final prices.

On a small turnover Electric Power of Germany 6½s of 1953 slumped 8 points to a new low, and the 6½s of 1950 were down 3. German bank and industrial issues moved a shade lower, but the Governments were firm, the 5½s and 7s advancing fractionally.

United States Governments were very dull in contrast with the strong demand throughout the week that pushed some prices up to the best level in three years. The Liberty fourth 4¼s duplicated its year's peak price.

Changes in domestic corporation bonds were narrow generally and reflected the dullness of trading that usually prevails on Saturday. Rails were irregularly lower, but most of the changes were fractional. Denver, Rio Grande & Western 5s B and Central of Georgia 5s C slumped to new lows. St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s rallied ¾. Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s were well bought but another Van Sweringen issue, Missouri Pacific 5s of 1977, declined ½.

Utilities were somewhat improved. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit 6s were very active and advanced ⅝. Denver Gas & Electric 5s, New Orleans Public Service 5s B, North American Edison 5s C, were in demand.

Best grade industrials were higher, but speculative issues continued to move downward. Commercial Investment Trust 6s were strong and active, duplicating their 1930 high. East Cuba 7½s, International Cement 5s, and Richfield Oil 6s reacted a point or more.

Bank Governor to Europe.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, will sail next week for Europe on one of his periodical visits to discuss world financial problems with the heads of central banks in London, Paris and Berlin.

SMALL DECLINES IN COTTON AT WEEK END

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A further decline of some eight or 10 points in cotton today was followed by moderate rallies on trade buying and week-end covering. March contracts after selling off to 11.42 rallied to 11.54, but failed to fully maintain the improvement, closing at 11.50 compared with 11.52 of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net declines of two to three points.

The opening was steady at a decline of one to six points under overnight selling orders which included some Southern hedging as well as further liquidation and scattered selling. New December contracts sold of to 11.05 and May to 11.65 under this pressure, making net losses of eight to 11 points on the general list. The Southern selling was less active than it was yesterday, however, and after the initial offerings had been absorbed prices steadied up on covering. The trade was credited with having taken a good part of the early selling, and the market became comparatively bare of contracts when the demand developed. New December sold up to 11.17 and May to 11.75 or about 10 to 12 points from the early low level and two to four points net higher, but the demand then tapered off again and closing quotations showed reactions of a few points from the best.

The disposition to even up commitments was probably promoted by the proximity of the election day adjournment, as the market there will be closed on Tuesday, while New Orleans and Liverpool will remain open. Except for the Southern selling and trade buying, business was attributed largely to covering or liquidation of scattering accounts. Reports of cold weather in the South and prospects of additional frosts in some sections seemed to make very little impression on sentiment, although some traders say they think there may possibly be a temporary revival of interest in crop figures preceding the Government report scheduled for publication next Saturday.

Liverpool cables said that hedging there had been taken by trade calling on the decline and reported a fair turnover in cotton cloths for the continent. The amount of cotton shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 207,000 bales against 225,000 last year.

CURB RALLIES MILDLY LATE IN SESSION

Listless Trading Marks Day—Mixed Changes in Utilities.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The curb market dragged through a short session of listless trading today, with closing prices varying only fractionally from the previous day.

Prices declined during the first hour as they have so frequently of late, but rallied mildly on short covering operations of traders closing out their transactions for the week-end. Total transactions were only 262,000 shares.

Changes in the utility group were a mixture of small gains and losses. Electric Bond & Share worked down to 50½ within a fraction of its year's low, but closed at 51¼, for a net loss of ¼. American Superpower, Brazilian Traction, Niagara Hudson and Middlewest utilities were slightly higher, while United Light & Power A reacted 1¼, then regained all but the fraction at the close.

Cities Service and Standard Oil of Indiana were virtually the only petroleum issues in which activity was more than nominal. Both were very steady and closed firm. Vacuum sold at 61, off ½. Arkansas Natural Gas A, a low priced stock, was active and unchanged.

Selling pressure forced Diamond Match new into new low ground at 12½, but it recovered a point in the final hour. Industrials and specialties were practically neglected. Glen Alden Coal rebounded 2 points from the year's low. Ford of France sagged 1⅜ in a thin market, and Deere dipped ⅞. American Cyanamid B held firm.

Investment trusts and holding company stocks were about stationary. Trading in the group centered in United Founders and Pennroad, both closing steady.

ARGENTINE NEWS DOMINATES THE GRAIN MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Nov. 1.—The wheat market was influenced largely by varying character of rust weather news from Argentina. There was early decline on favorable tone of comment and then better prices followed more bullish comment. Corn closed lower, enlarging receipts and favorable weather being reported influences.

Wheat futures opened fractionally lower, Liverpool coming ⅛ to ⅝d lower in closing table. Winnipeg opened a shade lower and declined more early.

December wheat opened at 76½, May wheat 81½, December corn 73⅞, May corn 79¾.

Local wheat receipts, which were 99,400 bushels, compared with 50,400 last week and 65,800 last year, included 54 cars local and 17 through. Corn receipts, which were 109,200 bushels, compared with 42,000 last week and 67,200 last year, included 64 cars local and 14 through. Oats receipts, which were 48,400 bushels, compared with 22,000 last week and 52,800 last year, included 13 cars local and 9 through. Hay receipts were 18 cars local and 21 through.

In the cash grain market soft wheat was steady to ½c higher. Supplies were light and the market was quiet, with the demand limited to select milling grain. There were only a few orders on hand. Three of the five cars on sale, including a car of straight No. 1 held at 86½c and with 86c bid, and several garlicky descriptions, were carried over. The only sale of No. 1 was on a basis 10½c above the Chicago December figure. Hard wheat was steady to ½c lower. Premiums on country run were slightly higher. Offerings were light and the demand was limited and bulk of the grain on sale was carried over. Sales of country No. 1 were on a basis 3½c above the Chicago December figure, the best basis on the crop thus far. No. 1 mixed sold at 3¾c above, No. 2 winter 1c to 1½c above and No. 2 yellow 1c above. Old corn was down 1½c to 2¼c and the new was off 1c to 3½c. The basis as compared to futures was ½c and ¾c lower, except for the lower grades of new white, premiums on which declined 2½c. Supplies, which were liberal, ran about half old and half new. The demand was fair. About 50 per cent of the sales were made to elevators and the rest to mills, industries and shippers. Oats ranged down 1c. Offerings were light. Purchasing was done by local trade.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

WHEAT—No. 1 red winter, 87c; light garlicky, 85½c; No. 1 hard winter, 80c; No. 2 hard winter, 77½@78c; No. 2 yellow hard, 78c; No. 1 mixed, 68 pct. hard 80c; sample grade mixed, 85 pct. soft, 77c.

CORN—Old: No. 2 mixed, 74c; No. 1 yellow, 75¼c; No. 2 yellow, 74¾c to 75¼c; No. 1 white, 83c; No. 2 white, 83c; No. 3 white, 81c. New: No. 2 yellow, 73c to 73½c; No. 3 yellow, 69½c to 71½c; No. 4 yellow, 68c to 69c; No. 5 yellow, 66c; No. 6 yellow, 65c; No. 3 white, 77c; No. 4 white, 75½c to 76c; No. 5 white, 75c; sample grade, 65c.

OATS—No. 1 white, 36c; No. 3 white, 35½c.

Flour and Meal.

Quotable flour prices were nominally unchanged. Most mills reported lack of new business, yet one miller reported fair domestic sales but withheld quantities. Hard 95 per cent was quoted by local mill at $4.15 to $4.35 in cotton according to protein and $3.60 jute named as minimum price on Kansas 95 per cent. The only sale reported was one car hard to nearby East on private terms.

Nominally, in new jute: Soft patents, $4.50 to $5 special brands in cotton from $5.40 to $5.65 up to $6.10; straights $3.60 to $3.75, 95 per cent $3.85 to $4; clears and extra fancy $3.35 to $3.60; low grades $2.80 to $3.25; hard 95 per cent $3.60 to $4.15, straights $3.50 to $3.75; high patent $5.30; in cotton first clears $3.35 to $3.50; low grades, $2.80 to $3.25; spring patents, $4.85 to $5.30; No. 2 Seminola 2¾c; special, 2⅝c and No. 3 2⅜c per pound.

RYE FLOUR—Quoted by mill in carlots in jute: White patent, $3.75; medium, $3.40; dark, $3.25.

Corn meal quoted at $2.17 and standard meal at $2.07 per 100 pounds.

St. Louis Hay Market.

Hay sales were as follows: Timothy, 1 car No. 2 $19, 1 car do $21; Clover-mixed, 1 car No. 2 $18, 1 car do $20, 1 car do $21.

No. 1 clover was quoted $20@22 per ton; No. 2 clover $17@19; clover mixed No. 1, $20@21; No. 2, $17@19; alfalfa hay, No. 1 to choice, $28 to $30; standard, $24@26; No. 2, $18@20; oats and wheat, $9@10; No. 1 timothy $22@23; No. 2 timothy $18 to $21; sample grade timothy, $10@13; No. 1 prairie $18 to $19; No. 2 prairie $14 to $16; No. 3 prairie $11@12.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Cash wheat feed was dull. A mill here quoted pure bran $19.50 and gray shorts $22.50, and quotations reported otherwise (immediate) were: Standard bran $19.25 and $19.50, pure bran $19.50 and $19.75, gray shorts $22, standard middlings $20.50. Oat-feed was quoted at $8.80 and white hominy feed $25.50. The only sales reported were 2 cars pure bran (Nov. shipment) $21 and 1 car soft gray shorts $22.50, all to go out.

Transactions in mill feed futures totaled 3900 tons.

WHEAT CLOSES NERVOUS WITH CORN PRICE DOWN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Rapid shifting of the character of Argentine wheat crop advices chiefly governed the course of wheat values today with the market here scoring a late upturn. Earlier wheat prices tended downward, influenced by word that Argentine rust danger was diminishing, and that with a fortnight of favorable weather the damage from rust in Argentina would be negligible.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, at the same as yesterdays finish to ⅜c higher, corn closed ⅛-⅝c off, oats ⅝-1⅛c down, and provisions varying from a shade decline to a rise of 2c.

It was said that wet weather was expected later today.

A prominent Chicago speculator led the buying that accompanied the late upturn of the wheat prices. There was also active profit taking on the part of recent sellers. Argentine news, earlier but from a different trade source in Buenos Aires had been of a reassuring nature, indicating that seasonable weather prevailed and that the harvest outlook was satisfactory.

Predictions that world shipments of wheat for the week would prove smaller were construed in some quarters as bearish, and there was talk also that recent breaks in corn prices would bring about considerable lessening of demand for wheat to be used as feed. Toward the last, however, the wheat market rallied quickly, with some traders apprehensive about Argentine forecasts of rain and higher temperatures tomorrow and Monday.

Faced by enlarging receipts of corn and by favorable weather, the feed grains displayed lack of power to rally with wheat. Primary arrivals of corn today were 868,000 bu. against 594,000 bu a week ago and 458,000 at this time last year. All deliveries of oats touched a new low price record for the season.

Provisions averaged lower in price most of the day, responsive to downturns of hog values.

Crude Oil Price Cut.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—The price of Pennsylvania grade crude oil was cut today by leading purchasing agencies for the second time within two weeks. Pennsylvania grade in New York transit lines and Bradford district oil in national transit lines were cut 10 cents a barrel and the others were reduced 15 cents.

The new prices are:

Penna grade in New York transit lines and Bradford district oil in national transit lines, $2.30; Penna grade in national transit lines, $2; Penna grade in South-West Penna lines, $1.95; Penna grade in Eureka lines, $1.85; Penna grade in Buckeye lines, $1.60.

TULSA, Ok., Nov. 1.—The Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing Co., a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, today posted further price reductions for higher gravities of midcontinent crude oil. The new schedule quotes $1.07 a barrel for oil of 40 gravity and above. The lowered schedule which the company put into effect a week ago quoted up to $1.19 for oil of 44 gravity and above. Reductions in the price of Texas and Louisiana coastal crude averaging about 20 cents a barrel lower than those made recently by the Humble Oil and Refining Co. were announced at Houston, Tex., by the Gulf Pipe Line Co. and Gulf Refining Co.

Grade A coastal crude was posted at 80 cents, 20 cents below the Humble company's quotation, which in turn had reduced that grade 15 cents a barrel.

On Grade B, Gulf posted a price of 69 cents on below 25 gravity, 6 cents below the Humble's price.

IN MEMORIAM

ALLEN—In loving remembrance of my dear mother, Emily J. Allen, who departed this life Nov. 3, 1929:
In the midst of my joy I am blue;
With smiles on my face, I have heartaches,
Longing, dear one, for you.
My lips cannot tell how I miss you,
My heart cannot tell what I say;
God alone knows how I miss you,
Dear mother, in a heart that is lonesome today.
Sadly missed by her daughter,
CORA ENGELKE.

ALLEN—In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Emily J. Allen, who departed this life Nov. 3, 1929:
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by her SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

BECKTAME—In loving memory of Emma Becktame, who departed this life Nov. 2, 1926.
Four years have passed,
Oh how we miss her.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
Little do they know the sorrow that lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by
SIS[illegible]OTHERS-IN-LAW, NIECES AND NEPHEW. (c)

BRINKMAN—In loving memory of our dear mother, Minnie Brinkman, who passed out of this life three years ago, Nov. 1, 1927.
Missed by her children, grandchild and daughters-in-law. ELSIE M. BRINKMAN.

BRODERICK—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mary Broderick, who departed this life four years ago, Oct. 31.
Deep in my heart lies a picture of a mother that was laid to rest.
In memory's frame which I shall keep her, because she was one of the best.
Like ivy on a withered oak when all other things decay,
My love for her will still keep green and never fade away.
Sadly missed by her daughter,
MRS. PHILIP LAMBERT. (c)

BUETTNER—In loving memory of my dear mother, Emma Buettner, who died Nov. 3, 1927.
What is home without a mother?
All things this world may send,
But when we lose our darling mother,
We lose our dearest friend.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

IN MEMORIAM

BLOCK—In memory of my dear father, who departed this life Nov. 1 1917.
Sadly missed by his daughter,
HENRIETTA BLOCK. (c)

CONNORS—In loving memory of Anna A. Connors, who departed this life Nov. 6, 1927.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay,
But love for you who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS.

DAVIDSON (Stoll)—In loving memory of Elizabeth Davidson (Lillie Stoll), who departed this life Nov. 2, 1929.
A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, RELATIVES AND FRIENDS.

EICHENLAUB—In memory of my beloved wife, Anna I. Eichenlaub, who departed her life Nov. 3, 1929.
I have lost my soul's companion
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss her more
As I walk through life alone.
Sadly missed by her husband,
GUS J. EICHENLAUB AND SON.

FARBER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Tillie Farber, who departed this life Nov. 2, 1929.
We are thinking of you today, dear mother,
thinking of the past;
Picturing you in memory, just as we saw you last.
You left behind some broken hearts that loved you so sincere;
That never did or never will forget you, mother dear.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

FAUTH—In loving memory of our only son and brother, Private First Class George J. Fauth, Company D, 354th Infantry, Eighty-ninth Division, who made the supreme sacrifice, Nov. 1, 1918, in the Meuse-Argonne Battle.
God alone knows how we miss him
In a home that is lonesome today.
Sadly missed by MOTHER, FATHER, SISTER, RELATIVES AND MANY FRIENDS.

FEUSTEL—In memory of Max Feustel, who departed this life one year ago today, Nov. 2, 1929.
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered.
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name;
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Always will love you in death just the same.
Sadly missed by
LOVING WIFE, SON, DAUGHTER-IN-LAW AND GRANDSON.

GALL—In loving memory of Henry C. Gall, who died Nov. 5, 1928.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
Gone but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by wife.
MRS. H. C. GALL. (c)

GIBSON—In loving memory of Rudy Gibson, who died Nov. 5, 1928.
Gone but not forgotten. Sadly missed by GRACE.

HUGHES—Ted C.; died Oct. 29, 1927; buried Nov. 2, 1927.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay.
But love for you who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS.

LANGWITH—In memory of our dear husband and father, John Langwith, who departed this life 23 years ago, Nov. 2.
Is sadly missed by wife and daughter, and those who loved him (c)

LEIBUNDGUT—In loving memory of my dear husband, Herman Leibundgut, whom God called home, Nov. 3, 1928.
While he lies in peaceful sleep,
His memory I shall always keep.
Sadly missed by his wife,
CATHERINE LEIBUNDGUT.

MEYER—In loving memory of our dearly beloved mother, Katie Meyer, who departed this life on Nov. 2, 1926.
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered;
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name.
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection
Always will love you in death just the same.
Sadly missed by your children, LOTTIE, TOOTSIE, MONA, LE ROY AND LAVINA.

MEYER—In loving remembrance of our darling daughter and sister, Laura, who departed from this life Nov. 5, 1926.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Loves remembrance outlasts all.
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear of you.
You are not forgotten by PARENTS AND BROTHERS.

MEYER—In loving memory of our darling granddaughter and niece, Emma Laura Meyer, who departed this life on Nov. 5, 1926.
While she rests in peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
THE BRUNS FAMILY. (c)

MOORKAMP—In loving memory of Mary Moorkamp (nee Doebber), who departed this life 12 years ago, Oct. 25, 1918:
Her memory is as dear today
As in the hour she passed away.
Sadly missed by
ALL WHO LOVED HER.

NAU—In loving memory of my dear son, Henry Nau, who departed this life Nov. 2, 1929. There is a loved one who misses you sadly, and finds the time long since you are gone. And I think of you daily and hourly, but try to be brave and content, but the tears that I shed in silence and breathe a sigh of regret, for you were mine and I remember though all the world forgets. Sadly missed by MOTHER AND SISTERS. (c)

OLSON—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, William T. Olson, who departed this life two years ago Oct. 31, 1928.
Time speeds on, two years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow, cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light,
We miss that light, and ever will,
His vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

O'TOOLE—In loving remembrance of our darling daughter, Nellie O'Toole, who passed away Nov. 5, 1926.
God needed one more angel
To join his shining band,
And he bent with smiling face—
Clasped our Nellie's hand.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HER. (c)

PAIRN—In loving memory of Bertha Pairn, passed away Nov. 2, 1926.
Sadly missed by DAUGHTERS.

PESCHKE—In loving memory of Emil B. Peschke Jr., beloved husband of the late Johanna C. Peschke (nee Styer), dear father and grandfather who departed this life one year ago today:
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

STEGEN, ARTHUR—In loving memory of our darling Artie, the sunshine of our home, who passed away Nov. 3, 1929, aged 5 years.
One year has passed, how we miss him,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
Little do they know the grief
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by parents, brothers, grandparents, uncle and aunt and all who knew and loved him.

SWEENEY—In loving memory of my darling brother, U. M. Sweeney, who departed suddenly five years ago today.
Sadly missed by HIS SISTER. (c)

VOGEL—In memory of our dear husband, son and brother, Abert H. Vogel, who died Nov. 3, 1929.
There is someone who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went;
There is someone who thinks of you always,
And tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
And silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Sad but true, we wonder why,
That the best are always first to die.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN, MOTHER, FATHER AND SISTER.

WHALEN—In memory of Louis Whalen, departed this life suddenly six years ago today.
He is deeply missed by his SISTER AND BROTHER.

IN MEMORIAM

REITH—William E.
One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.
WIFE, SON, FATHER, BROTHERS AND SISTER.

HELP WANTED—MEN, BOYS

I OFFER YOU GROCERIES AT WHOLESALE and a Wonderful Chance to Make

$15 A DAY

Besides

Yes, I'll give you Groceries at rock-bottom, wholesale prices and a chance to pocket $15 in a day besides! Just send me your name and I'll give you some money-making, money-saving facts that will amaze you. I'll show you how L. C. Van Allen, of Illinois, quit a $23-a-week job took hold of my proposition and shortly afterward reported earning $125 in a single week. Gustav Karnath, of Minnesota—farm laborer—made $20.35 the first 5 hours. And Mrs. B. L. Hodges of New York, says. "Making more money than ever before—from $18 to $20 a day." Of course some people make more than others. But these big earnings of a few of my Representatives prove the wonderful opportunities. And today I offer you a proposition even better than I gave these people.

No Experience Necessary

With Groceries at wholesale and $15 a day in your pocket, you would have cash to pay your bills, to buy new clothes, a radio, house furnishings, or take pleasure trips. You positively don't need any capital. You don't need any experience. You don't have to take any course of training. You can start right in making good money the very first day.

$15 a Day for Pleasant Work

All you do is call on your friends and my established customers in your locality and take care of their orders for my line of Groceries and other Household Necessities. This is very pleasant work. Your own home will be your headquarters. You set your own hours and work as you please. All orders from my customers must go through your hands because I never sell through stores. You alone get all the profits In addition, I will supply you with Groceries, Toilet Goods and Household Necessities at our lowest, rock-bottom, wholesale prices. Thus you have a wonderful opportunity to save big money as well as to make big money.

Send No Money

If you want to, you can keep your present job and start in spare time. Oscar Stuart, of West Virginia, reports $18 profit in two and one-half hours' spare time. This shows the wonderful possibilities. So get the facts at once. You have everything to gain. It costs nothing to investigate. In addition to giving you Groceries at Wholesale and a chance to clear $10 to $15 in a day, I also offer you a brand-new Ford Tudor Sedan as an extra bonus—in addition to your large cash profits. Here's a chance you can't afford to miss. Mail coupon now for these amazing new facts.

MAIL THIS

Albert Mills, Pres., American Products Co.
3375 Monmouth Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Send me, without cost or obligation, all the facts about your new proposition that offers Groceries at Wholesale and a chance to make $15 in a day besides. Also explain your generous Ford Sedan offer.

HELP WTD.—WOMEN, GIRLS

WOMEN—POSITION AVAILABLE

Position carrying guaranteed income for at least the first month available to 6 clean, high type women of neat appearance and high ambitions who are between the ages of 26 and 40. With at least grammar school education.

If we must apologize for speaking of "Prosperity" and "expanding business" in these times, then forgive us, but it's true in our business—true to the extent that we are soon moving to much more spacious and beautiful quarters which are necessary to take care of our increasing business.

Radio Broadcasting every WEDNESDAY at 11:30 a. m. over Station KMOX, and our advertising in Post-Dispatch, Good Housekeeping, Ladies' Home Journal and other leading magazines is creating a tremendous demand among the women of St. Louis and all surrounding territory for our foundation garment, which contains patented features found in no other garment and which is now the largest selling single design garment in America.

We have an opening for 6 ladies at once to call on an outstandingly established clientele and to follow up inquiries resulting from our effective, sales-creating advertising.

Experience not necessary, as the St. Louis Charis School of Merchandising teaches the business at no expense to you and you also receive the help and guidance of a Senior Representative when assigned to an exclusive territory. Our hours are from 9 to 4. No work Saturdays, and our methods compel success.

If you are tired punching a clock and working for little or nothing—if being independent in a business that can provide the better things of life for you, can prompt you to steady, faithful performance, then you may make personal application Monday, 9.30 to 12 a. m., Room 300 at 318 N. 8th St., Columbia Bldg. No further employment will be offered in our business this year. (c)

St. Louis Ranks High as A Good Place to Work

Relations Between Employer and Employe Shown by Survey to be Better Than in Other Cities.

Relations between employer and employe, in St. Louis, are better than the average of other large cities, according to a survey made by the Industrial Bureau of the Industrial Club of St. Louis.

Information for this survey, the bureau states, was obtained from the various employers' associations in the St. Louis industrial district and also from the employment and accounting departments of leading manufacturers in many lines, through the co-operation of their executives.

"Working conditions in the St. Louis industrial district are excellent," said the report, "both from the standpoint of the manufacturer and the industrial worker. Industry in St. Louis is diversified and covers a wide range of products. This tends towards steady employment, stabilized wages and attracts a desirable class of workers. Practically no labor trouble is experienced in St. Louis industry."

The survey states that the supply of workers, both men and women, in St. Louis is ample and steady. The number of male and female workers is almost evenly divided. The labor supply is drawn from the city itself and large surrounding area, there being no large manufacturing cities directly south of St. Louis on either side of the Mississippi River. This labor supply includes a type of beginners especially intelligent and quick to learn various factory operations. The percentage of illiteracy is also very low. Common labor is plentiful, the rural districts supplying a constant flow of this class. Colored workers here are available in large numbers, and according to reports, are more intelligent and of better class than those farther south. There is also an adequate supply of skilled and semiskilled factory workers and mechanics, and the supply is always very well maintained in the St. Louis industrial district, owing to the diversification of products made here, no one line of industry using more than 10 per cent of the total number of wage earners.

St. Louis has a larger percentage of native born industrial workers than any other large city in the Middle West, and a much larger percentage than most Eastern manufacturing cities, large or small. The predominating nationality of foreign born workers in St. Louis is German. The survey shows that about 30 per cent of foreign born industrial workers in St. Louis are German. The Irish compose the next largest group of foreign born workers. About 70 per cent of the foreign born residents of St. Louis come from the Northwest and Central European countries. St. Louis has a lower percentage of aliens among its foreign born residents than any other Middle West industrial city. St. Louis also has a lower percentage of foreign born residents who cannot speak English. The foregoing, the survey emphasizes, shows that St Louis has the most desirable and hardest working races among its foreign born industrial workers, and the best type, in respect to literacy and desire to become American citizens.

In general, the labor efficiency in St. Louis, according to reports of leading manufacturers operating factories here and elsewhere, is greater here than in any other large Middle West city. This is ascribed to the intelligence and types of workers living in this district. The percentage of literacy and ability to speak the English language is another evidence of the superior type of workers here. As wage rates and production itself do not always show labor efficiency, the bureau obtained from leading manufacturers operating here and elsewhere comparative labor cost on the same or similar operations in St. Louis and other cities. This has been obtained on a variety of lines, and the majority of these operations prove the statement that labor efficiency here is greater per unit of operation than it is in other large Middle West cities.

PARCEL POST FACILITIES

Rate and Speed Conveniences to Local Manufacturers.

Because St. Louis manufacturers "ship from the hub instead of the rim," parcel post rates and delivery time give an advantage not open to eastern producers. Publicity has been given to the statement that the St. Louis manufacturer can, for from 5 to 8 cents, mail a one-pound parcel to any point in an area within a radius of 1000 miles and reaching as far as New York City on the east, Denver on the west, the Canadian border on the north, and New Orleans on the south. It is stated that St. Louis parcel post trade with Mexico has shown considerable growth because this class of mail originating in St. Louis arrives at its destination two or three days earlier than from eastern or New England points.

It has been stated, authoritatively, that 36.000 women's hats, bound for virtually every state in the Union, are mailed by parcel post from St. Louis manufacturers. Forty thousand pairs of shoes, 300 automobile tires, 3000 parcels of cigars and cigarettes, 500 motion picture films, 2000 packages of coffee and 3000 pounds of candy are given as some of the daily averages.

Advises License for Retailers.

A form of licensing of the retailer after an examination as to his specialized knowledge of the line, advertising, bookkeeping and all other activities involved in successful retailing, has been suggested by Professor Paul D. Converse of the University of Illinois. Prof. Converse pointed out that the economic waste represented by $250,000,000 a year lost to creditors of bankrupt retailers might be cut down by a searching inquiry into the business ability of those who apply to manufacturers for credit.

Largest Trucking Terminal.

St. Louis is to have the largest trucking terminal in the Middle West, as the result of a recent merger. The merged company claims that its trucks will serve 518 towns and cities in nine states.

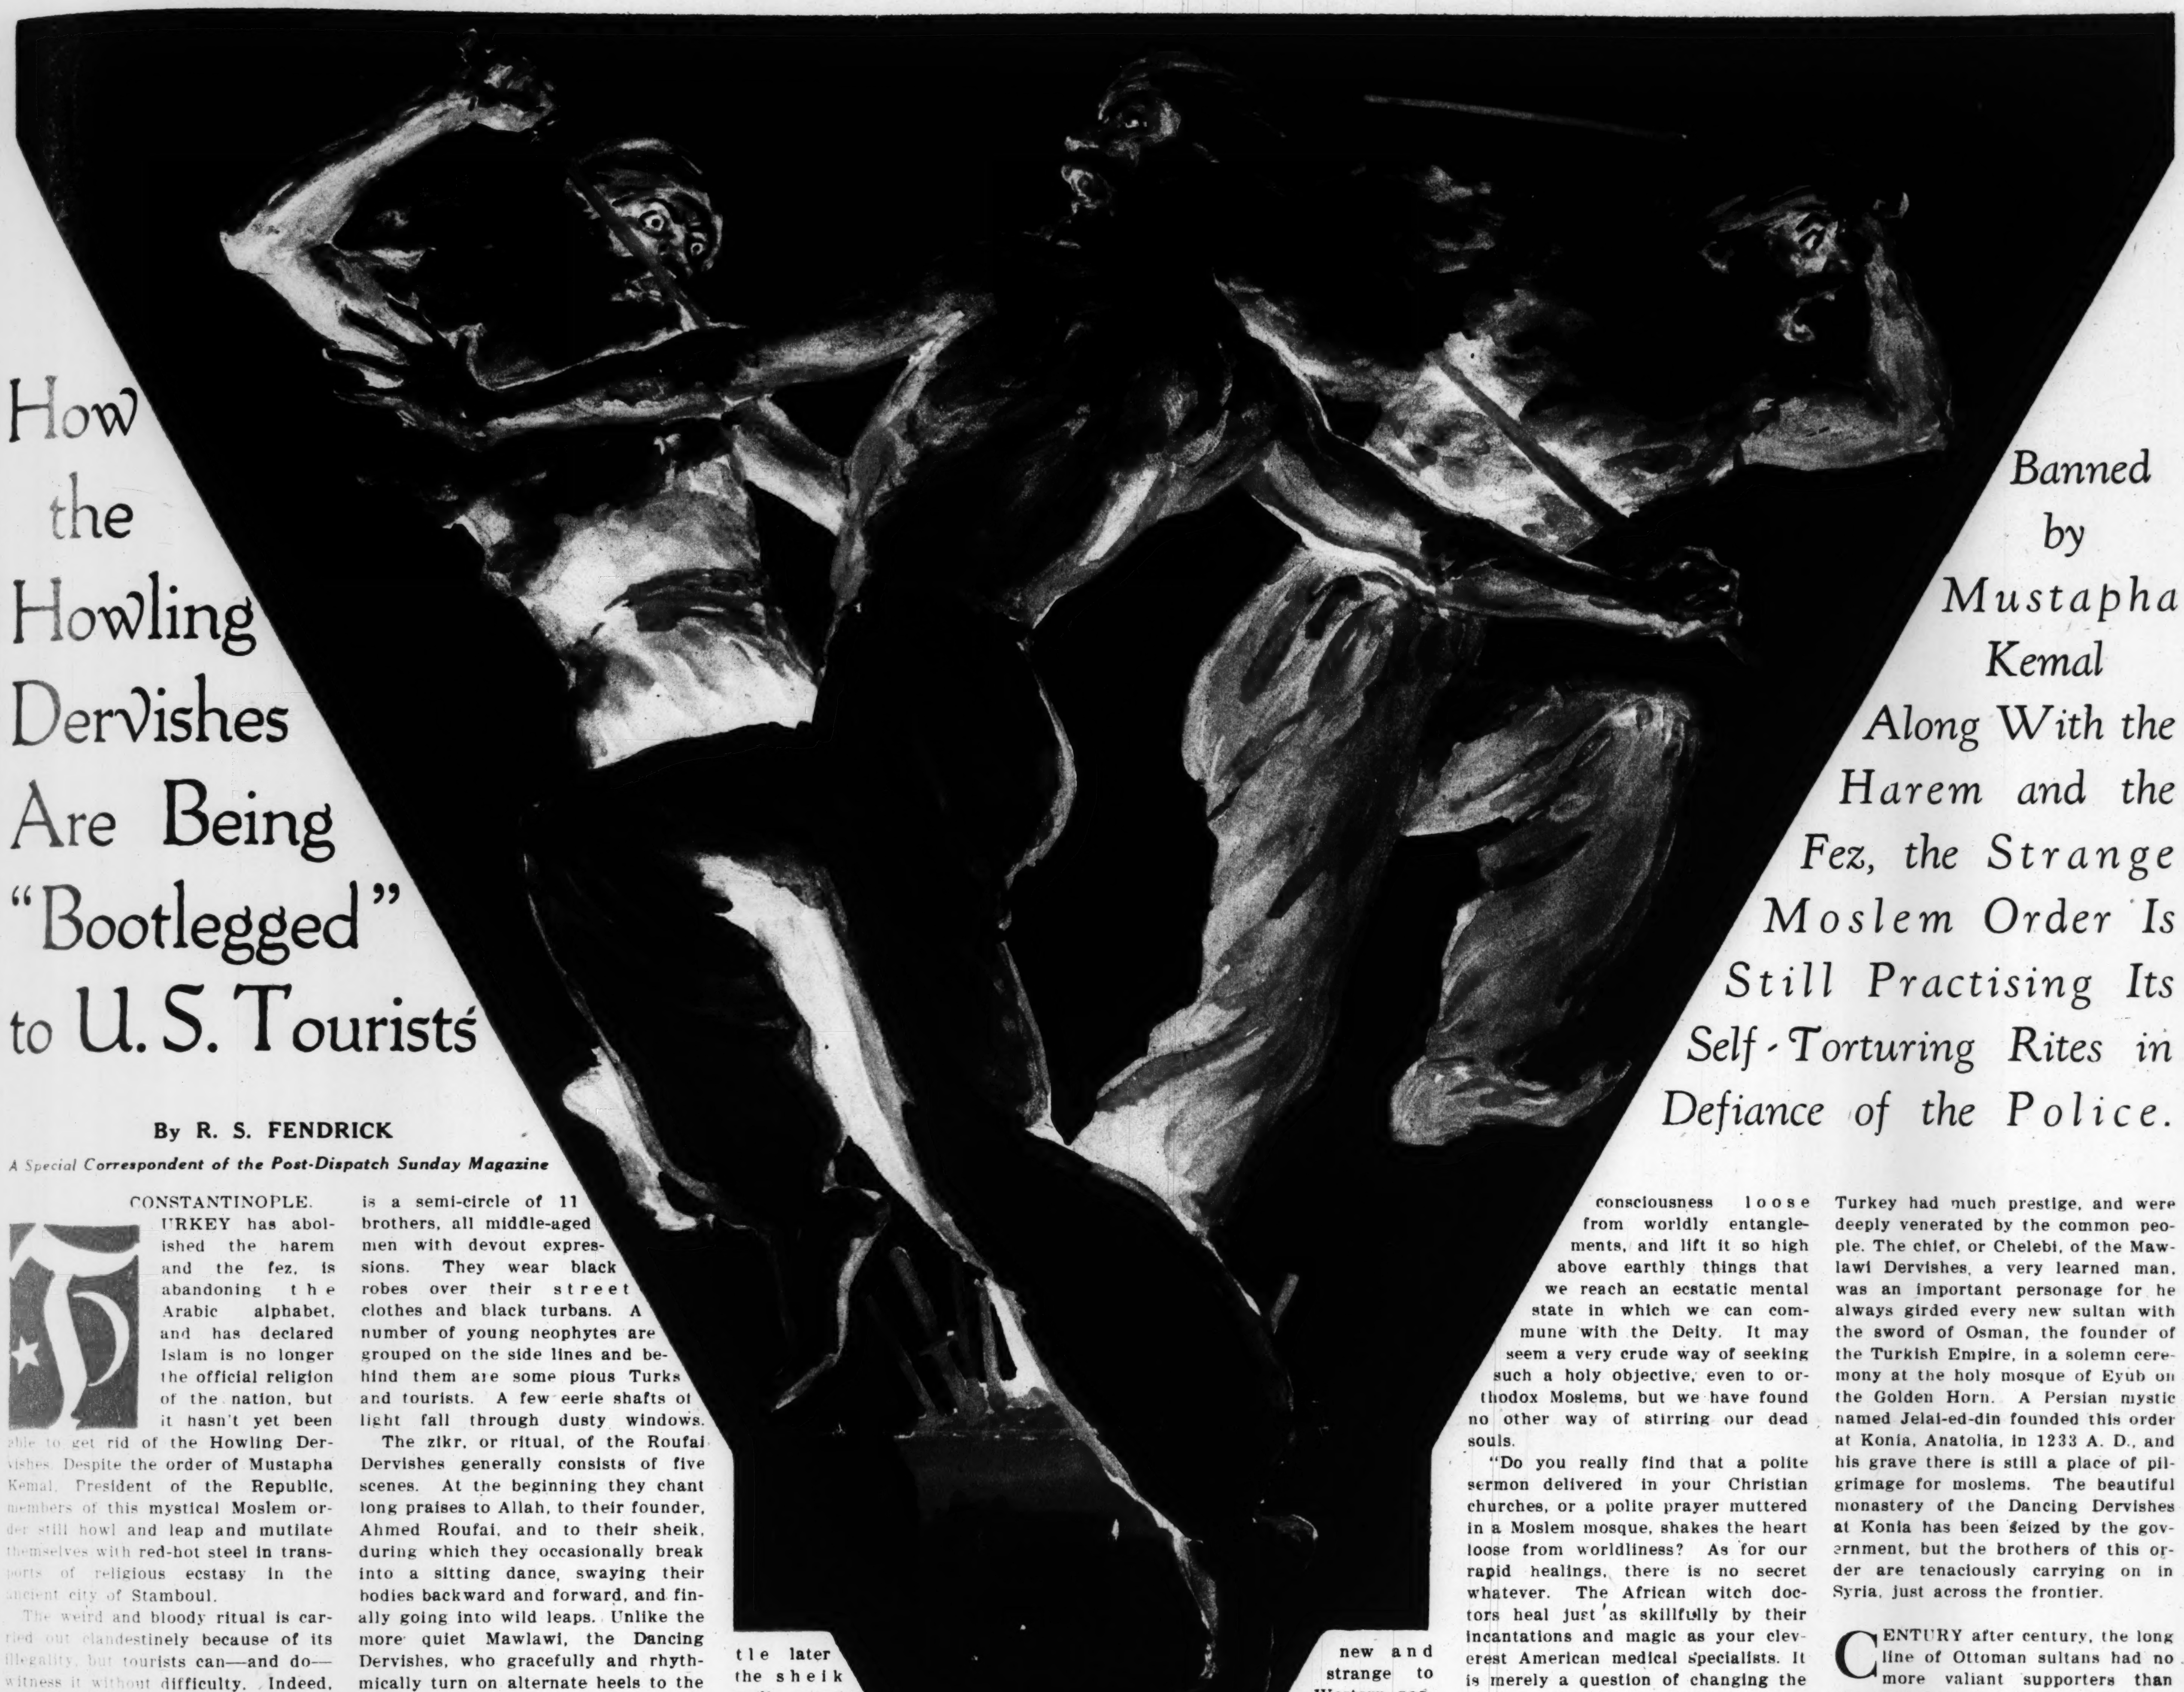
How the Howling Dervishes Are Being "Bootlegged" to U. S. Tourists

Banned by Mustapha Kemal Along With the Harem and the Fez, the Strange Moslem Order Is Still Practising Its Self-Torturing Rites in Defiance of the Police.



By R. S. FENDRICK

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

CONSTANTINOPLE.

TURKEY has abolished the harem and the fez, is abandoning the Arabic alphabet, and has declared Islam is no longer the official religion of the nation, but it hasn't yet been able to get rid of the Howling Dervishes. Despite the order of Mustapha Kemal, President of the Republic, members of this mystical Moslem order still howl and leap and mutilate themselves with red-hot steel in transports of religious ecstasy in the ancient city of Stamboul.

The weird and bloody ritual is carried out clandestinely because of its illegality, but tourists can—and do—witness it without difficulty. Indeed, an American scarcely steps off the boat at Galata before a guide offers to conduct him to a bootleg service of the dervishes. The rites are not secret except as the police have made them so.

The Levantine guide who sidles up to the tourist with an offer to conduct him to a Roufai service, speaks in a whisper: "There's going to be a performance this afternoon. Just 10 minutes from here—behind the Grand Bazaar in Stamboul." And as he leads the visitor through a maze of winding streets he tells more about the Howling Dervishes, the Roufai Brotherhood, which order is more than 800 years old. He relates that their secret meetings are sometimes discovered by the police and the brothers arrested, but before long another service is in progress, offering the strange spectacle of men rising, through religious delirium, above consciousness of bodily pain. He explains that all the dervish orders, prominent among which are the Mawlawi, or dancing monks, have been suppressed by Kemal, partly, perhaps, because of their political influence.

"Howling Dervishes don't put on their show for money," the guide declares. "If you offer them a dollar or two, they will probably give it to the poor. It's real religion with them. The performance lasts about three hours. They start with prayers, then begin to dance and leap, and gradually work themselves up to a state of ecstasy. At the climax they pierce their flesh, kiss red-hot irons and so forth to show that their souls have left their bodies. Do they hurt themselves? Apparently not. I have seen monks plunge knives into their arms and chests, and the next day the wounds were entirely healed. They call the instruments they use gul, the Turkish word for rose, as a boast that what would be torture to us is pleasant to them."

After mysterious palavers in dark alleyways the tourist is led into a deserted warehouse that has been consecrated for the occasion. A patriarchal old sheik, with the saintly face of a prophet, is sitting tailor-fashion on the floor at one end, with two elders at each side of him. Facing them is a semi-circle of 11 brothers, all middle-aged men with devout expressions. They wear black robes over their street clothes and black turbans. A number of young neophytes are grouped on the side lines and behind them are some pious Turks and tourists. A few eerie shafts of light fall through dusty windows.

The zikr, or ritual, of the Roufai Dervishes generally consists of five scenes. At the beginning they chant long praises to Allah, to their founder, Ahmed Roufai, and to their sheik, during which they occasionally break into a sitting dance, swaying their bodies backward and forward, and finally going into wild leaps. Unlike the more quiet Mawlawi, the Dancing Dervishes, who gracefully and rhythmically turn on alternate heels to the soft music of flutes, the Roufai monks become frenzied and seldom hold any formation. By the end of the fourth scene they have worked themselves into a state of ecstasy called "halat." Suddenly, in the midst of the dancing and the most piercing howls—the howls are actually lamentations, after the Eastern manner of expressing grief—a brother runs to a niche in the wall at the sheik's right hand and pulls down some short swords. He lays them across a blazing charcoal brazier until the blades glow cherry red.

With a respectful salaam the monk hands the red-hot swords to the shiek, who quickly says a prayer and breathes on them. The disciples crowd around, and even before their master has finished his little ceremony they begin to grab the instruments from his hands.

AMID the astonished ejaculations of the tourists, the dervishes gloat over these glowing blades, biting them, licking them and finally plunging them into their mouths. Others, who failed to obtain a hot sword, run to the wall and grab swords, knives, daggers and hatpins and furiously plunge them into their arms, legs and sides. Sometimes a monk will grab a baby from some devout Turkish woman among the spectators, lay it on the floor and jump on the child with both feet! It is even declared that a monk has been known to hammer long nails into a baby's skull, and the baby was taken home a few minutes later showing no ill effects.

At the height of the service the spectacle is unforgetable—the monks jumping and howling, blood pouring from their wounds, steam arising from their mouths, neophytes hammering tambourines and lady tourists shrieking. After 10 or 15 minutes of this the Dervishes begin to collapse, but apparently from exhaustion and excitement rather than their wounds. As they start to fall the weaker ones throw themselves into the arms of stronger brothers. To keep the performance going the sheik steps among his followers and excites them to fresh excesses. Finally they all drop and the tambourines become silent. A little later the sheik walks over to each monk in turn, breathes on the wounds, rubs them with saliva, says a prayer and promises a speedy healing.

Although the wounds and burns are often rather serious, there is plenty of testimony, including that of foreigners who have lived in Constantinople all their lives, that the dervishes are completely cured by the next day, or even within a few hours. Long drawn-out suffering among them is practically unknown.

"I suppose our ritual seems very new and strange to Western people," a well-educated dervish monk said smilingly after one of these ceremonies, "but it is a very ancient custom with us. We have a legend that our sainted founder, Ahmed Roufai, stumbled into a fire during his devotion near Bagdad about the year 1180 A. D., and though badly burned was instantaneously healed. He understood that this was a holy gift, and he passed it along to all of his successors.

A sheik of the Howling Dervishes

"The fundamental purpose of our ceremony, however, is to shake our consciousness loose from worldly entanglements, and lift it so high above earthly things that we reach an ecstatic mental state in which we can commune with the Deity. It may seem a very crude way of seeking such a holy objective, even to orthodox Moslems, but we have found no other way of stirring our dead souls.

"Do you really find that a polite sermon delivered in your Christian churches, or a polite prayer muttered in a Moslem mosque, shakes the heart loose from worldliness? As for our rapid healings, there is no secret whatever. The African witch doctors heal just as skillfully by their incantations and magic as your cleverest American medical specialists. It is merely a question of changing the pictures of bodily conditions held in the human mind. Our holy men have known that for a thousand years and more.

"Unfortunately, the ecstatic mental state we achieve at the climax of our ritual quickly passes. To keep our thoughts uplifted, we used to spend our whole lives in monasteries, praying almost continuously, but as the result of the present regime we must shift about as best we can."

A number of persons who have witnessed the ritual of the Roufai Dervishes have written that the whole thing, particularly the almost instantaneous healing of burns and wounds, was just as much a fake as the tricks of the Indian fakirs. They even insisted that the dervishes were under the influence of hashish when they wounded themselves.

MANY modern investigators, however, disagree with this view. Some of the older monks have permanent holes through their lips, cheeks, throats and tongues, as the result of years of jabbing, and there is no doubt that they place red hot iron in their mouths, apparently without the devices used by magicians. In their frenzy, they seldom seem to notice where the knives and swords enter their bodies. The photographs made of the Indian fakir tricks, such as a boy climbing a rope into the sky, are invariably blank, showing that it is mass suggestion. Photographs made of dervish spectacles show them exactly as they appeared to spectators.

The explanation of these monks' endurance seems to be that they actually reach such a state of exaltation that their bodies do not feel sharp pain, although some are more sensitive than others. It is said that neophytes are trained for 10 years before they are allowed to participate in the order's ritual. The healing is said to be brought about by some mental means that is highly efficacious. The heating of swords and knives before they pierce the body probably has much to do with preventing infection.

Until Mustapha Kemal started his anti-religious regime several years ago, the dozen-odd dervish orders in Turkey had much prestige, and were deeply venerated by the common people. The chief, or Chelebi, of the Mawlawi Dervishes, a very learned man, was an important personage for he always girded every new sultan with the sword of Osman, the founder of the Turkish Empire, in a solemn ceremony at the holy mosque of Eyub on the Golden Horn. A Persian mystic named Jelal-ed-din founded this order at Konia, Anatolia, in 1233 A. D., and his grave there is still a place of pilgrimage for moslems. The beautiful monastery of the Dancing Dervishes at Konia has been seized by the government, but the brothers of this order are tenaciously carrying on in Syria, just across the frontier.

CENTURY after century, the long line of Ottoman sultans had no more valiant supporters than these fanatical monks. Whenever a military expedition was formed, thousands of dervishes went with the army as volunteers. They roused the courage of the troops and maintained the soldiers' religious enthusiasm. On the eve of battle the dervishes would go about all night long exhorting officers and men to do their duty, to remember the benefits promised by the Prophet to all Moslems who died in the defense of the faith, and screaming, "O ye victorious," and "O ye martyrs." By daybreak the religious men had the troops worked up to a state of fury. If the holy standards were endangered during a battle the monks plunged into the thick of the fight and often turned the tide in favor of the Turks.

In peace time the great majority of the dervishes lived pious, austere lives in their monasteries, called tekkes, which were scattered all over the country. A neophyte in most of the orders first had to serve 1001 successive days of menial labor before receiving spiritual teaching, and if he was absent a single day or remained out a single night, he had to start all over again. The brothers could marry, but when they did they could not live in the tekkes. They spent most of their time in prayer, in good works and in discussing supernatural events; they interpreted puzzling dreams, made charms to heal the sick, to drive away snakes, and to protect persons from magic practiced by enemies.

The brothers were welcome visitors in any home, high or low, for the blessings they might bring. Although known as mendicant orders, they never begged in public. When they received gifts they generally gave them to the poor, a dervish who indulged in any personal luxury being extremely rare. Most of them worked at such tasks as carving or copying books. The sheiks had tremendous influence, which finally caused their downfall. All the orders had innumerable lay members.

And now, after being a vital force in Turkish life for seven or eight centuries, the dervishes have followed the sultans into exile, and in a little while more even the bootleg rituals probably will be things of the past.

The COUNTESS from EAST ST. LOUIS

Countess de Franzoni, who was Mary Kelley.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

WHEN Mary Kelley cabled her family in East St. Louis that she had just married Count Carletto de Franzoni, they weren't so very surprised. For quite a number of years Mary Kelley has been getting them accustomed to expecting the unexpected. From Mary at any rate.

All this was last spring. The Kelley family had grown quite used to the idea of having a Count in the family, and a very wealthy Count at that, when suddenly the daily papers blossomed with the news about the little Kelley girl from East St. Louis who had married into a noble family with a lineage ancient in Europe, one going back to the twelfth century. That did surprise the Kelley family a bit, and it distressed them, too. They resented the implication in most of the news accounts that somehow something very remarkable had happened to their Mary, for which they should be duly grateful. As though they hadn't always expected the remarkable of her.

One of Mary's closest friends put it this way: "We weren't bowled over by the news of Mary's marriage to a Count. Mary has always been a tremendously clever person, who has done some rather remarkable things. At least she's a remarkable person. All her friends know that. And so this is one more episode in her life. Of course, it's really a great deal more than that, because she's very much in love with her husband. All the titles in the world wouldn't have made any difference if she hadn't been in love with him."

Mary was one of the five "Kelley kids." That was the name given to the five daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kelley, who live on North Eleventh street in East St. Louis. Through the Catholic schools and through the East St. Louis High School they were always the Kelley kids. And to be a Kelley kid was a definite distinction. For the five Kelley daughters are of that remarkable Celtic type that occasionally runs through a whole family. They all have fine rose and white complexions, very dark, very large eyes, shaded with very long eyelashes, and raven black hair.

Of the five Kelley kids, Mary was from the first the most adventurous. When she graduated from high school she didn't fall into one of those simple classifications—home girl, teacher or business girl. She went into newspaper work because she had heard that it was exciting. Her first job was on the East St. Louis Daily Journal. Then for a time she was on the old St. Louis Republic.

But newspaper work really wasn't as exciting as Mary had thought it was going to be. So she started a paper of her own, with the aid of an advertising man in East St. Louis. It was called the East Side Review and the name probably still occasions a shudder when it is mentioned in certain ultra-respectable families on the East Side. For in a very mild and innocuous way the East Side Review stirred up minor gossip. It was all more or less of a joke with Mary Kelley. She wrote under the name of "Adaline Moore," under a heading that appeared each week, "Just Gossip." Fictional names were always substituted for real names in Adaline Moore's column, and they were quite harmless tales, but Mary, who was not yet 20, and her friends liked to think it was pretty sophisticated stuff and that all the deceitful evildoers of the town were lying in wait with shotguns.

THERE was a certain camaraderie among the newspaper men and women of the East Side at this time. They had an organization called the "Scribes and the Pharisees," which met once a week for luncheon. One of the veteran members of this organization described Mary in an article as "bright, quick, financially wise."

The writer might have added "ambitious" to this description. Mary had definite ideas about getting on in the world. She came over to St. Louis and got a job writing advertising copy for a large furniture house. This, too, was characteristic, her friends say. She had never done anything of the kind before, knew nothing about furniture, but she could walk in and command a top salary because of that way, that irresistible way, that she has. It has been called nerve and it has been called personality. With Mary Kelley it is probably a great deal of both.

And almost always she has been clever enough to hold the job once she has got it. In a short time she had made something of a name and had established a secure place for herself in the Women's Advertising Club of St. Louis. They sent her over to Europe—her first trip abroad—as a delegate to the international advertising convention in London in 1924.

Later she got a better job in a large department store, and then came a chance to be assistant buyer in a woman's shop. This seemed to Mary what she had always wanted. It would mean, eventually, trips to New York, trips to Europe. It would take her out into what she considered the exciting main stream of life that she had gotten a glimpse of on her European trip. It would take her much farther, she thought, than any kind of a writing job. Her friends opposed this move. They told her she had better stick to writing because she was clever at that. But Mary knew what she wanted.

Before very long the friends had a chance to say, "I told you so." Mary didn't get on as a buyer. It wasn't the sort of thing she could do. About this time, too, she began to have ambitions for New York. The city exerted a great fascination. It was a place where anything might happen, where there were limitless possibilities. But she didn't quite have the nerve to make the break. And she knew her family would oppose her.

Then something happened that brought her to a decision. She lost her job, and by a coincidence that seemed obviously to have been directed by destiny, she had just enough money for fare and Pullman to New York. Helen Seevers, an advertising writer and long a friend of Mary, remembers that afternoon. Mary came up to Helen Seevers' office, perched up on her desk, grinned and announced she was going to New York that night. She had to make up a story to pacify her family. She told them she was going down on a buying trip for her firm.

This was the end of the St. Louis epoch in Mary's life. She had had a good time here, almost always. That is the thing everyone remembers her for, her sharp wit, her gaiety. Mary herself explains it by saying you had to be witty to be a Kelley kid. There were seven around the family dinner table and to avoid being the laughing stock of them all you had to be pretty sharp on repartee.

IT WAS probably because of this wit, that could on occasion be very sharp and pointed, that Mary had no lasting romance while she was here. In swift badinage she was more than a match for most of the men she knew, and this is never flattering to the male ego.

In New York Mary displayed her old ability at getting jobs. She went first with a Brooklyn department store, then with a smart New York shop as a writer of advertising copy. Although there were one or two lean periods in between, she held good jobs, that paid anywhere from $400 to $500 a month. Friends who came to New York found her established in a small but very cheerful apartment in Greenwich Village. She was smartly dressed, quite sure of herself in the city, the perfect example of a girl on her own.

Under the guidance of friends in New York she invested a little money in stocks, made a profit, sold out and decided to go to Europe. She left in October of 1928. That winter was a very severe one in Europe. Paris, to which she went first, was cold and damp. She tried the Riviera, but it was just as bad there. Snow covered the palm trees along the Cote d'Azure and the few visitors shivered in villas entirely devoid of central heating.

Back in Paris Mary met Mr. and Mrs. Jack Connolly, the latter also from East St. Louis originally. Connolly is one of the foreign representatives of the Fox film company. He was going down into Northern Africa to direct the taking of some travel movies. He happened to mention that there was no one to go ahead and make advance arrangements. Mary proposed herself for the job.

She went on to Biskra, the famous French winter resort about 200 miles from Algiers. There was a little matter of arranging the details for photographing some desert sheiks. Shortly the Connollys joined her at Biskra. And shortly she met at the leading hotel where she was stopping Count Carletto de Franzoni. He was managing the hotel, which belonged to his father.

E. ST. LOUIS
PARIS

Biskra was the ideal setting for the romance that soon developed. The European colony is a town in itself, with all the gay atmosphere of a French winter resort, a city made for play.

Another view of Countess de Franzoni.

There are splendid gardens and great groves of olive, date and pomegranate trees. And all around is the magnificent expanse of the Sahara Desert, for which Biskra is the railhead. The temperature in winter rarely goes below 40 and in the daytime the sun creates a comfortable warmth. Add to this the presence of Arabian sheiks in picturesque costume and the perfume of thousands of fruit trees in bloom and the picture is complete.

She came back to East St. Louis in April of last year and discussed the possibilities of marriage to the Count with her family. Mrs. Kelley was opposed to the idea. She didn't want her daughter married to a foreigner and living so far away that she could almost never see her. Although the other Kelley kids had married and, with one exception, moved away they lived at respectable distances that could be traversed in an overnight journey. Mrs. Carl Nuetzel, who was Claire Kelley, lives in Louisville, Kentucky. Mrs. Rollin M. Hickey, who was Sarah Louise Kelley, lives in Chicago. Mrs. Norbourne W. Cady, who was Celeste Kelley, lives in Cincinnati. Only the youngest daughter, Mrs. Hugh Wright, who was Florence Kelley, has made her home with her husband in East St. Louis.

MARY wasn't very sure about the marriage. They were in love with each other, but there were doubts in her mind, too, as to the wisdom of an international marriage. Cablegrams that came almost daily from Count de Franzoni helped to reassure her, but she left for New York without giving her mother a definite decision. There was the matter, too, of the Count's family. They had arranged for him, in accord with immemorial custom, a match with the daughter of a tilted family. But when the young man had met Mary Kelley he dismissed all this as entirely insignificant. That did not altogether please the elder De Franzonis.

In New York, after the long holiday, she was once again on her own resources, the funds from the little stock flyer having been entirely spent. She did free lance advertising and at the same time took a short story writing course at Columbia University. Finally, however, the cablegrams became more insistent and Mary Kelley decided to go abroad again.

She was married to Count de Franzoni last April, on Easter Saturday, at a nuptial high mass in the Church of the Sacred Heart in Paris, and shortly afterward they went on a honeymoon that lasted all summer. There was some slight, good natured disagreement as to where they would travel. Count de Franzoni had romantic ideas about America. He wanted to come over here and see Niagara Falls, Plymouth Rock and the Liberty Bell. Mary wanted to do Europe and the Count yielded to her wishes. Most of the time they spent at Deauville, where there is one of the de luxe chain hotels that the De Franzoni family owns in Europe. It is the Terrasse, and here they spent long idle weeks on the sand, basking in the sun. Besides the hotel at Deauville and the one at Biskra, the De Franzonis own hotels at Locarno in Switzerland and at Naples, Italy. If they had chosen their hotel properties with the deliberate intention of finding the four most pleasant spots in which to divide the year, it would appear they could not have done more admirably. And probably in the course of his duties Mary's husband will travel about with the seasons to these four cities.

Count and Countess Carletto de Franzoni.

Later in the summer Count and Countess de Franzoni stopped for a time in London. They are now in Paris, where they will spend the early winter.

Mary is not quite certain when she will come home with her new husband. She has half-way promised to make it at Christmas, and if not then, early in the spring. Mrs. Kelley, by now quite reconciled to the idea of the marriage, is very anxious to have her come home. Mary wrote to a friend recently, saying that she hoped to be in St. Louis before the end of winter. She wrote that her husband had jestingly said that he was very anxious to see her ancestral estates in East St. Louis. To which she added, with a falsh of her familiar wit, "I guess I'll have to show him the stockyards."

ANOTHER TIA JUANA DANCE HALL GIRL COMES to GRIEF

But Pretty Florence Silverthorn Refuses to Tell Why She Shot to Kill, Where She Came From or Who She Really Is.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

Florence Silverthorn.

SAN DIEGO, California.

THE girl in black sat staring dumbly into space. She listened abstractedly as witnesses took the stand at the Coroner's inquest to give testimony indicating that she had killed William A. Robinson Jr., sailor from the United States submarine V-2, in her apartment on West Washington street, San Diego, the night of September 26, last. To her, it seemed the testimony was of little consequence. She had held an empty pearl-handled pistol in her hand when Detective Sergeant Carson and Officer Lightner burst into her room in answer to a call. They had found her alone by the side of the seaman, who had a bullet hole through his heart.

Why go into all these details now? she seemed to wonder. What was the reason for bringing in persons to tell what they heard and what they thought had happened there? Didn't the officers see the body of the man on the floor and hadn't she turned over the automatic without resistance? What was the necessity for all this questioning? The hearing was only a formality at best. Why not be done with it at once?

"She told us she had shot the man," Sergeant Carson testified. "She gave me the automatic before we led her away to jail. She was unsteady on her feet from liquor."

Neighbors had already testified to hearing her voice and then the bang-bang-bang-bang! of a weapon. There seemed little more to add.

"Florence Silverthorn," the Coroner finally called. "Take the witness stand."

Very slowly the defendant moved to the chair. She sat down listlessly. Coroner Kelly asked one lone question — whether or not she wished to make a voluntary statement.

"I have nothing to say," she replied in a low voice.

Her lips were thenceforth sealed. She already had talked too much, her attorneys had told her. Whatever had happened was done and over. The law could not force her to disclose more. She could deny the truth of what she previously had said, if she wished. That was her privilege. A person in this country is believed innocent until proved guilty beyond any reasonable doubt.

So from the jury there came, presently, the formal accusation which resulted in Florence Silverthorn being bound over for trial in the Superior Court of San Diego on the charge of murder.

There was nothing unusual or dramatic in the proceedings. Killings attended by feminine ferocity are not unusual happenings in America. But the drama of this one lay outside of the inquest.

Seventeen miles away, just across the Mexican border, stands the low, squatty town of Tia Juana, with its saloons, dance halls and gambling dens. A mixed population of Mexicans and Americans, with a few Chinese intermingled, it had become known far and wide as a place of night revels and wild orgies. The United States Government, in an effort to check the flow of its citizens into the dives, had ordered the border gates closed at 6 p. m., so no one could drive across either way after sundown. This, in a measure, had served to retard the revels because few persons liked being forced to remain there during a whole night. But the order had not entirely stopped the border travel.

Florence Silverthorn was an entertainer and dance hall girl in Tia Juana, and had been for about eight years. For eight years she had played.

But her employment was irregular, so she kept an apartment in San Diego, about a half hour's drive away. When she was "on the job," as an entertainer, she was not loath to place an arm about the neck of a drunken man and amble up to a bar, where two drinks would cost a dollar and from which she would be given a split of 25 cents by the management, provided her drink was made of tea or sweetened water. A "percentage girl," they called her. All up and down the principal street, crooked at each end, the barkeeps and habitues knew Florence Silverthorn.

"'Lo, girl!" came the greeting as she entered each place.

And her smile, a little hardened in recent years, flashed in reply. Her presence meant money to the house. Her figure was trim, her clothing neat and she had a way with men. On the floor of the Cantina Zorra Azul (The Blue Fox), or at the Midnight Follies, or even in the Old Kentucky Barrel House she attracted attention. At the Mexicali, which proudly boasts the longest bar in the world, she was welcomed. Police officers say she did not drink heavily as a rule. Sometimes, however, she would be seen in the Klondike Bar, operated by "Alaska Lou," where, an advertisement says, "they all go to have a good time."

THERE, and in one or two other places, Florence sometimes took too much. Then she would go back to her little apartment in San Diego for a while to rest. Presently she would be back, apparently as fresh as ever.

"They can do that for a while," remarked Sergeant Carson, "but they can't keep it up. Florence kept at it more than eight years before the hard lines came, but recently she started breaking. And that, to those girls, usually means hard drinking. It was drinking got her into this trouble."

The officer reconstructed the tragedy as he saw it.

"Florence had but recently come back from Tia Juana to her West Washington street apartment," he explained. "It was a small place, yet neat and clean and in a nice section of the city. It was dolled-up with little cushions and tasty ornaments, showing a womanly touch.

"The night of the trouble, she was drinking. During the course of the evening Chief Machinist's Mate Ayleward and Seaman Robinson of the submarine V-2 came in. Ayleward says they had a pitcher of beer and Robinson tendered a $20 bill in payment—a bill he had borrowed from a shipmate before coming ashore. Florence could not change it, so Ayleward settled. A little later, Robinson drove Ayleward to Ocean Beach and left him to return to Florence's apartment. The two had planned going out for a game of miniature golf. But, it seems, they started drinking again. At midnight a neighbor, opening a window before retiring, said he heard Florence scream:

"'Get out of here! Get out! Get out!'

"A second later an automatic began barking. Then there was a death-like silence, the neighbor said, and presently he heard Florence at the telephone calling a number.

"'I have killed a man,' she said. 'Really I did. He's dead here on the floor. There were two of them; I scared them both. I wish you'd call the police and tell them I've killed a man.'

"The call came in from somewhere—'A man reported shot at 407 West Washington street'—and Lightner and I rushed to the number. When we entered the room, there was the dance hall girl, automatic in hand, staring horrified at the body of the sailor with a death wound in his heart. He had fallen to his knees and his head was buried in his arms on a couch, as though in prayer. He died immediately.

"The young woman told a rambling story about two sailors coming in and demanding money and how she had left the room on a pretext of getting it, only to return with her gun. She tried to frighten them away, she said, but when they did not leave she shot one and the other fled. Later, she repudiated the story. We found liquor and glasses in the apartment."

Florence Silverthorn had emptied her gun, the officer said. There was a bullet hole in the ceiling, another in the floor, a third in a wall panel. One had struck young Robinson in the thigh and another had entered his right chest and plowed its way through the heart. She had shot and shot until no shells remained, but her aim was unsteady. She had "shot it out" as men had done in saloons and dance halls of pioneer days.

OVER in Tia Juana the news was flashed that Florence Silverthorn had killed a sailor. Up and down the street, in the dance halls and bars, the girls gathered in groups and talked in semi-whispers. Of all the persons in the world, they thought, she would be the last to kill.

"Why, she just played all the time," one explained. "She wouldn't hurt anybody."

Yet someone recalled that Florence had a long scar down the right side of her face, a scar scarcely distinguishable, but undeniably there. Sometime, somewhere, it indicated, she had been slashed with a knife. But she never told anyone the story. Girls in Mexican dance halls do not ask too personal question. Others recalled that of late Florence had been drinking rather heavily and Sergeant Carson had reported that when he led her from the scene of the tragedy she was unsteady on her feet. It was hard for the girls to believe, too, that Florence would not have had change for a $20 bill, because all of them usually make it a point to keep plenty of change available. There was something strange about it.

Locked behind bars in the San Diego Jail, this dance hall girl refuses to go back over her past and tell the officers her life story.

"Not a word," she replies to all questions. "My past is my own. It doesn't matter—to you."

That has started the men of the law tracing it unaided. Clews recently picked up, they say, appear to reveal an amazing story of a lifetime fight made by Florence Silverthorn to become a singer—not in the dance halls below the Mexican border, but on the stage before great audiences of people.

"We do not know positively yet that what we have heard is true," one of the investigators said. "But it appears that Florence came from Louisiana—ran away from home at the age of 12, intent on becoming a singer. Where she spent the years between that time and the date of her arrival below the border has not been definitely traced. They tell us that she had a sweet, strong voice when she first came and that she talked of the time when she could get her chance at things worth while.

"But you know how it is; liquor and singing don't mix. Alcohol never improves one's voice, especially in dance halls. Florence saw weeks turn into months and months into years, and instead of escaping Tia Juana with her voice improved, she slipped. Eight years is a long time in those resorts. I think that recently she decided her great chance was gone and this probably caused her to steep herself more heavily in drink. She has been seen less frequently about the dance halls and they say that at times she looked lonely and disconsolate.

"We can say this much, however, she never was relegated to the dives and joints in Tia Juana's 'Old Town,' where Mexican guitars strum the whole night through and where they drink tequila and smoke their marahuana. She kept up appearances."

From the jail where the dark-eyed girl is held prisoner, one can look across the valley to the foothills behind one of which drab Tia Juana revels. Florence can see the sun splash red upon the roofs of houses at sundown. She doesn't receive callers from the border and likely never will because one of their number in jail doesn't appeal to playgirls. When one is gone, that's the end of it. If she comes back, that's all right. If she doesn't, that's all right, too.

In the meantime, the naval court of inquiry has taken up the investigation of the case of young Robinson. The sailor was 29 years of age and is said to have stood well with the officers on his submarine. But Florence Silverthorn will have nothing to reveal to the investigating body. She declines to discuss the fatal shooting with the gold-braided officers who come to ask questions.

"She only smiles and shakes her head," Jailer Fitzgerald says.

THE body of the man, whom civil authorities say Florence killed, was taken in charge by the marines and the curtains are drawn. The world will not be told the circumstances surrounding his death as they have found them.

Attorneys who have her case in hand have cautioned Florence to say nothing more prior to her trial for murder. She must sit disconsolately, possibly for months, reviewing the past before that day comes when she must face the court. It probably is the greatest task she ever assumed in all her glamorous, hectic life.

No border killing has attracted more attention in recent years because of the belief in some circles that the dark-eyed playgirl at one time "was somebody." Her actions, the officers say, occasionally denote innate refinement. Her English is pure, her poise marked, her fingers long, tapering and correctly manicured. She looks questioners fairly in the eye, speaks in modulated voice and always is self-contained.

"Who is she?" everyone asks.

But not in Tia Juana. About Flor-

JAPANESE GIRL called the WORLD'S GREATEST WOMAN ATHLETE

Kinuye Hitomi at the Olympic Games in 1928.

Kinuye Hitomi's Achievements at the Games in Prague Raise Her to a Greater Eminence in Sport Than Ever.

Miss Hitomi about to do the broad jump.

LONDON.

THE newspapers here quite generally spoke of her as the world's greatest woman athlete. Miss Kinuye Hitomi had just come from the third meet of the Women's World Games at Prague, where she was captain of the Japanese team, and if anything could have broken her Eastern reserve to the extent of causing her to blush it would have been the showers of adjectives poured on her sleek bobbed head. The Manchester Guardian spoke of her as "undoubtedly the greatest girl athlete the world has ever seen."

And that is going some. For it goes way back to the time when Greece and Rome had athletic contests for women similar to those for men. But the English sports writers cite a long series of records to support the claims they make for Miss Hitomi. She holds the world's 100-meter record of 12 1-5 seconds jointly with Miss E. Robinson of the United States; the world's 200-meter record of 24 7-10 seconds, the world's broad jump record of 19 feet 11 1-10 inches and the world's tricathlon record. And this is by no means all. She has several other records awaiting acceptance by the Federation Sportive Feminine Internationale, supreme arbiter in women's athletics the world over.

It is difficult to believe, confronting the records of Miss Hitomi and the other Japanese contestants, men and women, in international athletic contests, that it was only 18 years ago that Japan first sent a team to the Olympic Games, a team that participated, and that was about all.

From the first Japan apparently realized that native excellence alone could not make up for the long delay in entering the international sports arena. At first American coaches were imported and American athletes of the quality of Ralph Spearow, who achieved a pole vault of just under 14 feet at Tokio in 1924, were persuaded to give exhibitions throughout Japan. The American professional teachers, who laid the foundations, have long since been replaced by native talent, and today young Japan is coached mainly by Japanese amateurs.

In 1920 a small team of Japanese athletes made their appearance at the first post-war Olympiad at Antwerp, but their showing was not impressive. Four years later at Paris the eight men on the Japanese team for the first time made the world aware that Japan was a nation to be reckoned with, and this opinion was confirmed at Amsterdam in 1928.

Meanwhile the women's world games had been instituted at Paris in 1922 and Kinuye Hitomi, then a youngster of 15, hearing of them, was immediately fired with a desire to win laurels for her country. Japanese sportsmen were winning places for themselves in the big world beyond the island. Why should not she, too, do something for Japan?

SHE smiles as she thinks back over her career. It is apparent that she has enjoyed every phase of the long struggle she has waged for the victories that are now written after her name. She first began training in 1925, in the hope that she would be sent to take part in the women's games to be held in 1926 in Gothenburg, Sweden. She received no coaching, but at every opportunity she watched the men who were the principal athletes of the land at their trials and tests.

She was the outstanding heroine of the Gothenburg games, where she scored all of the 15 points that gave Japan fifth place in the final ranking of the nations. Miss Hitomi won points in both the sprints, won both the standing and running broad jumps and was placed second in the discus throwing event. The sports writers were immediately won over by this flash from the Far East.

At the Olympic games at Amsterdam, when women were admitted for the first time to the athletic section of the program, she was again the sole representative of her country. Her sprint running there was described as magnificent, but she failed to reach the final of the 100 meters. In the 800 meters, however, she ran an epic race and was but narrowly beaten by the German competitor, Frau Radke, who set the world's record at 2 minutes 16 4-5 seconds.

Miss Hitomi was captain of the team of six girls, most of them between 17 and 20 years of age, who took part in the women's games at Prague recently. There she won the broad jump at 19 feet 4 1-5 inches. That she did not better this mark was due to the fact that within three days' time she took part in running, jumping and throwing contests and also because the weather was cold and rain fell constantly.

When she is not in athletic competition in some part of the world or other, Miss Hitomi is on the staff of the Japanese newspaper, Osaka Mainichi. And it is said that, unlike most athletes, she does her own writing, without aid of the American device of a "ghost writer." She attributes Japan's athletic prowess during the past 10 years to the keenness of the boys and girls, who are given a thorough athletic education in their most impressionable years.

Miss Hitomi displayed the tact for which her race is noted when asked which country, in her opinion, produced the best women athletes.

"EACH country," she said, "has its own 'best' in some branch of sport. England's athletes are always best at the middle distances. Poland has the sprinters and discus throwers, we in Japan are best at the jumps. In respect to general efficiency, Germany has the best women athletes."

After a brief stay here, during which they were disappointed not to secure a match with an English team, Miss Hitomi and her fellow athletes sailed for home. But she will be back before long. The next international sports meet will draw this modern daughter of old Japan back to Europe again in defense of her laurels.

SEEING MEXICO From A MOTOR CYCLE

Joe Porta in northern Mexico.

On a bridge leading into a Mexican village.

A cactus-lined road in Sonora.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

SEEING Old Mexico from the vantage point of a motor cycle is quite different from seeing it as an observation car tourist. It may be less comfortable, but it's decidedly more informative. Joe Porta thinks so, anyway. Porta, a St. Louisan, happens to be in a position to know. He has spent the last four months seeing the southern republic from about every road and cow path that a motor cycle could traverse. He says that except for the bean and tortilla diet you have to put up with in the remote villages and the swarms of man-eating insects you have to fight off when sleeping on the ground, travel by motor cycle is entirely satisfactory and he intends to do more of it. He plans to ride through Central America and then cross over into South America and do Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and Argentina. Buenos Aires will be his final destination if the motor cycle keeps going. Porta left St. Louis on May 8.

The idea most tourists have that Mexico is a land infested with bandits and revolutionists is all wrong, Porta writes. In all his four months' travel he didn't see a one. On the contrary, he declares, he found the people particularly eager to impress the foreign visitor with their good will and hospitality. This partly because they realize their reputation abroad hasn't been the best and they want to improve it. Also, it is because they are naturally friendly and want to treat the tourist well if he gives them a chance. Mexican roads he found almost nonexistent, but scenery superb.

"Perhaps the lack of good roads makes the traveler appreciate the scenery more," he suggests. "The country is just waking up to the need for first class highways and as yet the adventurous tourist who wants to drive his own car into the interior of Mexico must be a good mechanic and explorer as well as an excellent driver.

"ONE can reach Mexico City best through Laredo, taking advantage of a highway in the course of construction, but open to traffic almost all the way. Also, there is a passable road to the capital from El Paso, through Chihuahua, and there is what answers for a road down the Pacific coast by way of Nogales. It is probably the most interesting and picturesque of all, but it is well-nigh impassable south of Mazatlan. Most people who go to Mexico City by this road ship their machines on the train from Tepic to Guadalajara. If they don't they are likely to need frequent help from a team of oxen."

The best time to visit Mexico City is in early spring, Porta says. The rainy season starts in July and lasts till late in September, making impassable all the roads which aren't that way anyhow.

"Mexico isn't quite ready for the tourist," he writes, "but is working hard toward that end. The accommodations along the roads are almost nil. I found that the visitor in Mexico should arrange his itinerary so that the end of every day will find him in a good sized town where he can get food and shelter. If he has to stop at a ranch or in a small village the chances are he will have to sleep on the ground after a supper of beans and tortillas (the bread of the poorer classes).

"As for the personal safety of the tourist in Mexico, I am sure the country never was so free of bandits as it is today. In four months I was never molested, nor did I have anything stolen.

"SEVERAL times I was forced to spend the night in the mountains, which were, I was told, infested with dangerous animals, but I never saw the least sign of them.

"The wild animals that bothered me most were the countless mosquitoes and other similar pests, which made many a night sleepless. In Northern Mexico I was unable to lie on the ground for half an hour without being covered by ants. On the Pacific coast I met with mosquitoes and small round bugs called garrapatos, which stick their heads through your skin and hang on so hard that you can scarcely pull them off. In Central Mexico there were the fleas and another pest, the "alacran," said to be very dangerous. It is a kind of scorpion, about an inch long, and the natives say its sting will sometimes cause death. One morning I found one in my blanket. The natives screeched and ran away. They told me I had narrowly escaped death..

"Aside from these little inconveniences, Mexico is a land well worth seeing thoroughly. Its wilderness is real and the man who ventures through it alone feels the thrill of penetrating the unknown. Every turn and twist of the road brings a new problem and a new experience, not to mention wonderful scenery."

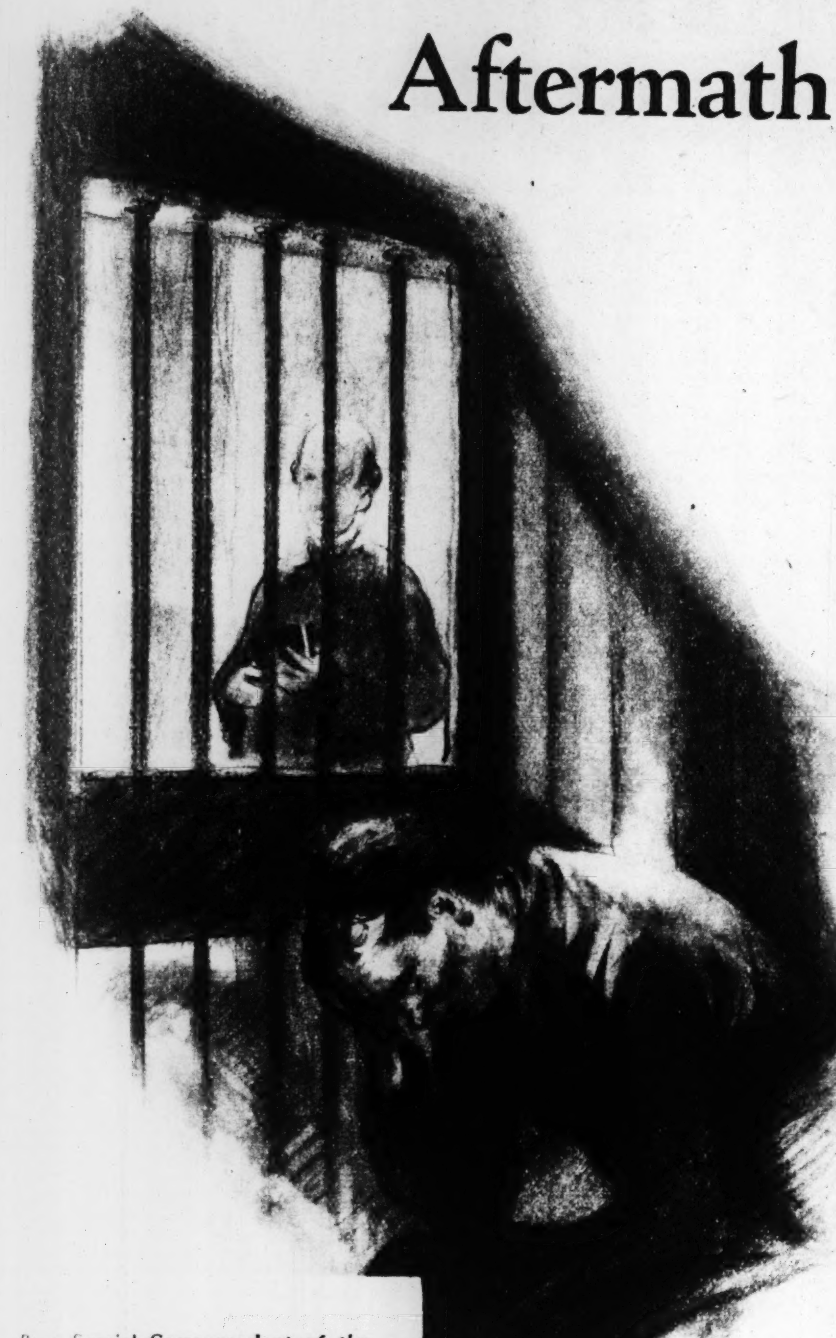
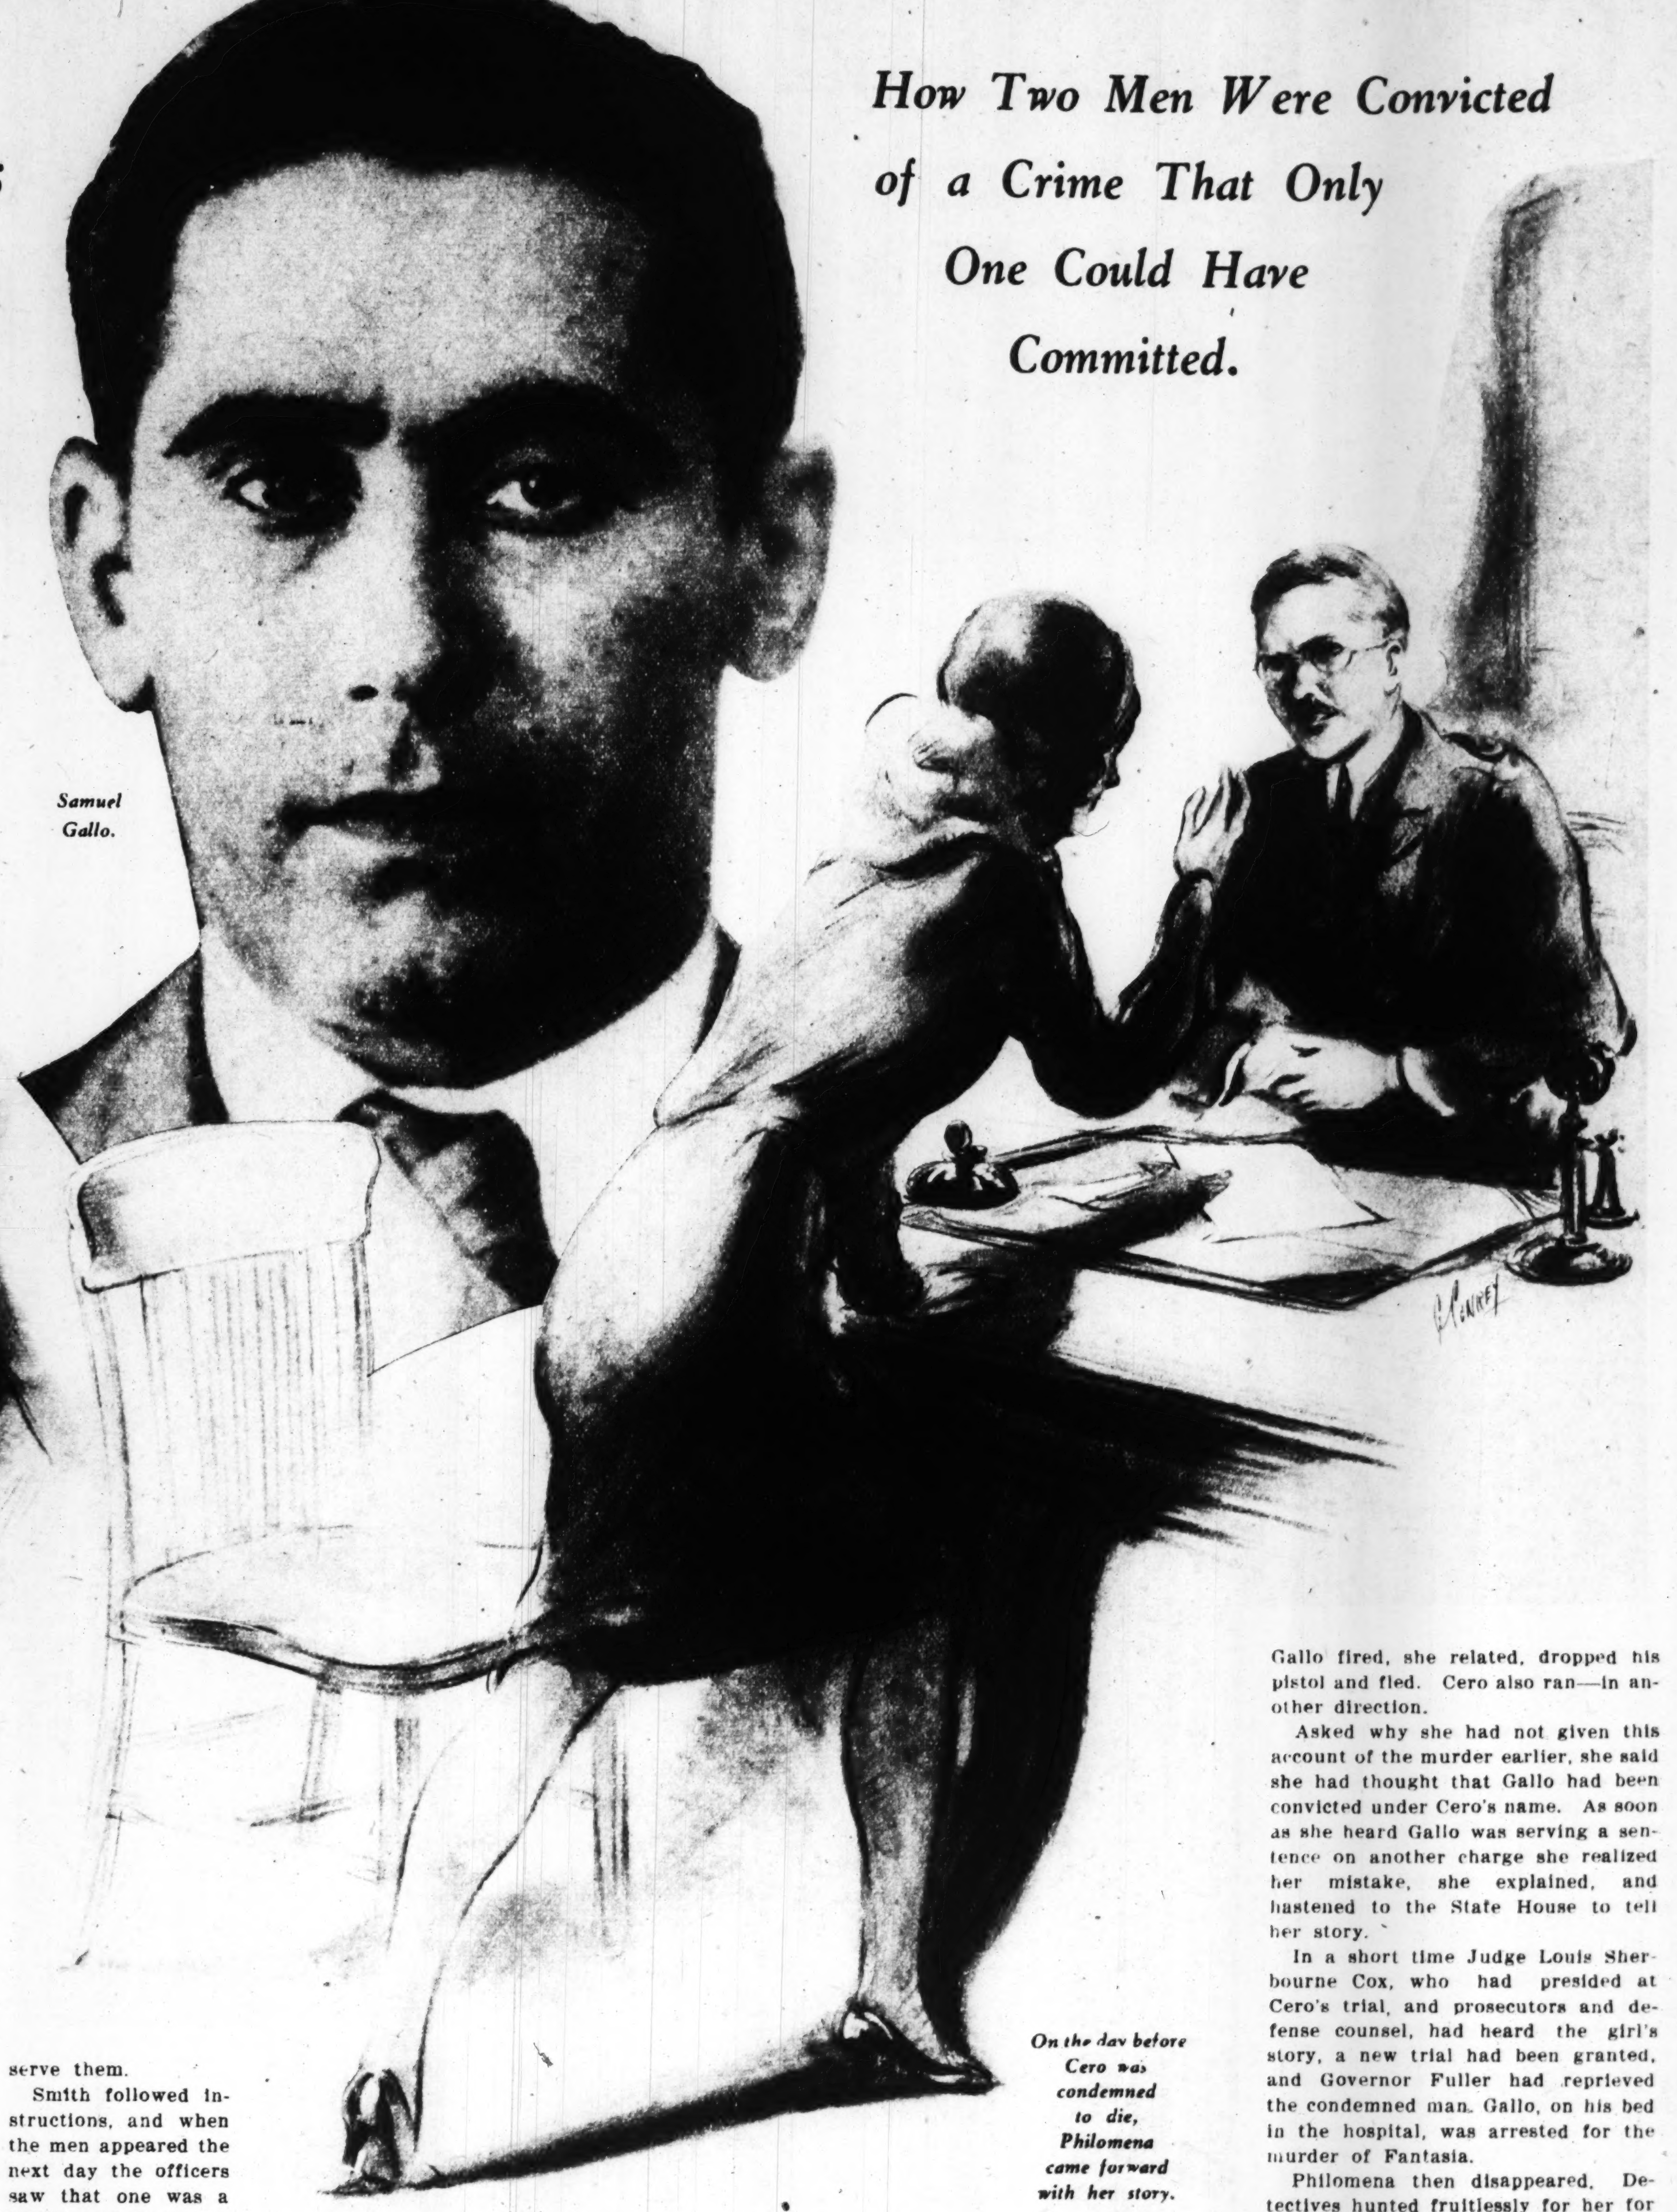
The FANTASIA KILLING and its Complicated Aftermath

How Two Men Were Convicted of a Crime That Only One Could Have Committed.





Samuel Gallo.

On the day before Cero was condemned to die, Philomena came forward with her story.

BOSTON.

OUT of a tenement in the Italian quarter of Boston young Philomena Romano emerged one day into public notice to bring about one of the strangest chains of legal procedure that the courts of conservative Massachusetts have ever known. Because of the story she told the day before a man was to be executed for murder, the jury which had convicted him proceeded to convict a second man for the crime. With two under sentence of death for a killing which only one could have committed, new trials were granted both defendants. The one originally convicted was acquitted, and the second man was again found guilty.

Before this chain had been completed, Miss Romano had disappeared. That was more than a year ago, and the 22-year-old girl is still missing. The man whom her testimony convicted — her former sweetheart — is now awaiting death in the electric chair.

The murder occurred June 11, 1927, in crowded Prince street, in the Italian quarter. Joseph Fantasia, brother-in-law of Philomena, was killed with a single shot. As the excited spectators gathered about the body of the victim, a man was seen running from the scene. One of the spectators, Louis Smith, gave chase and caught the man. The police arrived, and the captive was arrested for the murder. He was Gangi Cero, 21, of Brooklyn, reputed to be a gunman. He denied he had killed Fantasia.

Detectives investigating the case soon discovered that Cero had been in the employ of Samuel Gallo, a clothing salesman of Revere, Mass. It had been Gallo's practice, they learned, to sell for $15 in the Italian quarter, suits which he had bought in another part of Boston for $8. Gallo and Cero were said to have told their customers that the suits were stolen or smuggled goods.

Gallo was questioned; there was a suspicion that he had hired Cero to kill Fantasia. It was rumored that the following events had taken place a few weeks before the murder: Fantasia walked up to Gallo and remarked, "In a few minutes you'll be in a hearse." Presently Philomena appeared, whipped out a razor and slashed Gallo on the cheek.

There was a scar on Gallo's face to support this story of a clash with his former sweetheart. But the salesman told the officers the scar came from an injury he had suffered in an automobile accident, when he was cut by flying glass. He also denied a report that he had quarrelled with Fantasia about two months before and had found it necessary to go to a hospital to recover. After hours of questioning the police had to let him go; they had no real evidence against him.

Cero went on trial in Suffolk Superior Court five months later. Smith was the chief witness for the prosecution. He was a strong witness, a man of good reputation and evidently only interested in bringing a murderer to justice.

CERO took the stand in his own defense and swore he was innocent. It was not difficult to predict which the jury would believe. Before the verdict was given the prosecution offered Cero a chance to plead guilty of second-degree murder. Cero refused, insisting he was innocent.

The jury gave its verdict November 17, 1927: guilty of murder in the first degree. That meant the chair, under Massachusetts law. Vainly Cero sought a new trial; it was denied. Vainly he sought to have the judgment reversed by the State Supreme Court; but there was no reversible error in the trial.

In the meantime, State's Witness Smith had something to tell the authorities. Soon after the trial, he said, he had been approached by two men, one of whom demanded that he sign an affidavit stating he had testified to more than the facts warranted; that he had been too hasty in his identification of Cero. The officials asked Smith to meet the men again and officers would observe them.

Smith followed instructions, and when the men appeared the next day the officers saw that one was a brother of Cero; he was silent during the negotiations because he spoke no English. The other man was Samuel Gallo.

Smith, obeying instructions, agreed to sign the affadavit, and the three set out to find a lawyer to draw up the statement, detectives following them. After several lawyers had refused to prepare the document a justice of the peace was found who said he would do it. Then Smith balked, according to plan. He said he would have to talk with a brother. Gallo urged him to find his brother quickly, and they set out on this errand.

The time had come, Smith felt, to call on the police, so he gave the prearranged signal — stooped to tie a shoe lace. The detectives hurried forward and arrested Gallo. Despite his denials, the suit salesman was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for contempt of court. He was placed in the Charles Street Jail, where Cero was a prisoner.

Gangi Cero, in the center, after he had been acquitted.

Cero and Gallo met one day when the prisoners were in the jail yard. Cero broke away from the guards, drew a knife from its concealment in his shirt, and stabbed his former employer. Gallo was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, dangerously wounded, and Cero was removed to the Charlestown Jail, where he was to be executed November 8, 1928.

That day arrived. The white-faced Cero ate what was supposed to be his last meal. The barber was ready to shave his head.

At this eleventh hour, Philomena dramatically came forward with her story. It was Gallo who had killed her brother-in-law, she declared. She said she was with Fantasia when he was killed; that they were walking along the street when Cero and Gallo appeared. Gallo fired, she related, dropped his pistol and fled. Cero also ran—in another direction.

Asked why she had not given this account of the murder earlier, she said she had thought that Gallo had been convicted under Cero's name. As soon as she heard Gallo was serving a sentence on another charge she realized her mistake, she explained, and hastened to the State House to tell her story.

In a short time Judge Louis Sherbourne Cox, who had presided at Cero's trial, and prosecutors and defense counsel, had heard the girl's story, a new trial had been granted, and Governor Fuller had reprieved the condemned man. Gallo, on his bed in the hospital, was arrested for the murder of Fantasia.

Philomena then disappeared. Detectives hunted fruitlessly for her for three weeks, at the end of which time she walked into the District Attorney's office—and repudiated her story. She was arrested for perjury. Lodged in jail, she changed her mind again and said the story that had saved Cero from the chair was true; that she had repudiated it because of threats made against her.

It was not her first repudiation of the kind. Five years before, after her cousin, Dominic Regione, had been shot to death, she had identified a man as his murderer. But when she was placed on the witness stand at the trial, she professed herself unable to remember anything of service to the prosecution, and the man she had identified was freed.

BUT in the Cero-Gallo case her evidence was supported from an unexpected quarter. Mrs. Rose Chilleni, an old Italian woman, told the authorities, after Philomena's story became known, that she could identify the slayer of Fantasia. She was taken to see Gallo in the hospital and identified him as the man.

Gallo went on trial in February, 1929—and before the same Judge who had sentenced Cero to death. Philomena told her story at the trial. Defense counsel tried to discredit her testimony. One declared that she testified against her former sweetheart "because of spite and jealousy." Pointing dramatically at the scar on Gallo's cheek, he asserted, "There on the face of my client is proof of how far she would go."

Cero, testifying, gave an account of the killing similar to Philomena's. While at his own trial he had disputed Smith's testimony, he now said Smith had told the truth.

On March 1, 1929, the jury found Gallo guilty of the murder. He col-

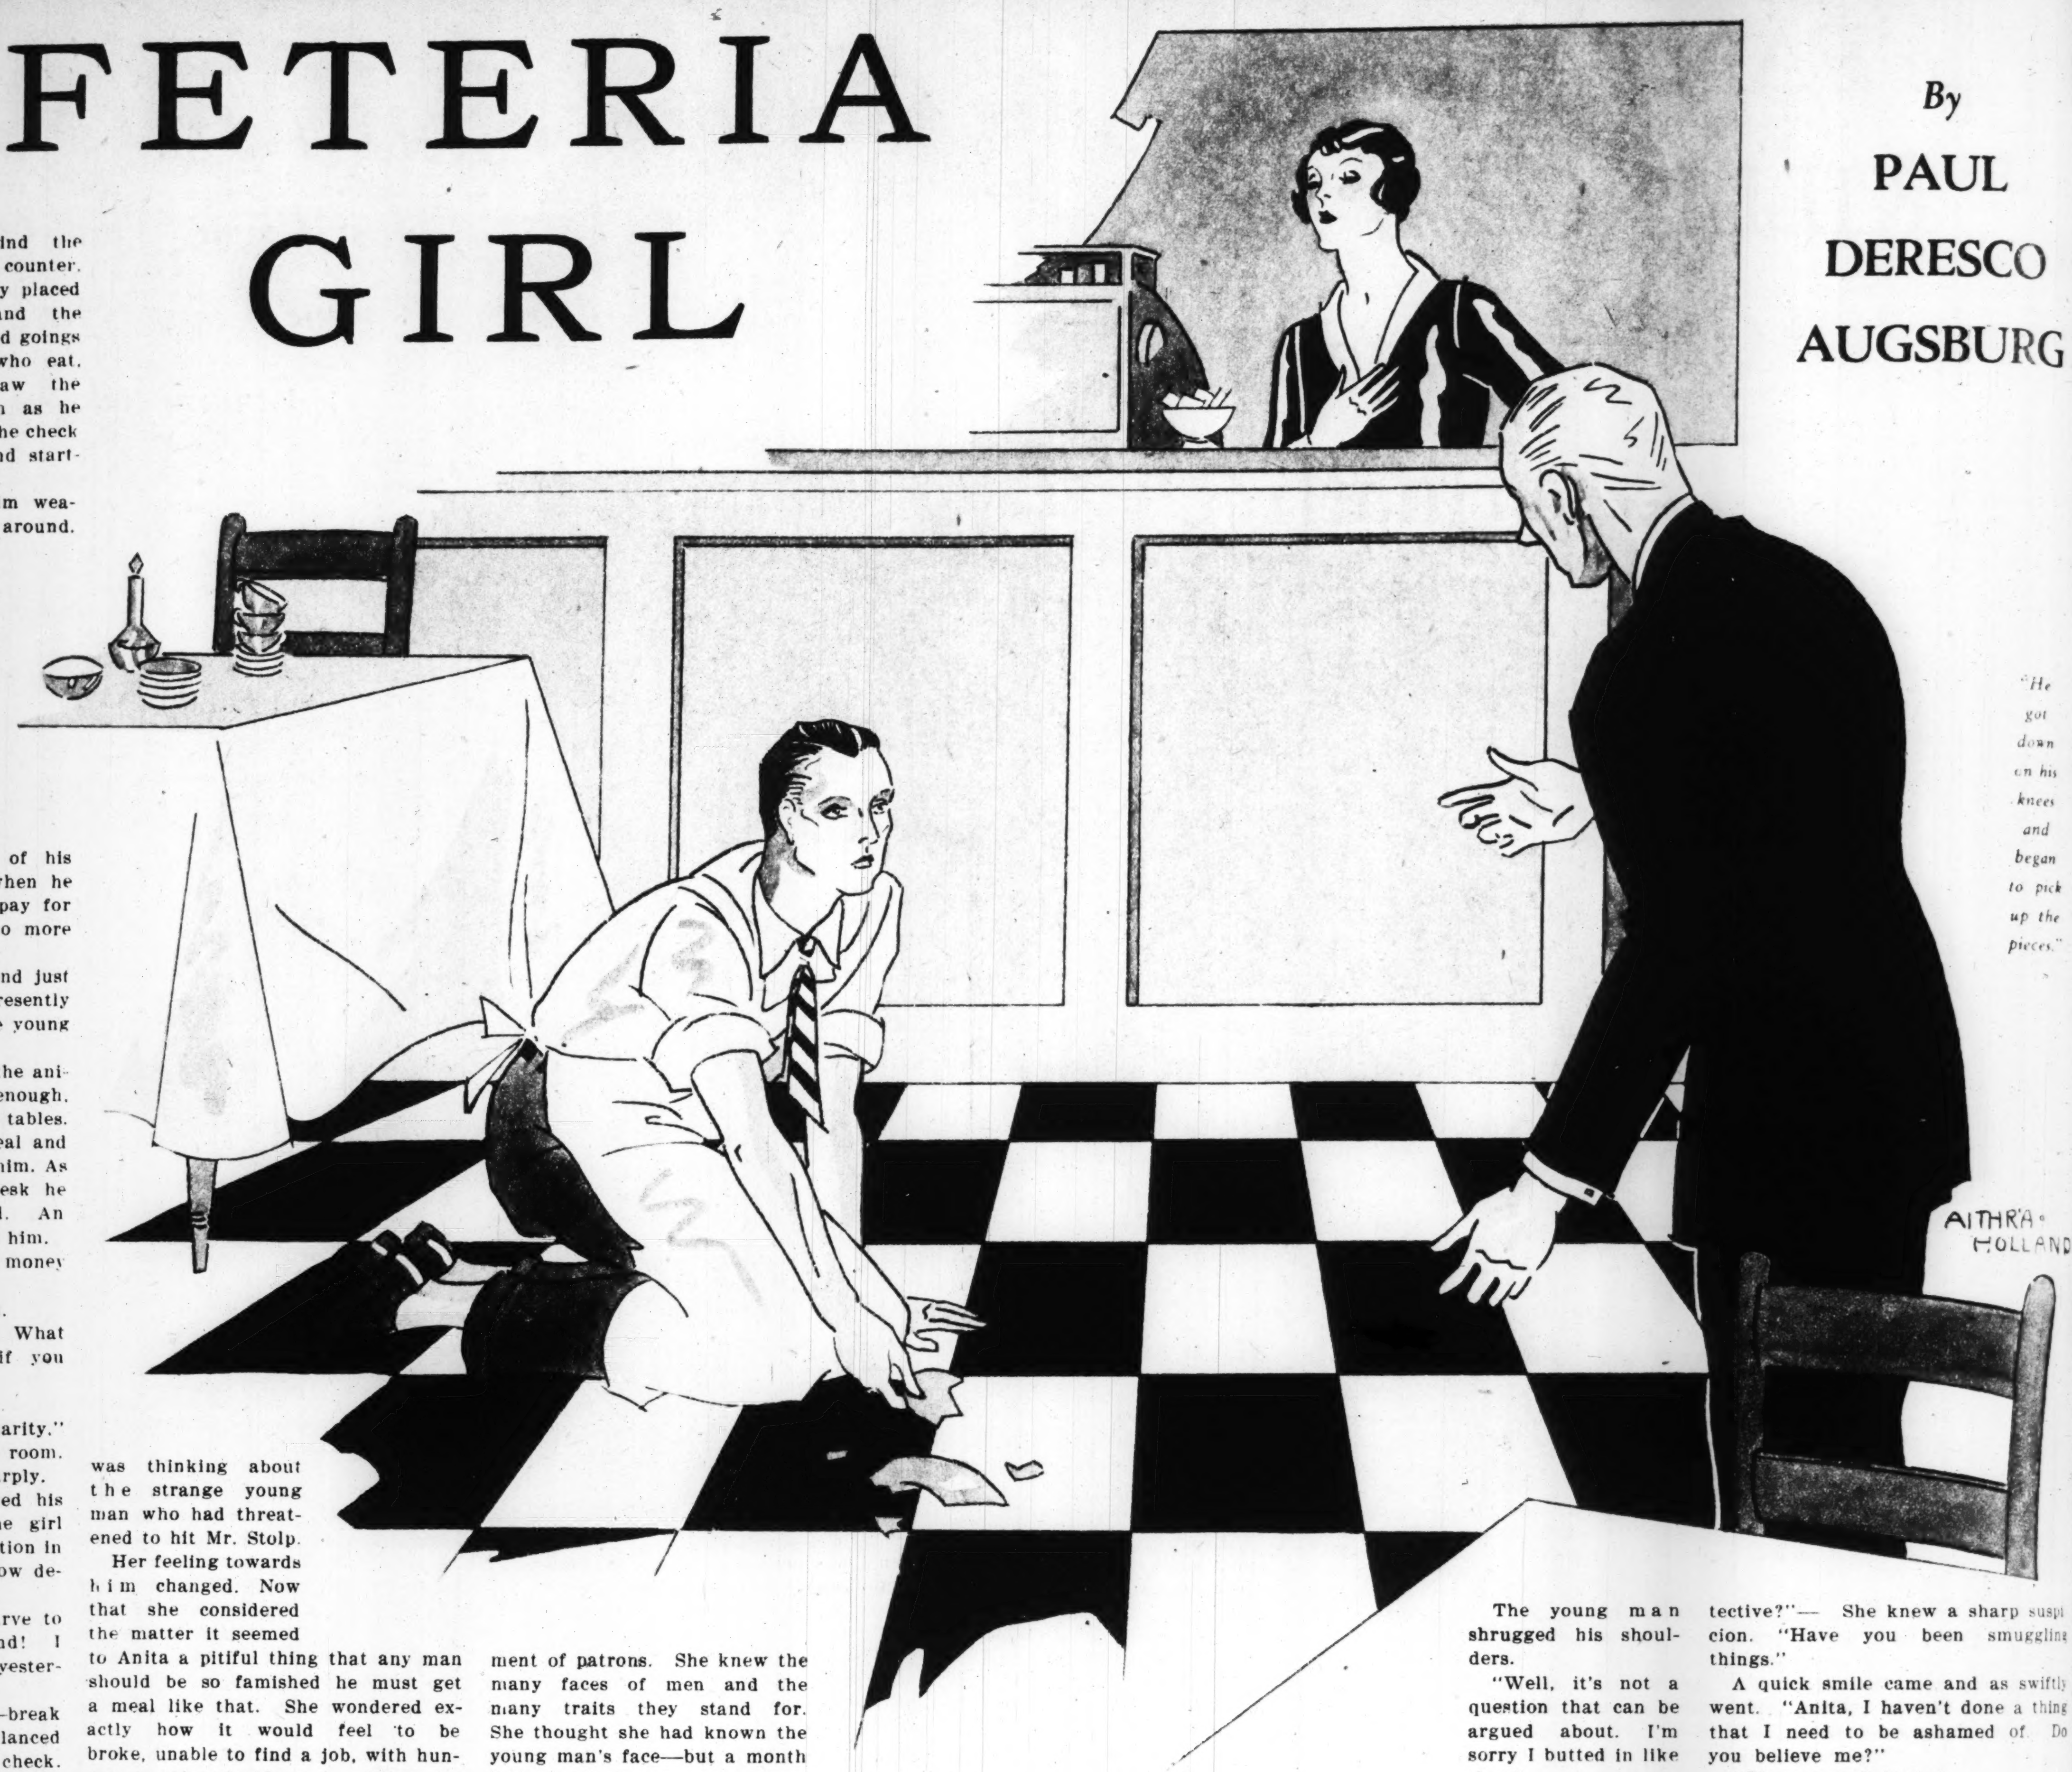
CAFETERIA GIRL

By PAUL DERESCO AUGSBURG



"He got down on his knees and began to pick up the pieces."

FROM behind the cashier's counter, strategically placed to command the comings and goings of those who eat, Anita saw the young man as he passed by the check machine and started towards the array of food.

"Check!" she called to him wearily. The young man looked around. "Get your check."

The young man went through the usual banal procedure. He looked at the machine, tentatively plucked a check therefrom, was vaguely surprised when it made a sharp metallic sound and yielded up another, then turned to smile apologetically at Anita. She sat there, impassive, yet rather haughty, like a pagan goddess cast in bronze, seeming unaware of his presence. Till the moment when he should stand before her and pay for his victuals, she need take no more notice of him.

But the patrons were few, and just sitting there was boresome. Presently she found herself watching the young man.

He ate avidly, yet not with the animal-like greed which, often enough, she had observed at these same tables.

Presently he finished his meal and looked rather dubiously about him. As he approached the cashier's desk he seemed to be very embarrassed. An indifferent sphinx, she awaited him.

"I'm sorry; I . . . haven't any money to pay this."

The sphinx became a human.

"You haven't any money! What did you come in here for if you haven't any money?"

"I was hungry."

"Humph! This isn't any charity." Anita's eyes flashed over the room. "Mr. Stolp!" she called out sharply.

The manager came and added his lofty scorn. Both he and the girl seemed to find a special satisfaction in having such a well-dressed fellow delivered into their hands.

"You don't expect me to starve to death with all this food around! I hadn't had a bite to eat since yesterday noon."

"What am I supposed to do—break down and weep?" Mr. Stolp glanced severely at the young man's check. "A dollar-ten. That's two hours and twelve minutes. Come with me. I'll get you an apron."

It was an amusing diversion for a dull afternoon. He looked so funny, with his refined, intelligent features, his well-kept hands, going about with a bus boy's pan to gather up the dishes.

A good-looking fellow, Anita decided. She wondered what had happened. He might have been robbed or —even more likely—fleeced by some gentler method.

Now he was at a nearby table, wiping away the coffee stains, replacing the sugar and ketchup. A dirty dish slipped from his hands and was shattered on the floor.

"Clumsy fool!" Anita snapped and was instantly astonished at the harshness of her language. Some perverse imp inside her seemed to make her want to hurt him.

And she had hurt him that was evident. He threw her such a helpless, embarrassed, appealing sort of look, as much as to say, "You wouldn't kick at a fellow when he's down!" He had got down on his knees and begun to pick up the pieces, when Mr. Stolp appeared.

"DO YOU have to be so awkward? Don't crawl on the floor like a baby! Go back and get a brush and pan! And hurry up about it!"

Anita sniggered. The young man abruptly changed his manner.

"You talk to me again like that and I'll crack you one on the jaw!"

The manager withdrew a step, but he appeared to ignore the threat.

"That plate will cost you twelve minutes more," he said and walked away.

Anita's pulse had suddenly stopped, then raced at a faster tempo. When he returned with the dustpan she looked away, as if busy about her cash drawer. Long after the broken plate was gone, she still wondered at what had happened. Again and again she repeated the words, "You talk to me again like that. . ." He had not raised his voice a bit, but oh, how he had looked! " . . I'll crack you one on the jaw!" To Mr. Stolp, the manager! Just like a moment in some play. The memory of it thrilled her.

The afternoon advanced towards early evening. Anita made change, dispensed cigarettes and matches and chewing gum, kept a dutiful eye on the check machine, ignored the crudely flirtatious, and all the time she was thinking about the strange young man who had threatened to hit Mr. Stolp.

Her feeling towards him changed. Now that she considered the matter it seemed to Anita a pitiful thing that any man should be so famished he must get a meal like that. She wondered exactly how it would feel to be broke, unable to find a job, with hunger growing inside one. Often she glanced at the clock.

At last the young man emerged from the kitchen, wearing his hat and coat. Out of the corner of her eye Anita saw the manager enter his office. Her heart was in an unwonted flutter as the young man approached her counter. Now she would have to catch his eye.

But he was passing without a glance, as if he did not see her.

"Oh, say! Just a minute."

She held out a small first, fingers down, and dropped something into his hand. He started as he saw the corner of a two-dollar bill, tightly wadded.

"No, thank you. I'll get along without."

"But it's just a loan," she pleaded. "You can pay me back when you have a job."

"Thank you. I'd rather not."

"It's my money—not the company's. Oh, please. I'd feel much better."

He had been very stiffly polite and distant, but now her words seemed to change him. He looked at Anita. The hauteur, the disdain, were gone from her face, and she was just a pretty girl who had been like a pagan goddess in bronze, impassive, yet faintly derisive.

"I'm sorry about calling you clumsy. You really weren't. Lots of plates are smashed like that every day."

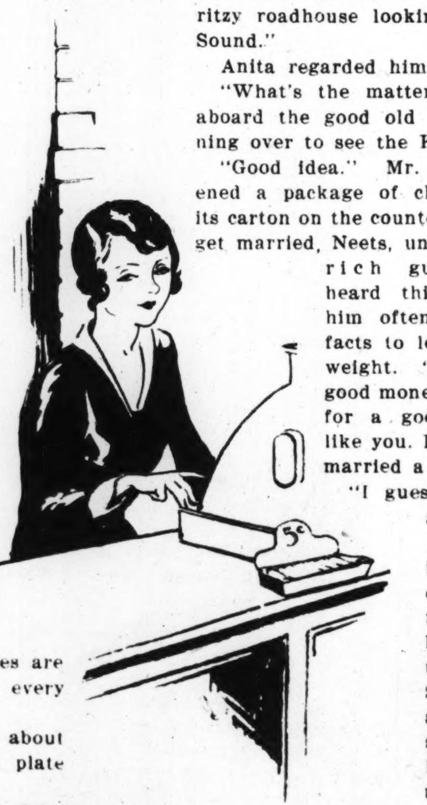
"That's all right about what you said. The plate was pretty greasy."

"And you'll take the loan"

"Yes, I'll take the loan." Her teeth looked pretty when she smiled. "I'll pay you back as soon as— But, tell me, what's your name?"

"I'm Madam X," she told him, "and I think you are Mr. Y. Good luck with the job, Mr. Y."

Out of this encounter there came a bitter disappointment. The cafeteria where Anita worked was in Eighth avenue, not far from Columbus Circle. To it came a varied assortment of patrons. She knew the many faces of men and the many traits they stand for. She thought she had known the young man's face—but a month had passed since he went away, and her disappointment was bitter. So sure had she been of Mr. Y that had Mr. Stolp, for instance, walked up and said in his cynical way, "There's two dollars you'll never see again," she would have bet a full week's pay and given odds upon it. And the young man had not returned.



NOR was that all the reason why Anita felt disappointed. The young man had a pleasant face and he'd made her heart beat faster!

Now the month was April. Sitting behind the cashier's counter, she was thinking of all the places she would like to see, when Mr. Stolp stopped in front of her.

"Well," he said, "it's a great day for a spin out the Boston Post road, with iced drinks and dancing at some ritzy roadhouse looking out on the Sound."

Anita regarded him coldly.

"What's the matter with getting aboard the good old yacht and running over to see the King of Spain?"

"Good idea." Mr. Stolp straightened a package of chewing gum in its carton on the counter. "Don't ever get married, Neets, unless you land a rich guy." She had heard this advice from him often enough, with facts to lend his counsel weight. "There's lots of good money running loose for a good-looking kid like you. Lord, I wish I'd married a rich one."

"I guess you're right, all right."

A peculiar look came over Mr. Stolp's face. Anita followed the direction of Mr. Stolp's stare and her heart stopped dead in her bosom. The manager turned and walked away snapping his fingers.

"Oh, hello," she managed to whisper.

He might have been an apparition, if apparitions can look so healthy. His face was tanned and his eyes were smiling. He seemed sort of proud and reckless.

"Guess you'd given me up, eh?"

"Of course not," she promptly lied.

"I've been clear to London and back again. I got a job on a ship. I'm a sailor!"

Anita's eyes were large and eager.

"Clear to London! Oh, tell me about it."

"I will, but . . . before I forget it, let me pay you back what you loaned me. Say, that was mighty decent of you. Believe me, I'll never forget it."

"Oh, shucks!" she said with a careless shrug. "But I'm glad you found a job. Now tell me everything you saw."

"Not here! Suppose when you're through for the day. . ."

At seven, when she was through for the day, Anita met him outside the cafeteria. They passed through a segment of Columbus Circle and entered Central Park. He took her arm as they walked along and told her strange, wonderful things of far-off England!

Twilight had passed, but southward the sky was alight with a hundred flashing signs. The air felt soft with the softness of spring, and the sweetness of spring was in it. Here the city's noise seemed subdued, removed; the grass had a pleasant fragrance.

"Where is your home?" Anita wondered.

He hesitated.

"Philadelphia."

"What sort of work did you do there?"

"Tiresome work."

"What?"

"I was in a broker's office. Stocks and bonds—that sort of stuff. That's no way to live; it's like going to seed."

"But it pays awfully well, doesn't it, stocks and bonds?"

"Oh, yes. But money's not everything, I can tell you."

She felt his hand touch her shoulder; his elbow was on the bench-back. He said something sharply, she glanced at him, and suddenly his arms were tight about her, his lips were pressed to hers.

"Cut that out!" gasped Anita. She had her own ideas on matters like this.

The young man seemed abashed by the way that she had spoken. For a time he said nothing, but sat there embarrassed and shamefaced, like a dog rebuked by its master. Presently he spoke:

"It gets lonesome at sea, sometimes. It would be sort of pleasant at sea to remember you kissing me. I didn't realize I was so . . . objectionable."

"I didn't say you were . . . objectionable."

The young man shrugged his shoulders.

"Well, it's not a question that can be argued about. I'm sorry I butted in like that."

Again there was silence—a troubled, puzzled silence for Anita. Never before had she met such a man. He made her feel, somehow or other, as if she had been a heartless wretch not to give him the kiss that he wanted. She did not know what to do or say. If he would only try it again —then she would feel much better!

"It's getting late. I think I ought to start home."

Home was in West Fifty-seventh street, over beyond the "L" tracks, where the pavement yields to a gentle slope toward the steamship docks on the Hudson.

They talked, between long gaps of silence, of inconsequential things. He had told her his ship would sail in a day to unload the rest of its cargo on the docks at Wilmington. The thought of his going out of her life distressed her more and more.

And now they were at the entrance of Anita's particular burrow. They had stopped in the shadows of a shabby vestibule. The young man had his cap off. He was politely saying good-by to her. She would never see him again.

"I hope you have a very pleasant voyage . . . and not too lonesome."

Her arm stole up about his neck and to his surprise she had kissed him. "Good-by," she said breathlessly. "Come tell me about your trip when you get back—won't you?"

"YOU bet I will." All the sense of restraint had gone away and his voice was suddenly eager. "And I'll write you from the other side. Gee, Nita, but you are lovely!"

A letter came to her at the cafeteria. It had been signed "Robert Banning," and that was the first time she knew his name. He told her he had only a few minutes to write, as the pilot would take the mail off when he left them at the sea-gate.

A few weeks and his ship was back again. A cafeteria, Anita told him, was no fit place to open a present which came all the way from Le Havre. She would wait till they were in Central Park, sitting beneath a spreading tree.

He went away then, returning at seven. But a change had come over Robert. He kept glancing behind him, a frown on his face, so that Anita, seeing that something was strange, asked him what was the matter.

"I think somebody's following me."

"A detective," she gasped.

"I guess so."

"Why Robert, why should a detective?"— She knew a sharp suspicion. "Have you been smuggling things."

A quick smile came and as swiftly went. "Anita, I haven't done a thing that I need to be ashamed of. Do you believe me?"

"Of course, I do."

By the light of the moon she opened the present, a flaming silk shawl embroidered with patterns and hung with a heavy fringe of white. It clung to her shoulders like soft warm sunlight and made her want to dance on the grass to a gay, wild pagan tune.

"Looks great on you, 'Nita. I knew it would. Just goes with your eyes and hair."

"Robert, you darling!"

"Darling, am I? Then I must have caught it from you."

HE PUT his arm around her. He told her more wonders that he had seen—and her comments delighted him. Once, he said, he had known a girl who would have yawned at him, bored to death, if he talked to her like that.

"Was she pretty?" Anita wondered.

"Yes, pretty enough. But leave her out. You're much more interesting."

He told her how, when the ship was rolling, a star would seem to be moving around in a circle overhead. And then quite abruptly, he was asking her if she would be his wife.

"But Robert"——

"You . . . like me, don't you?"

"Like you! Much more than that."

"Well!"

"I haven't done anything but think about you all the time you were gone. I'd say 'yes' so quick, dear, if"— She stopped.

"If what?"

Mr. Stolp was hovering at her side: his words were in her ears.

"Don't you see, you don't make much money being a sailor, and you're away so much of the time. Oh, I'm not looking for a rich man. I'd rather have you than the richest man in all the world. But it's so hard being poor."

"But I'm bound to make good," he told her. "I'll be a quartermaster pretty soon."

"Wait until you come back again. You'll maybe want to change your mind."

"I'll not change," was his dogged answer. "I know what I want, and I'll not change. You get a chance to think of things when you are out at sea."

"But you see I haven't had a chance to think of things—not yet. But by the time that you've returned, I'll promise to tell you, Robert."

He had been holding her close for many magic minutes. Then, abruptly

"Jake" Fleagle.

WHEN William Harrison (Jake) Fleagle, notorious Kansas killer, capitulated to an amour in the hill country of Southwest Missouri, he unwittingly signed his death warrant and supplied a clew to his whereabouts to agencies of the Government that had hunted this wanton murderer over thousands of miles of territory for two years.

Had Fleagle known anything of the history of crime he would have learned that it is the police theory that the worst possible repository for a confidence is a woman's heart, that when the law looks for its man it first looks for his woman. Criminal history teems with instances of the hunted man betrayed into the law's hands by a woman, but Fleagle seemed to be unaware of this.

Like most criminals, Fleagle lived by the might of his trigger finger. In the narrow compass of his warped mentality, to be unafraid and a good shot was all that mattered. That was the only rule he knew or cared to know; it was sufficient for his purpose, let criminal history say what it would.

Fleagle did not know and probably cared less that the most proficient of men, even among outcasts of his kind, are sometimes victimized by female blanishments. A veritable terrorist in banditry, outwardly he was not suspected of nurturing tender moments. The men of his stripe never knew him to sentimentalize. Women were "skirts" or "molls" with him in conversation with men. Although Jake was not a great thrill to look upon, being small of stature, slouchy and in his forties, he had a heart and a certain way with women, together with plenty of money from his robberies. The latter is always most entrancing to the women he sought. They played him for the money, if for no other charm, and in the end sold him out to the law.

It is an old, old axiom of the underworld that what a woman doesn't know won't hurt her man, and the so-called smart hoodlum of modern banditry keeps his peace when the girls are around. There are not many prison cells where bitter jibes at women are not inscribed on the walls. Jailbird poets sing of the treachery of women. On the walls of a prison cell at Leavenworth is this jingle:

Sitting in the jailhouse,
Staring at the wall;
A good-looking woman
Is the cause of it all.

But Fleagle was frugal in all things and would not learn. He was the rural type of bandit, a backwoods bad man. He seldom saw metropolitan newspapers, from which he might have had instruction, and would not read them when he did.

No, Fleagle believed he was master of himself and his amours, such as they were, and this erroneous idea tells the time-honored tale of another triumph for a jealous woman, and, incidentally, another victory for society.

THE Fleagles, Jake and his brother Ralph, lived with their parents on a ranch midway between Garden City and Dighton, Kansas. The boys bore an unsavory reputation in those parts, but no crime was traced to them until 1928, after the robbery in May of that year of the First National Bank at Lamar, Colo., by four bandits.

The robbers there killed A. Newton Parish, president of the bank, and his son, John F. Parrish, the cashier. The bandits took with them as hostages two tellers, Everett A. Kessinger and E. A. Lundgren. The latter was thrown out of the car just out of town, and Kessinger subsequently was murdered by the robbers at their rendezvous. Dr. W. W. Wineinger of Dighton also was murdered after he had innocently dressed the wound of one of the band who had been shot.

This brutal crime aroused Colorado and Kansas to a hunt for the bandits. Months elapsed before a fingerprint on the doctor's automobile was identified as that of Jake Fleagle, taken when he was arrested as a robber suspect in California.

Fleagle's brothers, Fred and Walter, were questioned and established their innocence. But Jake and Ralph were mysteriously absent from home. Ralph was located at Kankakee, Ill., through a letter he had written home, and confessed that he, Jake, George Abshier and Howard L. Royston had committed the crime.

Ralph Fleagle, Abshier and Royston were tried, found guilty and hanged, and the hunt for Jake, which had been fruitless, was resumed with greater intensity.

The aid of postal inspectors and railroad special agents was obtained by Colorado authorities. A watch was kept when possible on all trains in the Middle West and the hunted man's picture with complete description was posted in postoffices and railroad stations and given into the hands of police everywhere.

Knowing the habits of Fleagle, and that he preferred country life, it was suspected he would be found on a farm or in sparsely settled country. In the hope, too, that some day he would write home, the mails were closely watched. This vigilance eventually was rewarded by receipt of a letter from Los Angeles to a woman in Garden City, Kansas. The letter was presumed to be from Fleagle, because of a similarity of the handwriting to samples of Fleagle's in the hands of the officers. It developed the letter was not from Fleagle, but the officers learned for the first time that the woman was an old flame of Jake's.

She bitterly and readily admitted the old attachment and—now for the treachery that was the beginning of the end of her old love—she didn't know exactly where he was, but most likely he would be found with a "rip of a woman" who formerly lived in Garden City, but had gone to Southwest Missouri about the time Jake fled.

This bit of information narrowed the search for Fleagle to the Ozark region of Missouri. It was rough country, just the kind a tough nut like Jake would select as a place to hide or fight it out. And there was some gambling to be had in the resort towns along the White River. Jake liked gambling.

When his brother, Ralph, was sentenced to death and complained he had been promised life imprisonment as a reward for naming all the robbers, Jake wrote a letter to the Governor of Colorado and another to the Attorney-General of Kansas, signing his name and protesting against the execution of his brother as a breach of faith by the prosecuting officials.

Those letters were mailed on a Missouri Pacific train operating on the White River branch of that railroad, between Newport, Ark., and Joplin, Mo. This narrowed the search still more and the manhunters concentrated their efforts to towns along the railroad, but with little success.

What they did learn was that a man resembling the picture of Fleagle was in that country somewhere, and each person who believed he had seen the man said he wore a beard and very long hair. The long hair convinced the officers the man of that description was the object of their search. Fleagle had large and protruding ears, which naturally he would have liked to conceal, as his large ears were dwelt upon as a feature of his circularized description.

But the officers got no closer to their prey than this vague information until one day their search for the woman who formerly dwelt in Garden City, and was presumed to be with Jake, was successful.

Again love played Jake a dirty trick. The officers found this woman also nursing a grudge. She said she was plenty sore. She declared she would not turn any man in, but Jake Fleagle couldn't wipe his feet on her and get away with it. He was "courting another girl up the river." She wouldn't inform against any man, not she, but Jake Fleagle could look out for himself from now on.

The officers learned the "girl up the river" was at Hollister. They obtained her name and learned from her that her beau was Walter Coates, with whom she would have a date at Hollister in a few days. She did not know Coates was Fleagle, but the officers knew.

Some of the officers went to Kansas City for reinforcements and were returning to Hollister by train a day or two later, when, lo, there stood Jake on the platform at Branson, the first station north of Hollister. He had been shaved that very day and sported a new haircut to make him look pretty for the date with his new love at Hollister.

THESE efforts at beauty culture to dazzle the new girl made it easy for the officers to identify their man. It was only a moment after he boarded their train to keep the tryst at Hollister that he was shot and captured. It then was observed that he was so absorbed in the new amour that he had also had a massage and smelled strongly of barber shop cosmetics.

No wonder he was taken unaware when commanded to surrender. Had he not been absorbed in sentiment, a wretched business for a man of his proclivities, he would have had time to think of his predicament and most likely would have beaten the officers to the draw. But he was in love and that marked him for a dunce.

The ruthless killer was unconscious most of the time before death next day from the bullet wound. In lucid moments he called plaintively for his mother, his only true love, but she was not there, nor did that "girl up the river" come to his bedside.

Dying, he was alone with that bullet in his vitals and with officers of the law he hated. He had been paid off in cold lead for his frightful crimes, but had not been told of his bad luck in love. He was spared that.

Cafeteria Girl

he rose from the bench and turned with an exclamation. Not half a score of yards away a man was standing, his hands in his pockets, watching them from behind their backs. Anita caught a glimpse of his face, an expressionless face beneath a flat straw hat. Then Robert started towards him, and the fellow, running, was lost among the shadowy trees and the rocks of Central Park.

He was lost but not forgotten. Again and often, sitting behind her cash-till, Anita thought of that man and wondered.

A strange thing happened the day after Robert's boat sailed. This same mysterious fellow entered the cafeteria, got a cup of coffee, and, in a moment when no one was near her counter, approached to pay his nickel.

"Sa-a-ay," he said, leaning forward in a confidential fashion, "you want to go easy with that Robert Banning, girlie."

"Oh, I do! Why?"

"He's a bad one with women—that's why."

"Oh, he is! A bad one with men, if they didn't run away!"

The fellow seemed quite unperturbed at her gibe.

"You wasn't thinking of marrying him, was you?"

"Of all the crust! What business is that of yours?"

"Oh, nothing. But you're a nice looking kid. I'd hate to see you get caught by Bob Banning—that's all."

She got angry and called Mr. Stolp, but the fellow did not linger. Some poison of doubt remained, however, and to it was added the daily acid of the manager's family story. . .

ROBERT BANNING returned on a Thursday in June, swinging through the door from Eighth avenue like a hero of some romance. His eyes were eager and very frank and thoroughly disarming. Her last misgiving fled; she did not care, when she saw him then, if he were the poorest man on earth; she could have danced on the counter top, she felt so suddenly happy.

They were married in a little Connecticut town overlooking the lazy Sound. They stayed two nights in a small hotel; then back they came on an early train to the city. He hurried at once to his ship on the Brooklyn dock front.

Anita, smiling and bright of eye, took her place at the cashier's counter.

Mr. Stolp came over and cast an appraising eye on the stock of cigars.

"I better order some more of those Toms. Hey, what's that you got on your finger?"

He was tolerant, soothing, almost kindly.

One day a strange man, elderly, called upon her. He was Robert's father. Nelson Banning looked formidable as a thundercloud when he loomed above her.

"All right, then. But just bear this in mind, young lady: neither you nor Robert, either, will get a cent of help from me."

He stepped towards the door, but Anita stood before it. Her face was white and her eyes were bright and she was fighting angry.

"You look here, Mr. Banning. I'm going to tell you something. I've earned my living all my life, and I don't need to ask help from anybody. That's not all. I took Robert for a poor man, and if he never has a dollar but what he earns himself I . . . I won't be disappointed. It's all I expect. And you leave us alone!"

"Oh, all right," gasped Nelson Banning, and for the barest second a smile had chased all the sternness out of his face.

It was amazing to see what a furore a simple marriage could raise. Reporters came and camera men, and the story was printed on all the first pages, with headlines, of course, in the tabloids. Anita read with amazement.

Another girl was mentioned, a society girl from a rich Philadelphia family. He had been engaged to marry this girl; but suddenly, the papers said, Robert had written a note to her and had vanished from the city. It came to Anita that she was the girl who would have been bored, would have yawned in his face, if he tried to tell her about the wonders one saw at sea and in ports abroad. So he had broken off their engagement.

One other note, the reporters learned, had been written to Robert's mother. It told her not to worry about him, because he was only going away to tackle the world as he wanted.

But Mrs. Banning, his mother, was worried. She asked her husband to hire a detective and find what her boy was up to. The detective had done a thorough job . . . up to a certain point! Twenty-four hours too late he found the Connecticut marriage record.

And what did the Bannings think of their new daughter? Upon this point the father was terse and certainly not to be shaken. "Mrs. Banning and I have no comment to make," was all that the papers reported.

Mr. Stolp, a practical man, had feet on solid ground. After the first shock of learning that Robert Banning of the Social Register once worked for him as a bus boy, he was again the sage who uttered worldly wisdom.

"Now look here, Neets, you want to use your head. This is worth a hundred thousand to you if you only play your hand right. Get a good lawyer and have him go——"

"OH, HUSH! You make me tired." Anita turned to contemplate the calendar on the wall. "Ten more days," she said. "Oh, dear, the time does pass so slowly."

Aye . . . but after all, it passed. The shipping list in the newspapers showed that his boat was due on this Monday.

Noon passed in a clatter of plates and cutlery, of banging trays and scraping chairs, of a check machine endlessly clanging . . . Mid-afternoon. . . . and the smell of mop-water rose with the steam from slippery floors. Anita began to feel restive.

At three-thirty she phoned the steamship office. Yes, his boat had docked at ten o'clock. A suspicion, gray and terrible, came like a cloud to hover and, slowly growing, to threaten. Perhaps his father, Nelson Banning, had met him at the gangplank. Perhaps his father had even convinced him that marriage to a cafeteria girl was the height of youthful folly. Perhaps—she grew faint at thought of it—he had told him, that ruthless man of money, that Anita had already gone away and was lost in California.

Four-thirty. The first of the dinner crowd began to come, like weary cows returning home from pasture. Then something flashed in the sun outside. She saw a Pennsylvania license plate! The machine had stopped on the street car track, for there was no place left to park. The door burst open as though from an inner explosion. A really violent explosion, indeed, for Robert catapulted out and came like a lusty cannon ball straight for the fly-screened entrance.

What followed caused a mild sensation among the weary cows at the manger. Mr. Stolp, for once in his life, was staggered. The service women, behind the counters, stopped as if suddenly petrified with their ladles caught in mid-motion.

"Get your hat and things," ordered Robert. "You're through!"

"But—what—?"

"You'll never work here again. You're through. Hurry up, dear; the car is waiting."

"Robert! I think—Oh, you've loosened this earring! Robert, but where are we going?"

He was too excited to answer.

"You know what kept me so long? Oh, you couldn't guess; I'll tell you. The port captain had me up at his office. He said, if I pass the examinations—and I will; I know all about them—then he'll give me a junior officer's berth! Just think; I'll be standing a watch on the bridge!"

"Why, Robert! Oh, you're wonderful!"

It was amazing how fast things were happening. There was Mr. Stolp, shaking hands with them and looking sort of silly. There was Dorothy Walsh, who punched the checks, kissing Anita good-by.

Then they were on the sidewalk, Anita still with her hat in her hand, and a fellow wearing a chauffeur's cap was saying, "Just around the corner, sir," as if Robert were a captain.

IT WAS just like a grand moving picture! A lady smiled as she got in the car.

"'Nita, this is Mother. She came up just to see you."

And then—a most amazing thing—the lady actually kissed her!

"My dear, what a pretty child you are! Though I knew you'd be. Robert is so particular."

The door banged shut. The chauffeur took his place behind the wheel. The shining car moved forward.

She heard Robert's voice like a voice in a dream:

"Dad likes you, too. He thinks you're great. He told mother, 'The little girl's got spunk.' And say, maybe Dad's not particular!"

Another Tia Juana Tragedy

ence Silverthorn there is little concern. The gambling joints still go full blast. The dance halls continue to be filled with revelers. The jazz orchestras [illegible] away as waiters serve drinks at tables and liquor-laden men and girls stumble along with unsteady steps in doorways, megaphones in hand, cabaret singers drearily intone the words of "Weary River," "The Mystery of Life," "There's a Wa-Wa Girl in Agua Caliente" or some such popular ballad, to attract patronage. Over "Old Town," jaded electric pianos [illegible] out of tune thump discordant music first heard a decade ago. Mexican police patrol the streets looking disgustedly as the Americanos who have come across the border to do things which the laws do not permit them to do at home.

Through the border gate there flashes occasionally a shiny limousine bound for the fashionable hotel and casino at Agua Caliente just three miles away. The occupants seldom pause in Tia Juana. Class distinction precludes that. At their destination they will find the whippets running, the golf course open, the swimming pool populated by maids and men of means while the little balls click in the roulette wheels and baccarat, black-jack, faro and dice attract their complements of players. The casino is not open to the dance hall girls from Tia Juana. Their presence is promptly spotted and they are quietly but firmly requested to leave.

FLORENCE SILVERTHORN belonged, ostensibly, to the sodden village below. But many wonder if there wasn't a time when she might have been graciously welcomed to the fashionable crowd and been stared at as one of the beauties. The investigation now being conducted by the authorities may tell. But she hardly will.

"The thing that looks bad for Florence," Sergeant Carson said, "is that the matron of the jail found a crumpled $20 bill in her hand while she was being searched. This, we believe, was the $20 bill that belonged to the sailor. But he is dead."

The Fantasia Murder

lapsed and had to be carried from the courtroom after he had been sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Both Gallo and Cero were now under sentence of death, as the latter had merely been under reprieve while Gallo was on trial. It was obvious that both hadn't killed Fantasia, as only one shot had been fired.

Judge Cox met this situation by granting new trials to both condemned men. As Cero's second reprieve had almost expired, a third was issued. It was signed by Frank G. Allen, who had succeeded Fuller as Governor of Massachusetts.

Preparing for the new trials, officials sought Philomena, now regarded as the star witness for the State. She had been released from jail after repudiating her repudiation.

But officers sought her in vain. Philomena had disappeared very thoroughly and completely. She could not be found in the Italian quarter or in the rest of the city of Boston. She hasn't been found yet.

The State waited a year for the girl to turn up, then decided to go ahead with the case without her. Cero and Gallo faced the court together, Judge W. A. Burns presiding at the trial. And Philomena, though absent, had her day again in court, for the story she had told at the previous trial of Gallo was admitted in evidence. Again it apparently was believed by a jury.

CERO was acquitted, Gallo was found guilty a second time. Gallo has taken Cero's place in the Charlestown prison to await the electric chair.

Officials say they have no idea what has become of Philomena. They are skeptical of the theory that she has been put to death for talking too much to officers of the law about a little private vendetta. But they scarcely expect her to appear with another eleventh-hour story in an effort to save Gallo, her old admirer; that scar on the condemned man's cheek did not come, they figure, from a love tap.

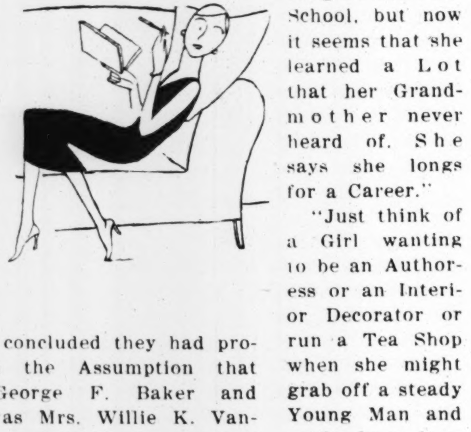
FABLES IN SLANG

The Perplexed Parents and the Two Pulchritudinous Problems.

ONCE a couple of proud but humble Parents put up a Triumphal Arch and hung out all the Flags and welcomed Home from two high-priced Institutions of so-called Learning the only Daughter and the only Son, just as the Checkbook was getting ready to throw up both Hands and sink with a Gurgling Cry.

The Boy had taken the Degree of A. B., meaning "Always Broke." Sister had been sandpapered and ducoed at a Private School which taught a Young Lady how to enter a Ballroom but gave her no specific Directions for escaping from the same before about 5 G. M. Alicia had acquired some Twenty Words of French and knew that she should not permit any Society Lizard to call her by her First Name until she had snuggled against him for at least a Half-hour and had become thoroughly acquainted.

Reginald and Alicia were fair to look upon and Ornamental, if Nothing Else, with the Accent on the Nothing Else. They were pretty well versed in Hockey, Tennis, Confectionery, even if somewhat shy on Mathematics, the Disarmament Conference, Manual Labor and the Trend of Business. A couple of Nice Kids of the Kind who Keep elderly relatives undecided whether it would be advisable to kiss them or kill them. During the joyous Semesters just concluded they had proceeded upon the Assumption that Dad was George F. Baker and the Mater was Mrs. Willie K. Vanderbilt. Paper Money, to them, was just Printed Matter which might be exchanged for Sportswear and Gardenias. They never heard the Crash in Wall Street and they never arose in time to read a Morning Paper and learn that there was any such Cloud on the Horizon as a Feeling of Depression in the Marts of Trade.



They had no Desire to take Cognizance of the Fact that the Grizzled Relic known as "The Governor" was financially lame in both Legs and Mom had not been buying any new Strings of Pearls. In fact, they had no Desire to take on any Information except the Dates for the Golf Tourneys and the approximate Hour the Hoopy-doop-doop Orchestra would erupt each Evening.

Every Night, while they were trying to stay out until the Moon went down, the peevish Provider and the poor Woman who had to serve Food to them in Bed every Morning would go into Secret Session and try to find out what the Heck they were going to do with the two Pieces of Bric-a-Brac.

Pa allowed that he had figured all along that when the Two received their handsome Diplomas his Tribulations would ease down a bit, because the Offspring, having received so much expensive Training, would be all set to paddle their own Canoes and Climb any available Ladder leading to Fame and Distinction. Instead of which, they had turned out to be a couple of Bermuda Onions. Just as useful as a Bad Cold.

"I CAN remember," said Mother, "when a Girl who was past Twenty began to feel like an Old Maid and would look out of the Window for Hours at a Time for some Young man. Alicia seems to feel that Matrimony is something like Pneumonia or Spinal Meningitis. She shudders every time I mention it. She says if she ever does tackle a Companionate Marriage, just for a Joke, she will retain her Maiden Name and live her own Life, mebbe permitting her Mate to drop in once a week."

"I can't make her out," assented Father. "For a while I thought she wasn't learnin' a blame Thing at that highfalutin' School, but now it seems that she learned a Lot that her Grandmother never heard of. She says she longs for a Career."

"Just think of a Girl wanting to be an Authoress or an Interior Decorator or run a Tea Shop when she might grab off a steady Young Man and settle down in a Home of her own!" said the Old Lady.

Father called attention to the fact that while she traveled with the Night Hawks she wouldn't meet any Steady Young Men.

"I guess you're right," said the Partner of his Woes. "She says that while Step-ins are the Style she doesn't need anyone to hook her up, and if she picked out any Boy Friend and had him around all the Time, she would simply destroy a beautiful Friendship."

Father spoke as follows: "I've thought some of lettin' her go to Hollywood, but the Trouble is that she doesn't know anything about waitin' on the Table. She couldn't get over in the Talkies because she doesn't know how to talk. She just chirps. I can't see her as an Authoress. She was so busy acquirin' Swank at that Home for the Daughters of Recent Millionaires that she forgot to learn how to Spell.

"She'd be a Flop at runnin' a Tea Shop because she couldn't add up two Lettuce Sandwiches without makin' a Mistake of at least Forty Cents in favor of the Customer. She couldn't be Hostess at a Night Club because she isn't strong enough to climb on top of a Piano. She has only two useful accomplishments. She can toast Marshmallows and make a Salad Dressin'."

Mother said that Alicia poo-poohed the idea of starting a Hope Chest. She didn't see the Sense of loading up a Hope Chest, so long as she didn't entertain any Hopes. Mother never suspected that Wedlock was a Social Error until Alicia told her, between Cigarettes, that it simply wasn't being done any more, at least not by the Intelligentsia—the latter word was absolutely muffed and fumbled by Mother.

The two Old Folks were certainly up against it good and plenty. They had planted a couple of Trees they could not chop down.

They would decide every Morning to give the Children a good Talking to, and then they would wind up the Day by apologizing and taking Orders. If the Juniors ever get a Jump on the Senile Seniors it is a Cinch that the Latter are lashed to the Mast and will remain there.

It looked as if Reggy and Alicia would continue to be a couple of Expense Accounts as long as Father had the Strength to sit at a Desk and use his Fountain Pen.

Did it ever occur to the Intelligent Reader that possibly we have too many Colleges operating in this country? The Prisons and the Universities are both overloaded and turning out too many characters who are a Menace to the Social Fabric—the only Difference being that the Graduate cannot be apprehended and sent back for Further Punishment.

Well, if Alicia was something to worry about, what shall we say regarding Reginald, the large, handsome Brute with the Mental Equipment of a Snapping Tutrle and the Social Instincts of a Bull Calf? One of those lumbering Lads who are generally liked, in spite of the Fact that probably they never will connect up with a decent Job.

Reginald was the kind of Bird that you couldn't say a Word against, and at the same time it would be extremely difficult to write a Brief in his Favor. He was just about 170 pounds of Organic Matter and after you said that you had practically written his biography.

When his Dad corralled him at the Office and tried to lecture him on the Sober Responsibilties of Life, then Reggy would wear the Facial Expression of a Goldfish when it comes to the Surface to gulp a Piece of Bread.

It is purty tough on a Nice Boy to escape from the Dean of Men and get ready to devote a long Rest Period to eating Home Food and attending House Parties, and then have a Queer Duck who, by mere Accident, happens to be Provider and Meal Ticket, begin to annoy him by dirty Suggestions in regard to Going to Work.

"DO YOU think you could be a Bond Salesman?" asked the Senior at one of these Painful Interviews.

"What is a Bond?" asked Reginald.

Father emitted a Sound resembling the Wolf's long Howl on Unalaska's Shore.

Fortunately for the recent Graduate, he never came up for Air any Day until Hours and Hours after the Work Horse had departed and he learned to time his Escape in the late Afternoon so as to avoid Contact with Disagreeable Persons, so that often a whole Week would elapse without the male Parent having a chance to look over his Investment.

At the breakfast Table the Post Mortem would run about as follows:

"What time did they get in?"

"Search me. I heard it strike Three and dozed off and a little while later they began to sing and break Dishes."

"Did they wreck the Icebox?"

"They used up Everything except the Milk. By the way, they demand better Facilities for cooking Ham and Eggs. Also some real Caviar and a larger Ice Bucket."

"I thought from the way we were holdin' our Trade that the Service was O K. If I slipped a little Cyanide of Potassium into the Caviar, do you s'pose the Law could get after me?"

"Don't talk like that. You don't dare to scrap them, with so much Capital tied up."

Which he didn't. Last week he had a Bright Idea. He was in Correspondence with an Old Friend who makes Bedsteads, with branch Factories in Kenosha and Bridgeport. He wrote to the Friend: "Do you want a couple of good-looking young Experts to make Daylight Demonstrations of Deep Slumber on your famous Mattresses?"

He lived in hope until a Reply came back as follows: "I have a Couple of my Own."

BANANA MAGNATE CONVERTED

AN EAR-SPLITTING roar came hurtling through the open window of my apartment the other day. The vase started rocking on the mantelpiece. I was jounced a full two feet from my couch upward.

Returning to the couch, I went to the window to see, if possible, what had caused the roar.

It was a man on the street, 12 stories below. He had a basket of bananas and at intervals he would stop, gaze wistfully into space and emit a howl that might be translated as:

"Mmmraowwowow!"

"Give me that flatiron," I said to my secretary.

"No," she said, "the last time you tried to drop a flatiron was on that strawberry peddler and you missed him and hit the doorman and he had a sick headache for a week."

"Then I'll go down and see him," I said, and did.

"My good man," I said, "May I ask what you think you are doing?"

"I sell the banan'."

"What is that you were yelling?"

"I yell 'Bananas for sale.'"

"Will you oblige me by roaring again, or re-roaring?"

"Mmmraowowowowow ow!"

"So you think that means 'Bananas for sale'?"

He smiled proudly, and nodded.

"Now, my good man," I began, "I want to have a talk with you. Did you become a banana peddler voluntarily, or were you forced into it?"

"The market," he said.

"I understand," said I. "I'm a newspaper man."

"The market?" he inquired, with native simplicity.

"That—and life," I replied.

Then we understood each other.

"Now, I like you," I told him. "I can see you're not inherently vicious. You have a pleasant face. Can you stand the truth about the banana?"

He said he could, he thought.

"Well," I went on, "you know how dangerous it is, don't you?"

"Dangerous?" He was surprised.

"Certainly. Just now you had a narrow escape from having a flatiron thrown at you."

"WHO throw the flatiron at me?" he demanded, bridling.

"I don't know," I said. "Some fresh guy. But do you realize that in every bunch of bananas there lurks a poisonous insect called a tarantula?"

Even as I spoke, a huge tarantula with the face of a hardened criminal scuttled guiltily out of the basket, lowered itself to the sidewalk by means of a hempen thread spun on the spur of the moment, and hurried off, casting a malignant glance at us."

"You see?" I told him. "You had a close call there. But there is something else. Do you realize the roar you utter constitutes cacophony?"

His face paled.

"Good Lord!" he cried. "Not cacophony! Anything but cacophony!"

"Sorry. Cacophony," said I.

He moaned.

"And I promised my mother never to be cacophonous."

"It is never too late to mend," I said. "I would advise you to give up the banana. It is a low, vulgar fruit. It has a peel which when slipped on, sends one sprawling to the pavement. Does the pear do it, for instance?"

"No," said the peddler.

"Does the apple?"

"N-no," he admitted.

"Does the nectarine?"

"Yes," he said, brightening. "I slipped on a nectarine once."

"One case in a thousand," I snapped. "Proves nothing.

"Furthermore," I continued, "banana peddling leads to other things. It gets you. Pretty soon you'll tire of it and you'll want something more thrilly. You'll take up fish peddling."

"Never, never!" he cried.

"And after that comes old clothes peddling," I went on.

"Oh, horrid!" moaned the poor chap.

"And finally you get to be somebody who talks fast over the radio, like Floyd Gibbons," I concluded triumphantly.

With a loud cry of terror the peddler threw away his basket, fell upon his knees and swore to mend his ways and take up interior decorating.

With his roaring disposed of, I returned to a peaceful nap, interrupted only by the phone, the bellowing of urchins and the tattoo of riveting.

RELIGIOUS PAGEANT, "TRUTH TRIUMPHANT," produced in The Arena under the auspices of the Evangelical Lutheran Churches of Greater St. Louis to celebrate the 400th anniversary of the Augsburg Confession. A chorus of 1500 children, 250 men, and a 50-piece band furnished a musical accompaniment for the pageantry. Inset, a view of the stage at the south end of The Arena where the allegory of truth was presented to nearly 15,000 spectators. More than 3000 took part in the performance.

Cold Creams, Skin Foods and Astringents for this Far Simpler New Way

A Scientific Discovery That Condenses a Complete Professional Facial Into a Single Application, Taking Less Than 3 Minutes, and Combining the 4 Fundamentals in Skin Care Urged by Experts!

NOW comes a remarkable new development in beauty science. A discovery that experts predict may soon change all previous methods in skin care.

A way that condenses the four fundamentals of scientific skin care into a single three-minute home application! And that provides the exact and same effect of a complete Professional Facial costing $3 or more.

A way that combats blackheads and enlarged pores; often with almost unbelievable results. That banishes premature age lines, and the lines of strain and worry. For each application works directly on each and all of these conditions.

Hence, a way that completely eliminates the need of costly special creams and lotions. Of old-time cleansing creams, of "skin foods" and astringents. Yet—that is as easy to use as an ordinary cleansing cream.

Do you wonder, then, that largely on expert advice tens of thousands of women are adopting this unique creation?

What It Is

It is called Lady Esther Four-Purpose Cream. And it marks the application of totally new principles in skin care as defined by the most recent scientific findings of ablest specialists in the field of beauty culture.

The four fundamentals of skin care condensed into a single, 3-minute application

Each application has four distinct actions on the skin.

Cleansing action that cleanses the pores. And thus ends the use of an ordinary cleansing cream.

Tissue stimulating action that invigorates the deep tissues of the skin. And, thus that ends the use of a special "skin food."

Astringent action that eradicates worry, strain and premature age lines, refines pores. And thus that makes the use of youth creams and astringents a folly.

Softening action that forms a perfect base for powder. And thus banishes the need of a powder base. Thus the four fundamentals of skin care are condensed into a single, 3-minute application.

Age lines soon go under this daily care. Flabby tissues strengthen and become firm. The skin is kept clean—for the astringent action of this cream closes the pores after they've been cleaned. And thus closes them against accumulations that foster imperfections.

It is sold under the name of Lady Esther at all drug and department stores at 50 cents and $1.25 a jar. The $1.25 size contains four times the amount in the 50 cent size.

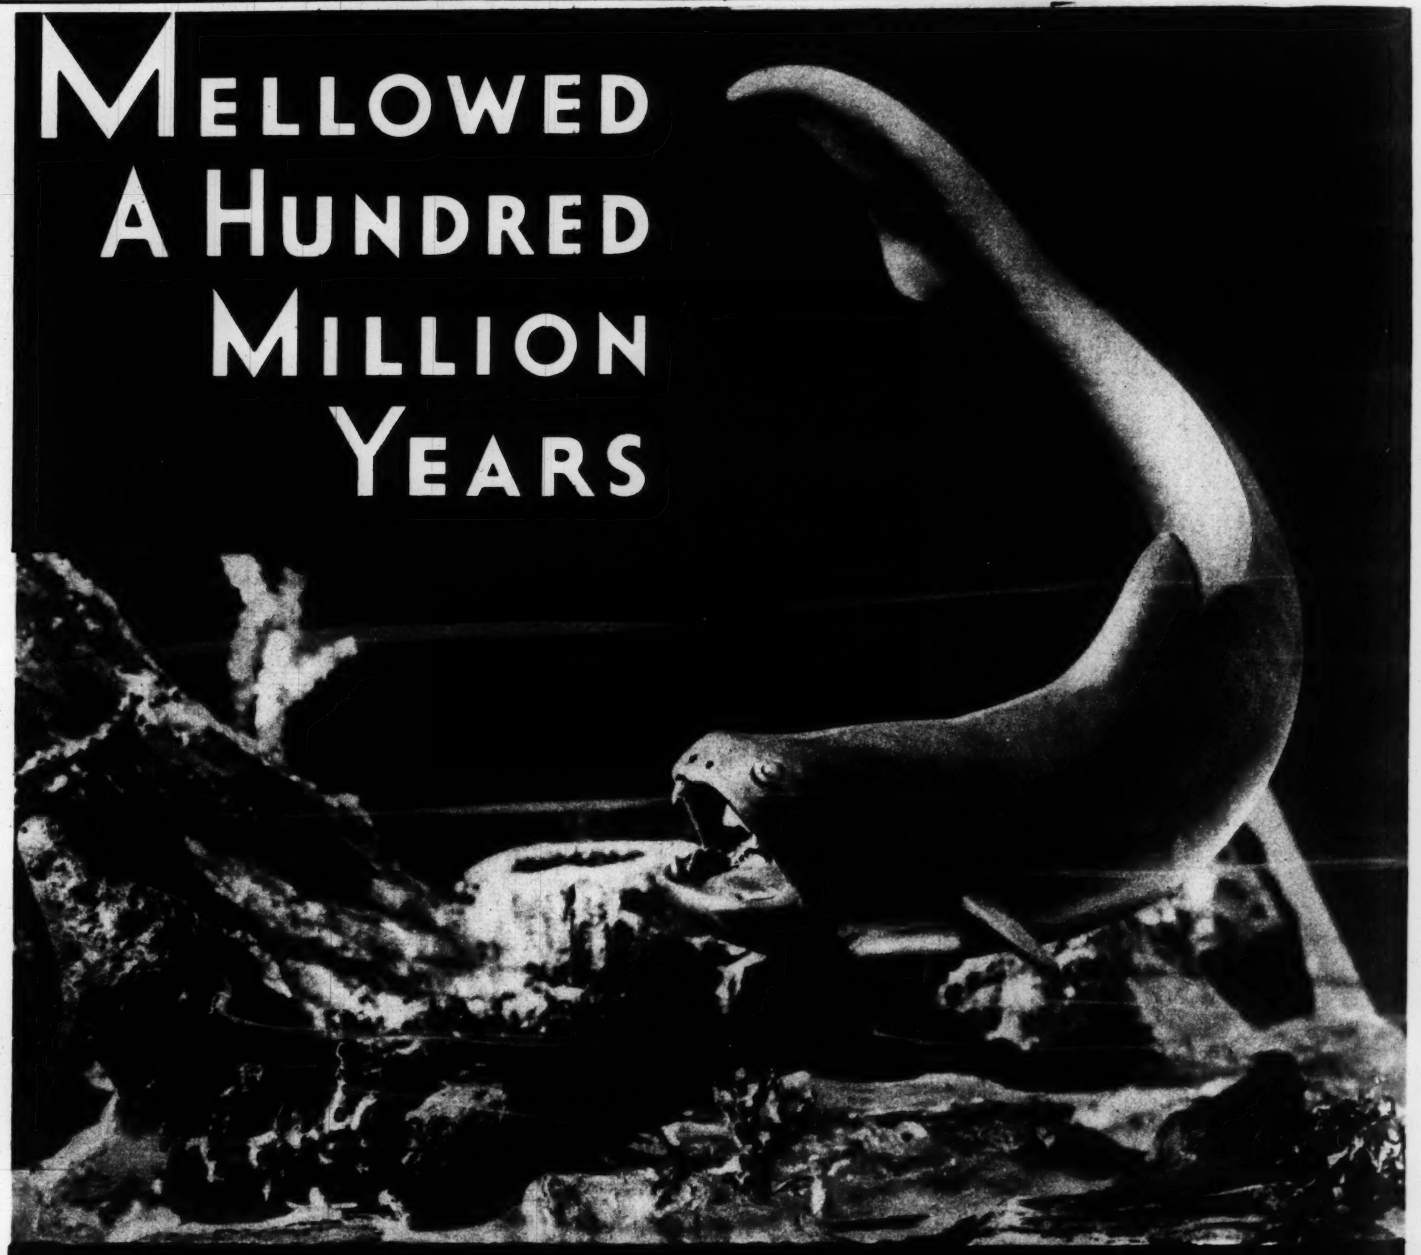
FOR THE STREET—Velvet broadtail, with a lynx collar and ivory satin blouse.



MELLOWED A HUNDRED MILLION YEARS

When mighty, armored fishes swam over PENNSYLVANIA

THE 100,000,000-year-old Devonian Age was the source of three wonders:—vast inland seas, the tremendous saw-toothed fishes whose fossils may be seen in famous museums—and the Bradford-Allegany District crude oil that is now being refined into Sinclair Mobiline Motor Oil.

Other and more extensive oil-bearing ages preceded and followed the Devonian. But in none of them were earth conditions sufficiently favorable to form crude of such sheer lubricating quality as that from the Bradford-Allegany District of the Pennsylvania field—witness the fact that Bradford-Allegany crude commands the highest price of all Pennsylvania grade crude oils!

Excellent as it is, the crude is not sufficient. Before it becomes Sinclair Mobiline Motor Oil Bradford-Allegany crude goes through an exhaustive refining process in the big, new Sinclair refinery at Wellsville, N. Y. By improved processes it is triple-filtered, de-waxed at as low as 60° F. below zero and stripped almost entirely of carbon-forming compounds.

Have the nearest Sinclair dealer change your oil to Sinclair Mobiline according to the Sinclair Law of Lubrication. After long, hard driving note how this Mobiline stands up—how it comes out of the crankcase almost as good as it went in. Note, especially, how very little Mobiline has been used up—positive, visible proof that this rich, Devonian oil protects the last mile as well as the first!

Send our nearest office your name and address and a list of the states where you intend touring and we will send you road maps and the Sinclair Law of Lubrication booklet, free. Sinclair Refining Company, (Inc.) New York, Atlanta, Chicago, Houston, Fort Worth, Kansas City.

Quick! Look!

MAKE THIS TEST—See for yourself how Calumet Baking Powder acts twice to make your baking better. Put two level teaspoons of Calumet into a glass, add two teaspoons of water, stir rapidly five times and remove the spoon. The tiny, fine bubbles will rise slowly, half filling the glass. This is Calumet's first action—the action that Calumet specially provides to take place in the mixing bowl.

After the mixture has entirely stopped rising, stand the glass in a pan of hot water on the stove. In a moment, a second rising will start and continue until the mixture reaches the top of the glass. This is Calumet's second action—the action that Calumet holds in reserve to take place in the heat of your oven. Make this test to-day. See Calumet's Double-Action which protects your baking from failure.

1ST ACTION
2ND ACTION

See why Calumet's Double-Action makes all your baking better

It's simply marvelous the way Calumet, The Double-Acting Baking Powder, increases baking success. Delighted women all over the country are turning to Calumet and baking with new confidence—new pride!

Calumet's Double-Action gives to cakes an unusual lightness and delicacy of texture. Calumet biscuits are tender, fluffy. Baking just seems bound to come out right with Calumet. That is what has made Calumet the largest-selling baking powder in the world to-day!

Calumet's first action, in the mixing bowl, starts the leavening. Then, in the oven, the second action begins. It carries on the leavening. Up! . . . up! . . . it keeps raising the batter and holds it high and light. Your cake bakes beautifully, even though you may not be able to regulate your oven temperature with utmost accuracy.

All baking powders are required by law to be made of pure, wholesome ingredients. But not all are alike in their action nor in the amount that should be used. And not all will give you equally fine results in your baking. Calumet is scientifically made of exactly the right ingredients, in exactly the right proportions to produce perfect leavening action—Double-Action.

Try the easy recipe given here. You'll notice that it calls for only one level teaspoon of Calumet to each cup of sifted flour. This is the usual Calumet proportion and should be followed for best results—a splendid economy which the perfect efficiency of Calumet's leavening action makes possible. Recipes for all the good things on this page—Calumet Apple Cake, Plum Pudding, Pocketbook Rolls, Coconut Cup Cakes—are given in the new Calumet Baking Book. A wonderful collection of easy-to-make, sure-to-succeed baked dishes. Get your copy—mail coupon Now.

CALUMET APPLE CAKE

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
- ¾ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¾ teaspoon cinnamon
- 3 apples, pared, quartered, and thinly sliced

(All measurements are level)

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Cut in butter. Add milk gradually until soft dough is formed. Roll ⅓ inch thick on slightly floured board. Place in bottom of 8 x 8 x 2 inch pan. Spread with butter, sprinkle with 2 tablespoons sugar, nutmeg, and cinnamon. Place apple slices on dough in rows, slices overlapping. Sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons sugar and a dash of cinnamon. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 20 minutes, or until apples are tender. Serve with hard sauce.

"Old Java", the lost flavor that first made coffee famous, 75 years ago, is found again! None knew whence that flavor came nor why years later it vanished . . . . . But science found the secret: Coffee then was carried in wooden ships that slowly sailed tropic seas. The humid air of their damp wood holds caused something strange to happen . . . . . Each green coffee berry was coated with a ripening "culture" (like yeast). This made the coffee, on reaching port, as ripe as golden peaches. No trace of acid remained. The flavor was as smooth as cream . . . . . And then came the steel steamship. Voyages dwindled from months to days . . . . . No longer does coffee have time or wood to season it. No ripening culture forms en route to mellow it . . . . . "Old Java" had become just a name. But Forbes has made it real again. In special rooms, the conditions in old sailing ships are duplicated . . . . . The coffee is covered, for a time, with the same ripening "culture." The result is Forbes Culture Ripened Coffee—ripe when roasted—as rich as Old Java, ripened at sea.

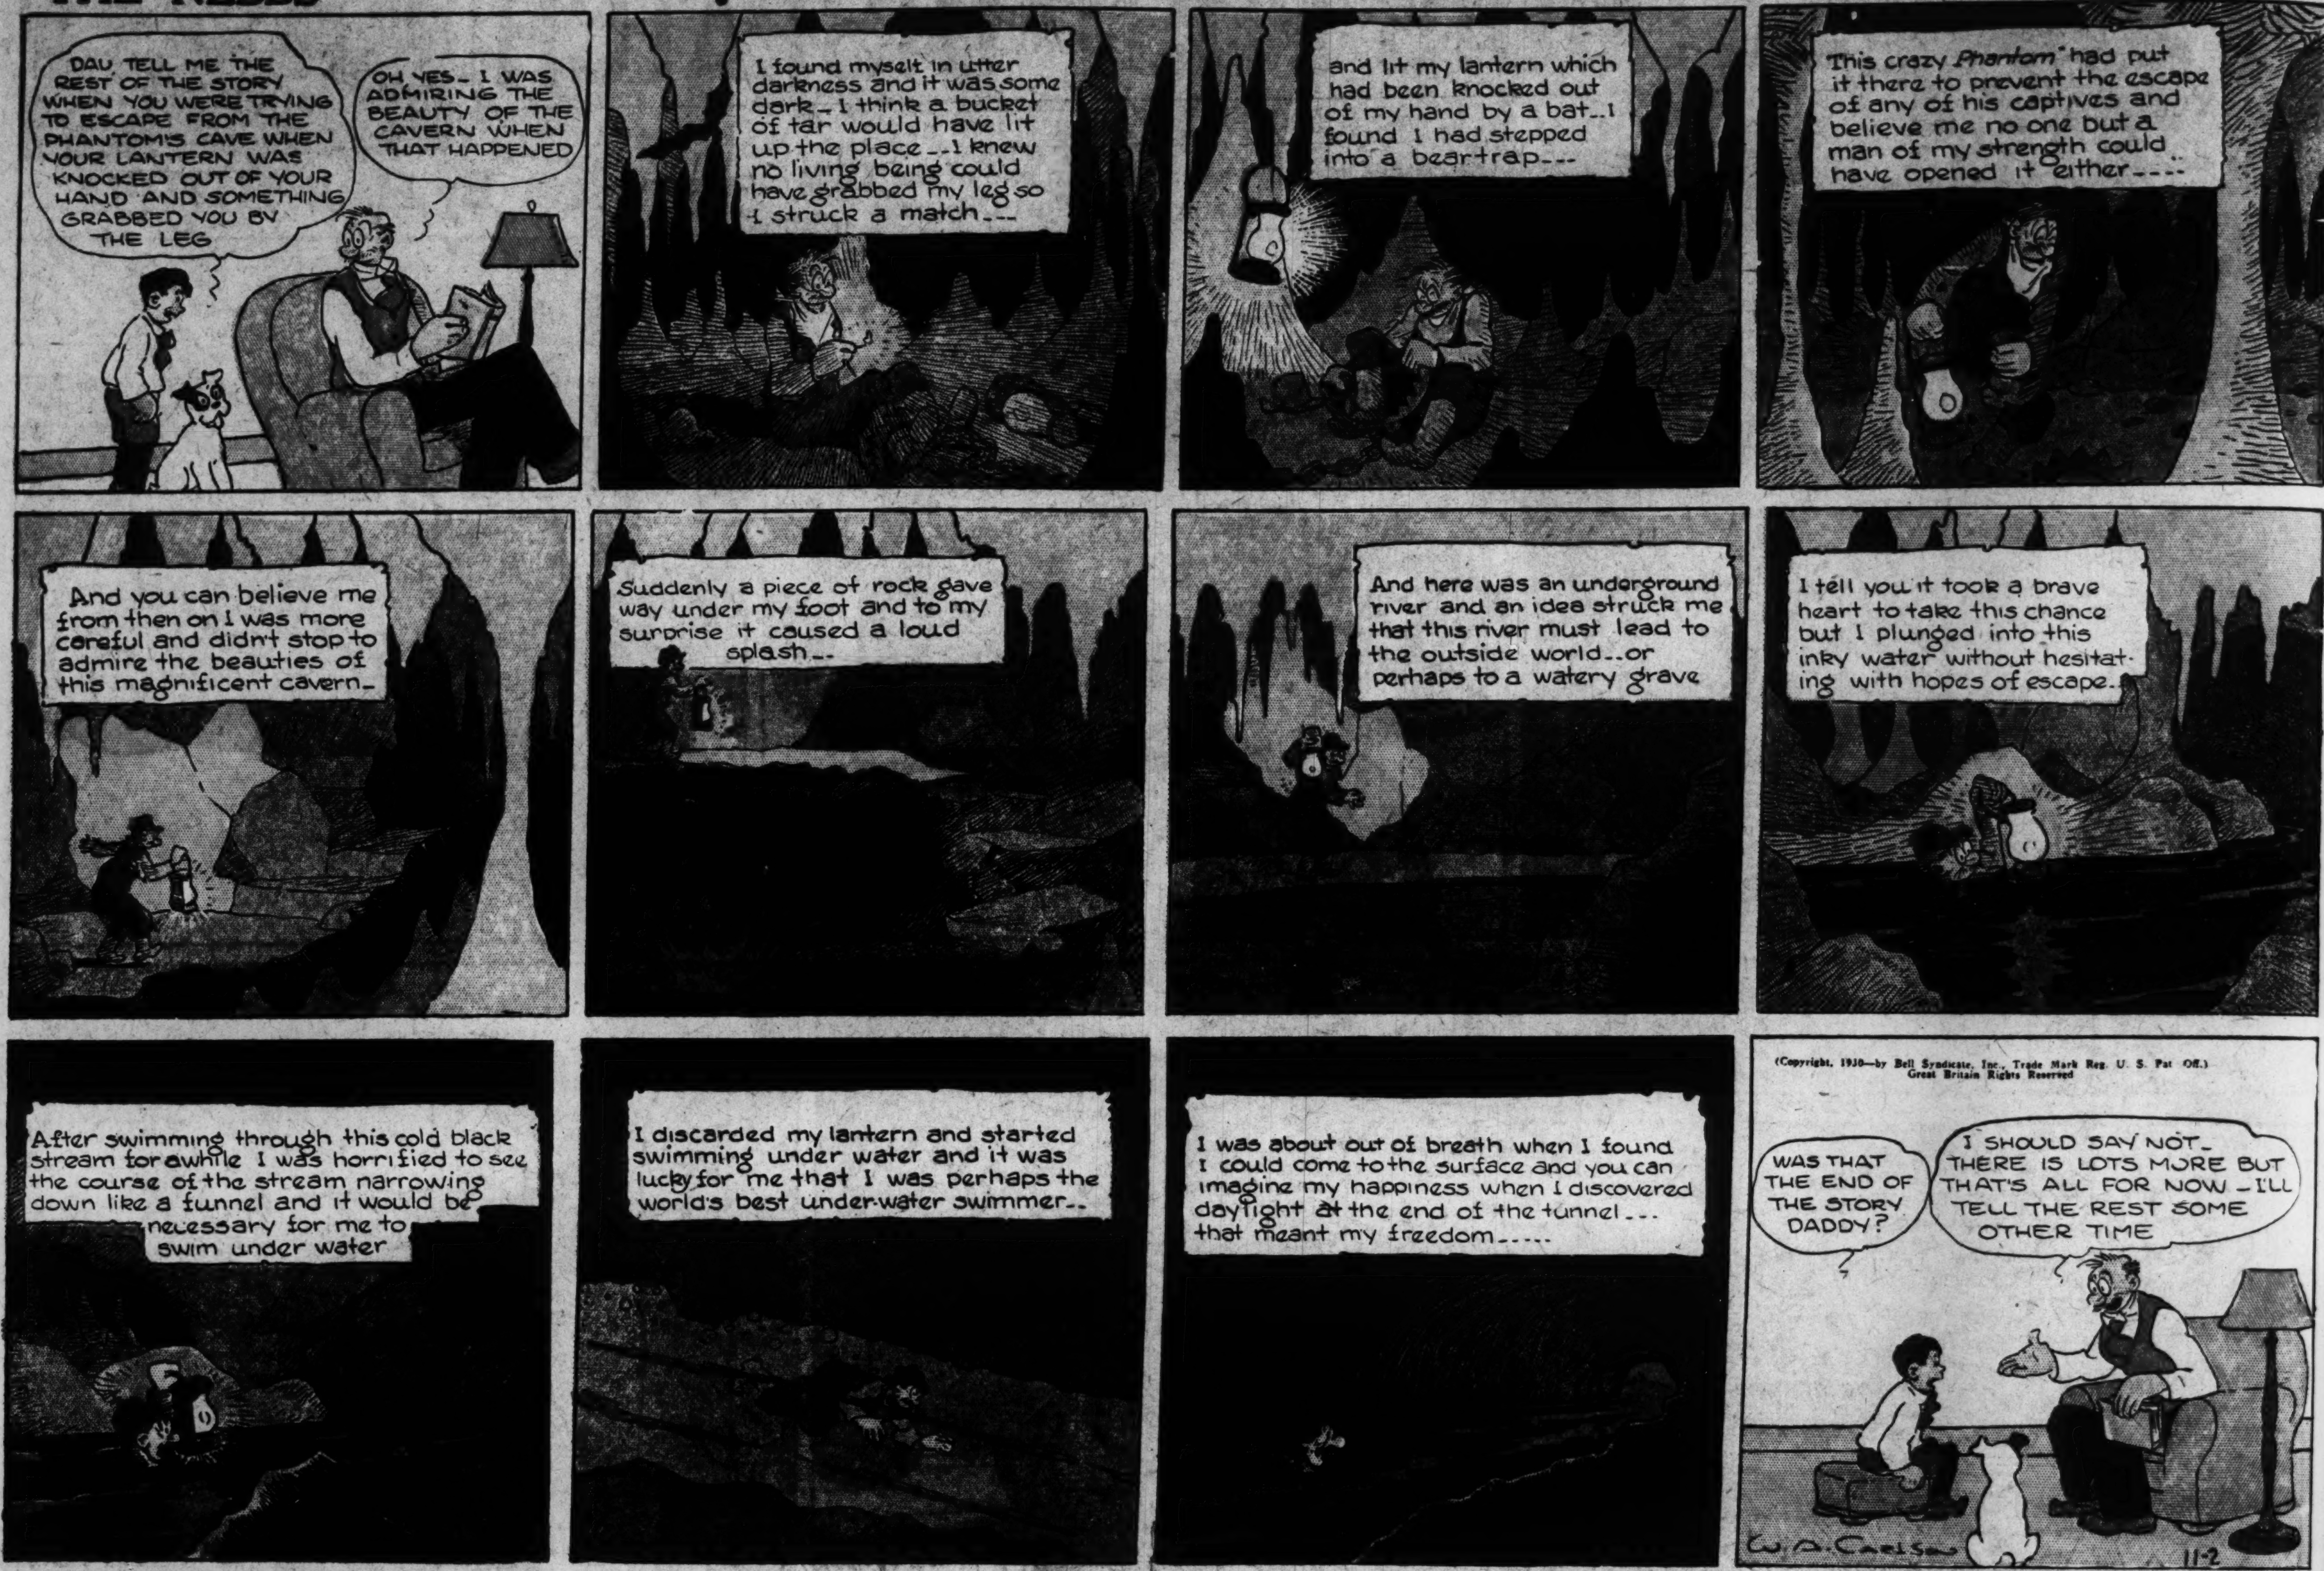
A Courageous Dash For Freedom

By SOL HESS



DAU, TELL ME THE REST OF THE STORY WHEN YOU WERE TRYING TO ESCAPE FROM THE PHANTOM'S CAVE WHEN YOUR LANTERN WAS KNOCKED OUT OF YOUR HAND AND SOMETHING GRABBED YOU BY THE LEG
OH, YES – I WAS ADMIRING THE BEAUTY OF THE CAVERN WHEN THAT HAPPENED
I found myself in utter darkness and it was some dark – I think a bucket of tar would have lit up the place – – I knew no living being could have grabbed my leg so I struck a match – – – and lit my lantern which had been knocked out of my hand by a bat – – I found I had stepped into a beartrap – – –
This crazy "Phantom" had put it there to prevent the escape of any of his captives and believe me no one but a man of my strength could have opened it either – – – –
And you can believe me from then on I was more careful and didn't stop to admire the beauties of this magnificent cavern –
Suddenly a piece of rock gave way under my foot and to my surprise it caused a loud splash – –
And here was an underground river and an idea struck me that this river must lead to the outside world – – or perhaps to a watery grave
I tell you it took a brave heart to take this chance but I plunged into this inky water without hesitating with hopes of escape – –
After swimming through this cold black stream for awhile I was horrified to see the course of the stream narrowing down like a funnel and it would be necessary for me to swim under water
I discarded my lantern and started swimming under water and it was lucky for me that I was perhaps the world's best under-water swimmer – –
I was about out of breath when I found I could come to the surface and you can imagine my happiness when I discovered daylight at the end of the tunnel – – – that meant my freedom – – – – –
WAS THAT THE END OF THE STORY DADDY?
I SHOULD SAY NOT – THERE IS LOTS MORE BUT THAT'S ALL FOR NOW – I'LL TELL THE REST SOME OTHER TIME

ELLA CINDERS

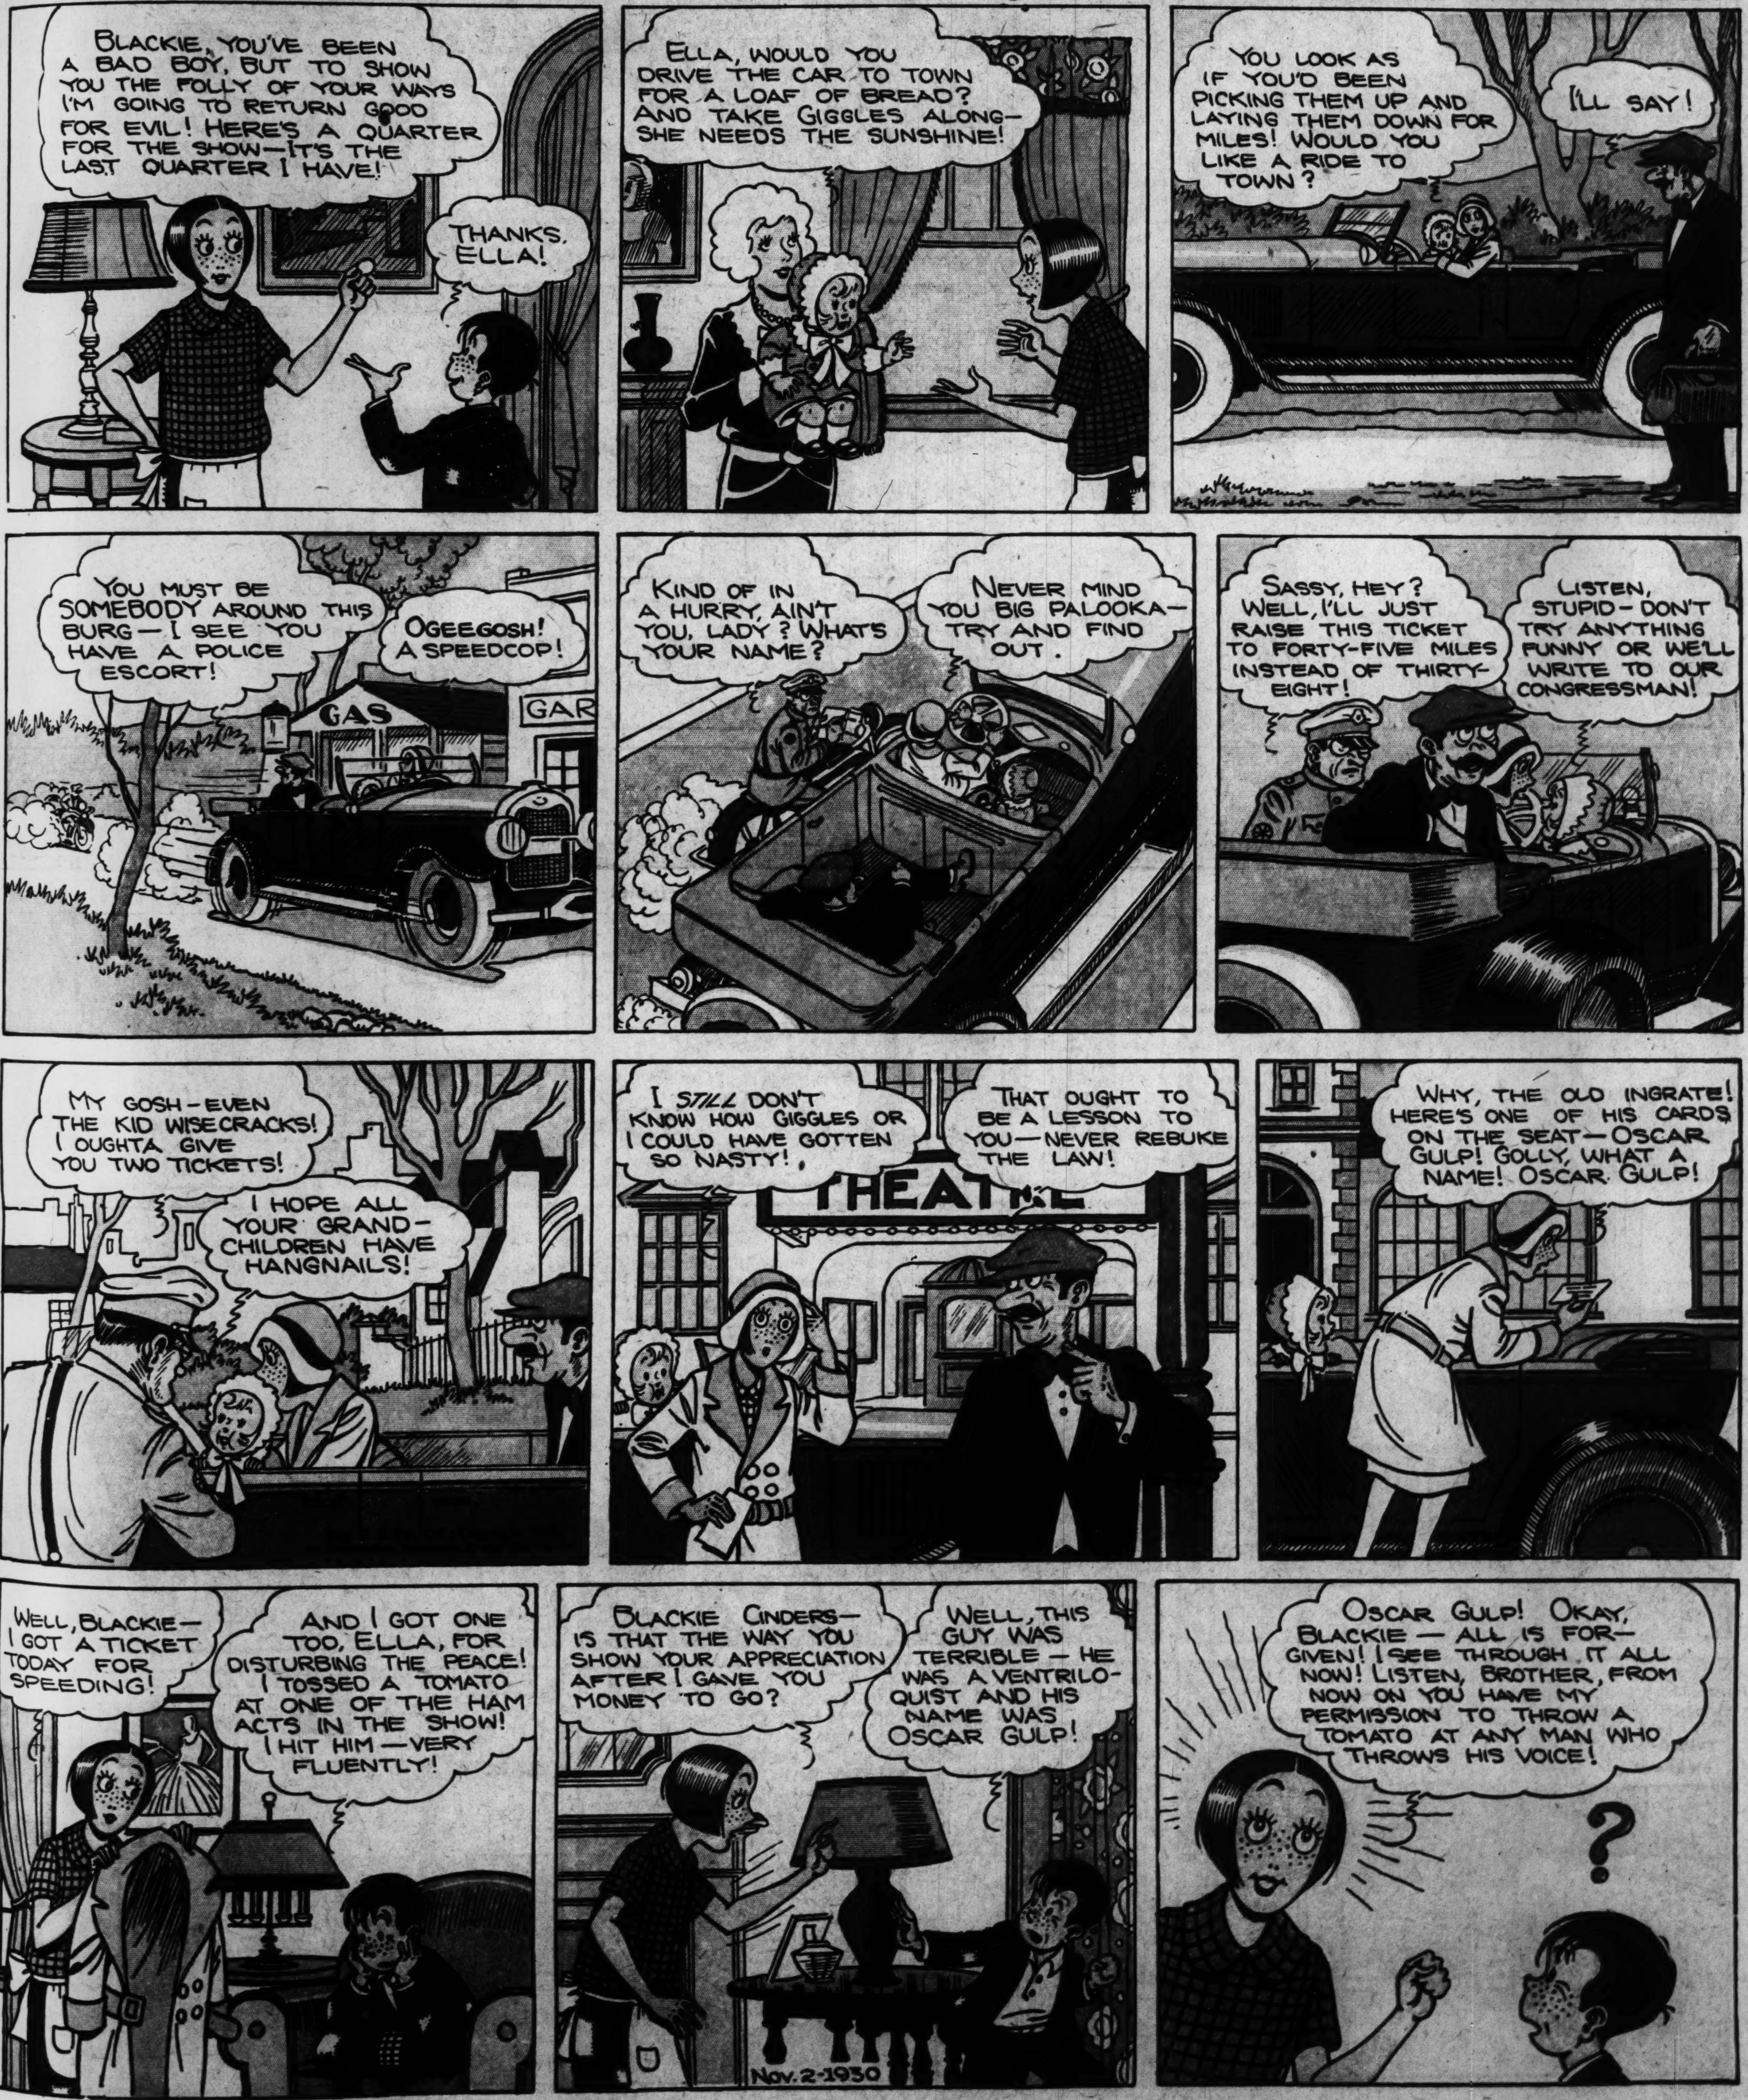
This comic appears every day in the daily Post-Dispatch

By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb



BLACKIE, YOU'VE BEEN A BAD BOY, BUT TO SHOW YOU THE FOLLY OF YOUR WAYS I'M GOING TO RETURN GOOD FOR EVIL! HERE'S A QUARTER FOR THE SHOW—IT'S THE LAST QUARTER I HAVE!
THANKS, ELLA!
ELLA, WOULD YOU DRIVE THE CAR TO TOWN FOR A LOAF OF BREAD? AND TAKE GIGGLES ALONG—SHE NEEDS THE SUNSHINE!
YOU LOOK AS IF YOU'D BEEN PICKING THEM UP AND LAYING THEM DOWN FOR MILES! WOULD YOU LIKE A RIDE TO TOWN?
I'LL SAY!
YOU MUST BE SOMEBODY AROUND THIS BURG—I SEE YOU HAVE A POLICE ESCORT!
OGEEGOSH! A SPEEDCOP!
GAS
GAR
KIND OF IN A HURRY, AIN'T YOU, LADY? WHAT'S YOUR NAME?
NEVER MIND YOU BIG PALOOKA—TRY AND FIND OUT.
SASSY, HEY? WELL, I'LL JUST RAISE THIS TICKET TO FORTY-FIVE MILES INSTEAD OF THIRTY-EIGHT!
LISTEN, STUPID—DON'T TRY ANYTHING FUNNY OR WE'LL WRITE TO OUR CONGRESSMAN!
MY GOSH—EVEN THE KID WISECRACKS! I OUGHTA GIVE YOU TWO TICKETS!
I HOPE ALL YOUR GRAND-CHILDREN HAVE HANGNAILS!
I STILL DON'T KNOW HOW GIGGLES OR I COULD HAVE GOTTEN SO NASTY!
THAT OUGHT TO BE A LESSON TO YOU—NEVER REBUKE THE LAW!
THEATRE
WHY, THE OLD INGRATE! HERE'S ONE OF HIS CARDS ON THE SEAT—OSCAR GULP! GOLLY, WHAT A NAME! OSCAR GULP!
WELL, BLACKIE—I GOT A TICKET TODAY FOR SPEEDING!
AND I GOT ONE TOO, ELLA, FOR DISTURBING THE PEACE! I TOSSED A TOMATO AT ONE OF THE HAM ACTS IN THE SHOW! I HIT HIM—VERY FLUENTLY!
BLACKIE CINDERS—IS THAT THE WAY YOU SHOW YOUR APPRECIATION AFTER I GAVE YOU MONEY TO GO?
WELL, THIS GUY WAS TERRIBLE—HE WAS A VENTRILOQUIST AND HIS NAME WAS OSCAR GULP!
NOV. 2-1930
OSCAR GULP! OKAY, BLACKIE—ALL IS FORGIVEN! I SEE THROUGH IT ALL NOW! LISTEN, BROTHER, FROM NOW ON YOU HAVE MY PERMISSION TO THROW A TOMATO AT ANY MAN WHO THROWS HIS VOICE!

Rosie's BEAU
BY
GEO. McMANUS
Registered U. S. Patent Office
WON'T ROSIE BE SURPRISED WHEN I DRIVE UP IN MY NEW CAR? I CAN SEE HER NOW- HOW HAPPY SHE'LL BE?
THERE'S HER HOUSE NOW- I'LL JUST STOP IN FRONT OF IT AND GIVE HER THE HORN
GOSH! I CAN'T STOP THE DARN THING- I'VE BEEN AROUND THE BLOCK EIGHT TIMES NOW-
I HAD BETTER GET OUT OF TRAFFIC BEFORE I RUN INTO SOMETHING
BY GOLLY- IT WON'T EVEN STOP ON THIS GRADE
WELL AT LAST IT STOPPED BUT I'M TWENTY MILES FROM ROSIE'S HOUSE
I'LL NEVER FORGIVE ARCHIE- HE HASN'T EVEN PHONED AND IT'S TEN O'CLOCK

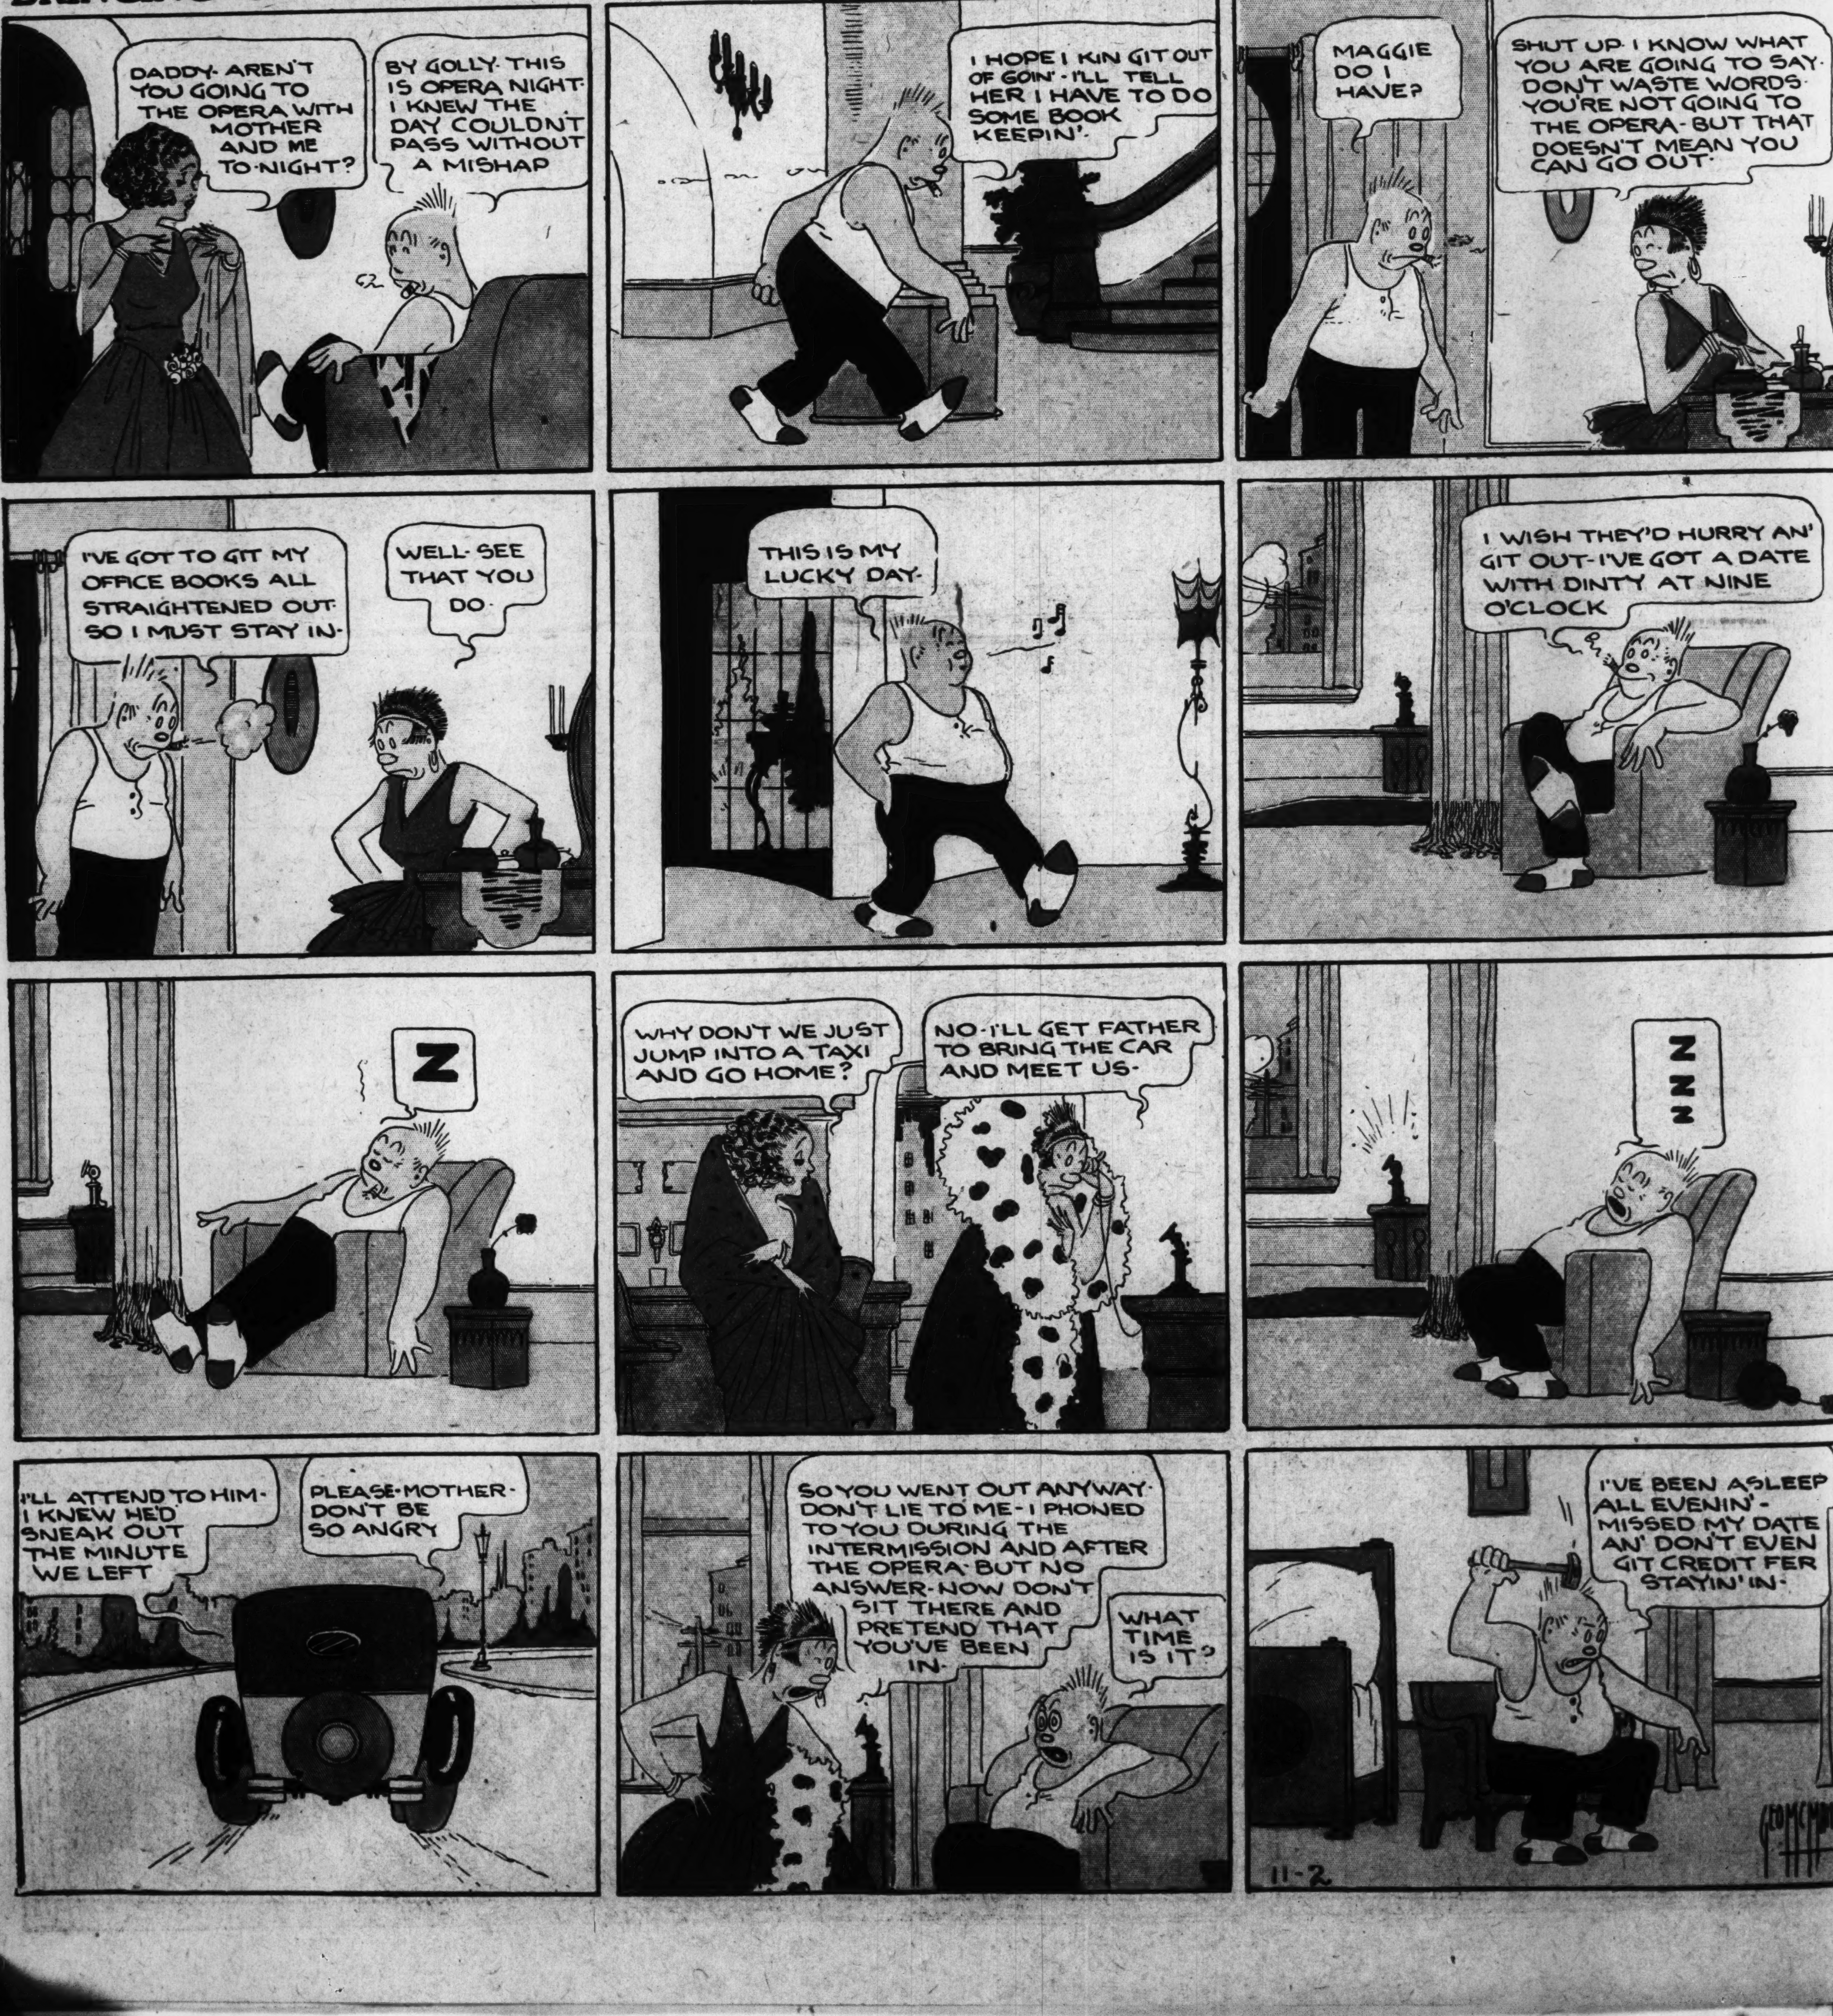
BRINGING UP FATHER

This comic appears every day in the daily Post-Dispatch

By McMANUS



DADDY- AREN'T YOU GOING TO THE OPERA WITH MOTHER AND ME TO-NIGHT?
BY GOLLY- THIS IS OPERA NIGHT- I KNEW THE DAY COULDN'T PASS WITHOUT A MISHAP
I HOPE I KIN GIT OUT OF GOIN'- I'LL TELL HER I HAVE TO DO SOME BOOK KEEPIN'.
MAGGIE DO I HAVE?
SHUT UP- I KNOW WHAT YOU ARE GOING TO SAY- DON'T WASTE WORDS- YOU'RE NOT GOING TO THE OPERA- BUT THAT DOESN'T MEAN YOU CAN GO OUT-
I'VE GOT TO GIT MY OFFICE BOOKS ALL STRAIGHTENED OUT- SO I MUST STAY IN-WELL- SEE THAT YOU DO-
THIS IS MY LUCKY DAY-
I WISH THEY'D HURRY AN' GIT OUT- I'VE GOT A DATE WITH DINTY AT NINE O'CLOCK
Z
WHY DON'T WE JUST JUMP INTO A TAXI AND GO HOME?
NO- I'LL GET FATHER TO BRING THE CAR AND MEET US-
Z Z Z
I'LL ATTEND TO HIM- I KNEW HE'D SNEAK OUT THE MINUTE WE LEFT
PLEASE- MOTHER- DON'T BE SO ANGRY
SO YOU WENT OUT ANYWAY- DON'T LIE TO ME- I PHONED TO YOU DURING THE INTERMISSION AND AFTER THE OPERA- BUT NO ANSWER- NOW DON'T SIT THERE AND PRETEND THAT YOU'VE BEEN IN-WHAT TIME IS IT?
I'VE BEEN ASLEEP ALL EVENIN'- MISSED MY DATE AN' DON'T EVEN GIT CREDIT FER STAYIN' IN-

YOU KNOW HOW BASHFUL AND SHY MR.JINKERS IS --WHEN YOU SEE HE'S TRYING TO PROPOSE, WHY DON'T YOU HELP HIM OUT AND SAY, YES, YOU'LL MARRY HIM ?
I TRY TO HELP HIM OUT, BUT I JUST CHOKE UP MYSELF AND CAN'T SAY A WORD
GOODNESS, MOTHER, YOU'LL NEVER GET A HUSBAND THAT WAY -- --- AND THE PITY OF IT IS I KNOW YOU BOTH LOVE EACH OTHER
WELL, HE'S SO SWEET --SUCH A GENTLEMAN--- I KNOW I'D BE PERFECTLY HAPPY WITH HIM ------ -BUT, MERCY, HE CAN'T EXPECT ME TO DO THE PROPOSING
SAY -- SEE HERE -- I'M CALLING ON A LADY IN THIS HOUSE
SORRY, BUT I AM, TOO --- COME BACK SOME OTHER TIME
SO THIS IS LITTLE BLONDIE - GROWN UP - WELL, WELL, WELL --DON'T REMEMBER MORTON J. MINNICK. EH? WELL, JUST CALL ME "M.J" --- I CAME TO SEE YOUR MOTHER
OH, YES, I'VE HEARD MOTHER SPEAK OF YOU
--BUT CAN'T YOU CALL SOME OTHER TIME? - MOTHER IS EXPECTING ANOTHER CALLER
NOPE - MUST SEE HER NOW -- I TOLD HER I WAS COMING BACK TO MARRY HER SOON AS I MADE MY PILE
MORTON! I THOUGHT YOU HAD FORGOTTEN ME YEARS AGO
NOT FOR A MINUTE, ERMENTRUDE! I'VE BEEN ALL OVER THE WORLD SINCE I SAW YOU LAST--LONG HOURS, HARD WORK, BUT I MADE GOOD AND MADE PLENTY, TOO --- THEY CALL ME THE LOUDSPEAKER KING, NOW
THE LAST TIME I PROPOSED TO YOU I WAS BROKE --- BUT NOT THIS TIME! YOU CAN'T REFUSE ME NOW --WHY, SAY, I'VE GOT MY LOUDSPEAKERS IN THIRTY DIFFERENT COUNTRIES
MORTON, IS THIS A PROPOSAL ?
OH-H-- WHAT CHANCE HAVE I AGAINST A FELLOW WITH THE GIFT OF GAB LIKE THAT? AND, OH, HOW I LOVE YOUR MOTHER
IT SURE IS A PROPOSAL-- WE'LL GO TO EUROPE FOR OUR HONEYMOON --- I'M GOING THERE ON BUSINESS, ANYWAY
IT'S A LONG DISTANCE CALL ------ ---FOR HIM
I ALWAYS LEAVE WORD AT MY OFFICE WHERE I'LL BE ---- PROBABLY SOME BIG DEAL UP - PARDON ME ONE MINUTE
IT'LL GIVE ME A CHANCE TO REGAIN MY BREATH!
THE X-Y-Z- RADIO COMPANY? NEVER HEARD OF IT---- I DON'T DO BUSINESS WITH SMALL CONCERNS --- WHAT? YOU SAY YOU'RE IN THE MARKET FOR FIFTY THOUSAND LOUD-SPEAKERS---
SORRY TO RUSH OFF IN THE MIDDLE OF MY PROPOSAL, ERMENTRUDE, BUT YOU KNOW HOW "BIG BUSINESS" IS --- I'LL BE BACK SOON AS I CLOSE THIS DEAL
IT WAS YOU THAT PHONED HIM ?
YES - I PHONED HIM FROM THE EXTENSION UPSTAIRS. YOU STILL HAVE A CHANCE --- NOW GO IN THERE AND PROPOSE BEFORE HE GETS BACK

JEFF, LOOK HOW IT'S RAINING! THERE'LL BE NO GOLF FOR US THIS MORNING!
MAYBE IT WILL STOP IN A FEW MINUTES!
NIX! IT LOOKS LIKE AN ALL-DAY RAIN! I WAS SO ANXIOUS TO PLAY GOLF TODAY, TOO! TOUGH!
IT JUST MAKES ME CRY!
LISTEN! WE'RE FOOLISH TO LET THIS RAIN SPOIL OUR DAY! WE'LL JUST IMAGINE WE'RE PLAYING GOLF ON THE GOLF COURSE!
MUTT, NOW YOU'RE TALKING!
LOOK AT THAT DRIVE! THREE HUNDRED YARDS!
FINE! YOU'RE GOOD TODAY, MUTT!
WOW! YOUR DRIVE IS EVERY BIT AS GOOD AS MINE! GREAT!
SURE! I FOLLOWED THROUGH!
WELL, WE EACH GOT A TWO ON THAT 537 YARD HOLE! VERY GOOD, I'LL SAY!
IT'S PERFECT. WE HOLED OUT OUR BRASSIE SHOTS!
WOW! A HOLE IN ONE OR MY NAME AIN'T MUTT!
THAT'S A BEAUTIFUL SHOT ON THIS WATER HOLE! IT'S ALWAYS BEEN A HOODOO TO ME!
YOU'RE RIGHT! IT'S A HOLE IN ONE!

IT'S A HAUNTED HOUSE.
HOW DO YA KNOW IT'S HAUNTED? WHAT'S YA PROOF?
THE LITTLEST WHISPER THAT IT'S HAUNTED IS PROOF ENOUGH FOR ME.
WELL, IT AIN'T FOR ME.
YOU'RE SKEERED TO GO IN, I BETCHA! JUST SKEERED!
I'LL GO IN!
I WISH I COULD BE SATISFIED WITH WHISPERS INSTEAD OF COLLECTING PROOFS.

GOOD OLD NUTLEIGH-- YOU'D THINK THAT OTHER TEAM WAS A CARPET THE WAY WE WALKED OVER THEM
WE??
NUTLEIGH
OF COURSE I'M NOT ON THE TEAM BUT I MAY ANSWER THE COACH'S PLEA AND HELP WIN THE BIG GAME NEXT WEEK
YOU MEAN, YOU ARE REALLY ON THE FIRST TEAM? OH, ROD, I THINK YOU'RE WONDERFUL
THAT'S WHAT THEY ALL SAY
I'M A MILLION MILES AS THE CROW FLIES FROM BEING ON THE TEAM, BUT WHEN DORA SEES ME WEARING THIS SWEATER SHE'LL SWOON WITH JOY---
N
MY HERO--- IF YOU DON'T WIN THAT GAME--- I'LL SIMPLY DIE--- EXPIRE--- PERISH---
WHEN YOU SEE ME GIVE MY IMITATION OF A NON STOP STEAM ROLLER YOU'LL WANT TO LIVE A THOUSAND YEARS
I HOPE THE BUNCH DON'T SEE ME WEARING THIS SWEATER I "BORROWED" OUT OF THE LOCKER----
LISTEN, FELLOWS--- I HAVE A SCHEME
YEAH--- THERE HE GOES---MISTER SHOWOFF, IN THE MISSING SWEATER
THIS IS A SURPRISE I JUST WANTED TO EXPLAIN THAT I--THAT IS--- ER--I MEAN---
YOU'RE JUST IN TIME-THE COACH ORDERED US OUT FOR SECRET PRACTICE
I DON'T THINK I'LL PRACTICE TODAY--- I FEEL KIND OF SICK LIKE---
YOU CAN'T BACK OUT NOW--- WE ARE OUT HERE TO SAVE THE HONOR OF DEAR OLD NUTLEIGH
HELP! I'M DYING!
CAREFUL FELLOWS--- YOU'RE RUINING MY SWEATER!
RAH-RAH-RAH-NUTLEIGH
DON'T WORRY---HE WON'T DIE---BUT I'M SURE HE WON'T PLAY WITH NUTLEIGH THIS SEASON
